POETRY

Life

What's life? A story or a song;
A race on any track;
A gay adventure, short or long,
A puzzling nut to crack;
A grinding task; a pleasant stroll;
A climb; a slide down hill;
A constant striving for a goal;
A cake; a bitter pill;
A pit where fortune flouts or stings;
A playground full of fun;
With many any of these things:
With others all in one.
What's life? To love the things we see;
The hills that touch the skies;
The smiling sea; the laughing lea;
The light in woman

The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. Braveridge Lee. The bearers were Herbert L. Terrington, George E. Hyde, Dwight W. Avery, F. W. Spicer, S. L. Smith and Dwight L. HARDBOILED BOOTLEGGER FINALLY IN TOILS OF LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31—Aroldo Secchiaroldi, 58 Goshen street, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, actual sale and keeping with intent to sell. The case was continued to Thursday next. Secchiaroldi was held in bail of $1,000 for trial. He furnished a surety in Louis Montali. The three frequenters, William M. Wentworth, Palmer Beckwith and Samuel S. Wilson, who were also arrested, were not prosecuted today for their cases were continued to Thursday and each furnished a surety on his bond of $25. The liquor seized in the place, which is a dwelling, will be destroyed, provided that Secchiaroldi is convicted. The liquor consists of a large quantity of home-brew beer, a small quantity of inferior whiskey, for none of it tested over 30 proof and a quantity of mash. All of the seized liquor is stored at police headquarters and is one of the largest quantities that the police ever seized in their efforts to put an end to liquor selling in New London. Secchiaroldi, who has been arrested once before, is reputed to have had an immense patronage. It is claimed by the police, that Secchiaroldi had customers entering the house practically the entire night.

Another evidence of the carelessness of store proprietors or their employes in closing places of business at night was revealed this morning in the reports of police officers made at police headquarters. Patrolman George Cockell discovered last night the front entrance of the wholesale beef house of Swift Co., John street, unlocked, the second time that the building has been found unsecured within a few weeks. Officer Cockell locked the place for the remainder of the night. When Patrolman Albert Iverson was trying the doors on his beat, he discovered a key in the lock of the furniture repairing store of Clark R. Waterhouse, 474 Main street. The officer locked the door and took the key to police headquarters, till Waterhouse could claim it. Patrolman Michael Dorsey discovered the rear entrance of the Cheney-Packer Fish Market, Bank street, unlocked, but was able to secure the entrance.

The funeral services for Ray P. Fogg, formerly of Groton and latterly of Oswegatchie, Waterford, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. James' Episcopal church and was attended by a large number of mourners, including a delegation of members of Fairview lodge, I. O. O. F., Groton, of which organization Mr. Fogg was a member many years, being a past grand. The service was read by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge. Members of Fairview lodge acted as bearers. Burial was in Head of the River cemetery, East Lyme.

Israel Goldstein has sold a house and lot on Federal street to Michael Bronislava, East Lyme.

Edna M. Watterman has sold a dwelling house on the easterly side of Montauk avenue to Michael Salvagna.

GLAZBERG HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE UNDER THE ROOF

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31—The two-family residence, 26 Shapley street, owned by Isaac Glazberg, junk collector, was damaged by a stubborn blaze, this afternoon. So stubborn was the fire, which made its way between the partitions and the roof that it was an hour after the alarm was sounded that the fire was subdued and then not until damage estimated at $1,000 had been caused. The fire was discovered about 3.30 when great clouds of smoke were issuing from beneath the roof. An alarm was sent in from Box 36, corner of Bulkeley place and Huntington streets. Chief Thomas Shipman and Northwest and Thomas Hose companies, Kosomoc Ladder company and Nameaug Engine company responding. When the firemen arrived at the burning building the fire had gained much headway and so fierce were the flames that chemicals were useless as a means of subduing them. Two lines of hose were stretched and water emptied into the burning building, causing additional smoke, which floated over house-tops and gave indication of the serious fire in progress. The firemen were compelled to chop through partitions and the roof in order to obtain effective use of the water. It was fully an hour after the fire was discovered that the firemen were sent back to their quarters. How the fire originated is not known, but it is believed that it resulted from a defective flue for the entire fire was centered in the upper story and roof. Mr. Glazberg has been a familiar figure about the streets for a number of years in his collection of junk with a two-wheeled push wagon. He greets pedestrians promiscuously, but few know him by his correct name, since he is saluted "Hello, Murphy."

An automobile driven by Charles Leitkowsky, 28 New street, struck and killed a doe this afternoon on Bayonet street. The doe was owned by August Nunes, 117 Bayonet street and was killed when it ran in front of the automobile while chasing a cat.

Mrs. Saul Markin, of 63 Bayonet street; Henry K. Daghlain, Willetts avenue and Mrs. Joseph Mashnick, Lyme, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Frank LaFemina, 44 Smith street, suspended.

Attorney and Mrs. Frank S. Shea, and Misses Mary and Margaret Shea, 104 Connecticut avenue, have returned home after spending several days in New York.

Announcement is made by Mrs. Charles Bovetti, of Waterford, of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Aida and Nelson C. White, also of Waterford. The marriage took place yesterday.

Mrs. Marjorie L. Horton, 35 Granite street, is spending a few days in New York.

CARL BROOKS, NEW HAVEN, INJURED AT QUAKER HILL MILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31—Carl Brooks, 60, of New Haven, and one of the owners of the Robertson Paper mill, Quaker Hill, Waterford, suffered the loss of a part of his right arm this afternoon when that member was crushed at the mill. He is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. His condition tonight was said to be fair. Brooks, who has been going to the paper mill almost daily was there this afternoon and during the process of converting newsprint and other species of paper into heavier paper, Brooks went to one of the machines used for the paper manufacturing and operated it. In some unexplained manner, Brooks' hand was caught in the cogs and drawn into the mechanism, causing the arm and hand to be terribly crushed. When the machine was stopped and the hand and arm extricated, a physician was sumomned. After the injured man had been given emergency treatment, Brooks was taken to the hospital where the arm was amputated below the elbow. Brooks' sister, also a resident of New Haven, came to New London at 10:40 o'clock tonight and went to the hospital.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Pat O'Malley, Gladys Hulette and Rosemary Theby are to be seen as the three principals in "A Bowery Cinderella," which will be shown at the Palace theatre today only. Others in the cast are Ernest Hilliard, Leo White, Kate Bruce, Pat Hartigan, Pauline Parr, Howard Mitchell, J. Webb Dillon and the entire chorus of the Music Box Revue.

The story of "A Bowery Cinderella" is by Melvin Houston. Adrian Johnson adapted it for the screen; Harry Chandlee edited and titled it after Burton King's direction. It tells of a young girl from the East Side of New York who was a fashion model in one of the uptown establishments of a famous modiste; how her face and figure displayed in a fashion show brought her to the notice of a musical comedy producer; how he was personally attracted to her and put her in the chorus of his show; how she surprised everyone by her exceptional dancing ability; how she nearly ruined her contemplated happiness with her real "boy friend" on account of the attentions paid her by the producer, and how he was ultimately put in his right and proper place.

Tonight will be gift night at the Palace theatre. The principle gift will be Twenty Five Dollars in Gold. There will also be ten other gifts which are sure to please the recipients. Gift night promises to be one of the most popular nights of the week.

At the Palace, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will bring "Wickedness Preferred" with Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle in addition to four acts of Big Time Vaudeville.

Breed Theatre

One of the fastest moving comedies of the year, "Publicity Madness," produced for Fox Films under the direction of Albert Ray, will open at the Breed theatre for a two-day run beginning today.

Edmund Lowe and Lois Moran are co-starred in this exciting and humorous satire on modern business methods which is based on an original story by Anita Loos. Besides the stars, a well chosen cast give particularly clever characterizations. Included in the supporting cast are E. J. Ratcliffe, Byron Munson, James Gordon, Arthur Housman, Norman Peck.

"If I Were Single," the added feature of today's bill, is a farcical "take-off" on newlyweds, Miss McAvoy and Nagel portraying bride and groom of a year. Misunderstandings, "white lies" and flirtations lay a complicated plot in which heart-break and comedy alternately hold the limelight. The characters are real people and the situations are those which occur every day in real life, but their interpretation in this instance crowds a flock of laughs on the screen in spontaneous order.

"If I Were Single" is a picture for everybody. Those who are married should not dream of missing it. And those who ever have any thought of matrimony simply cannot afford to pass it up. The advice of this reviewer is "see it by all means."

Slater Hall Concert.

A rare treat in the concert to be given Friday evening at Slater hall, is in store for lovers of real music when John Corigliano, noted young American violinist, gives the third concert of the Slater Hall series.

Corigliano, though of Italian parentage, was born in New York city, with a very marked childhood talent for music. After many years of sturdy under great violin-masters and realizing the New York public's impatience with unprepared debuts, he made his public appearance there only after complete readiness—then meriting fully the unusual interest shown in him. With constant progress since then, appearing as soloist with leading orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic and the St. Louis Symphony as well as tours with Marion Talley, he is already, while still in his early twenties, considered by musical critics an outstanding master of the violin—approaching more and more the musicianship of Kreisler.

Combined with his artistic ability is his fine appearance on the concert stage, being tall, handsome and of cultured bearing, with poise and charm of personality, wit hpoise and charm these characteristics together that he wins the enthusiastic admiratoin of his audiences.

Strand Theatre.

The screen's favorite trio of entertainers, Tom Tyler, Frankie Darro and Sitting Bull, the dog with a sense of humor, are seen at their best in "Lightning Lariats" now showing at the Strand. It is the handsome Tom, in his role of a western knight, who furnishes thrills galore on his faithful and dashing "Flash" as he unquestionably is a peer among the range riders. The feminine role is ably filled by the lovely Dorothy Dunbar.

Fig Leaves, starring Olive Borden and George O'Brien, is a story of the trials and mishaps of a modern Eve, who like her sister of long ago, is tempted when the serpent whispers. Miss Borden as the wife of a plumber is gaited with fine clothes by Andre, a fashionable designer who dictates the fashion for women. The part of Adam, the first he-man as well as the modest plumber and husband of the modern Eve is played by George O'Brien. The picture presented by Wm. Fox is gripping in its interest from the first scenes in the Garden of Eden to the exclusive shop of today where Eve is again tempted into a compromising situation by her love of the beautiful.

Aesop's Fables is something different and completes the program.

GREAT MOVIE STUDIOS USE LUX

They all find Lux keeps costumes new-looking twice as long . .

This Warner Bros. picture, "Don Juan," starring John Barrymore, used costumes worth $300,000. Their loveliness was guarded by safe cleansing with Lux

THE movies face a problem of clothes care every woman meets—but on a vast scale!

For in the movie studios, millions of dollars' worth of costumes of every sort, from negligees to camping togs, must be kept fresh and new-looking, in spite of long, strenuous wear. It often takes months, sometimes even years, to "shoot" a big picture.

The studios have tried different washing methods, and have found that the best way to cleanse all washable things is with Lux!

With Lux, the studios say, sheer materials and substantial fabrics, too, stay new-looking more than twice as long as when washed any other way!

This means a saving, studio heads tell us, of more than a million dollars a year!

They all do it.

Now every great motion picture studio in Hollywood—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount-Famous-Lasky, Universal, Pathe-De Mille, Fox, First National, United Artists and Warner Bros.—uses Lux in cleansing all washable fabrics!

AILEEN PRINGLE, who wears, in "Adam and Evil," this beautiful real lace negligee, once owned by the Empress Alexandra of Russia, supervises its washing in Lux. Historic garments in the movies are cleansed in pure Lux suds.

BENNETT NATHAN, designer for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, working out a new fabric pattern. "A box of Lux seems like a small thing," says Joseph Rapf, wardrobe supervisor, "but it stands for dollars upon dollars saved in Metro-Goldwyn studios."

8 out of 10 homes in cities from coast to coast use Lux—to save fabrics, save money!

ASSESSORS MAKE TAXABLE LIST $22,978,291; INCREASE OF $253,822

A total grand list of taxable and non-taxable property in the town of Norwich of $30,412,209 was reported by the board of assessors, Arad R. Manning, president, John B. Oat, clerk, and Fred G. Prothero, when they finished their assembling of the list Tuesday afternoon and signed book before Judge Nelson J. Ayling as justice of the peace.

From the gross total there are two amounts to be deducted to reach the net taxable list. These are $7,014,261 for exempt property and $419,557 for blind and soldier exempt, having a net taxable list of $22,978,291, which is a gain of $253,822 over the taxable list of last year which was $22,724,469, as reported by the board of relief.

Besides the exemption total of $7,014,361 is the sum of $419,557 for soldier and blind exempt which is an increase over last year when this item was $406,331. The exemption for blind persons, of whom there are four, is $7,190, and the exemptions for soldiers and for relatives of soldiers is $402,367. This year the assessors were obliged to separate their report of soldier exemptions so as to show whether the exemption was for the soldier himself or for a relative of the soldier.

The following gives a comparison between this year and last:

	1926	1927	gain or loss
Total lists	7626	7908	282
Residents' lists	6937	7523	586
Non-residents' lists	303	310	7
Soldier exempt	607
Exemp. to soldiers		528
Exemp. to soldiers' rela.		67
Blind exempt	5	4	1
10 P. C. lists	1577	1593	16
Houses	5153 1-2	5230 1-2	77
Barns, garage, etc.	1374 1-2	1507 1-2	133

Horses, mules	360	318	— 42
Neat cattle	1052	1046	6
Automobiles	4236	4516	280

Comparing the preceding taxable grand list of $22,724,469 with the list just completed of $22,978,291, it is shown that items in which there was an increase this year added $442,816 to last year's figures and items in which there were decreases subtracted $175,768.

The assessors found 57 lists to which they made additions of taxable property which had not been included by the tax payer, these totaling $78,267, and there were 134 lists which they increased beyond the amount put in by the tax payers. These increases amoundedto $200,056. Tax payers who are affected by these changes made in their lists, and all others who believe they are entitled to changes or deductions, will have opportunity to appear before the board of relief which begins its session today (Wednesday) in the assessors' office.

This year there was an unusual amount of shrinkage from last year's list, but in spite of it all an increase was recorded. Some of the items that went out of the Norwich list were the following: $60,000 on the Connecticut company buses which are taxed elsewhere, $30,000 through the Austin-Nichols company going out of business, $16,000 through Preston Bros. going out of business, about $27,000 through the increased exemption allowed on church parsonage property, about $50,000 through the withdrawal of money at interest and bonds, notes, etc., from the grand list, and other minor amounts.

Among the items of resident and non-resident property in which increases were shown this year over last was dwelling houses which increased in number from 5,123 to 5,194 and in value from $9,344,203 to $9,482,265. Barns and garages which increased by 133 accounted for an increase of $42,385 in value, bringing this item to $399,485. Further subdivision of tracts of lands increased the number of building lots by 133 and the value showed an increase of $78,891.

Store property increased in value by $51,500 and mill and manufacturing industries which increased by three to a total of 84 likewise increased their property value by $104,187.

One of the items in which there was a decrease in taxation value, although there was an increase in number, was motor vehicles. The number increased from 4,216 to 4,496, but the value dropped from $1,553,039 to $1,498,186. This the assessors ascribe to the fact that the number and value of new cars purchased was not enough to offset the decrease in taxable value of old cars which drops off proportionately each year. Stock in trade held by the merchants showed a decrease of $29,159, which, in the opinion of the assessors, was not surprising in view of the general feeling about the business of the past year for Norwich stores.

There were 76 lists more this year than last to have ten per cent. added to them for failure to file but the amount was $23,922 less. About $18,000 of this was due to the fact that a well known manufacturing industry which has regularly incurred a 10 per cent penalty of about that amount for a number of years past changed its practice this year and put in a list, thus escaping the penalty. Many of the ten per cented lists were for second-hand automobiles on which the addition for failure to file list did not amount to more than $5 or $10.

The accompanying table gives a summary and comparison of the resident and non-resident property this year and last:

	Board of Relief 1927 Number	Board of Relief 1927 Value	Assessors 1928 Number	Assessors 1928 Value	Gain or Loss

MAN AND WIFE SUE FOR DAMAGES OF $40,000

Two suits aggregating $40,000 damages have been brought in the superior court, one by Mrs. Joseph C. Nichols, of Groton, for $30,000 and the other by her husband for $10,000, against Clarence H. Gilmore, and Arthur G. Sisson, both of Newport, R. I., as the result of the injuring of Mrs. Nichols soon after she alighted from a trolley car in Groton, when she was alleged to have been struck by the Sisson Automobile, driven by Gilmore.

It is alleged that the accident took place on Jan. 13, 1928, at 2.45 p. m., when according to the complaint, Mrs. Nichols had alighted from a trolley car in Groton near the intersection of the main highway and Thames street, and was passing in from the car, when the defendant machine struck and knocked her down.

The complaint states that Mrs. Nichols was rushed to the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital where she has since been confined and that she was permanently injured.

The husband seeks $10,000 damages, claiming that he has been and will be "deprived of the services, comfort and happiness in her society and companionship," while Mrs. Nichols seeks $30,000 for the injuries she is alleged to have received.

SUES FOR FALL OVER BRICKS ON SIDEWALK

As the result of injuries alleged to have been received in a fall upon the sidewalk in Jay street, New London, Etta Partelo of that city seeks $5,000 damages from John J. Murphy and Amanda Frink of New London according to papers served in a suit returnable to the superior court.

The complaint sets out that the plaintiff, on Oct. 3, 1927, because of the negligent manner in which the sidewalk at the corner of Franklin and Jay streets was kept, fell and was permanently injured. She alleges that the walk was strewn with bricks, stones and building materials, the latter being allowed to land upon it by carpenters working upon the house, which is owned in record by Amanda Frink.

The plaintiff claims to have expended sums of money for hospital treatment, medical care and attention.

NEW LONDON SUES TO COLLECT CITY TAX

Claiming that Samuel Bukowitz on July 1, 1927, neglected to pay taxes on personal property in connection with the city tax levy of Oct. 1, 1926, in New London, which with interest and expenses, after deducting $15 which was paid, amounts to $116.50, the city of New London, through Director of Law Thomas E. Troland, brings a $200 damage action against Burkowitz, according to papers returnable to the court of common pleas.

PLAN TO HAVE SCOUTS MANAGE LOCAL AFFAIRS

According to an announcement made Tuesday the Boy Scouts of the city are to have charge of the city and town governments next Monday. That is, they will have charge of the city and town governments if plans of a special committee of the Boy Scouts organization materialize. Mayor Milo R. Waters has consented to turn over the city to the scouts for the day and Chief Howard L. Stanton has consented to allow the scouts to supervise the fire department for 24 hours. Scouts will also have charge of the police department.

It will be Boy Scout day in Norwich. The event is being arranged in connection with the celebration of the 18th anniversary of the Boy Scout organization. The committee in charge of the local arrangements comprises Charles Colt, Weston C. Pullen, Frederick Craven, Arthur L. Peale and Scout Executive Frederick J. Bielefield, Jr.

The scouts will also supervise the meeting of the court of common council, one acting as mayor, another as city clerk and other scouts will act as aldermen and councilmen.

NUNS WHO ARE NURSES MUST PAY STATE FEE

Roman Catholic nuns who are nurses in Connecticut hospitals, maintained by that religious faith, despite the fact that they receive no pay for their services, must each pay a $2 registration fee to the state department of health under a 1927 law, State Health Commissioner Stanley H. Osborn has been advised. Failure to pay the registration fee or to register makes a practicing nurse liable to prosecution by the county health officer and a fine of $5.

The ruling affects about 75 nuns who are nurses in St. Francis' hospital in Hartford, St. Raphael's in New Haven, St. Vincent's in Bridgeport, St. Mary's in Waterbury and St. Joseph's in Willimantic. The list of registered practitioners in the state, which must be published by March 1, will go to press Wednesday, so Tuesday was the last day for registering.

Heard $135,000 Organ.

Connecticut organists were in New York for the formal opening of the new chancel organ at St. Patrick's Cathedral Sunday. The chancel organ is one of three to be installed as part of the improvements in preparation for the celebration of the golden jubilee of the cathedral, in 1929. The total cost of the organs will be $135,000.

At the services of Sunday, Pietro A. Yon, whose compositions are known to organists hereabouts, honorary organist at the Vatican in Rome, became associate organist of the New York cathedral with Prof. Jacques Ungerer, organist there for over thirty years. Mr. Yon's appointment is from Cardinal Hayes, Msgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, and the lay trustees. He designed the three organs, the first of which he demonstrated with such skill Sunday.

PLANNING FOR SHOW OF INDIAN RELICS

As a step in providing material for the study of local history in the schools of Hartford, plans are being made for a display of Indian relics at the Old State House during the week beginning Feb. 9, which will be under the joint auspices of the local history committee of the Grade Teachers association and the education committee of the Friends of Hartford.

From the fine collection of Connecticut Indian material gathered and owned by Norris Bull of West Hartford will be shown a small typical collection, consisting of implements for hunting, fishing, agriculture and domestic life. Albert C. Gates of the Connecticut Historical society will contribute from his collection of pieces found in Connecticut and the immediate neighborhood. A third collection of a different type is that of Alexander Redfield who has an unusual collection of articles identified with the far western part of the country.

Supplementing the Indian articles, will be maps illustrating the classification of the white and red races; charts showing Indian names of Connecticut; names of prominent chiefs identified with the early days of Connecticut, and pictures taken from the Indian groups at the New York and Albany museums.

It is planned to have talks from the leading authorities on Indians in connection with the exhibit and to have the material put in shape for the use of teachers. With the assistance of Elliott Bronson of the state forest commission and of Arthur L. Peale of this city a map of Connecticut has been prepared showing the Indian trails of early days.

The exhibit will be held in the north room of the Old State House and will open on the night of February 9. The articles are to be placed in locked cases for safety and will be so arranged that any specimen, whether from modern Alaska or old Connecticut will have a proper place; and the committee is now searching for such miscellaneous articles.

UNCLE AND NEPHEW SUED FOR ACCIDENT

Following the recent suit of James L. Sullivan, of New London, against the company with which his automobile was insured, in which he claimed damages, alleging that his car was stolen from his Ocean avenue garage and smashed up a short while later, and in which Judge Christopher L. Avery gave the insurance company a defendant's judgment on the ground that the car was probably only taken by Frank H. Redden, of Bank street, New London, Sullivan's nephew, with no intention of stealing, comes a suit for $1,000 damages brought against Sullivan and Redden by Margery L. Adams, of New York. The papers have been served and are returnable to the superior court.

The complaint alleges that on the night of June 19, 1927, the plaintiff's car was badly wrecked by the Sullivan car driven either by Sullivan or Redden. The woman claims she had to pay for repairs and towing and that she was injured in the collision.

Stonington Man Seeks Divorce

20 CALLS IN JANUARY FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

An even score of calls, bell, telephone and oral, were answered by the fire department during the month of January. Two of the calls were box alarms, 14 were telephone and 4 were oral calls. In addition there were two test alarms for new boxes installed. The loss for the month was small.

TAFTVILLE

Fibre & Fabric a journal covering events in the textile field, notes in its current issue that Harry A. Green who for the past eight years has been connected with the Fisher Manufacturing Co. of Fisherville, Mass., has resigned his position there to become second hand in the No. 2 carding department of the Ponemah mills. The article accompanies a cut of Mr. Green, and further notes that upon severing his connections in Fisherville, he was presented by his fellow workers with a handsome black onyx ring.

A large and enthusiastic audience assembled at Parish hall on Merchants avenue Sunday evening to see a number of people identified with the Sacred Heart parish produce a comedy, "The Dirty Dozen." The play was patterned on the variety of comedies produced a generation ago, and as such, differed from the average amateur theatrical production. The members of the troupe had been hard at work on the play for some weeks under the efficient management and direction of James H. Troland, and the manenr in which the whirlwind play was produced and the laughs and applause it drew from the audience showed that their efforts had not been in vain.

There were eighteen in the cast, and it would have been hard to pick the star. The "Dirty Dozen," were character parts, each player representing a nationality. Pat O'Brien, the husband and janitor was admirably played by Mr. Troland, who had as his charming wife Bridget O'Brien, Emile Raymond. This was a difficult part especially as it called for female impersonation, and Mr. Raymond did the role justice.

As their beautiful daughter, Molly, George Durr made a great hit and played the part in graceful manner. Rastus Brown played by Nelson Lemluex and George Washington played by John Shannon, two colored comedians, kept the audience in howls of laughter. Peter Laflave, a Frenchman was played by Arthur Benoit, who had the right proportion of accent and gesture.

Henry Jemory was Hiram Shutoff, and had the part down to perfection, and James Malcolm made a wonderful Charlie Wang, a Chinaman. John Kelley was great as Isadore Levinsky, a Jew. Two characters that delighted the onlooked because of their hard-to-imitate German accent were John Thoma and George Seidel who played the parts of Hans and Fritz Linberger.

The president of the club was Arthur Roy, and Rebecca Smallhead, a schoolgirl was played by Henry Guertin. Saul Germain was Frankie Jones, a little school boy and Federal Inspector No. 1 was Napoleon Pepin.

Several novelty numbers were introduced during the evening and all came in for their share of applause. Scotty Powers and Hughie McDoddle had Scotch comedian acts with songs, and a comedy sketch by Issie and George Washington went over big.

Perhaps one of the best numbers on the program was a dancing act by Miss Lucille Bowen. Her solo dancing was a genuine pleasure to watch and her grace and dexterity as she went through the difficult steps, won generous applause from the audience. Her number contributed greatly toward making the entertainment the success that it was.

Much credit is due those taking part in the play and it is hoped that Mr. Troland will see his way clear to produce other entertainments in the same class as this for the amusement of the villagers. The proceeds were for the benefit of the treasury of the Sacred Heart church.

NORWICH TOWN

The Woman's department of the League of Service of the First Congregational church plans to hold a meeting for information and inspiration at the chapel Friday afternoon at three o'clock. The meeting will be in charge of two of the program committee, Miss Louise Hopping and Mrs. Philip B. Whaley. It will be followed by a social hour.

The Congregational mid-week service of conference and prayer Thursday evening, will have for its theme Pharisaism in Common Life, Matthew 23:1-36. Is the Spirit that made the Pharisee offensive to be found today? How does it manifest itself? Alternative topic "The Conversion of Paul." Acts 9:1-22.

In observance of Christian Endeavor day, which is the closing of Christian Endeavor week, Sunday next, the Young People's C. E. society of the Norwich Town Congregational church, will postpone its regular meeting Sunday evening, and unite with other societies, at the First Baptist church, West Main street, Norwich. Prof. Wallace Gallup of Connecticut college is to be the speaker.

Thursday, the Feast of the Purification, or Candlemas day, the candles to be used on the altar and in the homes the coming year will be blessed at the Sacred Heart church at the 7.30 mass and distributed to the members of the parish.

At this church Friday, which commemorates the Feast of St. Blais, the blessings of the throats will take place at the seven o'clock mass, that morning. For the first Friday of the month, there will be devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, in the evening, after which blessings of throats will again take place. St. Blair was a bishop, martyr and doctor, who, is recorded, had great skill in the curing of throat troubles; hence his feast day has been commemorated for centuries. In ancient England it was always a public holiday as well as church day.

M'ADOO USES DRY ISSUE TO BLOCK BOOM FOR GOV. SMITH

In Address at Richmond, Va., McAdoo Sounded a Rallying Cry Against the Election of Any "Wet" to the Presidency—Calls Attention to the Fact That New York State Has No Prohibition Enforcement Act—Former Secretary of the Treasury Was Silent Concerning His Own Political Aspirations.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 1—(AP)—The attitude of Governor Alfred E. Smith toward prohibition enforcement was directly challenged here tonight by William G. McAdoo, in a speech sounding a rallying cry against the election of any "wet" to the presidency.

Making his first public utterance on the subject since Governor Smith's boom for the democratic presidential nomination assumed its present proportions, Mr. McAdoo contradicted some of his old rival's recent statements, declared the "liquor interests" had captured political power both in New York and in Maryland, and argued that to expect prohibition enforcement from a president hostile to prohibition was "upon its face an absurdity." He said the issue was one that must be fought "to a conclusion" in the campaign of 1928.

"The supreme need is to put law enforcement in the white house," said Mr. McAdoo. "Attempt is being made to convince the country that no matter if a wet is elected president, the constitution and laws will be enforced. This is both unsound and untrue. x x x The white house in the hands of the liquor interests would be a veritable Gibraltar of offensive operations and the doom of the eighteenth amendment would be written boldly upon the face of the constitution."

The former treasury secretary, twice a formidable candidate for the nomination of his party, made no reference to his own political fortunes or to his previous statement that he would "stand aside" in 1928. He made no personal allusions except to Governor Smith, although he did link the law enforcement situation in New York with that in Maryland, whose governor, Albert C. Ritchie, also is in the running for the democratic nomination.

Mr. McAdoo spoke at a law enforcement meeting at Richmond auditorium, to an audience gathered from the borderland of the dry democratic south. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon league, the Woman's Christian Temperance union, and other dry organizations. The speech was prepared beforehand, and included a painstaking examination of many aspects of the prohibition enforcement problem.

The speaker suggested, among other things, that the federal government give financial aid to the states in prohibition enforcement, somewhat after the manner of the federal-aid system by which states now are assisted in road-building and other enterprises of national concern. He denied the charge that in enforcing the eighteenth amendment the federal government was infringing states rights, pointing out that forty-six of the states had themselves ratified the amendment, binding all the states by overwhelming consent.

He made direct reference to Governor Smith in recounting that neither New York nor Maryland had a state prohibition enforcement act, and declared that in both states the burden of enforcement had been left upon an insufficiently large staff of federal agents.

"Considerable misunderstand of the consequences of the repeal of the state enforcement act in New York has been created by recent utterances of the governor of that state," Mr. McAdoo continued. "After giving his approval to the act repealing the state prohibition law, the governor now says that "there devolves upon the state the sacred duty of sustaining the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law. They are as much a part of the laws of this state as our own statutes and our own constitution,' and he then goes on to imply that even in the absence of a state enforcement act the police agencies of the state are available for the enforcement of prohibition.

"His effort is apparently to create the impression that no state enforcement statute is necessary because even in the absence of such a statute the state officials are under an obligation to enforce the Volstead act. This position is entirely misleading and has no justification in law. While it is, of course, true that the eighteenth amendment is a part of the laws of every state, the eighteenth amendment is not self-executing and requires an enforcement statute to put it into effect. The Volstead act is a part of the laws of the state of New York.

"Because the state courts are thus without jurisdiction to enforce the Volstead act, the police find themselves paralyzed in any efforts they may make to enforce prohibition in the state courts. The 'sacred duty' upon state officials of which the governor speaks, doubtless exists, but the means of performing it were taken away from them when jurisdiction over prohibition offenses was removed from the state courts by repeal of the state enforcement act."

FORMER MINISTER KILLED HIS WIFE AND TWO SONS

FARMINGDALE, N. Y., Feb. 1—(AP)—Claude H. Priddy, a former Methodist minister, killed his wife and two sons, aged 10 and 12, with an axe today and then told police in a confession he wrote on his portable typewriter, that they were better off dead.

Priddy, who is said to have served as a Methodist minister in Portland, Me., Stamford, Conn., and Brooklyn, was despondent because of ill health. He is 51 years old. In his confession he wrote that he was suffering from an incurable disease and police said he imagined his sons were showing symptoms of it.

"As far as I am concerned," Priddy said, "my punishment in this world will be as nothing compared to my punishment later."

He slew his sons, Jack and James, as they slept, then fell upon his wife as she was doing physical culture exercises by radio. Mrs. Priddy, who was five years his junior, was formerly Clara E. Noyes, a graduate of Boston university. They were married at Cambridge, Mass., in 1904.

Priddy left the ministry some time ago and moved to this Long Island town to become a partner in a sand and gravel concern. Available records showed he came to Brooklyn from Portland, Me., in 1902. After serving for three years at St. John's M. E. church i.. Brooklyn, he answered a call to the First M. E. church in Stamford, Conn., where he conducted anti-saloon and v[illegible] campaigns.

He was born in Ohio in 1877 and received degrees of bachelor and master of arts at Ohio Wesleyan university, from which he was graduated in 1900.

Priddy was arrested by state police after he had returned home from a walk around the village. He told police he had taken the walk to clear his head before surrendering.

TO BROADCAST AVIATION WEATHER TWICE DAILY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—Broadcasting of aviation weather twice daily was inaugurated today by the weather bureau and the naval radio station at Arlington.

A report, at 8:15 p. m. supplements the early morning broadcast which was established last April to enable air stations and airplane carriers to make forecasts for flights in their territory.

Because the morning broadcast had proved of such great value to naval and commercial air stations, officers recommended the extension of the service. Heretofore, night and early morning flights have had to be undertaken with weather information twelve hours old.

COMMITTED SUICIDE IN THE NAME OF A FRIEND

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 1—(AP)—Found shot through the head in the bathroom of a friend's home here this morning, W. Barton French, said to be a member of a prominent New York family, came to his death from a "self-inflicted wound," a coroner's jury reported.

French's marital and financial ventures had brought him into the limelight periodically, but he had resided recently on his ranch at Bland, New Mexico, where he told friends, he was "away from some of the city's temptations."

He came to Santa Fe last night to visit a friend, Guy Shannon, in whose home to look his own life.

CONTEST FOR POSSESSION OF A VALUABLE PORTRAIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A portrait which increased in value as the fame of the artist grew was denied by a supreme court justice today to the woman who had posed for it as a young girl 48 years ago.

Mrs. Anna Palmer Fell, of Warrenton, Va., sued Charles L. Baldwin, a New York stock trader, for the portrait painted of her by Abbot H. Thayer, in Paris, in 1880, claiming her parents had commissioned Thayer, then a struggling art student, to do the portrait largely to help him out. It was finished when they were in another part of Europe, she said, and was shipped to reach them at Havre but was stolen en route.

Baldwin testified that he had acquired the portrait, which has been exhibited in both the Metropolitan Museum and the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, from the Macbeth galleries in 1917. The Macbeth galleries in turn showed that they had obtained the picture from a Mrs. Bretzfield, of Waterford, Conn., who proved ownership prior to 1907.

Justice Cotillo ruled that Mrs. Fell had failed to prove her title to the picture inasmuch as her own testimoney was extremely hazy, and that all the intermediate parties to the transaction involving the portrait are now dead.

FLOOD RELIEF BILL CALLS FOR A FUND OF $583,000,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The longest and most comprehensive study of the problem of curbing the Mississippi valley floods ever made in congress was brought to an end today when the house flood control committee completed its hearings which have been in progress for the past three months.

A huge mass of information was accumulated by the committee including 2,000,000 words of testimony from more than 300 witnesses and an additional 2,000,000 words in documents, plans and reports, placed in its record. Among the witnesses were a cabinet member, senators, representatives, state governors and leading army engineer officers, civilian engineers and scientists.

The bill in its present tentative form recommends the expenditure of $583,000,000 for the control work, an amount double that contained in the plan of Gen. adwin. Also in contrast to the Jadwin plan the bill which will be introduced by Chairman Reid is expected to provide that the federal government pay the entire cost, whereas, the army engineer chief proposed that the valley states bear 20 per cent. of the expenee.

CONFESSION ADMITTED IN HIGHWAY SANITY CASE

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(AP)—William E. Hickman's confession of the kidnaping, killing and mutilation of 12 year old Marion Parker was written into the evidence today at his sanity trial.

The 18-page confession made by the youth on a train carrying him back to Los Angeles after his arrest in Oregon was read by Jerome Walsh, chief defense witness, had related the story of the crime to which Hickman has pleaded "not guilty by reason of insanity." The confession was a repitition of previous published accounts of the crime.

"PARTNERSHIP MARRIAGE" PERFORMED IN ANNAPOLIS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 1—(AP)—Maryland's historic capital witnessed something new today, when what was described as the first "partnership marriage," was performed in the cellar of a fraternity house on St. John's college campus.

As the happy pair came up the basement steps a jazz band broke into a syncopated wedding march, and fraternity brothers of the groom, five of whom had dressed in women's clothes to act as "bridesmaids," cheered as the bridal couple reached the first floor.

The ceremony, the climax of a courtship of more than two years, "united in the holy bond of partnership wedlock" Walter W. Phillips, of Camden, N. J., a St. John's college student and Miss Margaret J. Rochester, of Baltimore. The marriage was performed by the minister of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church.

In the first place, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips "have some original ideas," to use the groom's own words:

"We do not consider the marriage ceremony essential," Phillips said, "but realize that we have to conform in some measure to the rules of society. For the words 'until death do us part,' we mentally substituted 'until love dies.'

"We decided to get married with certain understandings. For instance, neither one is obligated to support the other."

Just to be a little different, the five men students in the garb of bridesmaids, did not attend the ceremony. While the wedding was going on in the cellar, they remained upstairs harmonizing with the jazz band. When it was all over they did not scramble for the bride's bouquet—for there wasn't any—neither was there a ring—as that was ruled out.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are honeymooning in New York.

WISH FOR STRAIGHT LEGS MAY COST WOMAN HER LIFE

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—(AP)—A wish for straight legs has cost Miss Sadie Holland, 30, stenographer, the limbs which were slightly bowed and tonight her life was in danger.

Two weeks ago Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, operated upon the young woman's legs. A week ago Dr. William Van Doren, the Holland family physician, was called by Miss Holland's parents. He was said to have reported gangrene had developed in both legs and to have directed that she be removed to another hospital. There last Friday Dr. Paul Magnuson amputated both legs above the knees.

Over the telephone from New York today Dr. Schireson asserted that the operation would have been successful but for complications brought about by thrombosis, which could not be foreseen.

"The operation was performed by myself and by Dr. S. D. Zaph, a prominent and skillful orthopedic surgeon who is attached to the Osteopathic hospital," said Dr. Schireson. "The complications were brought about by a condition of thrombosis, a lack of proper circulation, something which evidences itself at some time in every surgeon's career."

Dr. Schireson was reported to have operated upon the legs of "Peaches" Browning and recently sued Lady Diana Manners for work he alleged was done for her and her mother.

TO CLOSE PART OF TEXTILE MACHINERY PLANT IN LOWELL

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The directors of Sacco-Lowell shops, manufacturers of textile machinery, voted at a meeting here today to close that part of the company's property in Lowell, formerly known as the Lowell Machine shop, and to consolidate operations in its three remaining plants situated in Lowell, Newton Upper Falls, and Biddeford, Me. This move, it was announced, does not affect in any wayy the operation of the Kitson Machine shop, also located in Lowell.

"The great bulk of the company's production is cotton machinery and very little of this is made in the plant to be closed," a statement issued after the meeting said. "The consolidation, therefore, will cause no disturbance or interruption of the current production of cotton machinery, and in fact will strengthen the company's ability to handle its business to the best possible advantage."

DIED FROM SHOT WOUND INFLICTED BY BURGLAR

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A bullet wound received while grappling with a burglar caused the death today of Edward C. Thompson, 51, of 191 Ampere Parkway. He died in the Mountainside hospital. Glen Ridge, where four policemen offered blood for a transfusion in an effort to save the victim's life.

Thompson heard a noise on the first floor of his home last night and while investigating, was struck over the head with a revolver butt. Dazed, he grappled with his assailant, receiving the fatal wound when the burglar tore free and fired.

NICARAGUAN SENATE TO DISCUSS ELECTORAL LAW

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 1—(AP)—The disputed new electoral law, once rejected by the house of deputies, will be discussed again in the senate by the end of the week.

The new law gives Brigadier General Frank R. McCoy, U. S. A., full powers to exercise supervision and control of the presidential election next October.

The bill was sent back to the senate after modification by the house which proponents of the original bill says robbed it of effectiveness.

Advocates Franco-German Agreement

Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany Demands Evacuation of the Rhineland.

BERLIN, Feb. 1—(AP)—Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany today declared that all parties in the German cabinet including the nationalists advocate a policy of Franco-German understanding and made an appeal to France to do her share to make this policy possible.

"I have demanded evacuation of the Rhineland again and again in order thereby to make possible real conciliation and active cooperation between these two peoples," Dr. Stresemann told the Reichstag in a speech closing the two-day debate on the foreign office budget.

"There are no people which has so little interest in warlike complications and which, in the event of war, would so risk its very existence as Germany. The Locarno agreements were intended to clear the track for cooperation between all the nations concerned. Precisely because I wish that this idea of cooperation shall become the common property of the whole German people, do I, who always fought for this policy, consider myself entitled to warn the French nation;—do your share so this policy may become the common property of the German people."

Then raising his voice, Foreign Minister Stresemann made the plea to France:—

"Raise the iron curtain in the Rhineland which separates us, make it possible for an era of active cooperation and good will to ensue."

Asserting Germany's willingness to come to a complete understanding with France, the foreign minister said that this desire had gained ground in Germany daily.

"The doubting voices in the Reichstag are isolated and do not represent the majority of the German people nor the cabinet which unanimously stands for a policy of reconciliation," he declared. "Germany demands evacuation of the Rhineland for political and not material reasons, because she does not want this generation to fail to seize the opportunity for a Franco-German rapprochement."

VIENNA POLICE TO GUARD AMERICAN NEGRO DANCER

VIENNA, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A police guard was placed around Josephine Baker, American negro dancer, who has become a darling of Paris, on her arrival today from the French capital as university students had declared their intention of preventing cored artists from playing in Vienna.

A detachment of police escorted the dancer from the station to a hotel in front of which students assembled. The streets were afterwards cleared by police.

In view of the students' resentment against the jazz opera "Johnnie" in which a negro boasts that all white women capitulate to him, police are taking precautions to protect the young woman all the time she is here.

Students threw chemical bombs containing sneezing powder at a performance of "Johnnie" Saturday, causing a number of women to faint. Twelve students were arrested.

41 MEN WERE INDICTED FOR RUM CONSPIRACY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Forty-one men were indicted by a federae jury today for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law as an aftermath of recent raids on the headquarters of an alleged mail order liquor ring.

Nine men arrested in the raids were induced by prohibition officials to telephone an apartment and then were invited to bring around their shipment. When they arrived they were arrested.

Eight of those indicted were arraigned today and held by United States Judge Thacher in ball ranging from $2,000 to $5,000 each.

Condemns Methods of Political Leaders

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland Warns Against the Tendency to Centralize Government.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP)—The American voter will be stirred to renewed interest in politics only when political leaders cease to regard hypocrisy, cowardice and buncombe as political assets, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland said tonight, addressing the Brooklyn Bar association.

"America cannot afford to scrap principles and institutions which have been tried and tested," he continued. "The stability of our government and our national happiness rests upon the spirit of tolerance. But with law breeding more law, power breeding more power, one begins to wonder where the Goddess of Liberty is to find an abiding place."

The growth of centralized governmental power is an "evil not confined to America," he said, but has appeared in Europe "where dictatorships rose as they have risen after every great war in history."

"A man's religion ought never to be a factor in his right to hold office, whether the lowest in the state or the highest in the land," he said, "but the old beliefs and the old issues are fast passing. The things which stir human emotions now are prohibition, religious intolerance and fundamentalism.

"This may be due to the growing industrialism of today, the growing urbanism of America, or the amazing change in theory of law which the past 25 years has witnessed. But back of it all is the apathy of the people in the face of their abdiction of the political essentials which made us a free nation.

"The foundation of the edifice was self-government. The flying political issue today is the right of the states to settle their home affairs at home."

To mention one instance, he continued, "a great many people believe, as I happen to believe, that the great question of prohibition ought to be turned back to the states, so that each state may determine it in accordance with the needs and sanctions of its own people."

SAVED AFTER DRIFTING 700 MILES AT SEA IN OPEN BOAT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP)—Unwitting that he had duplicated in life a famous painting, Jim Bethel, 26-year old Negro saved after drifting 700 miles at sea in an open boat, was preparing to return home to Florida today.

If by any chance Bethel should stray into the Metropolitan Museum of Art before leaving he might see Winslow Homer's "The Gulf Stream," famous painting of a half-nude black prone on a dismasted boat with sharks cutting the waves about him.

And if Bethel saw that picture he might well think it was a picture of himself.

Bethel left West Palm beach on Jan. 17 to take a gasoline launch back to its owner at Hollywood, 34 miles away. About half way the engine "died" and from then on there was nothing to do but drift.

The first day out sharks began trailing the launch and they kept right on trailing for 10 days. Bethel spent his days waving his coat and his nights swinging a lantern.

On the tenth night he attracted the attention of the Pinar Del Rio of the American Cuban Steamship line and was taken abroad, arriving here Sunday. He was detained at Ellis island for a while but today arrangements for his return home were being made by the Salvation army. The trip home will be made by train.

Bethel's only sustenance during his 10 days adrift was two tins of sardines, two cans of tomatoes, and a four gallon jug of water.

AROUSED BY CONDITIONS IN BITUMINOUS COAL FIELDS

Strong Support in the Senate For Senator Johnson's Resolution Proposing a Thorough Investigation of the Suspension of Mining—The Senator From California Pictured the Situation as One of "Bloody Warfare"—Charged Conspiracy of Coal Operators and Railroads to Break Up the Miners' Union.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—Support for a thorough investigation into the suspension of mining in the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia was promised from both sides of the senate today as Senator Johnson, republican, California, demanded early action on his resolution proposing an inquiry.

In a two-hour speech, the California senator pictured conditions in the Pennsylvania fields as "bloody warfare." He charged a conspiracy by the coal operators and railroads to break the Miners' union; read a letter from Secretary Davis of the labor department blaming operators for the failure of government negotiations to end the strike; and finally read a a letter from Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, charging the abuse of the police power of Pennsylvania in behalf of private interests.

As Johnson concluded, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, promised support for his proposed inquiry. He asked for relief in the situation in the coal fields, but he urged that the senate "not jump at conclusions about causes."

The resolution of Senator Johnson is now before the interstate commerce committee for preliminary consideration and Chairman Watson indicated the committee would hold extensive hearings on it, beginning probably next week.

The senate debate brought in Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, who also urged an inquiry and suggested that President Coolige appoint a committee, including perhaps Charles Evans Hughes and Newton D. Baker, to make a study of conditions. This got a quick reply from Senator Neely, democrat, West Virginia, who gave notice that his state would submit to no more regulations of its mines.

Replying to charges of Mr. Pinchot about the abuse of the state police power, Senator Reed said that Gov. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, was investigating this phase of the situation. When Senator Johnson explained that he understood the charges were against the "coal and iron police," the Pennsylvanian answered that such police were all over the world and he mentioned the railroad police.

Senator Copeland contended the whole trouble lay in the fact that there was a surplus of 250,000 miners in this country as well as a surplus of coal, but, in reply to Senator Neely, he had no solution to propose. The New Yorker condemned Senator Reed for "aiding in blocking" action on his bill two years ago to create a presidential commission to settled disputes in the coal fields.

Declaring that "the present horrible conditions had their inception in a conspiracy between railroad companies and coal operators, Senator Johnson quoted the letter sent to him yesterday by Secretary Davis. It read in part as follows:

"We in the department diligently sought some method by which this strike might be settled, but the failure of the great bulk of the operators or any of the Operators' association officials to attend made it impossible to make any real progress toward the solution of the problem separating the mine workers and operators in these districts."

Letters from residents of the Pennsylvania bituminous districts, read by Senator Johnson, told of the hardships endured by the miners. Mr. Pinchot in his letter attributed "a large percentage" of evictions in the districts to the Pittsburgh Coal company which he said is "controlled by the Mellons."

"In Pennsylvania today," Senator Johnson continued, "there are social revolution and economic warfare. Worse, far worse, in that great commonwealth are all the dark evils of bloody warfare—sickness, suffering, hardship, privation, want and hunger; and the ever attendant infamies of wrong, oppression and tyranny."

Senator Reed said no one could exaggerate conditions in Pennsylvania and added that "all I ask is that any inquiry to be made a fair and thorough one."

"There must be some relief from the situation," he added, "but let us not jump at conclusions about the cause."

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, terminated the debate by asking the republicans to explain what industry is prosperous, recalling the pleas in the senate for farm relief, shop relief and now for coal relief.

COSGRAVE IN NEW YORK FOR THREE DAY VISIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP)—Back in New York for a three-day visit, William T. Cosgrave, head of the Irish Free State, today plunged into the busy round of functions that are planned to take place unremittingly almost until the moment he sails for home at 3 a. m. Saturday.

Touching on the derailment of his special train while en route to Ottawa two days ago, Mr. Cosgrave said he had been surprised when his private car remained upright after the engine jumped the rails.

"I suppose it was because of the good American materials," he smiled.

Mr. Cosgrave was still suffering from a slight cold contracted several days ago and he appeared somewhat nervous as a result of the railroad mishap in Canada.

HAVANA, Feb. 1—(AP)—Social problems of the nations will come under the consideration of the Pan-American conference at a plenary session on Friday. The report includes recommendations for Pan-American action on questions relating to the maritime sanitary code, public health, eugenics and homoculture and the development of international Red Cross operations.

It is probable that this session will also receive the final report of the intellectual cooperation committee, which is endeavoring to speed up the sessions, point to the termination of the conference, about the third week in February, but some of the delegates are of the opinion that it will not end before March 1.

TWO N. Y. STATE EMPLOYES DISMISSED FROM SERVICE

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Dismissal of two department of state employes who worked on the 1925 state census under the adminsitration of Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, brought an unexpected sequel tonight to the recommendation of Governor Smith that the Albany grand jury look into the possibility of bringing criminal charges against the only woman ever elected to a New York state office.

The two employes were Mark Stern, first deputy secretary of state, and Anna A. Little, auditor in the department of state. Both served in the same capacities under the former woman official, but were exonerated by Governor Smith of any complicity of her alleged criminal acts, which included grand larceny, forgery, the making of false audits and certifications, and the illegal removal of state records.

DEAL FOR POLI THEATRES REMAINS UNCERTAINTY

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 1—(AP)—Although the $450,000 option taken by a Boston syndicate on the S. Z. Poli theaters in New England, expired at six o'clock tonight, Mr. Poli told the Associated Press tonight that he could not definitely say whether the deal for the purchase of the theaters was going through or had been dropped.

Mr. Poli said "the entire thing is in the hands of my attorneys. I have heard that we (the interested parties in the deal) are to meet again Friday but I cannot say definitely that that is so."

Max Shoolman, Boston real estate dealer heads the syndicate which took the option. The deal involves $30,000,000.

MAY ADD ANOTHER TO THE LIST OF SENATE INQUIRIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—Another senate inquiry into the financial affairs and particularly political contributions of huge corporations seemed certain with the approval today by the interstate commerce committee of the Walsh power resolution.

After making certain changes in the original measure so as to limit the scope of the investigation, the committee acted unanimously and the resolution will be reported to the senate tomorrow with prospect of early action since Senator Walsh, Dem., Montana, its author, said the modifications were "no unacceptable."

An effort to have the inquiry conducted by the federal trade commission instead of a senate committee failed on a tie vote, eight to eight and then opponents gave up their fight.

As the resolution was changed, the inquiry would be confined to public utility corporations—electric light and power and gas—doing an interstate business and to holding companies having the stock of two or more corporations operating in different states.

The special committee of five which would carry on the investigation would be limited in seeking information on political contributions to those made in the election of the president, vice president and members of congress. This amendment, Chairman Watson of the interstate commerce committee said, was designed to keep the inquiry out of primary elections and also out of purely state, municipal or county general elections.

HOW OIL CO. DIRECTORS APPROVED CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—Interesting sidelights were developed today before the senate lands committee on how directors of great oil companies approved without question contracts by which the then unheard of and now extinct Continental Trading company, of Canada made $3,000,000 in profits apparently at their expense.

However, examination of three additional witnesses failed to shed any light on the main subject of inquiry—what became of the residue of these profits after Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, had paid over $233,000 of them to Albert B. Fall, the interior secretary, for an interest in ranch property for which he has nothing to show.

Under driving questioning by Senator Walsh of Montana, prosecutor of the new oil inquiry, E. G. Seubert, now president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, finally told how he and other directors in 1921 approved the Continental contracts because the chairman of the board, Robert W. Stewart, told them it was a good one.

BRITISH STEAMER IS AGROUND AT CAPE HENLOPEN

LEWES, Del., Feb. 1—(AP)—The British steamship Elswick Tower, Algiers for Philadelphia, went aground late today on the Hen and Chicken shoals at Cape Henlopen. With a moderate off-shore wind, the vessel was reported as resting easily and in no danger.

Later the position of the Elswick Tower apparently became more dangerous, for the captain sent out an S. O. S. asking for assistance. Several vessels in the vicinity replied that they would reach the stranded ship "within an hour or two." Among these was the steamer Munargo, whose master notified the Elswick Tower that he would stand by until all danger had passed. A coast guard cutter from the Cape Henlopen station was sent out at 10 p. m. to aid the distressed vessel.

The Elswick Tower has a cargo of ore destined for this city.

HAIG'S BODY TO BE BORNE ON THE GUN CARRIAGE USED FOR UNKNOWN SOLDIER

LONDON, Feb. 1—(AP)—When the body of Field Marshal Earl Haig, who commanded the mightiest army Great Britain ever mustered, is taken to Westminster abbey on Friday, it will be borne on a historic gun-carriage—the carriage of the gun which fired the first British shell in the great war, and the one that was used at the burial of the "unknown soldier."

War widows and battle-maimed men trudged in the slow column which moved through St. Columba's church tonight, past the field marshal's bier.

All day long and until late at night thousands of men, women and children filed past the flag-draped coffin, guarded by tall, smartly-uniformed soldiers, whose heads were bowed, with hands resting on the hilts of inverted sabres.

Many in the solemn throng which paid farewell homage to the war chief were weeping; many brought bouquets of red poppies—memorials of the terrible, gallant Flanders' fighting and emblem of the beloved field marshal's tireless efforts to aid the war's victims who still survive.

First to come to the church where the dead leader lay was Lady Haig, her face obscured by a heavy veil. For a time she stood alone by the bier of her husband—then scattered poppies on the coffin, near the medals, the helmet, baton and sword of the marshal.

As she departed, the great gates opened to admit the first of the long line, in which stood women in rich furs and others in faded cloaks; men in silk hats and others with ragged caps in their hands.

Tomorrow again the public will be permitted to pass the bier, and on Friday, after a memorial service at St. Columba's, the nation will honor its faithful servant by a funeral at Westminster abbey. The body will then be taken to Glasgow, where it will lie in state from Saturday to Monday, before interment—the time has not yet been determined—at the Haig home at Bemersyde, Scotland.

Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the allied and associated armies in the World war, heads the list of distinguished soldiers, whom the war office announced tonight as pall bearers.

They are: Marshal Foch of France; Field Marshal Lord Methuen, Field Marshal Sir Claud Jacob, Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, General Lord Horne, General Sir Hugh Gough, General Sir Herbert Lawrence, General Lord Bynd, Marshal of the Air Force Sir Hugh Trenchard, Admiral Earl Jellicoe, Admiral Earl Beatty, General Baron de Ceyninck, of the Belgian army, General Sir Ian Hamilton and Marshal Petain, France.

The king will be represented at the funeral by the prince of Wales.

Don't Neglect These Troubles!

Deafness, Ear Tubal Catarrh, Head Noises, and Nasal Catarrh generally grow worse when neglected. Authorities claim that ninety per cent of all deafness is primarily caused by catarrh of the head and air passages. Others state that nasal catarrh often causes indigestion, rheumatism, catarrh of the stomach, and many other diseased conditions. If you suffer from dullness of hearing or nasal catarrh, do not neglect this condition.

There are thousands, who are now practically stone deaf, whose hearing could no doubt have been saved had the right measures been taken in time. Dr. Coffee restored hearing in hundreds of cases, where the patients were so deaf they could hear nothing. Of course, those were cases which, in spite of their severity, fortunately had not advanced to the stage that the actual tissues or nerves had become affected. Just remember this—you can prove the value of this treatment entirely without risk or expense. It will come to you absolutely free. Just fill out and mail the coupon.

Deaf Since Childhood; Her Hearing Greatly Benefited This Way

Mona McBride

Here is a recent picture of Mrs. Mona McBride, an Illinois woman whose remarkable case and glowing testimonial letter show what this treatment can accomplish. From childhood, Mrs. McBride's hearing was affected, the result of serious illness. Her story is the most convincing proof of the merits of Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment. Mrs. McBride says, "This is to certify that since having scarlet fever when a little girl, I have been hard of hearing, and for the past four or five years I have been almost entirely deaf. A few months ago my left ear began to discharge. I found it to be abscessed and discharging a foul fluid. Nothing seemed to stop it and finally I tried Dr. Coffee's Treatment. To my surprise and delight the hearing in the ear which was partially deaf for nearly 20 years has returned and the abscess has healed. Now I can hear a conversation six feet away. I didn't believe it possible and I certainly advise anyone suffering with deafness to try this treatment. I obtained relief in a short time."

An Octogenarian's Praise

At eighty years of age, D. B. Simmons, of Maine, ascribed partial deafness with which he was afflicted to his advanced years. Developing severe head noises, however, he determined to seek relief from the Dr. Coffee Treatment, the success of which he had heard in similar cases to his own. "I am glad to be able to tell you," he writes, "that after using your treatment as prescribed, the head noises left me entirely and I am rid of the deafness besides. Can hear well again."

Greatly Benefited at 86

"I had suffered with nasal catarrh for seven or eight years; I had terrible head noises, my hearing was bad. It was necessary for people to talk loud, otherwise I could not hear them. I used Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment for four months, and it restored my hearing to such an extent that I can now take part in an ordinary conversation. The head noises are a thing of the past. I am 86 years old."

J. C. Patterson, Indiana.

Head Noises Disappear

With Mrs. Reed Page, of N. Y., Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment quickly relieved a serious and rapidly developing case of deafness and head noises. From normal hearing, in scarcely four years, Mrs. Page became quite deaf. People had to shout close to her ears for her to understand them. Now she writes, "I am happy to tell you how good I feel and how much improved I am. Can hear everything, and the head noises are gone entirely."

After 10 Years' Suffering

"My hearing is now even better than when I was a boy," writes Peter Storm of Iowa. Gradually but surely growing deaf over a period of nearly ten years, Mr. Storm became afflicted with severe head noises which alarmed him greatly. Much to his amazement and when he had practically given up hope of regaining his hearing, Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment relieved him within two months.

Relieved After 48 Years

"I had been gradually growing deaf for 48 years. I had not been able to hear over a telephone for 17 years. Naturally I was discouraged for I had tried everything and found no relief. Dr. Coffee's treatment restored my hearing so I could hear over a telephone in either ear, quite plainly. I no longer suffer with intense head-noises."

Mrs. M. Sherier, Missouri.

Restored Hearing in Month

George Bishop, a native of Saskatchewan, tells how he suffered for 12 years and spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief to no avail. Read what he says of Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment—how his hearing has improved and the head noises disappeared as a result of this simple method: "My hearing grew so bad that people had to shout into my ear for me to understand. Dr. Coffee's Treatment helped me greatly in one month. It is wonderful."

HIKER GILLIS WINS BET—GETS TO KANSAS CITY

Douglas Gillis, the hiker from Providence to Kansas City for $500 against a new Ford auto has written to his cousin, Eddie Ellis, the letter coming on Tuesday. Walking like Edward Weston while going into Kansas City in my heavy marching suit, he writes, soon a crowd gathered on the street and cheered me; for I had a sign on my pack which read "From Providence to Kansas City or Bust on a Bet!" The school children were walking with me for a quarter mile. The weather was cold with snow on the ground and my cheeks were red as fire, but I made the goal. It took me 59 days and 22 hours. I have worn out eight pair of shoes and lost nine pounds but am happy over winning the bet. On Saturday night the Monday Night club had a big time for me—their club room all trimmed up and a good Rhode Island oyster stew. They also gave me a pocketbook—and I had to tell about my trip to that city. Dancing followed and I gave an exhibition of the Black Bottom dance as Burns' Singing orchestra stepped on the music. It was some time! I am going to stay the rest of the winter out and get a job for the people are good to a stranger and I'll make the trip back by train and then get my bet. Tell the Sardine club members that a former Noank boy made the hike and give them my regards also to my friends in the village.

KID SHERMAN WINS OVER BROOKLYN FIGHTER

Kid Sherman, featherweight fighter of the village saw the big city of New York for the first time. In his Gladstone bag was his boxing outfit and gloves. His trainer, Duncan McDonald, who had charge of Sea Sleds at the motorboat show, took Kid along as his helper and was going to arrange a match in Brooklyn with Mr. McDonald's cousin, George Kingston, blondy boy, his left and right hand loaded with T. N. T. punch. But that did not worry the pride of Riverside avenue. A six-round match took place at Fifth street casino, before a crowd of 800 fans. Blondy Kingston was first to enter the ring and got a big hand, so natty in his green suit. Then came Kid Sherman of the fishing village in his red togs primed for action. The fans gave him a salute although he was a stranger in the town. Trainer McDonald was the chief in Sherman's corner as the bell rang for the opening round. The fighters shook hands, going at it quick Kid was trying to get in a body blow but no use that Blondy boy's guard knocked off the blow and it was some match. The men were about even in the fourth round Blondy Kingston's left hook went off on the chin of Sherman and had plenty of T. N. T. behind the blow. Down went the Noank boxer for a short rest, but game as any fighter, he was up at the count of 8, although staying away from the Brooklyn boy until he got his wind. In the final round Kid Sherman's haymaker, caught the Brooklyn fighter on the head and sent him to the floor with his feet out straight. As the Referee started to count and 10 came Blondy Kingston could not get up. It was a knock-out for Kid Sherman and the featherweight boxer was happy over his victory. He also fought for nothing to help keep in trim. "Now," say the fans, "bring on Buck Shea of Bridgeport for fun, money or marbles." Trainer McDonald took his boxer over to New York so he could see the lights of Broadway. Sherman says "It is some town, with its tall buildings. I had a good time and a black eye to go with it from the fight."

Joe Diffy, state inspector of road construction, is now employed professionally at Danielson.

The news of the sudden death of William Rollinson, brother of Mrs. Charles Barstow, Sunday last was the third similar shock to this community within three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Rollinson had been since Christmas with the family of a dear and critically ill niece, assisting in her care. Monday's Bulletin told of the finding of Mr. Rollinson's body. The funeral was Wednesday. A very large number of relatives and friends filled the house, coming in many cases from a distance. The service was conducted by Rev. Edwin St. John, Rev. Mrs. Davies of Westminster church, of which Mrs Rollinson is a member, offering prayer. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery, Norwich, where are graves of some of Mrs. Rollinson's family.

Thursday Reuben Pearl, mail carrier on one of the routes serving Westminster, nearly lost his whole family but for quick action. Returning from his daily trip, Mr. Pearl found his wife and youngest child semi-conscious and a cousin in a still deeper stage of coma, the house filled with coal gas. The older little girl, in second or third grade at school, reached home a little before her father. She discovered the condition of her mother and baby sister and realized something was seriously wrong. She ran for the doctor who lived near, then returned home. Shortly after her father arrived, opening doors and windows. Little Mary also was affected by the gas before the doctor reached the house. It was late at night before the doctor felt it safe to leave the family. The cousin upstairs was in a critical condition when the doctor came and required heroic treatment. The furnace has been in use fifteen years and never before made trouble in any way.

Jan. 27 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green quietly observed their silver wedding at their home. Most of their children live at home. Edward, the oldest, and his wife came from Plainfield; also Julia, who has been resting at her brother's in Plainfield after getting overtired in her work in Danielson. Isabelle, the second oldest daughter, employed by Dr. Tanner in Danielson, was unable to be present. Mrs. Oscar Hubbard had started the idea of a community silver remembrance, each sending a silver quarter as a token of good will. In the evening Mrs. Hubbard and son Elwood took this gift in a small vase, bearing flowers on top of the money, presenting it in the names on the list accompanying. The gift as an expression of kindly feeling was greatly appreciated by Mr and Mrs. Green and by all of their family.

Several children are at home suffering from "pinkeye."

Friday afternoon the schools had a holiday on account of the teachers' January meeting.

The January Birthday club of children held their social at the parsonage Saturday afternoon. In spite of the weather they had a good time with games, conundrums and refreshments.

After several attempts, a real snow storm fell Saturday night and the next morning, not followed by rain. The state snow plow cleared the new road early in the morning, but country roads were badly drifted and people stayed at home. The afternoon was a brilliant, cold one.

WHAT WILL THE HOUSE SAY?

Whether the lower house of congress will vote for government ownership of merchant ships is a question that is interesting many sections of the country. It has an opportunity to stand back of the senate in its demand for such ownership and operation under the Jones bill just passed, or of upholding the administration in the attitude that has always been taken that such business ought to be left to private capital.

Ever since the government was forced into the building of a merchant marine by the war the demand has been for the government to dispose of the ships and get out of the competition which now exists with private capital and which cannot fail to have a detrimental effect upon private enterprise. The president has urged the selling of the ships as rapidly as possible. The shipping bard has backed and filled in this direction with the result that we have idle ships which are becoming less valuable every year and others which are being run at a large loss each year. They have always been a burden and they are not only becoming less valuable but more expenditures for their maintenance or remodeling, or appropriations for new ships are constantly being sought. This it spite of the fact that government control as at present is discouraging private companies, and any decision to adopt government ownership of merchant vessels as a permanent policy is going to make the situation even more so.

Experience of the country with government ownership in other directions has not been satisfactory. Operation of ships under the shipping board cannot be looked upon as a pronounced success when we stop to think what it has cost and how much better it might have been done by private enterprise under laws that would stimulate such a business. There can be no question but what steamship lines, as numerous and perhaps even more numerous than now exist, should be operating under our flag, but instead of pushing the many millions into expensive government operation it would be far better to give encouragement to those who are already in that line of business. Unless the house opposes the Jones bill it seems to be headed for a presidential veto.

LINDBERGH'S VISITS

Wherever his route carries him Charles A. Lindbergh gets the same enthusiastic welcome, makes the best sort of an impression and not only distributes more widely the spirit of good will but creates the feeling that his visit marks the beginning of aviation development which will sooner or later include those places.

It is perfectly evident that he has been accomplishing all that was expected of him when he set out on that trip, and even more for when he departed it was anticipated that his visits were to be confined to Central America and Cuba. Instead he has accepted invitations which carried him into the countries of northern South America and over the Lesser Antilles to St. Thomas one of the Virgin islands. From there he will go to Porto Rico, San Domingo and Cuba, possibly stopping at Hayti and be in time to reach Havana while the Pan-American conference is still in session.

Lindbergh is covering a route over which no one has preceded him. Likewise he is doing it alone and according to schedule. He is mindful of the conditions experienced on his trip and with the same confidence which he has manifested in the establishment of regular Atlantic ocean crossings within a perio dof ten years he sees no reason why there should not be regular air mail lines doing business between the points he has visited on his trip.

Whatever may have been thought of such a thing in the past there can be no question but what the visit and the encouragement from Lindbergh's experience will do much in getting sentiment in those cities working for the adoption of such an idea. It means also that all of the cities can be brought in much closer touch with this country through the use of airplanes, whether they are reached by going down through Central America or by crossing over the islands in the Caribbean sea to South American countries. Lindbergh as the good will messenger from this country is not only doing much for his government but he is also creating greater interest and confidence in aviation.

PREY OF THE SWINDLERS

The lure of wealth has a grip upon many persons which cannot be shaken. This is true in spite of the many instances where others have been swindled out of their hard earned cash.

Instances of the gullibility of humanity are many. There were the days when men bought gold bricks only to find that they were common red bricks gilded over. But even then there were some of those who could not let the force of the lesson they had experienced overbalance their belief that they might get something for nothing and fell for the swindler's story a second time. How they ever did it in the first place or in the second they find it impossible to tell after it is all over. It is perfectly plain then how they were hoodwinked but they were unable to penetrate the crookedness of the game in advance.

It seems unbelievable that a couple could be separated from all they money they had, $4,000, upon the assurance of a stranger that they would get in return $40,000 if they refrained from opening the package given them for three years, but that is what has happened. It is the same game on a different scale which many others have experienced. The couple referred to had the utmost faith in the transaction. They were faithful to the agreement, carefully protected the package for three years and upon opening it last week found that they had bought and stored a bundle of newspaper clippings with their life's earnings and the perpetrators had a three years start to cover up their tracks.

It is, of course, the same old story, but in view of all the trickery that is to be guarded against it is surprising that anyone in these days should even listen to any such proposition. When those who are peddling clippings under the representation that they are banknotes and are ready to dispose of them for ten cents on a dollar it is time that suspicion was immediately aroused and all interest in such a matter dropped. Better yet, the reporting of such swindlers to the authorities would mean the rendition of a most valuable public service.

AMERICAN SAMOA

When it is indicated by Senator Bingham that he intends sponsoring a resolution calling for an investigation of the administration of American Samoa, it reminds us of the fact that we are interested in such a Pacific possession and it stirs our curiosity as to what is the matter over there. We have not been getting any information which would indicate that conditions were other than they should be. So far as known Samoa is having its welfare properly looked after and it isn't indicated that difficulties or trouble exist, but happily all investigations are not based upon such a state of affairs.

Since 1872 the United States has had a coaling station on Tutuila, the largest of the Samoan islands in the southern Pacific. Later this country, Germany and Great Britain reached an agreement whereby the islands should have an independent government. It wasn't a success and it was abolished. The rights to Tutuila and other small islands were granted to this country and Germany took the rest. In the World war New Zealand took possession of the German islands and under the treaty of Versailles was given a mandate under the league of nations. Dissatisfaction arose and as the result of a protest an investigation followed but New Zealand was found without blame.

It has been the policy of this government to encourage and aid in the development of Samoa and many advantages have been provided since obtaining control which indicate that we have been mindful of our duty in that regard.

It is possible that the unrest which has developed in the other islands has extended to the American group, but it is also to be realized that an investigation need not be based upon unfavorable conditions there, but sought with the idea of further development and assistance. It is always well to know where betterments might be made and just what are needed.

PROGRESS AT HAVANA

From the time the idea of having the chairmanship of the Pan-American congress rotate among the members, as suggested by Mexico, instead of being the secretary of state of this country, was advanced it failed to arouse interest. It looked to be an attempt to irritate the United States but if that was so it failed to accomplish what was sought and it likewise failed to get any support. This country believed that the delegates should be permitted to choose whomever they desired, that therein would be a better display of democracy than would be the case if a change should be obligatory each year without the delegates being able to give expression to their desires. The freedom of choice by the members was stressed by this country and it resulted as all the other countries taking the view as expressed by this country. It is only fair to say that Mexico may have had only the best of motives in its suggestion but it didn't make a good impression.

In advance of Lindbergh's arrival at Havana the conference has taken up the matter of an aerial agreement among the nations of the western hemisphere. It was entirely possible for such to have been restricted to members of the Pan-American congress, but that would have meant the exclusion of five countries and certain islands which are not members of the congress. Good judgment prevailed in agreeing that such an aerial convention might be signed by any country. The idea has been held by many that Pan-Americanism should be made to include all the territory of the western hemisphere, and it is possible that the move in behalf of the aerial convention will be the stepping stone that will lead to it.

KITTY'S BARGAIN

"It's funny how fate tosses us about, Carter, old man. When we were kids planning on our careers as doctors Kitty Armstrong said she would marry the one who cured her first illness. We both specialized in eye-surgery and here is Kitty blind after a motor smash and her recovery rests with us."

Dr. Elman Travers looked with a little repugnance at his companion's scarred and ruined face. Fate surely had played its tricks with Dr. Carter Bridges; an exploding test tube had spattered acid upon his right cheek and marked it hideously. Bridges had once been a handsome man, but now the only likable feature in his face was his eyes—kind, gray, smiling. He had just that day returned from Vienna, where he had taken surgical studies similar to those that Travers had made at Hopkins.

"I do not think we can hold Kitty to her bargain now, Elman," said Bridges. His fingers touched the raw, red marks upon his face. His voice trembled a little with emotion. "Kitty has not seen me—does not know about this horror that has come upon me. A year ago, when I was home last, I thought I stood a good chance with her. I worked like a fiend that I might excel in the profession for her sake. It would have made her happy to see me succeed. I was in the race with you, Travers; she would have chosen one of us this summer, but now——"

Elman Travers, practiced in hypocrisy, did not show the exultation that made his heart leap. He, too, was a good man in his profession. Even if it were Carter who accomplished the hyperdelicate task of giving Kitty Armstrong back her power of vision, she would not marry a man so hideous nor would Carter, he knew, expect that sacrifice of her.

"The operation must take place tomorrow morning," said Tarvers. "You will go to see her this afternoon, Carter? She knows you were to come today. She spoke of you." He leaned forward in his chair and rested a slim hand on Carter's knee. "I asked her to marry me after she was cured. She spoke of you then and recalled our bargain. Whoever cures her gets her. Now which of us to perform the operation?"

"It does not matter greatly," returned Bridges, voicing Travers' own thought. "I could not, even if I were the one who cured her, claim her love. She could not care for me."

Travers feigned disapproval. "Nonsense! Tonight we shall draw lots to see which of us does the operating. Our skill is about even, I fancy, and our knowledge much the same."

But Carter Bridges shook his head. "No," he said. "It is up to you, Elman. I withdraw from the pact. If Kitty were to be always blind, why then I should ask her to marry me; otherwise no——".

"As you will," shrugged Travers.

That afternoon Bridges sat by Kitty's chair in the white, clean-smelling room of the Memorial hospital. Her hand was in his, for if Kitty favored either of her lovers, Carter was the favored one.

They sat for a long time unspeaking. Carter thanked God that she could not see his blasted face. Her fingers had caressed his hair and touched his lips, but her fingers could not tell her his ugliness. If only she might be always blind! He cursed himself for the selfishness of the thought.

"Who is to operate on my eyes, Carter, you or Elman?"

"Elman is going to operate, Kitty. We settled that this morning."

She could not see the wretchedness that dwelt in his eyes. He did not observe the shadow of sorrow that flitted over her face. Elman Travers was a handsome man; wealthier, more popular than Carter—surely the more to be preferred as a husband.

"So it is to be Elman," sighed the blind girl. "And if I see by his hand, then I must marry him."

"If you love him."

"Love?—I have always tried to find out which of you two I want. I have not succeeded. I care for you both. I love you both. This must decide. If Elman fails, you have your chance if both fail, I could not of course, expect either of you to marry a—a blind——"

It was a ray of hope for Carter—that possibility. He kissed her hand. "If—if it fails, will you marry me, Kitty? I would care for you tenderly. I would never leave your side. Blindness would make you no less lovely. Indeed, it would keep you always with me and I would not be jealous as I surely would if you had eyes to look at someone else."

She laughed happily but said no. It was good to be loved like that. Elman had not spoken so. He had asked her to marry him when she was cured.

"You will be here when Elman operates?" she asked him.

"Yes, I shall be here, Kitty, hoping and praying that you see again."

He was there the next morning, before Elman Travers came. Travers was late, and when at a few minutes past 10 he arrived Carter perceived the reason for his tardiness. Travers had been indulging in narcotics—cocaine, he suspected. His face was white and drawn, his eyes hollow, his hands uneasy.

"All right, Carter," he called. "You get things ready. I'll do the job."

Carter looked at him in disgust, but said nothing.

All was ready. Kitty, after speaking bravely with them, lay still under the anesthetic. Carter thought of a rose that had been plucked from its stalk and laid on a butcher's slab. Elman looked at her nervously and his hand trembled among the tools.

"My God—I—I can't do it, Carter! I——"

In an instant Bridges had thrust him aside. Deftly, with the speed of lightning and the precision of a machine, he operated, replaced the bandages and walked from the room.

"Remember, Elman," he said, "You did the work. She is going to marry you. Her own honor would force her to stick to her bargain, but she's not going to have a face like mine to frighten her in the mornings."

He did not speak of the terrible temptation that had come to him while he worked—the temptation to make her blind forever, that she might be his. He had fought it and won. She would see in a few days, and rather than have her look upon his disfigurement, Carter went away.

He went to hide himself until she and Elman should be wed; then perhaps he could face her and tell her he was glad of her happiness.

Carter Bridges had no word of Kitty or Travers. He went back then and called upon Travers. Travers had gone to Europe—alone. Wondering, puzzled, Carter took his courage in his hands and went to visit Kitty.

He found her waiting. She welcomed him with arms outstretched, with eyes in her clear, restored eyes.

"At last, Carter! Why did you run away? I have looked for you everywhere. I was lonesome." He could not stand the reproach in her manner.

"Your bargain—Elman——?"

"I have stuck to it, but I could never have married Elman. He was hypocrite enough to pretend he had saved my sight. I know different. For a brief instant when you had finished operating I awoke. I saw you—your eyes. I loved you and knew that it was only you I could love. I hold you to the bargain."

He touched his scarred cheek—and Kitty kissed it.—Detroit News.

YOUR HEALTH

Maternal Feeding

By J. B. Feeley, M. D., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mother's milk is the only ideal food for infants. The statistical results of breast feeding are vastly superior to those of artificial feeding. In the city of Berlin, Germany, in the years from 1900 to 1904 only 9 per cent. of the infant mortality occurred in breast-fed infants. In Boston statistics showed that an artificially fed infant is six times as likely to die as a breast-fed infant. In spite of these facts we find mothers who prefer not to nurse their babies. Only gross ignorance of the facts can explain their desire to take such a risk.

It has been positively proved that more than 95 per cent. of mothers can fully or in part nurse their babies. The desire of the mother to be relieved of the trouble and confinement incidental to nursing is not sufficient reason for resorting to the bottle. Mother's milk contains the same elements as cow's milk, that is fat, carbohydrate, protein, mineral matter and water. The difference in digestibility and nourishment is very great and also mother's milk is practically sterile, which cannot be said of the best cow's milk produced.

The first secretion of the breasts offered the baby is known as colostrum and the amount is very small the first three days. The regular flow of milk generally starts on the third day, and up to that time the baby should get water in sufficient amounts to make up the deficiency. They should be given a 5 per cent. sugar solution, one-half to one ounce every two hours.

Here is the proper way to conduct nursing: After the baby is born it should be wrapped in warm blankets, the mother should be made comfortable and given a rest. Everything being normal, the baby should be put to the breast every three or four hours for the first two and a half or three days. It should receive sterile water, sweetened or unsweetened, every two or three hours, one-half to one ounce at a time. After the third day, when the flow of milk is established, the baby should nurse every two, three or four hours, all depending on the baby, the condition of the mother, and the amount of milk. The following schedule seems best: 6 a. m., 9 a. m., 12 m., 3 p. m., 6 p. m., 10 p. m. and 2 a. m. The night feeding should be stopped just as soon as possible. In fact, if the baby is strong and rugged, it is just as well not to start it.

How long should a baby nurse? It all depends on the quantity and the quality of the breast milk. Some babies will nurse enough in five minutes every three or four hours, others will require twenty minutes every two or four hours.

If the baby's nursing is normal, its sleep will be restful and regular. Baby should always be eager to nurse at the correct time and should have a regular gain in weight and growth. There should be no vomiting or colic, and there should be from one to three normal bowel movements a day. They should be smooth and of a light yellow color. The odor should be slightly sour but not foul.

No baby should be nursed longer than nine or ten months. Before this time it should be fed certain amounts of cow's milk, cereals, vegetables and meat broths.

A few don'ts for mothers: Don't feed the baby at irregular intervals; don't think the baby is ill because it cries at times, it should cry occasionally; don't think it is hungry because it cries, it may have had too much; don't be always sticking your finger in its mouth hunting for teeth or allow others to do it; don't take your baby into crowds, you may be exposing it to some contagious or infectious disease; don't be afraid to give it fresh air and sunshine, it needs both, also water; don't let a soiled or wet diaper remain on the baby, change it immediately; don't tickle it to make it smile; don't handle it except when necessary; don't be afraid to wash the baby, it needs a cleansing bath every day; don't give baby a pacifier; don't let anything interfere with its regular sleep and feeding.

The death rate of whooping cough has fallen off less than that of any other children's disease in the last twenty years.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Frankfort-on-the-Main

"Frankfort-on-the-Main, which is celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of its Archaeological institute, is one of Germany's oldest cities, and now ranks among the most important commercial centers in the republic," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Beyond the bewildering maze of the old town thoroughfares, the newer portion of Frankfort makes the traveler feel as though he is in a different city. It has modern, wide boulevards, numerous well shaded public parks, modern buildings and shops of which the 'Frankfurters' are proud.

"While the Main and Rhine offer water transportation to the Netherlands and the sea, the railroads touching Frankfort lead to the important centers of Europe, and the city's industries are many. Frankfort's commercial standing is largely based upon its financial strength. Mayer Anselm, the first of the Rothschilds, hailed from Frankfort, from which he sent his five sons to corner the money markets of Europe. Since that time Frankfort has been the home of some of the world's strongest moneyed institutions.

"The ancestral home of the Rothschilds at 26 Bernestrasse, formerly Judengasse or Jew street, is preserved. During the days of Mayer Anselm, Judengasse was closed at night and on Sunday and holidays to prevent the Jews from leaving their district. The gates were torn down in 1806, when the French occupied the city.

"Frankfort lies about 24 miles up the Main river from the Rhine. The city has occupied its present site on the north bank of the river for more than 1,200 years. It was called the 'ford of the Franks' during the time of Charlemagne, who held an imperial assembly there in the eighth century. Frederick Barbarossa, who was the first reigning German king, was chosen in the Romer, which has been Frankfort's city hall for more than 500 years. It is still standing. Several emperors who succeeded him were elected after stormy sessions in the venerable building.

"From a tiny medieval town, surrounded on all but the river side by a high wall and moat, to protect its inhabitants from barbarians, Frankfort has prospered until it now is about the size of Washington, D. C.

"From early times the city maintained a position of marked independence and in the sixteenth century it became a free city. Unhampered by local principalities, it rapidly grew. The city paid tribute to the emperor alone and received his protection under which, like other free cities, it became a great center of commerce, industry and wealth.

"Frankfort was doubled in area in the fourteenth century, when 'new town,' which was also guarded by a wall, was annexed. Then when the modern metropolis was annexed a century ago the 'new town' walls were torn down and in their place a parkway and promenade were built, making a semi-circle through the heart of the city.

"Little change has taken place in the old town, which stretches along the river bank and for a few blocks inland. The cobbled, canyonlike streets are so narrow in some places that the steep gables of the gaily frescoed houses and shops on both sides meet over the narrow passageway and form a canopy. And they are so crooked that one can seldom see more than a city block before they veer off in another direction.

"Now and then there is a square into which many of the streets converge. In one of these squares the Gothic cathedral, one of the few architectural gems of Frankfort, reposes. Its 300-foot tower can be seen far up and down the river and across the fertile plain in which the city lies. The cathedral was founded in 852 and parts of its present construction date back to 1235. Before its altar the emperors who were chosen at the Romer were crowned.

"Paul's Kirche (church) occupies another of these open spaces, while on the edge of the old town, almost encircled by the parkway and promenade, stands the magnificent opera house in the Italian Renaissance. Near by is the home of Goethe. It has been carefully restored and preserved. Adjoining the house, the Goethe museum in the building where the poet was born contains an interesting collection of portraits and souvenirs."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Some Questions

Mr. Editor: As I have shown the following figures, which were taken from the Council Journal of the city of Norwich, Conn., to a great many taxpayers of said city, and they requested me to publish the figures so that the general public might know about them and other figures that I have. So with your permission I would like to use a small space of your paper to publish the following figures, and ask a few questions.

I notice that the year ending at midnight, May 14, 1923, (which was the first year Milo Waters was mayor, and Patrick F. Sweeney was alderman for his first year), the public works department paid Alderman Sweeney five bills during the entire year which totalled $538.81, and the largest bill paid him was for $237.96, which was paid him for Aug. 1922, and I find Aug. 1926 he was paid for one bill by the public works department $1,678.39, and Sept. 1926 he was paid $1,634.24 by the same department (which is more than three times as much as the entire year ending in 1923), and I find for the year ending at midnight May 14, 1927 the public works department paid Alderman Sweeney 12 bills, one every month during the year. The 12 bills totalled $8,707.16.

Now I would like to have somebody in authority tell me and other taxpayers what we have received from him for that increase. I find the entire amount of bills paid by the public works department for June 1923 to have been $8,865.72 and I find that the bills paid by the same department for the month of June 1927 to have been $31,785.74 which is an increase of nearly four times as much in five years.

So is it a wonder that our taxes are where they are, and that we cannot borrow any more money and be within the laws of the state.

I would like somebody in authority to answer this letter, so that the taxpayers will understand the cause of this enormous increase and know what we are receiving for our money.

Now the questions that I would like to ask are as follows:

How many of the public works department have known about Mr. Sweeney's bills before they were paid?

Didn't we have a different street commissioner in the year ending May 1923 than we have now?

How much did Main street tarvia improvement cost us?

Why are all the bills in connection with the special appropriation for Main street made at a specially called city meeting mixed in with the regular bills of the public works department?

GEORGE E. PITCHER.

Norwich, Feb. 1, 1928.

Former Norwich Leaders

Jedediah Huntington.

From Norwich Bulletin, Mar. 25, 1878.

We are called upon to announce the removal by death of one of our oldest and most widely known citizens. Jedediah Huntington, after a sudden and brief illness, died at his residence on Washington street at about 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Mr. Huntington was born in Norwich on the 13th of September, 1791. He was the youngest son of Levi Huntington, also a native of our town, who was a leading merchant here for many years, and who is spoken of in the annals of that time as "one of the most active and successful of the enterprising men of Norwich, during the period following the revolution." The subject of this sketch was but a lad when his father died.

From the early part of this century until the close of our second war with England, he resided in Troy, N. Y., with his brother-in-law, Guilford Young. He then returned to Norwich and embarked in business in the stores that occupied the site of the present freight depot of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad company with his nephew, the late John G. Huntington, until he entirely retired from business in 1836. In all his business enterprises he was eminently successful, and this success may be attributed not only to his energy, enterprise and constant devotion to his business pursuits, but to the enviable reputation that he enjoyed for his unbending integrity.

In June, 1819, Mr. Huntington married Eliza, youngest daughter of the late Judge Marvin of New London. She was a lady with a warm heart and an open hand, and the poor and afflicted were ever drawn toward her by her deep and tender sympathy for them. Mr. and Mrs. Huntington lived together for more than fifty years, she dying in March, a year ago. They celebrated their golden wedding in June, 1869.

The confidence that the public placed in Mr. Huntington is exhibited on the relations that he sustained to the money and other corporations of our city. He was for nearly half a century a director in the Norwich bank. He was a trustee and director of the Society for Savings from its organization; and one of the projectors and managers of the Norwich Water Power company. He took an active part in building the railroad from Norwich to Worcester; and when the company of which he was director was near sinking under pecuniary embarrassment he united with a few others in lending his personal credit to sustain that of the corporation, and in that way secured the success of the enterprise.

But Mr. Huntington had made a deeper and more lasting impression upon the regard of our community, by the liberality which he has exhibited in his large and frequent donations during the last thirty years to religious and benevolent objects, principally connected with the church to which he was attached, and of which he was ever an unswerving supporter. His gifts to religious and charitable institutions are not to be measured by thousands but tens of thousands of dollars.

And the feeling which he ever exhibited, that he was but a steward to dispense the means with which providence had blessed him, was exhibited in the final disposition that he made a large share in his estate. We learn from reliable sources that by his last will and testament, he has given the beautiful place, which has been the residence of himself and wife for nearly forty years, as a home for indigent females, and has appropriated $35,000 as a fund for its support. It is to be called the Mrs. Huntington Memorial Home, as a tribute to his wife, who, during her last illness, expressed an earnest desire that a portion of his estate which she would have received had she survived him, should be appropriated to found such an institution.

We hear also, that he has given other large sums to other public objects, which we presume, are equally meritorious. The organization and management of the Memorial Home, we learn, he has placed in the hands of his executors, John T. Wait, James A. Hovey and Jedediah Huntington, and the rectors of Christ and Trinity churches.

The faces of the aged couple, so often seen riding together through our streets, will not so soon be forgotten, especially by hundreds of the poor who were recipients of their charity. They will be laid to their last sleep in our beautiful cemetery on the banks of the Yantic; and those who, in passing their resting place, recall their many acts of kindness and disinterested liberality, will gratefully exclaim, "Peace to their ashes and blessings on their memory."

POWER RATE CHARGE TO BENEFIT CITY'S CUSTOMERS

Customers using electric power from the City gas and electric department have just received notice of the new rate schedule which was adopted this week by the gas and electric commissioners, available only to customers having demands of 50 Kv. a. or more.

The new rate has been adopted after an investigation worked out by an engineer for the department and an engineer for the Manufacturers' association, who have been making a study of the question for some time.

According to the notice the rate is constituted of a demand charge plus an energy charge. The demand charge of $2.50 for the first Kv. a., per Kv. a. $2.50; and for all additional, per Kv. a. $1.50. The energy charge is 3 cents per Kw. hr. for the first 30 Kw. hrs. of demand per month, and 1 cent per Kw. hr. for all additional energy.

There are regulations as to discount, minimum bill and special ruling where the total use of energy for lighting purposes is less than 25 per cent of the total consumption.

General Manager C. W. Taggart stated Wednesday that the effect of the change in rate would be a decrease in gross receipts of the department of about $15,000 yearly. As far as customers are concerned, the change would affect them in proportion to the amount of energy used and in some cases might mean a 20 per cent reduction from present charges.

A brand new list of public spirited citizens who are known to be interested in the boys and their work has been compiled and carefully checked over. The complete list of the team workers will be published on Saturday morning.

Two thousand copies of the annual report are being distributed. Chairman of the Finance Committee L. M. Crandall made the statement Wednesday that he felt that there was hardly a person in Norwich who wouldn't be willing to help in at least two or three cents a day to five and $10 a year to help the present generation of boys to grow into manhood, justifying a much greater investment. He was rather emphatic in his statement that he does believe that the people of Norwich do care something about the environment in which the boys of their neighborhood grow up, that he felt sure that with the full coperation of the team workers and the public spirited citizens the campaign could be finished in one day although the schedule calls for a three day campaign.

President Charles Colt stated that the entire organization has been tremendously enthused and is greatly appreciative of the many fine comments that have come in from commercial, fraternal, civic and religious bodies in the way of commendation of the splendid work being done by the scout movement.

The following are indicative of the spirit of appreciation in these letters:

Mr. Charles Colt,
185 Broadway,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Mr. Colt:

I am pleased to give you my personal and unqualified endorsement to the annual Boy Scout campaign.

Whatever else may be said of our time, this is pre-eminently the children's age. Our own community, and many others in common with it, are becoming educated to the fact that no finer investment of its funds can be made than in the training of our boys for the type of manhood for which your organization stands,—a manhood that is clean, upright and noble.

Wishing you every success, I remain

Cordially and sincerely yours,
CHARLES L. STEWART.

My Dear Capt. Colt:

It is ever a pleasure to the ministers to express their interest in the life of the boys.

It is an added pleasure to commend the efforts of those who work with boys.

It is certainly a marked satisfaction to publicly recognize the influence of the Boy Scouts as a potent factor in making a healthy public sentiment in the community.

It's a fine thing to get a little better acquainted as we try to work together to make our town and city just a little better from year to year and the Ministers' association is happy to proffer a word of greeting to the Boy Scouts.

A. N. FOSTER, President.
Norwich Ministers Association.

Scout Executive Fred J. Bielefield, Jr., feels sure that the arrangements this year with the increased activities of the past year and the splendid interests shown in the work and a larger file of prospects make it certain that the financial budget will be completed within three days' period. This will guarantee a further expansion for the Scout program in the current year.

MINE WORKER EXPLAINS SITUATION IN PENNSYLVANIA

The soft coal miners in Pennsylvania are not on strike. They are being locked out by the coal operators, said Walter James of the United Mine Operators of America in an address which he delivered Wednesday evening at an open meeting of the Norwich Central Labor union at Carpenter's hall. Mr. James was one of two speakers who addressed the open meeting. He was introduced to the gathering by William Donohue who presided at the meeting. Mr. James, he said, has been assigned to this state to carry to the people of Connecticut the true story of the coal strike and the object of his visit here is to secure aid, financial and otherwise, for the families of the miners who are literally starving.

We have been practically all over the state, carrying the message of the soft coal strike, he said. You have seen big headlines in your newspapers that the soft coal miners are on strike, he said. The miners in Pennsylvania are not on strike. They are being locked out by the operators. In 1924, February 15th the operators' association met at Jacksonville, Fla., with two representatives of the United States government. They met to negotiate a wage contract. They agreed with the approval of the United States government to the present wage scale which is identical to the contract of 1919-1923.

After the conference President Coolidge wrote President John L. Lewis commending the wonderful achievement of the conference in settling on a contract to run three years. August 15, 1925, the Pittsburgh Coal Co., posted notices that thereafter the Pittsburgh Coal Co., would cease to do business with the United Mine Workers of America, and that those who wanted to accept a 33 1-3 per cent reduction in wages could leave their tools at the mines and those who didn't want to accept the decrease could take their tools out. The miners were aggrieved. The president of the United States was appealed to but said that he did not see why the government should interfere.

The Pittsburgh Coal company started to import non-union miners. The Pittsburgh Coal company has told the press that they can't compete with West Virginia. Illinois, my own state, has not only West Virginia to compete with, but Kentucky and Tennessee as well. The Pittsburgh Coal company is selling its coal at from $6 to $6.50 a ton. It cost them not more than 20 to 25 cents a ton.

Some of the miners in southern West Virginia are working for $2 to $2.50 a day for a 9 and 10 hour day. Can you imagine a man working at one of the most dangerous occupations in the world for $2.50 a day? My God, I don't see how they exist.

I defy any man, no matter how bright he is, no matter who he is, to show me one law in Pennsylvania that pertains to the general welfare of the working man in that state. In Illinois a man must work for two years around the mine, on top, before he can go down into the mine as a full fledged miner. There is no such law in the state of Pennsylvania.

The state constabulary have been taken from the northern part of Pennsylvania to central Pennsylvania for the direct purpose of protecting the scabs working at the mines. Of 50,000 miners out of work, owing to the lock out, not 50 of them have broken ranks yet.

We have proof to show that between 75 per cent and 80 per cent of the coal and iron police working for the Pittsburgh Coal company have penitentiary or jail records. We have appealed to the governor of Pennsylvania against such conditions but have secured no relief. We have proof that the coal and iron police have exploded bombs in order to keep their $10 a day jobs. People, Americans at that, have been evicted from their homes. Sick people have been put out and some of them have died the same night.

The United Mine Workers have spent thousands of dollars to build barracks to provide shelter for the little children of the miners and the miners' wives. Some of the miners have families of 14 children. Many of the children are without shoes and stockings. The people have been very generous over the country. These people still need help.

The miner's wages, in a peak year, averages $1,220. Out of this wage he has to furnish his own tools and his own cap light, carbide or electric. This means an expense of about $200. That leaves him about $1,000 a year. The suffering children and the women are the ones I am pleading for. I am pleading in the name of humanity.

Three days before I came to Connecticut I witnessed 300 families evicted from their homes. Their furniture was not only moved from the houses, but thrown out. If congress gives us an investigation, I want all of you to read it. We will come out with facts, said Mr. James in conclusion.

Previous to Mr. James' address there was a stirring talk by John J. Egan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, on what the labor movement is doing and is trying to accomplish.

At the conclusion of the two addresses Mr. Donahue stated that he hoped the union men present would carry the message of the soft coal miners' situation to the local unions and would endeavor to aid the mine workers and their families through financial and other assistance as much as they can.

There was a fair sized attendance at the meeting and there would without doubt have been many more present had weather conditions been better.

HEYDLER PAYS TRIBUTE TO HUGHEY JENNINGS

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)— Tribute to Hughey Jennings as "one of the most lovable characters of the game," was paid today by John Heydler, president of the National league in commenting on Jennings' death.

"Jennings was not only one of the great players of the game of all time but he was one of the mots lovable characters of the game," said Heydler. "All followers of baseball mourn his passing. There was one play he used to make time and again while shortstop for the old Orioles that I don't believe was ever excelled, if equalled by any infielder of them all. With the opposition runner on first and all set to steal, the batsman never could tell who was going over to second to take the catcher's throw. That Oriole infield remained set until after the ball was either hit or the catcher had it in his hands ready to throw. Then if the runner tried for second it would be Jennings who would dart over to take the throw. He would snare the ball in one outstretched hand while on the run and clap it on the runner all in one deft lightning-quick motion and he hardly ever missed his man. That play stands out still in my memory as one of the classics of the diamond."

KAPITKE AND MISS COSKER WIN STATE SKATING TITLES

HARTFORD, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Fred Kapitke, of Hartford, and Miss Helen Coeker, also of Hartford, captured the Connecticut skating championships for men and women Tuesday in the opening event of the municipal skating carnival. Kapitke, winning the 440-yard and the three mile events finished second in the half, three quarters and mile race to account for 120 points and his title. Miss Coeker won all three events for women, scoring 90 points.

Fred Fullin, of Norwalk, finished second in the championship standing with 70 points; G. L. Milton, of Hartford, "Babe" Murray, of Hartford and Thomas Tasker, of Hartford tied for third place in the men's division with 50 points each while in the women's division, Mrs. Jennie Englemann, of Hartford was second to Miss Coeker with 40 points, Mary Fallon, of Hartford, third with 30 and Elsie Trinks, of Hartford and Bernice Britain, of Springfield, tied for fourth with ten points each.

JENNINGS PEER OF SHORTSTOPS—CONNIE MACK

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1—(AP)—Hughey Jennings was the peer of all shortstops of his time, in the opinion of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"Hughey was a man's man, loved by all who knew him, and I am certainly sorry to hear of his death," said Mack. "He was a great player in his day and was the peer of all shortstops of his time. As a manager he was loved by all who came in contact with him for his fair dealings and good sportsmanship."

Mack recalled an incident which he said demonstrated Jennings' great resourcefulness when the Detroit franchise in the American league was once threatened. President Ban Johnson had suspended Ty Cobb for climbing into the New York grandstand and striking a spectator. Sympathetic players went on strike until Cobb was reinstated. Meanwhile Detroit had a game scheduled here and unless Jennings had placed a team on the field his franchise would have been forfeited. Hughey recruited a bunch of prep school boys who played the game, lost by a big score, but saved the franchise.

'BOUT SPORTS

The return of Paddy O'Connor to manage the Hartford Eastern league club, as announced this morning, means much to the fans of the Insurance City. Interest in baseball in that city should stage a big revival with this bit of news for it was O'Connor, with the help of Lou Gehrig and others who gave the Capital city fans their last chance to get real excited over the baseball race. Lou Gehrig has attributed a great part of his success to the training he received from this old master in his Eastern league days and it may be that O'Connor as he returns to an active part in baseball will have some more big league prospects to start on their way up the ladder.

Examinations have grabbed the larger part of the spotlight at the Academy this week but after today it will be all basketball for the local's major test of the year comes Saturday night at the Y with Windham. Windham is favored to win but if the Academy continues to show improvement there is no telling what may happen. Last year Windham had it easy in the first game of the annual series. That was played at the Y gym but when the quintets went to Willimantic the Red and White gave their more experienced rivals plenty to do and Windham had plenty of work to win. In this, their third meeting in basketball, the margin may continue down the line in the Academy's favor and local fans are hoping that it will have dropped enough for a win.

Windham has an offer from Bristol High, state champs, for a game at Bristol Friday night. She would have liked to accept but seeing as how the Academy game is the next night it now looks like Windham will pass up this chance.

Bulkeley, down in New London, looks to have somewhat of a basketball team after all. William R. Canty, baseball and football mentor at the school has sort of unofficially taken the court squad under his wing and is carefully grooming it for a second meeting with the Academy in the Whaling City.

AMERICAN LEAGUE APPROVES 1928 SCHEDULE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. —(AP)— Club owners of the American league approved the 1928 schedule of the American league, and a $1,000 cash award to all future winners of the "most valuable player" contest today, and began consideration of the perennial draft problem.

The draft conference of French Lick, in January 1927, was revived and after debate of several hours was referred back to the advisory board. League spokesmen said the failure to get this French Lick report before the Dallas convention of the minor leagues last December, was the cause of the minors' mild insurrection over the draft at that time. Since then the minors have voted to withdraw their ultimatum to the majors and the big five minors, which would have compelled the big five to accept the universal draw of players without restrictions, such as the smaller minors operate under now.

Six players have been awarded the annual honor of "most valuable player" to his team, since the league began this custom in 1922. Heretofore the player received only an engrossed diploma, but future recipients will get a $1,000 check. Past winners have been George Sisler, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Roger Peckinpaugh, George Burns and Lou Gehrig. Two years ago three veterans were also given diplomas for honors won before the custom was inaugurated, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins.

One of the Dallas minor league suggestions, on the drafting of umpires as players are drafted was brought up today but no action was taken.

Y EMPS MEET FITCHVILLE ROVERS AT Y GYM TONIGHT

The Y Emps have the Fitchville Rovers, a newly organized team, as their opponent for the weekly game at the Y gym tonight. This team comes with plenty of ballyho and has been practicing long and hard for this first game.

The team was recently put together at a meeting of the Fitchville Sporting club and intends to campaign through eastern Connecticut for the remainder of the season.

The Emps will lineup with Economus and Ogulnick at the forwards, Diachyshyn at center and Murphy and Sussmana at guards while the visitor's lineup has not been divulged. The game starts at 8 p. m.

In the preliminary the Kappa club of the Senior Church league will meet the fast travelling Mebs of New London. This game should furnish real action throughout.

JACK DELANEY TO STRIVE HARD FOR TUNNEY BOUT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 1—(AP)—"I'm glad" was Jack Delaney's comment today when he was informed that he had been nominated as one of the four men to compete for the right to meet Gene Tunney in a title bout next June.

"I'll work my head off for a chance to get at Tunney. I'm in tip top shape and could even give Tunney a good battle right now," he declared with boundless enthusiasm.

"Dempsey was and still is one of the greatest fighters that ever lived and in his prime he was invincible," was the praise which the former light heavyweight champion of te wrld bestowed on Jack Dempsey.

Delaney is carded to meet Tom Heeney in Madison Square Garden on March 1. At present he has only one tune-up bout in view, meeting Leo Gates in Rochester on February 13.

STRONG CARD FOR PASTIME'S BOUTS

Save for that of the New York team, the list of entries for the Pastime A. C. amateur boxing show Friday night at Olympic hall, there will be representatives from Danielson, New London, Willimantic and New York via Lebanon in addition to the locals, for this card, which bids fair to be one of the strongest ever lined up by the local promotors.

The three weeks' layoff of pugilistics has only tended to increase interest among local fans, it seem, and that there will be a packed house now seems most probable. Ladies will not be admitted free at this show it has been announced but it is hoped that this will not cut down on the attendance.

The promoters handed out their lists of entries received up to Wednesday night for the show as follows: Danielson, Kid Gravelin, 150; Al Bogash 140; Kid Arthur, 125; Tony Geno, 136; Young Rignell, 132. New London, Young Jennis, 134; Young Hooper, 126; Al Burrows, 120; Young McCluer, 125; and two other boys. Willimantic, Dunn, 134; Belanger, 120; Grimes, 150; Connors, 140; Lynch, 135. Norwich, Vic Darr, 134; Mush Moriarty, 145; Young Hudson, 145; Young Mitchell, 126; Johnny Dart, 110; Boots Lary, 126 and a few others including a boy from the West Side who is training at the Smoke Shop and who will have undivided support from the West Side. Young Polinski, the old favorite from Colchester will also be on hand as will also the Lebanon team, of course.

Among the local boys interest will probably fall greatly on Boots Lary, who will be staging a comback this time after ending up on the canvas in his last appearance. Boots states that he will show them all this time that something was out of place three weeks ago, and, he wants only the toughest customer that can be selected for an eopopnnt.

Practically all the boys have finisher their heavy training. Today will see some light work on the bags and a bit of roadwork to put them in first-class shape. The New York team is expected at Schiller's camp in Lebanon today and they will taper off some stiff training, which has been goinfi on down in the metropolis, with roadwork late this afternoon.

PLAINFIELD PROS LOSE TO COLORED GIANTS IN FAST GAME, 23 TO 18

The deceptive passing of the Quaker city Giants and the consistent speed of the Philadelphia boys won the game from the Plainfield team last night at the Community house in Plainfield by the score of 23 to 18.

With Captain Berthards of the Giants taking the honors of carrying the ball through the line of the Plainfield boys and Center Cooper scoring the most points the fast work of the Giants overwhelmed the Plainfield team throughout the game.

Normandin started the game off with a foul goal followed closely by a field goal to take the lead. Berthards after carrying the ball half way across the floor managed to drop one into the basket to tie the score.

The Quaker City lads took the lead after Cooper the six foot two inch center dropped the ball into the net for a three to two score against the Plainfield boys. Dissenger shot a foul goal to tie the score only to be outscored a few minutes later by the Giants when Mitchell, from about three-quarters of the distance of the floor, made a perfect shot to the basket to take the lead from Plainfield, who were unable to overcome the lead for the rest of the game.

Berthards Is Star.

Captain Berthards won the admiration of the crowd with his uncanny passing and his ability to carry the ball through all kinds of opposition. Although he only scored four points in the game practically all the baskets were made possible through his ability to carry the ball past all kinds of opposition. The close playing together of the Giants and their wonderful passing between themselves practically won the game.

Cooper, the giant center of the Giants and Bethals the speed boy took the honors for the first half for high scorer while Bernot led for Plainfield with two field goals and two fouls.

The score at the first half was 14 to 10 in favor of the Brooklyn Giants. The second half started off with a vengeance. Every Plainfield man covered his man closely with the idea to keep the colored boys from increasing their score. Brusso took Normandin's place at right forward and Benson relieved Madden at right guard. Chambers the fast right forward of the Giants, started the second half with a field goal after five minutes of play. Brusso, taking Normandin's place came through with a field goal to bring the score up to sixteen to nineteen in favor of the Quaker City lads. Yancy, after making two foul goals and increasing the score to twenty one passed the ball to Bethals again who droppe it into the net to increase the lead to sixteen.

Plainfield, playing hard in the second half to catch up, took some long shots and played a desperate game, but to no avail. Cooper made the last score with a perfect basket for the final score of 23 to 18.

The Plainfield Buddies beat the Willimantic All-Stars in the preliminary 37 to 13.

Lou Gehrig's All-Stars will play at the Community house next Wednesday.

LATE BASEBALL NEWS

Andy Cohen Signs

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Andy Cohen, young second baseman whom John McGraw considers the most likely successor to Rogers Hornsby, today signed a contract with the New York Giants for 1928. A Texas product, Cohen starred with Buffalo last season in the International league where he was shipped by the Giants for further seasoning.

Lining up of Cohen gives Manager McGraw a complete infield under contract with Bill Terry, first baseman, Travis Jackson, shortstop, and Freddy Lindstrom, third sacker, already in the fold. Cohen's chief opposition in the race to fill the shoes of Hornsby, traded to Boston for Catcher Francis Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welsh, is expected from Andy Reese, another infield fledgling.

Connie Mack Leaves for South

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, departed today for Mount Plymouth, Fla., where he expects to enjoy a few daily rounds of golf before joining the advance guard of the White Elephants in their winter training quarters at Fort Myers, on February 20.

Before leaving, Mack said he had made no definite offer to Tris Speaker, released by the Washington Senators, but promised some news regarding Speaker by Friday or Saturday.

Reds Release Two

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Walter Christensen, outfielder and Roy Meeker, pitcher, were released today by the Cincinnati Reds to the Columbus club of the American association on option, President McDiamid of the Reds announced.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

BUILDING UP THE GARDEN SOIL

Building up the soil and keeping it built up is the first task of a successful gardener. It is a task that can be started right now while the soil is frozen. Gardeners are now dependent to a great extent for stable manure upon the prepared material from the stockyards and great packing plants of the country which supply pulverized sheep manure and shredded cow manure which are retailed by seed houses.

They have the advantage of being dry and more agreeable to handle than the wet strawy manure hauled directly from the stable and are more easily distributed over the garden. In being almost free of strawy material there is more fertilizing value and less waste than in the stable product and also a ton of the dry prepared manure goes much farther than a ton of the wet material as it is usually delivered.

Shredded cow manure may be spread over the garden now to be spaded in when the ground is workable in the spring. It is an excellent idea to give the hardy perennials and shrubbery a coating at this time and it is particularly valuable as a dressing for the lawn distributed lightly to be washed down to the roots of the grass by the spring thaws. It may be used much more advantageously than stable manure as it is comparatively of weed seeds.

The pulverized sheep manure is the stronger fertilizer of the two, but as it has less substance it is better to save it until the plants have started into growth. Pulverized poultry manure is now available at times. It is the most powerful fertilizer of all and must be used sparingly when plants are in growth as it may burn them. It may be sprinkled on the garden now to good advantage so that its strength will be diluted and distributed.

If the soil is inclined to be acid or is of heavy clay texture, it may be limed at any time now. Lime is useful in helping to break up the heavy texture of clay soils.

KNOW YOUR TIMBER.

It pays to know the volume of timber in a farm woodland before making a sale, says the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture. If the farmer does not know how to estimate standing timber, he would do well to call in expert assistance, which can often be obtained through the county agent or state extension forester. The value of such an estimate is shown by the experience of a woodland owner in Williamson County, Tenn. The highest bid which he received for his tract of hardwood timber before it was estimated was $2,700, which he was inclined to accept. However, he employed an experienced cruiser to estimate the timber and assist him in finding other bidders. Within three months the tract was sold for $6,500, half in cash and half due in six months. The cruiser charged $500 for his services, and the owner thus netted $6,000, or $3,300 more than he would have obtained without securing assistance.

CHECKING THE ASIATIC BEETLE.

Experience with various destructive insect pests that have gained a foothold in this country from elsewhere indicates that prompt control work when these pests are discovered doing damage may prevent a serious condition a few years later. Increasing damage caused by the Asiatic beetle in Connecticut and southern Long Island has led to a cooperative control project, carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State of Connecticut, aimed especially at reducing infestation in the vicinity of New Haven, where the insect was discovered several years ago. The larvae feed on the roots of grasses and other plants and cause the complete destruction of sod on lawns as well as injury to perennial plants, such as iris, peony and phlox. This insect is related to the Japanese beetle and its life history is somewhat similar.

The control treatment used consisted in the application of emulsified carbon disulphide to the soil, as is done for the control of the Japanese beetle larvae in lawns. In all, 866 properties, covering about 43 acres, were treated. Thirty-eight thousand pounds of concentrated carbon-disulphide emulsion and over 800,000 gallons of water were used. The soil treatment has been very effective in reducing the number of grubs throughout this area.

Several parasites imported from the Orient which are effective on the Japanese beetle are also effective on the Asiatic beetle, and a number of these have been released in the heavily infested areas on Long Island.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER.

Farm woodlands often contain many crooked, forked or diseased trees which should give way to straight and sound ones. Following an improvement cutting or thinning, good trees show an increased growth and by selecting the inferior trees for cutting the whole woodland is increased in value.

Each year about 2,000,000 lease contracts for the use of farm land are either made or renewed. It is safest for both tenant and landlord to have the lease in writing. If operating under a verbal lease there is all the more reason for a renewal in writing, for both landlord and tenant have had a year in which to forget the agreement they made originally.

The better the dairy herd the more need for care in the selection of a sire. With a herd of low-producing cows, whether purebreds or grades, any purebred sire is likely to breed daughters that will give more milk and more butterfat than their dams. But when a herd of cows averages a butter production of 400 pounds or more a year, further increases cannot be expected in the daughters unless the sire is of a high-producing strain and has been tested for the production record of his daughters. At the close of 1927 there were 200 "proved" bulls in the United States. About 2,000 others were partially proved.

In almost all the United States west of a line from western Louisiana to east central Nebraska and north of the lower line of the Great Lakes, spring transplanting of trees is preferable to fall. Transplanting should be done while the trees still are dormant. After planting it is wise to prune the trees to remove from one-half to three-fourth of the leaf buds. Broken pieces or root ends should be removed with a clean cut of a sharp knife. When ends are cut from branches the cut should be just above the bud and the remaining bud should point in the direction it is desired the limb shall grow.

Liquid "lice killers," widely advertised a few years ago as being effective when applied to the roots of poultry houses, in a large measure have been withdrawn from the market because the department of agriculture tested them and notified the manufacturers they were not valuable and should not be sold as advertised. Now the department is conducting a similar campaign against preparations represented as killing lice and other poultry parasites when administered in feed and drinking water. These are ineffective and advertisements of such preparations are regarded as fraudulent.

MORE FEED MEANS MORE WINTER EGGS

D. C. Kennard of the Ohio Experiment station offers the following pertinent suggestions to poultrymen who may not be fully satisfied with the present egg production of their flocks.

Profitable winter egg production is always associated with heavy feed consumption. The amount of feed consumed is a direct index to rate of production. When the feed consumption of a flock is heavy it means the majority of the birds either are or soon will be laying.

A hen requires five or six pounds of feed a month just to live. For profitable egg production she must eat about a pound more. Whether the birds are induced to eat the extra pound a month depends largely upon the ration and method of feeding. Little profit comes from the first five pounds of feed unless the extra pound is also consumed. The profit, therefore, comes mostly from the additional one pound per month. Hence profitable egg production, especially during winter, depends largely on how much feed the poultry keeper can induce the fowls to eat.

Feed a complete ration — A ration deficient in any respect lessens the fowl's appetite.

Employ a mash the birds like—The palatability of a mash depends upon the ingredients and their quality. A mash made mostly of granular material is more readily consumed than when finely ground.

Use a suitable type of mash feeder and supply 20 to 24 feet of eating space for each 100 layers. The real mash feeders made seven to 11 inches wide and four inches deep on inside, are well adapted for this purpose.

Feed fresh mash daily in the evening in about the amount that will be consumed before the next feeding. The birds relish fresh mash and if it is fed in the evening they will go to roost with better filled crops. During severe winter weather a small amount of fresh mash can be fed to advantage in the morning and at noon.

Milk in some form is an appetizer and usually aids in securing greater feed consumption. It is also a valuable addition to the ration for its nutritive properties.

Lights in the poultry house aid in securing increased feed consumption by making the days longer. Any of the methods for use of lights may be employed to advantage.

Moist mash may prove beneficial, especially if skillfully used. The skill and extra labor necessary for success with moist mash may make its use questionable, in some instances. Moist mash fed without the proper skill and judgment often does more harm than good, however, if properly managed, a moist mash can be used to considerable advantage for the layers during the later summer, fall and winter months.

Reddy's Plan Works Out.

A plan works out, 'twould sometimes seem,
The opposite of what we dream.
—Reddy Fox.

Certainly Reddy Fox never dreamed that his plan for catching Peter Rabbit would work out the way it did. You see, it seemed to be working just the way he wanted it to. As a matter of fact, it was. There sat Peter, motionless, and around and around him walked Reddy Fox. Each circle that he made was a little smaller than the one before. So, of course, each time that Reddy went around he was a little nearer to Peter. Apparently Peter was so curious over what Reddy was doing that he didn't see that Reddy was drawing nearer and nearer.

Reddy was almost near enough to rush Peter. In fact, he was near enough. The nearest place where Peter would be safe, that Reddy could see, was the dear Old Briar-patch. This was too far away for Peter to get there before Reddy could overtake him. But Reddy wanted to take no chances. As long as Peter showed no signs of alarm Reddy would keep on walking around.

"Peter is stupider than I thought for," thought Reddy, as he drew within three or four good jumps. "The idea of letting me walk as near to him as this! Why, I'll have him before he knows what's happening. I'm not more than three good jumps from him now. Hello! He's getting uneasy. He's beginning to get suspicious. It is now or never!"

With this Reddy suddenly turned toward Peter and jumped straight at him. He wasn't but two good jumps away. Yet he didn't catch Peter. Peter had utterly disappeared. He had disappeared as completely as if he had never been there. You never in all your days have seen anyone so surprised as was Reddy Fox. His plan had worked perfectly, but it hadn't ended the way he had expected it to. Here he was staring into a hole in the snow, a hole that he had forgotten all about. Somewhere down inside was Peter Rabbit. It was perfectly useless to dig for beneath the snow the ground was frozen.

Such a foolish looking fox as Reddy was! He understood now why Peter Rabbit had been so unconcerned. He understood now why Peter had allowed him to get so near. Probably somewhere down below there Peter was laughing at him this very minute. Reddy ground his teeth. He was angry, he was disappointed and he was chagrined.

Then a sudden thought came to Reddy. "How came that hole to be open?" It had been sealed the last time he was that way. He sniffed and his nose told him something. His nose told him that Johnny Chuck had been out that very day. Johnny must have opened the door from the inside and come out for a look around. Probably Peter had seen him sitting on his doorstep and this is what had taken Peter over there. Then, when Peter had seen Reddy, he had felt perfectly safe. He knew that Johnny Chuck wouldn't hurt him and all he had to do was to dive down into

Johnny Chuck's house at the last minute.

Reddy snarled under his breath. Then he hastily looked this way and that way, to make sure that no one had seen him. Not for the world would he have had the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows hear how Peter had fooled him. Then, with a growl in his throat, Reddy headed straight for the Old Pasture, and this time he didn't travel in a circle.

As for Johnny Chuck, it was quite true that he had that day come out. He had waked up and, becoming uneasy, he had dug open his door and come out for a little look around. It was Candlemas Day, but Johnny didn't know that. It just happened that he came out that day for a look around. It would have been just the same if he had happened to wake up some other day. As for his shadow, Johnny didn't even look to see if he had one.

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 1—Collision with an automobile was reported from Westerly today by Conductor Oscar W. Patch, of the west-bound Mayflower express on the New Haven road, which was belated for that reason on its scheduled arrival at 10:23 a. m. While the express leaving Providence at 9:39 a. m. was passing through Chepiwanoxet, R. I., at a grade crossing the unoccupied automobile of Dr. Charles L. Phillips, 116 Main street, East Greenwich, came down hill and was wrecked when it bumped a baggage car at the head end of the train. The force was so great that the iron guards about the side door were deeply dented and some of the wreckage of the auto was carried on the running gear of the express car as far as Westerly. At Westerly, the first scheduled stop of the train after leaving Providence, Engineer J. J. Garity, reported to Conductor Patch that the crossing bells were sounding as the express passed the point. Confirmation was also made to the conductor by men who were working near this bad highway crossing and report was made to division headquarters in Providence in detail, after the express reached New London. The baggagemaster saw the auto wreckage pass by the door window and was relieved to find that no one had been injured in the collision.

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

MOTHER

A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated! Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-achs, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

DANIELSON

PLAINFIELD MAN BOUND OVER ON EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 1—George O'Neil of Plainfield, wanted here for a year and a half to answer to charges of fraud and embezzlement, was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court today and waived examination. He was represented by Attorney Irving H. Minor of Putnam. The case was continued until Friday of next week and in default of bonds of $2,000, O'Neil was taken to the county jail in Brooklyn.

The accused was taken into custody in Providence and turned over to the state officer stationed at the Danielson barracks. It is specifically charged that O'Neil disposed of an automobile that was given into his care as an automobile dealer to sell for its owner and that he never reimbursed the owner of the car.

At one time O'Neil was proprietor of a pool room in Plainfield, and he also was engaged there for a time as an automobile dealer, having an agency for new cars and handling used ones as opportunity offered. Search for him for the many months he has been missing was unavailing until he was located in Providence.

PITIFUL TALES TOLD IN TAX PAYMENT CASES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 1—This morning found plenty of business for the town court to consider, and the nice record made in January for lack of cases in the tribunal will not be duplicated in February. A long queue of persons were lined up to answer to non-payment of personal taxes charges.

Examination of some of those ordered to court brought to light pitiful tales of battling against the odds of life and debts under the most difficult circumstances. There was the man whose tax had not been paid because actually more pressing obligations came ahead of it. He came from a home in which he and his wife have shivered with no coal or wood to warm it on recent bitterly cold winter days, and because the meagerly paid job he has had until recently has been lost to him through no fault of his own.

Nine paid their overdue taxes in court today. Two others paid part of the bill their court appearance entailed and were given until March to pay the balance, which represents costs of prosecution. In other cases the recommendation of Judge W. Fenner Woodward was that they be nolled and the taxes abated, this in instances where it was demonstrated that those who owe are really so poverty-stricken that they cannot pay.

In another instance a man who had come to be regarded as being very averse to paying personal taxes was made to pay for four years back, with costs, a total of $20.37. This same man on Tuesday of this week was served with an alias warrant and made to pay still another personal tax assessment he owed the town.

Next Sunday representatives of the Danielson Rod and Gun club will be in Norwich for a conference with representatives of a Rifle club of that city relative to some indoor rifle matches that likely will be shot during February. The plan is set for two shoot two matches a month until spring, one match to be at home, the other away and with some team in the league. Danielson favors a five man team in preference to a team of eight men. Plans for getting rifle shots here together for the formation of a team were gone over last evening in the rooms of the Bohemian club at a meeting to which rifle shots generally were invited.

It appears to be in the program of things that Danielson shall have a fire marshal. This is one of the matters that will get consideration from the special committee of the borough that is to prepare a draft of new by-laws, which will be presented for the consideration of the voters at the annual borough meeting in April, or possibly sooner. A principal duty of a fire marshal would be to see that danger of fires is reduced. This could be brought about, as it is in a great many places, by regular inspections of properties, including cellars, to see that accumulations of rubbish and all waste and inflammable materials are promptly disposed of, in one way or another. The object of all of this is in the interest not only of the individual, but also of the general public. Properly worked out, it may mean a reduction in the fire insurance rates on certain classes of risks.

In the town court this afternoon H. Denham Arnold of Elmville was fined $5.00 and costs in a case growing out of a motor vehicle accident in which his car figured this morning, as he was coming out of the driveway at his home onto the state highway. His machine was struck by a north-bound car driven by Charles Kimball of the West Side. Mr. Arnold testified that he did not see the oncoming car when he looked down the highway with his view unobscured for upwards of 100 yards, but as the front end of his car rolled onto the highway the machine came hurtling along. He tried to drive straight across the state road to avoid being hit, and Mr. Kimball tried unavailingly to stop his machine which slid sideways on the slippery surface, but the cars crashed. Mr. Arnold suffered an injury on the forehead. Both cars were damaged. Mr. Arnold appealed from the decision this afternoon and will take the case to the superior court. Judge Woodward ruled, under the law, that Mr. Arnold has no right of way emerging from a private driveway onto a public highway. Mr. Arnold was represented at this afternoon's hearing by Attorney Harry E. Back.

The forecast is made that a real effort will be made this year to get the borough of Danielson to take some real action relative to having better sidewalks. Under its new charter Danielson has authority to authorize a comprehensive building program, and that is being urged now. Judge A. G. Bill said this morning that there is little wonder that so many people walk in the streets, to the great worry of motorists, when numbers of the streets of the borough have no sidewalks worthy of the name, and in some instances no walks at all.

There may be a variety of plans advanced for the sidewalk building program, but likely all of them will include a provision that part of the cost of construction be borne by abutting property owners, after the manner in which the borough's sewer system was built. There is also the suggestion that the borough issue sidewalk bonds, that the work of building may proceed with the speed with which conditions here demand.

Something was done about sidewalk building here two or three years ago and a considerable number of walks were put in, but the movement lost its energy and it has since been dormant.

All funds deposited in the savings department of the Windham County National bank on or before February 6th, will draw interest from February 1st.—Adv.

PUTNAM

QUICK WORK SAVES CITY HOTEL FROM BURNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 1—Local people are commenting favorably on the quick work on the part of the members of the Putnam Fire department, Tuesday evening, that prevented what might have been a serious loss, when they overcame a blaze in the City hotel in its early stages.

At about 10:30 p. m. a four stroke alarm brought out the Hook and Ladder apparatus from the central fire station. When the firemen investigated the alarm, they found that sparks from the chimney had started a fire on the roof of the building. A general alarm from Box 15 brought all companies to the scene and with the additional aid the members of the fire department quickly subdued the blaze with chemicals.

The City hotel is a wooden structure and if the blaze had got any headway, it probably would have been a very disastrous fire. The only damage done to the building was a small patch of shingles burned on the roof.

Boy Scouts of America, Troop 1, Putnam, held a very successful whist party at the Scout club on Tuesday evening. The ladies' first prize, bridge set, was won by Mrs. Alexander LePier. The ladies' consolation was taken by Mrs. P. Keane. The gentlemen's first prize was a scarf and was won by Stradis Strombelis, a member of the troop. The gentlemen's consolation was awarded to Howard Tourtellotte. After the prizes were awarded, the members of the troop served refreshments.

The second of the series of historic motion pictures entitled "Chronicles of America," will be screened at the First Congregational church on Thursday evening. The motion picture obtained for this week is "Daniel Boone's Exploits in Kentucky." The movies come to the people through the Yale University Press and attendance of students has been urged at the showing by principal E. L. Robinson of the high school. In addition to the feature the church society has secured two special features "Fishing" a picture that will appeal to the young as well as the old. Through the courtesy of the State Board of Health, there will be a reel on health habits shown. No admission will be charged at the showings.

ROTARIANS HEAR TALK ON RHEA MANUFACTURING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 1—The weekly luncheon of the Putnam Rotary club was held this noon at the Putnam Inn. The Rotarians held their regular business meeting and at the close of the meeting President Phillips introduced L. H. Mellor, superintendent of the National Rhea company, as the speaker. Mr. Mellor delivered a very interesting address on the manufacturing processes of the grassy product known as rhea. He clearly outlined each step of progress toward the finished product, and showed the members of the club samples of each step. The manufacturing of this product is a comparatively new industry in the United States, coming from Germany, and it is one of the industries in Putnam.

At a meeting of the Junior class of Putnam High school, held today, the members of the class elected a committee in charge of the annual Junior prom. The date has been set as Friday evening, April 13, in the new armory on Harris street. The class elected Charles Bove as chairman of the committee of arrangements, with Robert Bulger and Stella Barker as his assistants.

This year the annual school event will be late in the season, but since the State armory on Livery street is unsafe for any large gatherings, the class had to postpone it as no other hall was available.

Omer J. Milot, of Milot and Williams store, was in Boston Wednesday attending a meeting of the New England Clothing Dealers' association, of which he is a director.

"A Regular Scout" will be the motion picture shown at the "Friendly Evening" service at the Congregational church on Sunday evening. This movie has received full endorsement from Chief Scout Executive James E. West, of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America. The movie will be particularly appropriate for the date as the National Scout week opens on Sunday, February 8.

The "Bridge Widows" were entertained at the home of Mrs. L. H. Mellor at her home on Grove street, Monday evening. The prize was won by Mrs. Lewis T. Champlin. Next Monday evening they will be entertained by Mrs. Edward H. Burt.

Mrs. W. W. Averill, of Pleasant street, will leave for two months' stay in St. Petersburg, Florida, on February 12.

At a meeting of the directors of the Bugbee corporation held on Wednesday, the following were elected directors of the business house: George Lewis, Jr., Catherine A. Brady, Mrs. A. R. Googins, Ralph X. Bugbee and Byron D. Bugbee.

Neil J. Bulger, of 18 Farrowe street, is now connected with the Norwich Bulletin as Putnam correspondent.

ICE ONLY FIVE INCHES ON DORRVILLE POND

Ice cutting is still uncertain. There are only five inches on Dorrville pond and around the edges the ice is too thin to hold a horse and permit the snow to be scraped. This pond is very large and the high winds sweep through, breaking up the ice, whereas on a smaller, more sheltered pond, the ice forms much quicker.

The annual meeting of Whatsoever circle of the King's Daughters was held Tuesday evening. Miss Alice A. Brown was re-elected leader; Mrs. G. H. Prior, vice leader; Mrs. E. M. Gray, treasurer. The secretary is to be elected later.

MARKET HAD BAD SINKING SPELL AND THEN MADE AN IRREGULAR RECOVERY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP)—Erratic price movement, reflecting the nervousness of professional traders, characterized today's stock market. Prices opened relatively steady, advanced during the forenoon, experienced a bad sinking spell in the early afternoon and then made irregular recovery. Trading showed a tendency to slacken on the rallies and quicken on the declines. The day's sales ran over 2,000,000 shares.

Fears of increases in the Boston and Philadelphia Reserve banks rediscount rates, which proved to be unfounded, were believed to be an important factor in the day's selling. Publication of the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation, showing only $1.05 of the $1.75 common dividend earned, also had a depressing effect on speculative sentiment, although it was offset to some extent by the reported increase in the corporation's mill operations to around 89 per cent of capacity. U. S. Steel common closed 1 1-4 points net lower at 145, Colorado Fuel dropped 3 points and the other steels showed only fractional changes.

Selling of the rail started with a break of more than 5 points in Western Maryland common, which dipped to 39 3-4, and quickly embraced both investment and speculative issues. Net declines of a point or more were recorded by Atchison, Erie, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Delaware & Hudson and several others. The extremely unfavorable character of the December earnings reports, which have been showing net operating income more than 20 pr cent below the last month of 1926, has dislodged a number of stale long accounts in the railroad group.

Violent bidding for some of the pool specialities was again a feature of the day's proceedings. Montana Power jumped nearly 5 points to a new record high at 163 1-2 and then lost all but a fraction of the day's gain. Montgomery-Ward also showed a small fractional net gain after running up 2 points to a new peak at 132. Amalgamated Leather preferred, Christie Brown, Detroit Edison, Diamond Match, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, International Business Machines, Midland Steel Products preferred and Warren Bros. closed 4 to 8 points higher.

Nash Motors held steady in the face of a cut in automobile prices by that company. Studebaker, Packard and Willys Overland were fairly active on the up-side while General Motors, Hudson, Hupp and Chrysler lost ground. Unconfirmed reports that Henry Ford was having difficulty in getting into full production, owing to alleged inability to obtain accessories, were circulated as bullish propaganda on the motor group.

Oils were reactionary, reports of the smallest weekly production of crude since 1926 being offset by the publication of a poor Marland report and the recent reduction in the pure oil dividend. Atlantic Refining broke 4 points and Pure Oil, General Asphalt and Producers & Refiners declined a point or so.

Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were firm.

Foreign exchange were irregular with a 12 point jump in Spanish pesetas to 17.10 cents as the only feature. Sterling cables ruled around 4.87 3-1".

Cotton broke $1.50 to $2 a bale following the weakness of the Liverpool market where prices sank to new low levels of the season as a result of the failure of the Manchester spinners to reach an agreement on mill curtailment. Wheat was slightly firmer on reports of an improved export demand. Coffee prices advanced moderately and sugar showed little change.

EUGENE O'NEILL SELLS PEQUOT AVE. PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

EXTRADITION PAPERS ISSUED FOR MATTESON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 1—Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh went to Hartford today and obtained the signature of Governor Trumbull to extradition papers. These will result in Fred Matteson, alias Edward Jones, who is under arrest at Wickford, R. I., being brought back here to be tried on a charge of non-support. Sergeant Cavanaugh will obtain the signature of the executive of the state of Rhode Island to the instrument and then will return here with Matteson, probably tonight or tomorrow morning. Matteson refused to return to New London without the issuance of extradition papers. He was formerly employed as hostler by the late George G. Avery and latterly as coachman by Miss E. O. Jones, New York, a summer resident here, annually occupying her home, corner of Pequot and Glenwood avenues. Matteson is not believed to be the correct name of the prisoner, for although he was married under that name, he was always known when employed here as Edward Jones.

Evelyn Lynch, of Stonington; Charles Vito, 12 Shaw street; Carroll Osborn, Waterford; Mrs. John Irving, Groton and John Ryan, 22 Addison street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

McKay of Norwich, interested the members at the close of the business session with an address. A chicken supper was served.

CONN COLLEGE PRESIDENT MAY POSSIBLY RESIGN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 1—Rumor to the effect that President Benjamin T. Marshall, of Connecticut College, will resign at an early date w re brought to a head today. For some time there has been current gossip in New London that there was a rift between Mr Marshall and Allen B. Lambdin, the business manager of the college. Efforts to chase this gossip down have been without avail, as no one connected with the school appeared willing to discuss the subject.

A secret meeting of the trustees of the school was held in Hartford last week. Since that time no member of the board has openly stated just what the meeting was about. One outcome of it was the calling of the regular winter meeting of the board for Feb. 9. It is understood that important business matters are to be discussed at this meeting but just what they are no member will hint. Several members of the board and President Marshall have refused to comment on the affair. The meeting of last week at Hartford was called without Mr. Marshall's knowledge and he expressed great surprise upon learning of it.

In commenting on the nature of the "important business" to be discussed at the board meeting February 9th, President Marshall stated that there was always "important business" to be discussed at such meetings.

Whatever the situation, Mr. Lambdin states that his position in the case is strictly that of a subordinate and if any disclosures are to be made they must necessarily come from the trustees.

It has also been intimated that the special meeting called in Hartford on January 20 was the result of a difference of opinion between President Marshall and Dr. John Edwin Wells, chief of the English department of the college, as to what should be the proper requirement for freshmen in this branch of study. Neither of the two parties, however, will discuss the subject. That there has been a difference between them for four or five years has been admitted by several members of the board. A special meeting of the faculty was held at the college this afternoon and like its predecessor was a secret one.

Mrs. Sarah Louis Bruce, 65, widow of Frederick W. Bruce, died this afternoon at her residence, 5 Colt street, death being caused by general debility. Mrs. Bruce had been in failing health about two years. Her husband died about three years ago. Mrs Bruce is survived by three sons, Bertram Bruce of this city; Everett of Groton and Guy Bruce of Stamford.

The recently organized Goshen fire department responded to its first call to subdue a fire this morning when a blaze in the chimney of the residence of Henry Hedden, Waterford milkman, threatened to cause serious damage. The firemen and the new apparatus responded and the blazing soot was quickly extinguished with chemicals.

Mrs. Isabel T. Latham died yesterday afternoon at Home Memorial hospital where she had been a patient several days. She was the widow of Elmer Latham and is survived by a sister, who resides in Florida and by a niece, Mrs. Edwin G. Swanson, 382 Broad street, this city. Mrs. Latham was born in New London and had always resided in this city. She was a member of the Huntington street Baptist church.

There was no session of the police court today, making the third time within as many weeks that there have been no arrests made. A young man was taken to police headquarters last night by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh for questioning and but for the former's mental condition, which is not such as to cause him to be committed to an asylum, he would have been presented in the police court on a charge that would have carried with it upon conviction a long term in state prison, for there is no doubt that he has committed numerous acts of degeneracy. A physician was summoned and after examining the young man said that while he is undoubtedly mentally deficient, his condition was not such as would warrant ordering the man committed to Norwich state hospital. He was given over to the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

The streets, especially the sidewalks throughout the city, were in an extremely dangerous condition today, but while many slipped and fell, no serious injuries were reported. A light snow fell during the early morning hours and a cold mist followed with the result that the mist froze as fast as it fell, causing the walks to be dangerously slippery. This afternoon the force of truck drivers and shovelers were sent about the city sprinkling sand over the walks, while many property owners caused ashes or cork to be scattered over the danger spots. Other truckers and shovelers were engaged throughout the day removing snow from the business streets.

MOLLY YODNER, MONTVILLE, DISAPPEARED FROM HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 1—The state police and the New London police are seeking to ascertain the whereabouts of Molly Yodner, 15, daughter of Mrs. Louis Yodner, of Montville, who disappeared from her home today. The girl is described as being about five feet in height, has auburn hair and when she left home she wore a green dress, brown hat and coat. The first knowledge the mother had of her daughter's disappearance was when Mrs. Yodner found a note from the girl saying, "I am leaving. Don't look for me. I am not coming back." The police are inclined to the belief that the girl has gone to some male acquaintance and is being harbored by him.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Lieut. Les A. Benson, U. S. S. Baird, army mine planter, stationed at this port.

Employes of Ye London Grill, corner of State and Main street, were driven to the street at 1:30 o'clock this morning because of the bursting of a pipe of the automatic refrigerating plant, the fumes becoming so intense that the employes were in danger of suffocating if they remained in the restaurant. The first intimation of the bursting of the pipe was when the fumes began to permeate the atmosphere of the ground floor and so strong were they that waiters, chefs and kitchen workers were forced to get into the open air. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds answered the call with a recently purchased device for just such accidents. The device consists of a tube of hose attached to which is a portable pump, which is placed outside the building. With the hose attached to Edmonds' head the deputy chief entered the cellar of the building and was provided with fresh air, while he made his way to the burst pipe and shut off the flow of sulphurous fumes.

The employes of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, Pequot avenue, who have been working on part time for several weeks, are now working on full time in all departments, the entire force resuming the old schedule of hours yesterday. It is believed that a full-time schedule will be maintained from now on.

The six buildings owned by the Connecticut Power company, situated on Water and John street and recognized as among the most decrepit structures in the city and some of them enjoying the notoriety of having been the rendezvous of Negro houses of immorality for many years, will shortly be razed. The power company, which recently acquired the realty from Gager-Crawford company, has awarded the contract for the removal of the buildings to the New Haven Wrecking company. One of the buildings faces Water street and was ordered removed several weeks ago by the city council, following the condemnation of the structure by Building Inspector William Gunn. Two of the other buildings, 14 and 16 John street, have been raided by the police, probably no less than a half dozen times within a year, when blacks and whites, the latter principally sailors, were assembled.

Tomorrow night will be Past Exalted Rulers' night at the Elks club and that there will be a tremendous gathering of wearers of the antlers in attendance there is no doubt. Past exalted rulers will conduct the entire business of the meeting and the initiatory work. At the conclusion of the meeting a vaudeville entertainment and a banquet will be provided. The meeting will be held in the new lodge room, which was recently furnished throughout at a cost of $17,000.

The taxpayers of the town of Groton want an investigation of the present plan of assessment and collection of taxes and a meeting was called last night for the purpose of formulating a plan whereby every property owner would have a chance to say yea or nay on the subject. The meeting was called upon the petition of Napoleon P. Nicolette and 27 other taxpayers. A resolution was adopted to the effect that a committee of seven representative taxpayers be appointed to investigate the existing methods of assessments and collection of taxes. It was unanimously voted to lay the whole question upon the table for open debate and much data as to systems existing in other towns was quoted. Selectman C. E. Whaley was chairman of the meeting and Town Clerk H. L. Bailey acted as clerk. An address on the subject was delivered by Herman Johl.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Today is Candlemas day—the feast of the Purification of St. Mary the Virgin, or the Presentation of Christ in the Temple.

This is also the day when, according to one of the most ancient and widespread superstitutions, the groundhog comes forth to foretell winter's length.

Colonel Lindbergh, according to his schedule, will pass his birthday anniversary by making a flight of 75 miles from the island of St. Thomas to Porto Rico.

To those living in sections where snow has been abundant this winter it may be of interest to learn that 70 years ago today Arctic gaiters were patented by a Bostonian.

A reception to the senators and representatives of congress and their families will be given by the President and Mrs. Coolidge at the white house this evening.

TOWN BUDGET FIGURE IS FIXED AT $443,500

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 1—The annual budget meeting of the Westerly town council with the various town officers, committees, commissions and department heads, was held last evening. Town Treasurer James M. Fendleton presented his financial statement and estimates of some twenty town funds were received. Department heads made their reports and the recommendations for their needs for the fiscal year. The tax commissioners' report on the income which can be expected when the town taxes are levied.

After a three hour session and before Councilman Farquahar Smith moved for the council to go into executive session for the discussion of salary apportionments and other matters, it was voted that the council recommend a tentative budget to be left open for change next Monday morning at the regular February town council meeting, the total amount on the budget to be $443,500.

The highway commission through its engineer, A. L. Leon, recommended the following 1928 highway budget, showing name of street, work contemplated and estimated cost, which totals $137,800. The amount recommended by the town council was $120,000 for the highway commission to expend as the members thought best—Union street, construction, $36-164; Granite street, 18 inch concrete, part penetration, from Grove avenue to state maintenance line, at the foot of Tower street, $42,163; Weekapaug causeway, $1000; Bowling lane, Bradford, penetration, $3000; Meadow lane, Watch Hill, penetration, $5000; Oak street, sidewalk and curve, $4,800; Cross street drain; Spring street to Pawcatuck river, $9,889 and maintenance, including general affairs, maintenance, equipment, repairs and maintenance, supervision and general, $52,234.

Some of the councilmen recommended that the state of Rhode Island be asked to take over that section of Granite street in the budget, even if the town paid one half of the cost of building.

The school committee detailed to the councilmen its proposed plan for building a Westerly Junior High school on the site of the Oscar Vose estate, at the extension of Highland avenue. They proposed to carry on town notes the amount of $85,000 for the purchase price of the building site of 13 acres, also $6000 for purchase of the White Rock school property from the Knight Finance corporation.

Howard Thorp, chairman of the tax assessors, was of the opinion that the board of assessors would be able to find the added amount of taxable property to return taxes in an amount which would care for the increased budget figure.

Strand Theatre.

A thrilling western picture which abounds in romance is "Lightning Lariats" showing for the last time tonight at the Strand. Tom Tyler is the star and with little Frankie Darro, his pa, and "Sitting Bull," the dog with a sense of humor, makes a real western for the delight of those who favor a virile type of story laid in a rugged country. The high lights of excitement are focused on Tom's riding. The story offers plenty of opportunity for thrillers in this line, as Tom is kept busy guarding a little prince and his governess, who have escaped the throes of a revolution in their country. Dorothy Dunbar plays the girl's part. "Fig Leaves" is a story of a modern Eve and her temptations. The part is ably filled by the beautiful Olive Borden, who is married to a modest plumber, portrayed by George O'Brien, who is also the modern Adam. In Eve's desire for the beautiful and with the aid of a fashionable male designer for woman's clothes, she almost wrecks her happiness but finally defeats the serpent and brings the story to a happy ending. "Aesops Fables" complete this exceptional bill.

Slater Hall Concert.

"After one of my teachers considered that I had mastered the rudiments of violin playing," says Corigliano, noted violinist coming to Slater hall Friday evening, "he next began to create and develop in me a feeling for program-making, which he considered almost as important as a good tone or correct intonation, in the success of a professional musician. And I have found that he was decidedly right in insisting on the importance of this phase of art, which unfortunately is given little thought by many artists. A proper recital program should be neither too heavy, so as to weary the listener, nor too light so as to fail to hold the truly musical or to invite the idea that the artist is condescending."

Corigliano's masterly genius is displayed through programs of unusual balance and multi-colored in variety from music that is gay to the deeper pools of composition.

Those interested in this aspect of tomorrow evening's concert will be delighted with Corigliano's choice for his Norwich program. It will be printed in tomorrow's Bulletin and Record.

See adv. for further detail.

Palace Theatre.

The public have been loud in their praise of the show given at the Palace theatre the first half of the week. The managers wish to assure their patrons that the offerings for today, tomorrow and Saturday should prove just as entertaining.

Wickedness Preferred, starring Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle will be the screen attraction. It is said to be even funnier than "Adam and Evil" and "Tea for Three," in which they were co-starred last year.

The new picture is based on an original story by Florence Ryerson and Colin Clement, and which deals with the romantic adventures of a flighty married man and the wife of an addle-brained young woman who wants to leave her own prosaic husband and elope.

The picture was directed by Hobart Henley and much of it was filmed against backgrounds of the famous caves of La Jolla, Calif., and the exclusive new hotel, Casa Manana.

On the stage five tremendous star acts will be featured, including Capes Creations, a volcanic eruption of song and dance. The offering consists of beautiful girls, gorgeous settings and some wonderful costumes. Jack Goldie, the king of laughs, Hattie Althoff, star of Shubert's Winter Garden Revue in hodge podge of mirth and melody. Conroy and Hayes in a comedy skit entitled "Bits of Vaudeville," and Hilman Brothers in a sensational comedy bar act.

The reports on these acts have all been of the highest and all in all it's sure to be a cocking good show.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broad Theatre

"Publicity Madness," a clever, swift-moving comedy based on a story by Anita Loos, with Edmund Lowe and Lois Moran in the starring roles, is the current attraction at the Broad theatre, showing for the last time tonight. This unique picture was made for Fox Films under the direction of Albert Ray whose five reel comedy dramas have never yet failed to amuse.

Lois Moran has assumed an entirely new, but none the less fascinating personality since her hair was bobbed as part of the plot in "Publicity Madness." With her demure little face and smart boyish-bob she is an intriguing study in contradictory characters. Incidentally Lois likes her new haircut—it's so cool and comfortable for summer wear, she says.

Newlyweds are given their inning in hilarious comedy form in Warner Bros.' production of "If I Were Single," the added feature.

A breezy sweep of irresistible humor dominates the absorbing theme of "If I Were Single," in which Warner Bros. co-star, May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel, stamps this picture as entertainment too good to be missed.

Hudson Essex Auto.

A smashing conviction grips you when first you behold the new Essex Super-Six.

A wealth of costly car detail—never before dreamed of in this price class—becomes at once apparent.

The Essex of today is the World's Greatest Motor Car Value!

You cannot mistake this impression of completeness and fine quality in the design of every detail. And you cannot forget that item after item brings you direct to the costly cars to find comparison.

Such things as radiator shutters (not found on any car under $2000 excepting Hudson); Bendix four-wheel brakes, a costly car type; oversize tires; worm and tooth disc steering mechanism—these are merely typical of scores of details in which the new Essex Super-Six duplicates costly car practice.

Add these to the performance of its famous Super-Six high-compression, high efficiency motor, and you have $200 or $300 more visible values than in the 1927 Essex, which had such outstanding superiority that it outsold all "Sixes" at or near the price by an overwhelming margin.

This great accumulation of new values has been obtained without a price advance. In fact, an actual reduction of $40 has been achieved on the popular Sedan.

May we demonstrate this greatest Essex to you? A ride places you under no obligation.

William Shechtman, of the Norwich Hudson Essex Co.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—(AP)—Grain took an all-around upward swing today, with corn receipts everywhere curtailed and brought complaints from winter wheat territory increasing. The wheat market advance was aided by an unexpected jump in Argentine quotations at Liverpool.

Wheat closed firm, [illegible] 1-3c [illegible] 1-8c to 7c up, oats [illegible] and provisions [illegible] decline to a [illegible] extent.

In connection with persistent dry weather in southwest, much significance was attached to reports that the outlook for grain had become so unfavorable as to make profitable an increase of cotton planting to replace cereals. Low temperature as well as drought complaints were also received, [illegible] notices as likely to bring about damage to domestic winter wheat. Word that stocks of wheat in Europe were diminishing tended further to lift the wheat market here, and gave emphasis to late advances in prices [illegible].

General selling of the volume of arrivals of corn despite favorable weather for movement of the crop, did much today to keep the corn market pointing upward. Other bullish factors included talk that a big export demand for corn was awaiting price recessions, and that ocean freight rates were so much lower from the Atlantic seaboard that corn shipped east from here is considerably cheaper than via the Gulf of Mexico. Meanwhile assertions that 4 per cent of the Illinois corn crop and 51 per cent of the Indiana cannot safely be carried into warm weather failed to act as much of an offset. Oats were firmer, sympathizing with corn and also with wheat.

Provisions rallied with grain, notwithstanding a setback in hog values.

New England Industries

Baskets and Rattan and Willowware (not including Furniture).

In 1923 there were 215 establishments in the United States engaged in making baskets and rattan and willowware. These concerns employed 5,838 workers and produced goods worth $14,713,000. There are four companies in Massachusetts, two in Rhode Island and one each in Connecticut, Maine and New Hampshire. The majority of sales are made in New England, ranging from 40 per cent to 50 per cent, in individual plants, according to reports made in a survey conducted by the United States department of commerce in co-operation with the New England council.

This is one of the oldest industries in New England, the average age of plants reporting being fifty-four years. Practically all the concerns reporting have made a change from the original management, and the average period of present management is eight years. Accessible raw materials (lumber, veneer, nails, rattan and band iron) and nearness to market have been New England's strongest attractions for location in this area. The average size of plants is small, with about twenty-seven employes, and there has been no need to establish branches.

Wage payment on a time basis is the method reported in common use, only one company reporting the use of piecework or other incentive methods of payment. Seasonal fluctuation is almost negligible. Improvements are reported in methods of accident prevention, continuous maintenance and better wage payment methods.

The channel of distribution most used is through a wholesaler or jobber, and one concern supplements this with sales direct to a retailer. Another with the help of a commission merchant.

Not Able to Fly Here
Because of poor visibility, due to the snow storm, the airplanes which were to fly from Hartford to this city on Wednesday with tickets for the Hupmobile treasure chest were unable to make the trip. It is expected the trip will be made later to deliver the tickets to "Joe" Moore's garage, the local Hupmobile agency.

POETRY

Home in Dreams

The wilderness a secret keeps
Upon whose green I go;
Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard;
And yet I know, I know.

Some day the viewless latch will lift,
The door of air swing wide
To one clear chamber of the wood
Where those sky mysteries hide.

One yet unfound, receding depth,
From which the wood-thrush sings,
Still luring in to darker shades,
In—in to colder springs.

There is no wind abroad today.
But hark—the pine-top roar,
That deep and in their dreams repeat
The music of the shore.

What wisdom in their needles stirs?
What song is that they sing?
Those airs that search the forests's heart
What rumor do they bring?

A hushed excitement fills the gloom,
And in the stillness clear
The vireo's tell-tale warning rings;
"'Tis near—'tis near—'tis near."

As in the fairy-tale, more loud
The ghostly music plays
When, toward the enchanted bower, the prince
Draws closer through the maze.

Nay—nay, I track a fleeter game,
A wilder than ye know,
To lairs beyond the inmost haunt
Of thrush or vireo.

This way it passed; the scent lies fresh;
The ferns still lightly shake,
Even I follow hard upon,
But never overtake.

To other woods the trail leads on,
To other worlds and new,
Where they who keep the secret here
Will keep the promise too.
—Henry Augustin Beers.

His Statement of the Case

"Now half a hundred years had I been Born—
So many and so brief—when made aware,
By Time's blunt looks, of hoar-frost in my hair,
I turned to one of twenty, in the corn
At husking time that blissful autumn morn,
And said 'What if the red ear fall to me?'
I would not for the world have any see
The look, half doubtful, masterful, half in scorn,
That grew through all degrees, then broke in laughter—
As she ran down among the heartless men,
I left the husking, nor returned thereafter,
That autumn morn, nor any morn since then.
But you shall see gray beards in a long

JOE MOORE SELLS THE EVER POPULAR WILLARD POWER UNITS

The Willard line of power units which now includes an "A" unit, a "B" unit and a combination "A" and "B" have become extremely popular in Norwich and are being included on more and more sets, claims Mr. Morrill, of Joe Moore's Garage, local Willard Battery dealer.

"When these units first appeared on the market under the Willard name it was conceded that they were among the best to be had and actual usage over a number of months has proven this to be true.

"The new 'A' and 'B' combination unit, which has just recently been added to the Willard line, embodies all the best features that have come out of a long experiment.

"The 'A' side of the unit consists of a 40-amp. hr. charged Bone-Dry Willard Battery and a tube-type charger. A switch provides for two rates of charge—a 1-4 ampere trickle charge, and a two-ampere charging rate for sets of 6 tubes or more—and for emergencies. The 'B' side of the unit is the new Super 'B', which is a new filter circuit worked out in the Willard laboratories. The use of larger condensers enables the unit to deliver a considerably higher voltage than can be secured from the standard size.

"With a current drain of 40 milli-amperes this unit will deliver 180 volts and at 20 milli-amperes it will deliver from 200 to 210 volts. An automatic relay switch is connected to turn the trickle charger on and off."

GIVES REASONS FOR PURCHASING THE SPENCER CORSETS

In speaking of the unique qualities of the Spencer Corsets the Norwich corsetiere has the following to offer:

1—In style and charm. You may have the graceful figure that comes only with perfect posture through Spencer corrective corsetting.

2—Latest styles. Your Spencer is designed for you after your measurements are taken. It is based on today's style trend.

3—Superb Comfort. The perfect fit of your Spencer and the easy erect posture it brings will open to you a new conception of what real comfort can be.

4—Health. Even a slight degree of faulty posture will cramp and interfere with important organs; and slight defects in posture grow worse in time.

5—Economy. Why do good dressmakers refuse to fit over an old corset? Because it has lost its shape, and the smart style they create in the gown is defeated. Spencer corsets are guaranteed never to lost their shape. They pay for themselves over and over in the money they save by prolonging the style of outer clothing; and the Spencer is surprisingly moderate in price.

Before buying your new corset send for Mrs. Ruth M. Smith (registered Spencer Corsetiere) and without the slightest obligation on your part she will diagnose your figure and give you a new conception of the style and charm that may be yours.

Where Quality and Service are the Watchword

NORWICH SAVINGS SOCIETY IS PLACE FOR YOUR MONEY

The thrifty man or woman places money not needed for ordinary expenses in keeping with some reliable banking institution. The Norwich Savings Society for all eastern Connecticut people is just such an institution and for over a century it has stood for reliable service.

Many a small savings account has been established here and in the years following has been increased, both by additional deposits and by interest payments, until the account has come to represent a protection against adverses of later years.

When a man is young and enjoys good health his earning power is rated at the best. This, then, should be the time when he should save against the possibility of poor health in his older years, bringing of course an impairment of earning ability.

Money improperly spent can be man's worst enemy but money properly saved is every man's best friend. The saving of one dollar or more a week, during the course of a score of years, amounts to several thousand dollars. This savings account then stands as a friend in need, which never fails when called on for protection of the family.

A modern and efficient bank prides itself on assisting its depositors to find the best means of saving. Your own financial problem of course must be worked out by yourself. A bank cannot force you to save if you desire to waste. One thing a bank can do however is to assist those of you who wish to save. A bank can suggest proper means of saving, arrange an easier way of keeping up with systematic savings.

This is the type of service the Norwich Savings Society seeks to give in Norwich. Why waste the earnings of our best years — visit our bank and let us show you how to save and build up a protecting bank account.

WM. RYAN & SONS CAN ASSIST YOU IN MANY WAYS

As the sun gradually creeps northward many people turn their thoughts to work to be done in the spring. Many people in eastern Connecticut are probably planning on building in the spring and summer. Building today of course calls for excavating for foundations and cellars.

This is the particular line in which Wm. Ryan & Sons are most interested. Equipment of all kinds for excavating or crane work is carried by this firm and by means of this equipment work can be done more speedily and efficiently than by hand work.

And the cost of work done by Wm. Ryan & Sons is not high for those who need their services. Time is money in these modern days and this firm can save you time and money by their efficiency in handling excavating work.

An interview with any member of the firm will readily convince you that you need their services for your building problems. Do not wait until warm weather arrives before planning your excavation work. Consult us and allow us to give you figures on this type of work and prove to you that we can save you both time and money when you start your building work in the spring.

BUY YOUR HARLEY-DAVIDSON FROM C. A. DONOVAN

Although there is now snow on the ground and perhaps thoughts of warm weather are still far in the future why not visit C. A. Donovan of 165 North Main St., and let him show you some of the latest models of the world's best motorcycle, the Harley-Davidson.

There is nothing like getting behind a Harley-Davidson in the spring and summer and spinning through the beautiful country around us. More miles to the gallon and small upkeep has always been a feature of this motorcycle and the hundreds of motorcycle riders in this section of the state will tell you that the Harley-Davidson is all that is claimed for it.

Perhaps your present motorcycle needs tuning up for the coming pleasure months. Why not bring it to us now and give us the opportunity of getting it into first class condition. Little things which will hinder pleasure in a few weeks can just as well be taken care of now and thus save you the trouble when you most desire the use of your motorcycle.

C. A. Donovan has long been known for fair dealings with lovers of the two wheel vehicle. If you are planning to buy, or if you desire information about good trips, let us tell you about them.

Plan to join with the other motorcycle enthusiasts of eastern Connecticut and enjoy the many trips planned for the spring, summer and fall. Visit us any way. We are always glad to welcome a driver, whether or not he is in the market for our product. Let's get acquainted and have better motorcycle outings this coming spring.

GREENEVILLE

Thursday the Feast of the Purification or Candlemas day, the candles to be used on the altar and in the homes for the coming year will be blessed at St. Mary's Memorial church at the 7:30 o'clock mass today and distributed to the members of the parish. At this church Friday which commemorates the Feast of St. Blais the blessing of the throats will take place after the 7 o'clock mass in the morning. For the first Friday of the month there will be devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus in the evening, after which the blessings of the throats will again take place. St. Blais was a bishop, martyr and doctor who, it is recorded, had great skill in the curing of throat troubles, hence his feast day has been commorated for centuries in the Catholic church. In ancient England it was always a public holiday as well as a church day.

Jacob Goldblatt has returned to his home on North Main street after spending a few days in New York city.

In honor of Mrs. Charles Reddig of Kew Gardens, L. I., Mrs. Charles J. Twist of Prospect street gave a luncheon bridge Monday afternoon. The decorations and favors were in tints of green and pink. At the four tables prizes were won by Mrs. Henry W. Lanz of Central avenue, Mrs. Lewis M. Young, Mrs. Charles A. Gager and Mrs. George L. Ingalls.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Charles C. Williams

On Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the funeral of Emily F. Williams, wife of the late Charles C. Williams of Convent avenue, was held from the parlors of Church and Allen with Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, officiating. The floral tributes were both numerous and beautiful testimony of the high esteem Mrs. Williams was held by her many friends in the community. The bearers were John A. Ferguson, Louis H. Geer, William P. Wade and William J. Matthews. Included in the large attendance were people from Centreville and Norwich, and a delegation representing Sachem chapter, No. 57, Order of the Eastern Star. Burial was in the family plot in Maplewood cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Ricketts conducted the committal service.

Mrs. Williams died in this city Monday morning about 9 o'clock following a three days illness with pneumonia. She was the widow of Charles C. Williams of No. 41 Convent avenue. Mrs. Williams had been in poor health for the past year and a half, but it was only last week that pneumonia developed. She was 70 years of age. Mrs. Williams was the daughter of Peleg and Julia A. Potter and was born in Woodstock. She was united in marriage with Charles C. Williams in Putnam, Nov. 13, 1876, by Rev. Charles Morse and for 41 years Mr. Williams was station agent at the Greeneville railroad station. Mrs. Williams attended the Greeneville Congregational church and was a charter member of Sachem chapter, No. 57, Order of the Eastern Star. She is survived by a daughter, Miss Lottie E. Williams, at home and a son, Charles Henry Williams and two grandchildren, Gloria and Henry Williams. Another son, Raymond, died about 13 years ago. Mrs. Williams was widely known throughout the city and made many warm friends during her long residence here. The sympathy of all who knew her is extended the family in their bereavement.

TAFTVILLE

Alfred Linderson is chairman of a committee which is making arrangements to entertain the members of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association at Ponemah hall Friday evening. Men interested in the textile industry from all over Eastern Connecticut are expected to attend the meeting. A supper is to be served and there will be an entertainment arranged by Mr. Linderson and his associates.

Today (Thursday) being the Feast of the Purifiction of the Blessed Virgin Mary, commonly called Candlemas day, commemorating the presentation of the infant Christ in the Jewish temple at Jerusalem, there will be a special mass at Sacred Heart church at 8 o'clock. It is the custom on this day for the priests of the parish to bless the candles which are to be used at the church and in the homes for religious purposes during the coming year.

William Buba of Terrace avenue has received notice from the officials of the Martinsburg, West Virginia baseball team, that they are to grant him a tryout this spring, with an opportunity to sign a contract if he "makes the grade."

WEDDING

Trudelle-Lussier

One of the prettiest weddings of the pre-lenten season was solemnized on Monday morning at 8 o'clock at Sacred Heart church when Miss Albina Lussier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lussier of Terrace avenue became the bride of Edmund Trudelle, at a nuptial high mass. Rev. J. Oscar Normand of All Hallows church, Moosup, a cousin of the groom performed the ceremony and sang the mass which followed. Miss Alice Frechette, organist at the church was in charge of the music of the mass. As the party entered the edifice, she played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. Preceding the marriage ceremony, the bride knelt at the altar of the Blessed Virgin, where the insignia of her membership in the Children of Mary Sodality was removed by her friends, Miss Beatrice Morin and Miss Juliette Mailhotte, and where she read the act of consecration upon surrendering her membership in the society.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin crepe trimmed with lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and carnations. Her bridal veil of tulle was caught up with pearls in coronet fashion. She was attended by her sister, Miss Therese Lussier, who wore pink georgette, with hat to match and carried rosebuds. The best man was Arthur Trudelle, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony at the church there was a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lussier of Terrace avenue. About fifty relatives and friends of the young couple attended. The wedding gifts were many and varied, and included furniture, money, silver, linen and glassware.

Among those at the breakfast were Rev. J. Oscar Normand, Mrs. W. Normand of Moosup, Mrs. F. Bourque of Meriden; Mr. and Mrs. Brouillette, Mrs. Lavallie of Norwich; Leo Savard of Pawtucket, R. I.; Bousquette Le Maire, Mr. and Mrs. Normand, Mr. Portelance of Norwich; Miss Normandie, Mrs. Aimee Guertin, Miss Irene Guertin and Antonio Guertin of Spencer, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Chabot, Miss Rose Chabot, Armand Chabot of Putnam; Mr. and Mrs. Coderre, Mr. and Mrs. H. Turcotte; Mr. and Mrs. Chaput, Mr. and Mrs. Fournier; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LeClaire, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Lussier, Mr. and Mrs. Phaneuf, Philip Lussier and Miss Viola Michon.

Mr. and Mrs. Trudelle left on a wedding trip to Woonsocket and Spencer, Mass., and upon their return they are to have a reception tendered them at the Naturalization club on Saturday evening.

YOUTH SEEKS $20,000 DAMAGES FOR INJURIES WHILE RIDING BICYCLE

Suits for damages in an accident where an automobile ran into a bicycle, for divorce and for recovery for an automobile wrecked by a garage employe are the new cases for the superior court which were filed here on Wednesday at the office of Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the court. All are returnable in February:

Horace Jeffers of Central Falls, R. I., is made the defendant in a suit brought for $20,000 damages on account of John B. St. Germain, 15, by his father Ulderic St. Germain of Waterford.

Young St. Germain was riding a bicycle on Oct. 15, 1927 on the Boston post road at a point near the home of Arthur Neff in the town of Waterford when it is claimed he was run into by the automobile operated and driven by Jeffers, his agents and representatives, with the result that St. Germain had his left leg and hip broken, his head, forehead, face, back and spine were injured, he was obliged to remain out of school and lost practically one year of student life, and has been permanently injured.

The automobile and bicycle were traveling in opposite directions at the time of the accident and it is claimed that the driver of the automobile was to blame for trying to pass another machine at the same time as he was meeting the bicycle.

Wife Claims Desertion

On the ground of desertion since July 25, 1924, suit for divorce from Walter J. Wathen, now of Sinking Spring, Berks county, Penn., has been brought in the superior court by Isabelle Durr Wathen of this city. They were married Nov. 25, 1916 at Baltic. The suit is returnable in February.

For Wrecked Automobile

Suit for $6,000 damages against John James and Alex Parry, named as operators of the Commercial garage, 79-81 Shetucket street, has been brought in the superior court by Warren L. Maynard of the town of Southold on Fishers Island to recover for a Packard straight-eight coupe, valued at $5,500, which was totally wrecked while in the charge of the garage people.

It is claimed that Maynard left the machine at the garage on Nov. 24, 1927, to be washed and stored, and that while the machine was there one of the garage employes, Leroy W. Bashaw took it out to drive and ran it into another automobile, a telephone pole, and a stone wall on West Thames street, demolishing the Maynard machine.

Divorce, Alimony and Custody

Suit for divorce, alimony and the custody of eight minor children has been brought by Sophie Bohara Wilczek against Wladislaw, alias Edward Wilczek, all of Norwich. Suit is brought on the charge of habitual intemperance for more than a year past. The couple was married Aug. 6, 1906 and the ages of the eight children in the family range from 18 years to four weeks.

MILL MEN ARE TO MEET IN TAFTVILLE

The Eastern Connecticut Mills association, Leroy Bennett of the Aldrich Bros. Co. of Moosup, president, is to hold its regular meeting Friday evening at Ponemah hall, Taftville, and promises to be one of the most successful gatherings ever held by the association.

Albert Linderson and Harry Prentice, acting as a committee of arrangements for the Ponemah Mill overseers, have completed details for a most successful program. Reports from the various member mills would indicate that the Ponemah overseers will be well repaid for their efforts as already about 200 members have been accounted for.

The nature of the program is not definitely known, but it is rumored that local talent will have a part in it, as it is known that a coterie of Taftville persons, well known for their stage exhibitions, has been rehearsing for this event.

This is the first time that the regime of new officers will conduct a meeting. It is planned to hold the meetings at the different mill towns, which are members of the association, and in this way the entire circuit will be covered. Heretofore the association has convened in Plainfield.

The previous meeting of the circle was held with Mrs. William H. Baker, of Phillips avenue, Laurel Hill.

NEW DANBURY S. A. R. HONORS NORWICH MAN

A special meeting of the board of managers of the Connecticut society, Sons of the American Revolution was held at Danbury recently, at which President General Ernest E. Rogers was present as an honored guest. At this meeting a charter was granted and presented to the Chaplain Ebenezer Baldwin branch, No. 9, S. A. R., of Danbury of which Earle Hamilton Payne is president and James R. Case, registrar.

Five new members were elected, viz: Curtice H. Berry, Hartford; Ellsworth L. Kelley, Putnam; Edward A. Lambert, William P. Seeley, Bridgeport; Albert W. Savage, Meriden.

Gen. Wolcott. He was pastor of the Congregational church in Danbury, and died of camp disorder, Oct. 1, 1776 during the campaign.

METHODIST MINISTERS WILL HOLD DISTRICT MEETING

Creeger; and "How to Get from Where We Are to Where We Ought to Be", by Rev. H. H. Critchlow. BIBLE CLASS STUDY ON HEROD AND JOHN

The Men's Bible study group at the Y. M. C. A., was much interested Wednesday evening in the weekly meeting of the class. The scripture used was Mark 6:14-29, the story of Herod and John. The following points were brought out in the discussion: John was one of the most faithful men to conviction that ever lived, and he simply must tell Herod of his sin in taking his brother's wife to live with him. Herod thrust John into prison, but often talked with him, and had a certain fear of John because he was a holy and just man. It is always true that wicked men recognize holiness when they see it. Herodias, the wicked woman, trained her daughter in wrong doing, and to get even with John who had reproved her used the daughter to gain her ends. The daughter was sent to dance before the king, who was so infatuated with her dancing that he offered to give her anything she asked, and the daughter hurried to her mother to ask her what to ask the king for. The wicked Herodias suggested that her daughter ask for the head of John. The king had made a foolish promise, but had not the courage to repudiate it, and so murdered the Godly man. It would have been better that Herod break his bad promise than to have committed murder, but he carried out his oath. Herodias had the stronger mind of the two, and she dominated to an extent the king. Oftimes the woman has the stronger mind. Many men are influenced for god or evil by the opposite sex. It is the duty of every true citizen to speak out against the evils of society, but alas, too few do so. The influence of an unscrupulous woman is simply awful, and on the other hand the influence of a true woman is most wonderful. It is evident that a fellow needs a power outside of himself to master the temptations of life; he needs the help of Almighty God.

Under the direction of the organist, Mrs. William A. Murphy, the choir sang the Gregorian-Mass. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis. For a waiting hymn, she sang Consolation. The recessional hymn was Lead, Kindly Light. There were beautiful floral remembrances.

The sudden death of Mr. Lynch came as a shock to his relatives and friends, and removed one of Norwich Town's highly respected citizens. He was a devout member of the Sacred Heart parish, was an affable and kindly neighbor. Mr. Lynch never married, but had maintained his home for many years with his sister, Mrs. Mary E. Sullivan and other members of the family, on West Town street. It was stated that Mr. Lynch made a call on a near-by neighbor Saturday evening and was up and about his home Sunday, prior to his death.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

The man outside is not so comfortable

3 out of 5 Yellow cab drivers said:

"We keep off rheumatism this way"

YOU have to just sit and take it—rain, snow, biting wind—hands gripped to the wheel until your arms and shoulders are numb!

Not so good for the old driving muscles! That left arm and elbow! It catches everything! After a day in the rain or snow, it's as wet as if you'd held it under a water tap. You've got to watch yourself or the first thing you know you're laid up with an attack of rheumatism.

We asked the drivers of Yellow taxicabs in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Newark, how they avoid the effects of exposure to wet and cold.

Three out of five said they use Sloan's.

When they are damp and chilled from hours of driving in snow or rain, they apply Sloan's over their backs, arms, shoulders and legs—and they never have a bit of trouble with stiffness or pain in the muscles.

One of the Yellow taxi drivers questioned. 3 out of 5 told us that they use Sloan's to ward off the effects of exposure and strain

In every trade hard workers praise this remarkable remedy

In every trade where men and women work hard with their muscles, or where they are exposed to dampness or to extremes of heat or cold, you hear praise of Sloan's Liniment.

A brakeman on the Chicago and Northwestern tells this story of the quick relief that Sloan's gave to a sprain and a wrenched ligament:

"I fell off the top of a box car on my left arm, spraining it and tearing the ligaments loose. I suffered considerable pain for about forty-eight hours. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It relieved the pain right away. It is now fifty-three hours since I was hurt. I have no pain at all to speak of. The swelling has nearly all gone down. I think it is the best liniment I have ever used. I suggest that anybody having a sprain get a bottle and apply it according to directions, and they will never be sorry." Harry M. Hall, Belle Plaine, Iowa.

Sloan's is sure—quick

No one should ever be without Sloan's Liniment in the house. It's the best first aid in case of a sprain, a strain, a wrench or a bruise. It works by the surest, most scientific method known for relieving pain. It stirs up the circulation—sends new blood to the place where the pain is—gives you quick, positive relief. At any druggist's—and many other stores besides—you can get a bottle that will last you a long time for 35 cents. Use Sloan's Liniment for:

Rheumatism Lame Muscles
Sciatica Stiff Neck
Lumbago Colds and Neuralgia Congestions
Sprains and Bruises

Read what this doctor says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

SLOAN'S Endorsed universally by those who do the world's hard work

CONFLAGRATION IS SWEEPING THE BUSINESS DISTRICT OF FALL RIVER LOSS WILL REACH SEVERAL MILLIONS

Fire Broke Out at 7 P. M. in the Poscasset Mills—More Than Two Score Buildings in the Business District Were Destroyed—Four Banks, Three Theatres and Three Hotels Were Burned—Also the Courthouse and a Number of Downtown Office Buildings—The City Hall Withstood the Flames, While Buildings on All Sides Blazed and Crumbled—At 1 A. M. the Fire Was Still Working Its Way Along the Main Business Street, But Appeared to Be Nearing Control—Five Firemen Were Injured—Detachments From Departments in Many Massachusetts and Rhode Island Cities Helped Fight the Fire—Lack of Water Pressure and Low Temperature Handicapped the Fire Fighters.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3—(AP)—More than two score buildings in the center of the Fall River business district were destroyed by a great fire which swept the city last night. At 1 o'clock this morning the fire was still working its way along the main business street, but appeared to be nearing control. The residential district at that hour seemed to be in no immediate danger.

The offices of one of the three daily newspapers of the city were demolished, while those of another were badly damaged. The third building of the Fall River Globe, stood as a barrier against the advance of the flames along Main street. Four banks, three theatres and three hotels were destroyed as well as the courthouse and a large number of the downtown office buildings. No estimate of the loss was available but it was certain to run high into the millions.

The city hall, an island in a wilderness of fire, stood unscathed while buildings on all four sides blazed and crumbled. The Union Bank building, adjoining it on the north, was destroyed before midnight.

The hopes of the firemen were centered on saving the Chauncey Sears building next to this bank. It was feared that if it caught, the Troy Mills nearby, where a fire started and was extinguished last night, would flare up again, causing a new spread.

The fire made rapid strides after the Granite building, situated on Main street on Main street opposite the city hall, collapsed about 10.30 o'clock. Brands from the ruins were thrown to a great distance and sparks were carried broadcast by the wind.

Lack of water pressure handicapped the firemen, who were reinforced by many detachments from Massachusetts and Rhode Island cities. The prevailing low temperature caused ice to form on the ruins of the Pocasset mills, where the fire had originated, resembled a Canadian ice palace.

Five firemen were injured, three being caught under a falling wall when dynamite had been used to make a fire break. Reports that several firemen had been killed by the collapse of a wall at the Pocasset mills were denied. Most of the lights were out in the city and the firemen at many points worked in darkness.

The telephone service to the outside world failed shortly before 11 o'clock when the operators were ordered out of the building. At an early hour today the building, which is on Main street, had not been burned. The Western Union offices also were vacated when fire drove the operators from their wires.

Included in the buildings destroyed were: L'Independant, French language newspaper; the old Fall River Herald-News building; the Rialto, Wilbur and Premier theatres, the Mohican, Wilbur and Bay State hotels, the North Main Street Bank, Union Bank, Citizens' Bank, and Metacomet Bank; the district court house and part of the police station; the Bennett building, Ye Tavern building; N. P. Tessier building; Astor Lunch, Crystal Lunch, Nathan Miller building, Fawcett building, Berg building, Couchlin building, Buffington building, Waring building, Durfee building, Allan Slade building, Green building, Eagle building, Kresge building, and six houses on Seventh street.

The new building of the Fall River Herald-News, recently completed, was badly damaged, but escaped destruction.

Because of the severing of communications by the fire, the representative of the Associated Press was compelled to drive to Taunton, 12 miles from Fall River, in order to send his dispatches.

The fire broke out shortly after 7 o'clock in the southeast corner of the Pocasset mills, a dismantled textile plant which was being razed. The mills are the property of Louis K. Liggett of Boston. All four units of the plant were wiped out.

In rapid order the fire spread to and demolished the Mohican hotel, with several stores in the same building, the Rialto theatre, the Boys club, the old building of the Fall River Herald-News, the building of the French Daily newspaper L'Independant, the Vermont block, the Kresge building and the Granite block. The new building of the Herald-News, recently completed was badly damaged and the R. A. McWhirr department store was in flames.

The fire was said to be one of the worst in the history of the city and it was believed that the damage would be greater than resulted from the conflagration of February 16, 1916, when the larger portion of the business section of Fall River was wiped out.

When the fire started there was a large audience in the Rialto theatre, but the hundreds of spectators filed out in an orderly manner when the alarm was given.

Sparks driven by the wind set many fires in other parts of the city. The Troy mills, situated a mile from the scene of the fire, caught in this way and one section of the plant was in flames. A number of dwellings to the eastward of the main fire were also burning.

The area swept during the first two hours was that bounded by Pocasset, Bank and South Main streets.

At 10 o'clock the new Herald News building was reported a total wreck. The Woolworth building was in flames as well as a building on Purchase street occupied by the Fall River office of the Providence Journal. The old opera house on Rock street, a wooden building occupied by a co-operative bank, also was on fire.

On the opplsite sides of Main street, two buildings stood as fire breaks in the path of the flames. On the west side of the street the flames were checked at the Merchants block, built in 1843. This building had withstood previous conflagrations in the Fall River business district. On the east side the building of the Fall River Globe newspaper marked the limit of the ravaged area. Employes of the paper were engaged in playing hose on the roof and walls of their building.

Numerous fires broke out in residences on Pleasant street, but most of these were brought under control by residents assisted by firemen. The Union mills on Pleasant street also became ignited, and were threatened with destruction.

From the editorial rooms of the Fall River Globe members of the newspaper staff watched the progress of the flames down Main street and kept the Associated Press informed by telephone. Every few minutes these observers would report that another building had caught or that some blank wall left standing in the wake of the flames had finally crashed down into the embers.

POLITICAL BATTLE BY PAGES OF THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—The presidential campaign broke with fury at the capitol today as the forces of Curtis, of Kansas and Reed, of Missouri waged a battle.

But it was all in fun. A senate page boy admirer of the Kansas republican started hostilities by stamping in the snow on the broad expanse beyond the senate wing the letters "Curtis for President."

The attention of Mr. Curtis in the capitol nearby had hardly been attracted to this, however before two pores from the democratic side bolted on the scene, stamped the name "Curtiss" and put above it "Reed, Mo."

As the contending forces met, a compromise was reached and each then set up at a distance their own sign. Meanwhile over in one corner of the lot appeared a "Draft Cal" and at another end "Willis" and finally "Heflin."

A number of senators watched the frolic from senate windows.

WHITE HOUSE RECEPTION FOR MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Senators and representatives put on their full dress suits tonight to be received by President and Mrs. Coolidge at the annual white house reception to members of congress.

They were invited along with several hundred other guests and some of them were accompanied by members of their families.

The congressional reception drew the white house winter social season toward its completion. There remains only the president's dinner to the speaker of the house on February 9, and the reception to the army and the navy a week later.

PLASTIC SURGEON DENIES OPERATION

CHICAGO, Feb. 2—(AP)—Appearing at an inquiry before the state department of education and registration, Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, today denied he had performed the leg straightening operation on Miss Sadie Holland which her family contends led to the amputation of both her legs after a gangrene infection set in.

Dr. Schireson said the operation on the girl's legs was performed by an assistant, Dr. S. D. Zaph, although he said he himself operated to remove a scar from the girl's shoulder at the same time. He said he received a fee of $300 while Dr. Zaph received $500.

He indicated the Emerald Isle's proximity to the great markets of Europe. A modern American shoe factory, for instance, he said, could build up a very fine business in Ireland and also could export to Great Britain.

He pointed out that Belgians and Germans are taking a hand in this country's commercial development.

LA GUARDIA IN THE HOUSE ATTACKED PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Drastic legislation for prohibition enforcement was demanded in the house today by Representative La Guardia, republican, New York, as a means of proving his contention that the eighteenth amendment cannot be enforced.

He also charged corruption in the administration of the Knickerbocker warehouse there which he said was a depository for seized liquor where it is possible to buy back liquor taken in raids under protection from Washington.

Sovereignty For Pan-American Nations

Proposal That It Be Made Fundamental Principal of International Law.

HAVANA, Feb. 2—(AP)—The principle that the sovereignty of nations is dependent upon observance of the rights of other states has been presented to the Pan-American conference for incorporation in a solemn declaration of the fundamental principles of international law.

Victor Maurtua, of Peru, in his report submitted today to the committee on public international law, to which he is reporter, proposed that a flat unconditional statement prohibiting intervention by one state in the internal affairs of another, which was recommended by the Rio Janeiro jurists' conference, should be amended. The amendment while condemning unprovoked intervention as a general rule, still would recognize that such emergencies might arise as to render intervention justifiable.

The report, which probably will be taken up by the committee Saturday, recommends the following principles as a declaration of the principles of the congress.

1—All states have the right to exist, to protect and preserve their existence, but this right neither implies power nor justifies unrighteous action by one state against innocent or inoffensive states to protect itself, or to preserve its existence.

2—All states are independent in the sense that they have the right to achieve their welfare and free progress, without intervention or supervision from other states. But in the exercise of this right they must not affect or violate the rights of other states.

3—All states are in their own right and before the law equal to all other members of the international community. All states can therefore assume among the powers of the world the independence and equal position to which they have the right.

4—All states have the right to territory determined by exact boundaries and to exercise exclusive jurisdiction in this territory and over all persons, natives or foreigners, that find themselves therein.

5—All states invested by the law of nations with their rights can exact that they be respected and protected by other states, because rights and duties are correlative, and observance of the rights of one is the duty of all.

6—International law is simultaneously national and international—national in the sense that it is the law of the country, applicable as such for the determination of all questions having reference to its principles; international in the sense that it is the law of the community of nations. Applicable as such to all questions which may arise between two or more members of that community and which have reference to its principles.

The report on the Pan-American railway was presented today in the communications committee by Luis De Negri, of Peru, it presented six recommendations, but was deferred for approval upon request of Henry P. Fletcher, United States, who asked for a translation, so that the report could be studied by himself and his colleagues, Oscar Underwood, Mr. Fletcher said that he expected to endorse all the recommendations. These are:—

1—Maintenance of the agreements of previous conferences for the Andes doute.

2—That the American nations reorganize the national railway committees.

3—Urging the nations which have not completed their railroads, to do so.

4—Expression of accord with the Washington railroad commission and the fifth Pan-American congress.

5—Study of the routes proposed.

6—To inscribe in the general acts meeting with approval the advice of technical experts.

$4,000,000 ROUNDHOUSE FIRE AT CONNELLSVILLE, PA.

The locomotives late today were laying amid the smouldering ruins, several with whistles blowing as fallen timbers lay across the whistle cords.

The cause of the fire was not determined. When discovered it had gained such headway, that workmen were unable to remove any of the equipment.

Fire companies from five nearby towns joined the local department in fighting the blaze.

The engines were valued at from $75,000 to $120,000 each. The roundhouse had a capacity of sixty engines and 315 men were employed in the shops. The machine shops were equipped with machinery and tools for repairing locomotives.

WARNS "WAR TALK" OFTEN CAUSES THE SPIRIT OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—A warning that "war talk too often causes war spirit," was sounded today by William R. Castle, assistant secretary of state in an address before the women's patriotic conference on national defense, meeting here in support of adequate preparedness.

"The department of state is in hearty accord with military preparedness," Mr. Castle asserted. "It is the same for the nation as precautions to preserve health for the body. But exaggerated military preparedness is the result of fear, and fearfulness invites disease."

The state department, he continued, exerts its "whole influence" toward the development of "international confidence and in cooperating with the department of commerce to raise the standards of international commercial relations." The department, he declared, "does not put sinister interpretations on the words of the representatives of other countries."

DECISION AGAINST MOTOR VEHICLE COMMISSIONER

HARTFORD, Feb. 2—(AP)—The state motor vehicle commissioner has no power to hold a hearing in the case of "any officer" in the state for the purpose of determining whether he has been guilty of misfeasance of duty and then make it mandatory upon the state's attorney to bring the officer before the superior court, according to an opinion given today by Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling to Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel.

The opinion stops all action by the commissioner against Grand Juror Frank Bennett, of Wilton, who had been notified that a hearing would be held February 8, when he would be charged by the state police for failure to prosecute certain motor vehicle law cases.

ENGLAND WILL PAY IMPERIAL HONORS TO HER DEAD SOLDIER CHIEFTAN TODAY

LONDON, Feb. 2—(AP)—The body of Field Marshal Earl Haig, in a heap of popples, reposed tonight in the quiet of St. Columba's awaiting the morrow when England will pay imperial honors to her dead soldier chieftain in Westminster Abbey.

All day long vast crowds passed through St. Columba's to look for the last time upon the flag-shrouded and flower-strewn coffin of Britain's hero warrior.

Despite periods of brisk rain, long columns of silent mourners stood beside the church patiently waiting to pay respect to the man who led Britain's armies through the black days of the World war to ultimate victory.

Just as yesterday, many of the pilgrims were men who had fought and bled under his command. Nearly all who went to the church wore or carried poppies made by disabled veterans whom Earl Haig had tirelessly served since the war left them broken. These little artificial blossoms, symbolical of unselfish sacrifice and devotion, fell one by one around the casket.

In wheeled chairs pushed by policemen or pegging along on crutches, many of his tommies came to say good bye. Hundreds were turned away disappointed when the gates closed tonight leaving the casket with only a small picked guard who stood about the bier in attitude of sorrow.

Tomorrow at 10.30 a. m., the family and friends and especially invited guests will participate in a memorial service in St. Columba's. Then with impressive ceremony, the body will be taken through mourning thousands to England's great abbey of remembrance for the funeral service in the heart of the empire.

After that the field marshal will make his last journey to his beloved home in Berntsyide, Scotland, where he will rest forever among the hills of Scotland.

STEWART DEFIANT TO THE SENATE OIL COMMITTEE

Chairman of the Board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana Parried Questions Asked by the Committeemen—Denied That He Profited a Dollar From the Continental Trading Company's Transactions—Committee Threatens Contempt Proceedings Should Stewart Persist in His Refusal to Answer Questions When He is Recalled Today.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Alternately flashing fires of temper and disarming smiles, Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, defied the senate oil committee today, but repeatedly denied that he profited a dollar from the now celebrated Continental Trading company's transactions.

He will be recalled tomorrow and if he persists refusal to answer questions which he contends should be answered to a judge and jury the committee will be faced with the decision as to what steps should be taken looking to his punishment for contempt, a decision which it promptly made four years ago in the case of Harry F. Sinclair, now under court sentence.

For more than two hours today, the tall, thick-set, gray-haired Chicago oil operator, himself once a lawyer, parried questions, defended with loud voice and emphatic manner his own actions in connection with various oil transactions, shot thrusts at the prosecutor, Senator Walsh of Montana, and time and again confessed an inability to remember many details the committee sought.

Then suddenly, as it appeared he was to be excused, the youthful committee chairman, Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, put to him two questions which he elected not to answer. They were whether he knew who received any of the Liberty bonds bought by the Continental from its oil profits and whether he had discussed any of the Continental bond transactions with Sinclair.

Previously, Stewart had declined to give any hearsay testimony when asked if he had heard that $233,000 of the bonds went from Sinclair to Albert B. Fall after the lease of Teapot Dome and apparently he had gotten away with that decision.

Later Nye asked if he knew anyone who did get Continental bonds. Stewart hesitated as he leaned back in his chair.

"I'll say this," he replied. "I have never handled any of these bonds and never given any of them to any political party or to any officials of the United States, of any state or of any territory. That's as far as I can go."

"Have you discussed any of these bond transactions with Harry F. Sinclair?" Nye pursued.

"That is not material to the issue," was the answer.

"I want to add it seems to me that in view of the pending trial of Sinclair and the fact that I am summoned as a witness in that case and the issues in that case are the same issues here, that when this story goes in it should go before the judge and jury."

Stewart, foregoing a business trip to Mexico from Cuba so as to testify, had been present in the committee room for two days, watching Walsh and other committee men grill officials of his and other companies about the accepting on contracts which Stewart and Sinclair made on behalf of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and out of which the Continental made $3,000,000 in profits.

The Montana senator carried Stewart over the preliminary negotiations he had with the late A. E. Humphreys of Denver for the purchase of the oil from the Mexia fields in Texas, and then led up to the New York city conference where the Continental transaction took place.

When he came to recount what happened in the Vanderbilt hotel in New York, Stewart sat erect, face flushed, eyes flashing and his open fingers hammering the end of the table in emphasis of his words. His story was that when he got to New York city with the intention of trying to buy Humphreys oil, he was told by that operator that the Standard of Indiana could not have the oil; that it had been negotiated for by Henry M. Blackmer, chairman of the board of the Midwest, an Indiana Standard subsidiary, and other people.

Stewart went to Blackmer's room at the Vanderbilt and was told by Blackmer that if the Standard wanted the oil it would have to pay $1.75 a barrel for it. Stewart said he was willing to pay that price since it was 25 cents below the current market price. The contracts were drawn and Stewart and Sinclair guaranteed the performance of contract by the Continental.

"Of course, I knew somebody was making a profit of 25 cents a barrel," Stewart almost shouted. "But I wanted that oil and I knew that I could not get it at a lower price than $1.75.

"We wanted that oil and I was willing that half go to the Prairie Oil and Gas if one half went to the Sinclair crude. I made a contract. I took copies of it to the board of directors of my company and told them it was perfectly apparent somebody was making 25 cents a barrel. I told them that if that was material not to approve the contract.

"The stockholders of our company made a lot of money out of that proposition. It turned out to be profitable. Sinclair and I guaranteed this contract to show our faith in this matter. It was like guaranteeing a note after it was paid as it provided that oil be in the tanks before any payment was made."

LINDBERGH GREETED AT SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Porto Rico greeted Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, when he landed at Escambron flying field this afternoon with a salute of 20 guns—one less than a presidential salute. He also heard the shouts of many thousands who had gathered along the sea front and in Munoz Rivera park. Sirens, whistles, horns of all kinds and the din of every noise-making device added to the riotious welcome of the youthful airman

The tops of houses and public buildings, from which the field could be seen, were crowded with thousands of others anxious to see the Spirit of St. Louis from the time it was first glimpsed in the east, 1:40 o'clock, until it was safely landed, and Lindbergh alighted. This was at 1:55 (12:55 eastern standard time). Colonel Lindbergh was in the air for two hours and five minutes, having taken off at St. Thomas, Virgin Island, at 11:50, local time. He made good his previous promise to fly over St. Croix, one of the United States islands possessions, and while he flew alone, following not far behind him was the Santa Maria, a West Indies aerial express plane, carrying a dozen passengers.

The Santa Maria landed 30 minutes before the good-will ambassador, for the Spirit of St. Louis slowly circled the city before starting downward. Governor Horace M. Towner, Mayor R. H. Todd and Colonel George H. Estes, were among the first to greet the aviator.

After only a few minutes on the field, Colonel Lindbergh was escorted by the governor to a decorated car. It was a mile and one half journey to the federal building where the official welcoming exercises were carried out.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE FOR CHRISTIAN UNITY

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Elimination of needless overlapping and competition among churches in the interests of Christian unity is recommended in the final report emanating from the world conference on faith and order held at Lausanne, Switzerland, last August. The report was made public today by a committee headed by Bishop Charles H. Brent, of Buffalo.

More effective co-operation among denominations in the foreign field, and the willingness of all Christians to join "without regard to denominational differences" in the celebration of the sacrament of the Lord's suppose, also are set forth as essentials of church unity.

"Unity of the church implies unity of faith," the report states, "but it does not mean uniformity. There must be space for divers types of expression so that nothing of the rich variety which marks Christian experience will be lost and liberty of interpretation within the limits of the accepted faith will be preserved."

FIVE HAVE NARROW ESCAPE WHEN CAR SKIDS ON BRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 2.—Injuries and possible death to five persons riding in a sedan driven by James McGee, of Scotland, were prevented this morning when a small guard rail held the car which had skidded, from plunging from the wooden overhead bridge spanning the railroad at Phelps Crossing on North Windham road. The drop from the bridge to the tracks of the New Haven railroad is 25 feet. Mr. McGee said that the machine was going about 30 miles an hour as he reached the center of the dangerous span. Snow, which had melted and frozen again, made the surface slippery. The rear of the car skidded and crashed into the tall wooden guard fence, breaking several boards. The front of the car swerved against a post at the end of the bridge and the machine careened around to face in the opposite direction. All of the occupants escaped injury, but the car was considerably damaged, the right front wheel being broken off and general damage done to the front end. Sections of the board guard fence were strewn about the tracks and state highway department men were stationed at the bridge to warn of the danger on the bridge while temporary repairs were being made. After examining the machine, Mr. McGee found that the loss of a chain from one of the rear tires before reaching the bridge allowed the machine to skid. McGee and his party were on their way to attend a funeral service at St. Joseph's church at the time of the accident. About three years ago, a machine plunged from the bridge and was prevented from toppling down to the tracks by landing against a tree. There have been several severe accidents at the bridge, mainly due to the approaches. The danger is in line for remedy possibly this spring, however, as the layout of the new concrete road built to North Windham calls for a new bridge over the tracks and the discontinuance of the right angle curves to the present structure.

NEW RURAL ROUTE IS PROVING VERY SATISFACTORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 2—Postmistresses Eva A. Dimon, of Chestnut Hill, and Anna F. Strong, of Leonard Bridge, report that the new star routes established out of the Willimantic post office to these points upon the removal of all mail passenger service on the Air Line division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, is proving most satisfactory. The star route has automatically done away with the necessity of transportation of mail from the respective railroad stations to the post offices, an item of service that could not always be conveniently handled. With the new system the mail is delivered right at the post office door. The route is being covered by Roy P. Frederickson who holds a temporary contract for the work.

There is one singular drawback in the temporary mail service made since the discontinuance of railroad facilities, and it is that mail going from either Chestnut Hill or Leonard Bridge for delivery to the next station, Amston, just three miles away, must take a ride of about 70 miles before reachings its destination. Mail addressed to Amston now has to be taken to the Willimantic post office, rerouted via Hartford to Meriden, and taken from there by postal mail truck on the Meriden-Colchester route, and dropped at Amston.

A highly interesting round table talk was the feature of the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club, held in the Nathan Hale hotel Wednesday evening with President Alfred P. Abbe presiding. The talks, which proved a valuable and entertaining novelty were given by six members: Robert H. Fenton, Arthur E. Morrill, William F. Maine, Dixon Van Zandt, Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones and Samuel Chesbro. The talks were given informally and were taken from the Nathan Hale Digest, which brought in serious as well as humorous subjects, given under the chairmanship of Robert H. Fenton. During the business session it was voted to hold the Ladies' Night Tuesday, February 21. William F. Maine, chairman of the committee to purchase and equip one of the rooms at St. Joseph's hospital, stated that all the furnishings had been obtained and the room practically ready for occupancy.

At his home, 50 Willowbrook street, Anselme P. Bedard, 60, died early this morning after a brief illness. He was born in Baltic, October 16, 1867, a son of Xavier and Dieulau Moreau Berard and came to reside in this city with his parents when he was still in infancy. He had spent the remainder of his lifetime here. CORNER SHETUCKET AND WATER STREETS

Death was twice a victor in a mighty battle between two deer for the supremacy of the forest range in Montgomery. After the antlers of the deer became locked, the two pulled and tugged until one fell with a broken neck. Then the winner prepared to leave the scene to take up his leadership. He was unable to shake his antlers loose from those of the defeated foe. The body of the dead deer was dragged for many feet until the living one dropped from sheer exhaustion. Death overtook it in the form of starvation and exposure.—Boston Globe.

DANIELSON

REVALUATION IS TOPIC OF LOCAL DISCUSSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 2—The matter of a general revaluation of the property of the town of Killingly looms larger of late as a problem to be approached with great care, because of various important circumstances. There was some discussion of the matter here today. The greater points brought out as to just how soon this revaluation should be made and as to who is going to make it.

There appears to be two schools of thought in town on the general revaluation proposition. There are those who believe that it should be made in 1928, and others who insist the work should be deferred until 1930, when it must be done. There are those who say it should be done by Killingly men.

There are arguments pro and con for revaluation this year, these including the prospect of a lower tax rate in 1929, this on the assumption of a great increase in the assessed valuation of the properties of the town, and those who insist that this year, considering general business conditions in New England, is no time to start tinkering with the carburator.

That a revaluation is coming is a certainty. When it should come, prior to 1930, is a matter in dispute in Danielson.

The one outstanding thing that Killingly must guard against, and it may as well be said publicly now as it has been privately for months, is over assessment of properties occupied by manufacturing industries. They are particularly sensitive on the matter of assessments. This does not mean that they are not willing to pay a fair share of the taxes the town must raise, but they are keen to see that they are not taxed to a point where their business operations are hampered.

There have been instances recently in New England of towns losing industries they have had for scores of years through excessive assessments, and there have been other instances where towns have gone to the point of reducing assessments on manufacturing property almost to the vanishing point to save them from going to the south.

This is the big consideration in the matter of a general revaluation of property in Danielson. The manufacturing concerns expect to pay on a liberal assessment; they are going to oppose any fantastic levies. Killingly, all agree, must be reasonable in tax treatment of them, for if they are driven out by over-taxation, then the property of every individual is going to take a decided slump from its real value and every property owner is going to be penalized.

The revaluation problem is an important and delicate one. It is going to be done and, admittedly, it should be done. The big question right now in Killingly is as to how it is going to be done and as to who is going to do it.

Friends here received today invitations to the wedding at the Second Congregational church in Putnam on Thursday, Feb. 23, at 6 p. m. of Miss Dorcas Meredith Bartlett, daughter of Mrs. Walter J. Bartlett, and Edward Leslie Beebe, manager of the Danielson, Putnam and Moosup divisions of the Southern New England Telephone company.

Several hundred people attended the St. James' parish whist, which was held in the town hall last evening. From a financial viewpoint, it was the most successful of the entire series of such whists held since the first of the year, and also a happy social occasion.

While the members of the Westfield Men's club meet Friday evening the special arrangement for their entertainment will be the showing of motion pictures taken on a trip to California by H. H. Crowell of North Sterling, who has motored back and forth across the continent several times.

Just when the work of cutting a new stretch of state highway through properties extending easterly from Main street at Hutchins street, to the upper part of Reynolds street will begin remains undisclosed, but it is said there is a possibility of its being done this year. The cut-off is intended to give a more satisfactory route for traffic over the Danielson-Providence trunk line than now is available through Reynolds street.

The monthly meeting of the chamber of commerce next Tuesday evening is to be followed by an open meeting at the Orpheum theater. James Case of Norwich will speak both at the business meeting and supper of the chamber in the Attawaugan hotel and at the open meeting in the theater.

One hears that the state fish and game commission will again release thousands of trout of good size in this territory prior to the opening of the fishing season on April 1. This arrangement was followed out last year, and a great many of the hatchery grown trout were caught on the first day of the open season.

Killingly has come through the winter into the early days of February without having had to meet any snow removal costs. While it may be a bit early to start cheering about this as yet it is a fair prospect that the town may save in this way much of the snow removal cost of other years and help offset the heavy expense it was put under repairing highways after the flood of early November.

It is recalled that 1928 is the 220th anniversary of the incorporation of the town of Killingly. As there has been material growth and expansion of the town since it so fittingly observed its 200th anniversary in 1908, there are those who have in mind this early the idea that it would be well to have a similar observance when the 225th anniversary rolls around, five years hence. It is held that such events bring splendid and wide-spread publicity for a community.

Departments of the Wauregan company's mill at Wauregan are in instances doing over time work, a cheering fact to this textile territory in a winter when such difficulties are being experienced by many concerns in the cotton manufacturing trade.

Ice fishing yielded in no great hauls in this territory in the season that closed last Tuesday night, reports generally agree. In large measure this was due that there were few days when the ice was safe to venture upon. Now the pickerel have a respite until May 1, and they should be larger and finer by that time.

Two aeroplanes, flying low as if to establish location, were of interest for a passing moment at noon today.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bottomly have returned from a visit in England and are again at their home in Dayville.

Good progress has been made this week in excavating with a power shovel for the cut-off of the Danielson-Brooklyn highway near the brickyard, and grading has gone forward in equal degree.

Today there were special services at St. James' church in observance of Candelmas, and the congregations were large.

Judge James N. Tucker, member of Killingly's board of relief, has been confined by illness to his home in East Killingly the past fortnight.

There is good skating again hereabouts, and the most is being made of it by many people these moonlight nights.

Attorney E. L. Darbie was advanced one more place by the Masonic grand lodge meeting at Hartford, and is now the grand sentor-warden.

Eight applications from rounders for a put-up for the night have been refused by Night Officer John Gebert in the recent past, evidence that there are those who have not yet learned that Danielson has no interest in harboring these knights of the road.

There are plans afoot for the development of a baseball and general athletic field in the northern section of Danielson for the coming summer, but as yet these plans are not far advanced.

Killingly's board of relief is now engaged with its annual sessions, but as yet has had few appearances from those who may want adjustments from the assessments fixed on their properties.

Those who have received their motor vehicle operator's licenses for 1928, find them in a new form, with a sort of duplicate attachment that is to be used in filing applications for renewals during 1929. It is said the form is similar to that in use in New York state.

Ice eight inches in thickness was being harvested on small ponds within a few miles of Danielson today by farmers putting up a supply for use during the remainder of the year.

The Friday game this week for the Killingly high school basketball team is to be here with the Putnam high school team.

Several automobile accidents of a minor nature have been reported this week as the result of cars, without tire chains, skidding on slippery highway surfaces.

PUTNAM

STAYS ALL NIGHT IN CELLAR WITH BROKEN ARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 2—Mrs. James Wilson who resides on Walnut street, is at the Day Kimball hospital suffering from a fracture of the left arm. When returning to her home Monday evening she discovered that her waterpipes in the cellar were frozen. She went to the cellar to attempt to thaw them out and slipped on a stair and fell down the staircase, sustaining the fracture of her arm. She was unable to move and as she lives alone she had no assistance. She remained in the cellar all Monday night. Tuesday morning she managed to crawl from the cellar of the house to the telephone and called a neighbor. The neighbor called a local physician to set the break in the limb, but the arm had swollen so that the doctors at the hospital were unable to set the bone until the swelling had been relieved.

Mrs. Wilson endured a most painful night and when help arrived she was found in an unconscious state. She is the widow of the late James Wilson who was a police officer in Putnam a number of years ago, and since the death of her husband she had been residing alone.

TAGGING CARS PARKED IN PUTNAM FIRE LANE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 2—People who insist on leaving their cars parked in the fire lane on Main street are getting green tickets attached to the steering wheels, when they return to the vehicles. Captain William Jarvis of the local police has been busy the last few days placing tickets on cars that are left on the left hand side of Main street, between Carrol's drug store and the corner of Bridge street. Each motorist who finds one of these summons attached to his car is placed under the obligation of reporting to the captain and listening to the famous question of all officers of the law, "Can't you read?"

The city council made Main street a fire lane so the fire trucks could have the right of way on Main street when they have to answer fire alarms in the north end of the city. Since the yellow "No Parking" signs were placed on the borders of the restricted area they have not been heeded by careless drivers, and many times the fire department has been delayed in answering alarms in that district, because of the number of parked cars blocking the passage way.

Frederick Watson, an operator at the tower in Putnam is now dispatching from New London. Frank J. Kelley an operator at Klondike tower is on duty in Mr. Watson's place on the second trick.

Officer Benoi Durand is now doing day duty on the police force. Each month Captain William Jarvis lifts the officers around so that each has his turn on day duty. Officer Joseph Page has returned to night duty on the force.

Mrs. Walter John Bartlett, of Main street, has sent out invitations for the wedding of her older daughter Dorcas Meredith Bartlett to Edward Leslie Beebe. The wedding will take place in the Congregational church on Thursday evening, February 23rd at six o'clock.

Thursday was Candlemas day and there was no doubt that the ground hog saw his shadow. As the sun rose early Thursday morning it sent its beautiful rays streaming over the city, and as the little weather predicter came out of his winter quarters he must have seen a silhouette before him and turned back. That meant that according to those who place confidence in the ground hog, we are to have six weeks more of winter, (and probably more).

Mrs. Ellen A. Griggs died at Irving Hopkins' home in Hampton on Thursday. She was 87 years of age. Mrs. Griggs was the widow of Frank Griggs formerly of Putnam, who died a few years ago in Hampton. Heart failure has been given as the cause of her death. She leaves no children.

THE MISSING S-3

How times have changed is well illustrated in the case of the S-3 which was lost for two days while on its way to Guantanamo bay. The underwater boat was out of communication for that period of time because it had been deprived of the use of its wireless, but for any vessel to have been considered lost a score of years ago because it had not been reported for such a period would not have been thought of.

Because it is possible in these days by the use of radio to get into immediate touch with land or other vessels, we can better appreciate the protection that is afforded shipping in general by modern methods of communication. Had trouble actually developed on the submarine while it was on the surface, trouble of a character which could not have been taken care of abroad, it possessed means of signalling for assistance. Because it could not be reached by the mother ship of the submarine fleet and because it did not answer messages sent to it there was cause for apprehension and it was cheering news when it was disclosed that there was nothing more serious the matter than the temporary breaking down of the wireless. It was proceeding to its destination as if nothing had happened. It was lost only in the sense that it was impossible to communicate with it, while thoughts of its being lost were stirred only because of the close touch which it is possible to keep with vessels today.

What happened to the S-3 is only what has happened before and what may be expected to happen again. Such a small craft is not in a position to make repairs as rapidly as would be the case on a larger one, especially if the weather conditions are at all bad. When the government made report of the missing submarine it did so as a matter of duty but at the same time it indicated the probability that no harm had befallen the submarine and that it would be relocated, as it was, proceeding to its destination.

There was of course the greatest satisfaction that the situation was only what it was, but it also shows that while we place so much dependence upon the radio and its invaluable information we are seriously handicapped and apprehensive the minute it doesn't work.

A LONG, SLOW FIGHT

The demand for the abolition of the submarine is not a new one. It has been raised before and even urged. It comes up again now and with much backing in this country because of the disasters which have occurred in which such craft were involved and because of the recent fear that something serious might have happened to another.

The advocacy of such a step as the elimination of the submarine can do no harm. How much will be accomplished is a question, but in addition to a desire to remove the possibility of any more being the death traps for their crews there is also a desire to overcome the undesirable conditions under which those in the submarine service are obliged to operate. New light has been thrown upon this by the reports which have been made by those who know the conditions, the restrictions of the underwater boats and who have actually experienced them though not in the service.

Whether anything can be accomplished depends entirely upon the attitude that is manifested by the various countries. Certainly it cannot be expected that any country will undertake such a move alone. When action is taken, if it ever is, it will have to be in concert with each making positive agreements.

Because reliance is placed by some of the nations in the protective value of the submarine much opposition is to be expected against any step that would outlaw the underwater boat. Until that same degree of protection can be assured otherwise the sub will have its supporters, not because the hazards in its operation are desired, but because it is regarded as too valuable to sacrifice. This throws no obstacles in the way of agitation for such a goal any more than it does in the pathway for the outlawing of war itself, but it will be a long, slow fight.

REGULATION OR NO REGULATION

There are states in which more or less uncertainty has existed over the regulation of interstate motor bus service because no one has been given authority to deal with such a situation. A federal commission, the interstate commerce commission, has the power to deal with other forms of transportation, but the motor vehicle was not doing very much business when it was created and no action has since been taken to cover the situation. It is a matter which rests with congress to settle.

As for the regulation of motor bus transportation within a state it has generally been conceded that a commonwealth has the right to deal with that situation and when the utilities commission is vested with the authority to determine whether certain lines shall be established, how they shall run and what provisions must be observed for the protection of the public there have not been many instances where opposition has been manifested.

In the state of Missouri there is the demand that the bus line owners be shown. The legislature of that state has wrestled with the problem of regulating the bus lines of that state, extensions of which are constantly being sought as well as new ones seeking franchises, and gave the public service commission of that state the power to license, supervise and regulate every motor carrier in the state and to fix or approve the rates. It was also authorized to grant licenses provided it was shown such service was needed.

It has usually been the case that such action has been taken for the public welfare, to encourage service that will be efficient and safe and to eliminate the cutthroat competition that sooner or later means unfit transportation. Consideration likewise has to be given to the matter of highway safety.

Nevertheless one bus line which failed to convince the commission that it ought to be allowed to do business feels aggrieved and is about to put the new law to a test. It arouses interest solely because it will show whether the authority given to the commission amounts to something.

THE KNAPP CASE

No surprise will probably be manifested over the decision of the governor of New York to accept the recommendations of his investigator and order the charges made against Mrs. Knapp, the former secretary of state, presented before the grand jury. Acting on the advice of her counsel Mrs. Knapp has thus far made no explanation of her position. She has persistently denied that there was anything wrong, but she has declined to appear before the investigator and tell her story. Through the testimony of others there have been statements made which clearly call for prosecution if they are so and it rests with a trial to find out what is what.

The census scandal has revealed an undesirable situation. Inasmuch as only one side of the affair has been heard there is good reason for withholding judgment until all the facts have been presented, and most people will do so even though they are ready to admit that much explaining is going to be required.

In the decision to follow out the investigator's recommendation regarding Mrs. Knapp the governor has done what was expected and what was called for, but it is not as easy to follow his line of reasoning in connection with the others whose prosecution was also recommended by the investigator.

The governor based his action in regard to Mrs. Knapp upon what his investigator learned. He accepts that. He bases his action in regard to the others upon his own judgment and throws overboard what the investigator learned and what he recommended following the investigation. He takes the attitude that his investigator should be upheld only in part. He doesn't even turn the whole matter over to the grand jury to determine where the guilt lies. He leaves part of it to the jury and decides the rest himself. Possibly he has done the right thing but he doesn't leave it to the determination of the jury as he has in the case of Mrs. Knapp. It will not be surprising if such action results in a certain amount of criticism.

HUGHEY JENNINGS

Like a great many others who have become stars, Hughey Jennings began his baseball career by playing the game for the fun he got out of it along with the other boys of his age. In such groups there are always those who excel and come into greater prominence than others. Some carry it on to high school or college and drop it there. Others break into the professional ranks without seeking the inside of a college though some find it so attractive even after a college course as to stick to it and make a success.

Jennings represents the players of other days, but his passing at the age of 59 means the loss of a distinct and prominent figure in baseball. He was always one of the stars of the team with which he was connected. He knew the game of baseball. He knew all its tricks and he was head and shoulders above others when it came to the task of coaching and trying to rattle the opposing players. Jennings antics on the sidelines were always a feature of the games in which he participated. They represented a part of the game which is not so conspicuous today but it was always highly entertaining for the crowd. Many a game has hinged upon some timely antic by the clown on the coaching line.

Not only as a player but also as a manager did Jennings win for himself a lasting place in baseball history. His passing means that same loss to the game as when any leader drops out. There will be other players and other managers. They may be as good as he was and even better, but that doesn't mean that there will be more of the Hughey Jennings type.

DAVID MAKES UP HIS MIND.

David had a wee drap of Scotch blood in him; when he made up his mind to something he made up his mind, and that was that. But he always did quite a bit of worrying meanwhile.

There was the little matter of getting engaged to Elizabeth Stanley Belcher. It took David at least two months to make up his mind that Betsy was the girl for him. Then one day she said to him:

"David, do you know that little colonial house on Edengate terrace? I was just thinking the other day how beautifully that could be fixed over if the right people got hold of it. Are you the sort of person who is interested in fixing over old houses, David?"

David made up his mind then and there. Then there was the trifling matter of whether they should have a big wedding or just the family. David pondered this for at least three weeks. Then one day Betsy happened to be telling him the reasons she envied the Meachems because they had such a fine big wedding. So David decided that they should have a wedding with all the trimmings, and they did.

But all that is now ancient history, and the colonial house has been sold and replaced by an English cottage and little Dave is in high school and Jeanne has come home on her second vacation from college. And Betsy drives to and from meetings of the woman's club in her smart sedan.

"Mother," said Jeanne, the second night home, in her charming drawl, that was accentuated when she had something momentous to say, "what would you think if I were to leave school and marry Harvey Higgins?" Betsy carried good bumpers on her emotions.

"Do you love him?" she gasped.

"I'll tell the world I do," said Jeanne.

"Can he—support you?" stalled Betsy.

"He's been promised a good job next month; he's going to stay with his folks till then," said Jeanne.

"Your father will have to make up his mind" said Betsy, "and perhaps I had better break it to him." She told David about it that night while he was smoking his after-dinner cigar.

"She's so young," said David, and his voice broke a bit. "And yet——"

Several weeks later Betsy and David were walking in the garden.

"You will have to make up your mind about Jeanne," said Betsy.

"I know; she spoke to me the other day," said David. "She was so terribly matter-of-fact it made me shudder. Young Higgins spoke to me, too; it must have been two weeks ago. He was pretty matter of fact about it, too. Do these children think it is nothing for me to give up our daughter so soon, for her to sacrifice the rest of her schooling, to upset all our plans?"

"Maybe my father had just as much trouble making up his mind," said Betsy.

"I don't remember that we particularly asked him," said David.

"I thought you did," Betsy murmured.

"A mere formality," observed David, lighting a second cigar.

"I really think young Harvey could make Jeanne happy," said her mother. And David made up his mind.

"Jeanne," said David suddenly at the breakfast table next morning, "I have made up my mind that you may marry Harvey if you really want him—may I have a glass of milk with my eggs?"

"Dad," said Jeanne, smiling indulgently at the way his hand trembled as he held his glass, "I hope you'll take it the right way, like a modern father. Harvey and I decided we just couldn't let our families stand in our way any longer and we were married yesterday by a justice of the peace over at Marshfield. We thought we'd wait until today to break the news, and tonight leave for Los Angeles, where Harvey is to get a job that has been promised him. So that's that!"

When the milk had been mopped up by a somewhat agitated but stiff-lipped Betsy, David took his daughter in his arms.

"It's a lucky thing, my dear," said he, "that I didn't make up my mind the other way." He did not see the look that flashed between Betsy and Jeanne.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Acute Appendicitis

By H. E. Randall, M. D. Flint, Mich., Member Gorgas Memorial

Approximately the same number die of appendicitis each year as are killed in automobile accidents. We try tto teach our children in the schools to be more careful and cautious, to prevent auto accidents, and thousands of deaths from appendicitis can be prevented by yearly operations. A late operation for appendicitis is really an operation for peritonitis. The early operation removes all the inflamed part, which is then limited to the appendix.

What makes appendicitis so dangerous a disease is that not always are the symptoms in accord with the severity of the disease. A typical attack of appendicitis starts with an attack of pain in the pit of the stomach, which in a few hours shifts to pain or soreness in the lower right side with a hardness or rigidity of the muscles. There is now slight fever and the pulse rate is increased in the number of beats per minute. The patient lies with the legs drawn up or often curled up on the right side. The right side is painful on pressure and the patient instinctively protects himself.

But, unfortunately, all cases are not so typical in their course. There may be no fever, the pulse may be normal in rate, the pain may be not slight, there may be no hardness of muscles present, and the patient may not appear very sick. These are the cases that may go for two or three days before appendicitis is even suspected. Often the patient is supposed to have eaten too much popcorn or peanuts at the picnic.

A good rule to follow is that a sudden pain in the abdomen, if it settles or starts in the lower right side, may be an attack of appendicitis, and if appendicitis is suspected no cathartic or physic of any kind should be given. Most cases of ruptured appendix are from persons who have taken a cathartic, as has been strongly pointed out by a great English surgeon, Sir Berkeley Moynihan. Again it should be remembered that relief from pain is not always a good symptom. A ruptured appendix always brings relief for a short time. Soreness in the right side is the danger signal to call your physician for a diagnosis.

It hardly seems possible that a little useless organ the size of an angle-worm could be such a dangerous thing when inflamed, but the experience of thousands of patients and the experience of thousands of doctors all agree that it is not the size of things that determines their power for harm.

There is no medical treatment for appendicitis because no one can tell how severe an attack may be or how long it may last, and much valuable time is lost in making experiments with drugs and applications. Early removal means cure and easy convalescence with less loss of time.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Joseph V. Stalin, whose ruthlessness in exiling his political foes recalls the days of the czars, is the present dictator of Soviet Russia. Stalin is the son of a peasant in the Tiflis district, and now a man of 49. From the time when he was 19 he has been exclusively engaged in revolutionary work. He was a close friend of Lenin's and supported Lenin throughout the bitter struggle that accompanied the making of the Brest-Litovsk peace. He is declared to be an extremely clever political tactician, with no sort of human decency in conducting a party squabble. He made his post of general secretary of the central committee the most important post in the committee organization. Though he is not an orator, Stalin's speeches always attract attention by his rare gift of marshaling ideas and facts. In this respect he has few rivals in Russia.

When the Woods Turn Green Again

There's a warm, warm wind comes from the south
With a promise and a song
A song that wells from a rose-tipped mouth,
In cadence full and strong.
It whispers, whispers through the day
To the hearts of longing men,
That the time is coming on the way
When the woods turn green again.

When the woods turn green in the sunshine's kiss,
And dream o'er the lazy pool,
Where the dappled shadows hit-and-miss,
Sway slowly, dark and cool.
And the long, long dawnings bring the tune
Of the robin, thrush and wren,
'Till they lullaby to the day-held moon
When the woods turn green again.

When the woods turn green, and the sky's rich hue
Takes a deeper, truer shade,
And the blood-red poppies dott the view
In a pattern God has made,
Then the song the south winds sing so low
Will live on hill and glen,
And its mellow notes into being grow
When the woods turn green again.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Shuts the Door Again

Who to his business doth attend
Will seldom other folk offend.
—Old Mother Nature.

It didn't take Peter Rabbit long to find out when Reddy Fox had left. Peter didn't feel altogether comfortable down there in Johnny Chuck's house. Johnny has a way of grumbling to himself sometimes and his grumbling isn't pleasant. He was grumbling now. You see, he hadn't wanted to wake up, but when he was once awake he had had to go up and see how it was outside. He had sort of hoped that it was spring. When he had opened the door and poked his head out and found everything covered with snow Johnny had been a disgusted woodchuck.

So, after sitting on his doorstep a while, wishing he could get something to eat, but knowing he couldn't,

"I've got to shut this door again," grumbled Johnny Chuck.

Johnny had gone down back to his bedroom. He hadn't even waited to greet Peter Rabbit, who had started from the Old Briar-patch, lippertylippertylip, when he had seen Johnny out there on his doorstep. Peter had been greatly disappointed. He had wanted to talk with Johnny Chuck. You know Peter always likes to gossip. But Peter hadn't quite dared go down inside that house. In the first place it wasn't polite. In the second place he had a feeling that Johnny Chuck was out of sorts. So not until Reddy Fox had jumped for him had Peter gone down inside.

When Peter did go in he didn't go away down. He went down Johnny Chuck's long hall only far enough to be sure he was safe from Reddy Fox. The situation Peter found himself in wasn't getting altogether pleasant. Down below he could hear Johnny Chuck growling and grunting. Up above he could hear Reddy Fox growling and snarling. So, you see, Peter sort of felt as if trouble awaited him either way.

Peter guessed that Reddy Fox wouldn't stay very long. It was broad daylight and he knew that Reddy wouldn't want to be out there in the middle of the Green Meadows any longer than he could help. So, after waiting a little while, Peter began to make his way up to the doorway, a step at a time. Between steps he waited. At last he was where he could look out. Nothing was to be seen of Reddy Fox, in front of him or on either side. A Merry Little Breeze came blowing from directly behind Peter, but brought no scent of Reddy Fox. Then Peter boldly thrust his head out. Reddy Fox was nowhere in sight. Peter grinned.

Just then he heard a sound behind. It was Johnny Chuck grumbling. He was coming up the hall. "I've got to shut this door again," grumbled Johnny Chuck. "I've got to shut this door and go back to sleep. I don't see what I had to wake now for, anyway. I didn't want to wake up. I don't see why it isn't spring. I've got to shut this door."

Peter moved out and sat on the doorstep. Then he looked back down inside. Sand was being packed in from down below. It was being pushed up Johnny Chuck's hall and gradually filling up the hallway just below Peter. In a few minutes Peter couldn't see down at all, but he could hear Johnny Chuck at work. Then all was quiet. He knew then that Johnny Chuck had gone back to bed. He had closed his door and gone back to bed.

"Well, it's time for me to go home," said Peter. And so it was.

Stories That Recall Others

Not Entirely Unexpected

"Have the women around these parts started smoking pipes?" asked a commercial salesman in the hotel lobby.

"Why, no-no-that is, I don't think they have," replied the one addressed. "Why do you ask?"

"Well," sai the salesman, "when I was in New York I noticed a number of the women's shops were displaying smoking pipes for women. Beautiful and expensive, costing more than a couple of Dunhills, but there were no good old cobs or briars. It won't be long before the women will abandon the cigarette and take up the pipe," he concluded.

Look Before You Speak

Mother had made a bus trip and remarked in a pleasant conversational tone at dinner, "The driver on the bus had a most unusual name. It was Kwitcher. He must have been a foreigner."

"That is a funny name. How did you know what it was?"

"When I got off I said, 'This corner, Mr. Kwitcher.' It was printed on a little card on the front of the bus. I suppose that was the name of the operator."

Then came the big laugh for all in the family circle had seen the card, and if mother had only read all of it she would have found that it said "Kwitcher Bellyaching."

SUNSHINE LAUNDRY DAMAGED BY FIRE OF UNDETERMINED ORIGIN

Shortly after 9:15 o'clock Thursday night the Sunshine Laundry, 193 Franklin street, near the junction of Boswell avenue, was badly damaged by fire of undetermined origin. The fire department went out on a telephone call and arriving at the building Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft ordered box 235, Franklin and Willow streets, pulled in, calling out additional apparatus. Smoke was pouring from the concrete addition on the north end of the building and from the third story of the main building. Three lines of hose, two 2 1-2 inch and one 1 1-2 inch, were laid. One line was run around the north side of the building and into the concrete, single story ell, another was run into the rear on the south side of the building and a third was carried into the third story of the main building through the front door. After a fight of nearly an hour the fire was extinguished.

The fire started from some undetermined origin in the concrete addition on the second floor level of the main building. There was a large quantity of cloth piled in the addition, which had been laundered for the Max Gordon Corp., and which was ready for delivery. This cloth was damaged by water and fire and a part of it was removed from the building. The flames worked their way into the main building, by way of the partitions and up into the third story to the roof. The laundry machinery was quite badly damaged by fire and water.

A large crowd of spectators quickly gathered at the scene and most of them remained until the apparatus returned to the fire stations. As hose was laid across the trolley tracks trolley passengers on one or two Yantic trips were transferred by trolley officials. For a short while automobile traffic was routed through Willow and Chestnut streets by the police.

The laundry is owned and conducted by Samuel C. Cohen who resides at the Auditorium hotel.

ELKS SEE BOXING AFTER P. E. R. NIGHT SESSION

Five snappy three-round boxing bouts by Norwich boys provided the bill of entertainment that followed the lodge meeting of Norwich lodge of Elks on Thursday evening when the lodge session was the regular observance of Past Exalted Rulers' night.

The boxing events were under the supervision of Tom Craney, as announcer, Jack Wilson, referee, Jack Carney, timekeeper, Fred Hutchinson and Bill Malone, as judges.

The first bout brought together two 110 pound boys, Johnny Dosh and Red Connell, with the former having something of an edge on his opponent in their three fast rounds. Mush Morlarty, 139, a left-handed fighter, met Vic Darr, 128, in the next bout, which was fairly even and filled with action. Young McCarthy and Young Kopp, 130 pounders, climbed through the ropes for the next bout and went to it with a will that met favor with the crowd. Young Brusso and Frankie Adams, in the 130-pound class, kept busy while they were in the ring and ended with a flash of heavy slugging while they stood toe to toe and swapped punches.

Steve Polinsky, 121, and Young Quinn, 124, were willing mixers in the final bout of the evening with Quinn outpointing his opponent by a shade.

Sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served during the evening.

$60,000 FIRE SWEEPS THROUGH LORD'S POINT

Fire discovered in Lord's Point Inn shortly before 1 o'clock Thursday morning, destroyed the inn, five adjoining cottages and two garages and partially consumed four other cottages, causing an estimated loss of $60,000.

The Hoxie engine company from Mystic and the Stonington pumper company fought the fire for three hours and kept the flames from sweeping through the 20 or more cottages along the beach front.

The cause of the fire is unknown as neither the hotel nor the cottages are occupied at this season of the year.

The hotel was owned by Gustave Siller, of Westerly, who also owned one of the cottages destroyed. The other cottages that were lost were owned by Dr. William F. Jacob, of New York; Ernest Black, Groton; Elizabeth and J. C. Fitch, of New York, and Mrs. Florence King, New York. Mr. Black was also the owner of one of the garages which were consumed, the other garage being owned by Theodore L. Hopkins, of Longmeadow, Mass. Evening Session

Right now the mission fields are open to the preaching of the gospel we send to those foreign lands said Dr. P. H. J. Lerrigo of New York at the closing session in the evening. The speaker was referring to Asia and Africa. The evening session was opened at 7:30 o'clock with Rev Edward C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, this city, presiding. Following the devotional period led by Rev. A. G. Littlefield of Lebanon, the report of the findings committee, Mrs. George A. Ashbey and Mrs. R. W. Ferguson, appointed at the afternoon session, was read by Mrs. Ashbey, as follows:

Committee Report

We, your committee, rejoice to report that the churches of the New London association, are increasingly interested in missions as shown by their enlarged contributions and fine attendance at this session.

We believe every church should fully and freely cooperate in the denominational programme of world wide effort to make the Christ known.

To develop this interest and cooperation we recommend that every pastor shall lead his church and people in the formation of mission study classes and schools of missions and thus bring to them the information as to what is to be done and what is being done in this great undertaking.

Literature as to courses and methods as well as counsel and help in the setting up of these, may be secured from the state office and officials.

For the economy as well as propriety in giving, the churches are strongly urged to see to it that one half of their apportionment be sent to headquarters promptly each month.

We believe that all the problems of our missionary enterprises would be solved if scriptural stewardship were conscientiously practiced and we recommend a deeper thought in this regard.

Your committee would suggest that the association executive should consider itself a committee to put in some way before the slow or delinquent churches their duties as co-laborers with Jesus Christ in regard to their prompt and whole hearted support of the Lord's great commission to us all.

Regarding expressed dissatisfaction as to state and national overhead expenses, your committee believes that there is a great need for even increased labor and laborers from state and national centres, but at the same time urges the fullest and most apparent economy in the operation of these offices.

Your committee desires to express hearty appreciation of the practical addresses of the visiting speakers and also most sincere thanks for the fine hospitality of the entertaining church and pastor.

More Mission Interest Needed

Dr. J. F. Barton of Hartford was introduced by Rev. Mr. Dunbar as the first speaker. Reading of the accomplishments of missions gives me a thrill, he said, for I have contributed towards that work. You also contribute. The speaker, who is a Hartford dentist and greatly interested in missionary work, told of one missionary surgeon performing 58 major operations, sometimes by the light of a candle or an old lamp, under almost unsanitary conditions, and not losing one life. In 58 different units of activity we have over $15,000,000 invested, he said. For the last six years we have been running one million dollars short. The mission schools are running on a minimum. Something must be done. Why this lack of interest in mission work? Why such a decline? Whose fault is it?

Dr. Barton said that part of the fault lay with the ministers. They don't give us the evidence that there is a need for real Christian sacrifice, he said. They don't give us missionary sermons enough. Why don't you take our mission magazines and read up on the wonderful work our missionaries are doing. Are we going to withdraw that wonderful work. I believe that if our ministers came out in their sermons and tell us of the wonderful work being done and the need for sacrifice our contributions would be increased 100 per cent.

There are 170,000 students in Asia with radical ideas. Suppose we retrench and withdraw our missionaries. Then we will have need to fear the "yellow peril." If we keep our missionaries in Asia we will have no reason to fear the "yellow peril."

Another reason why we don't give is that we say "Let George do it; he has a little more money than I have." Some of us are trying to ride along on God's promises for half fare. Some of us are trying to get a free ride.

The mission quotas are being sent out this week. They want you to accept these quotas. We want the people to dig down in their pockets. Those who have been giving we want to give a little more. Those who have not been giving we want to give something.

Address by Dr. Lerrigo

Following Dr. Barton's talk a hymn was sung, after which Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, took charge of the meeting, introducing as the final speaker, Dr. P. H. J. Lerrigo of New York who spoke on the topic, Christ and the World's Tumult.

Jesus' contacts were international, universal, from the very beginning, he said. The Christian has a privilege which is not accorded the ordinary person. God gives us the opportunity to develop because of the fact that God gives us world citizenship. God has given us wonderful riches and given us the impulse to scatter these riches.

Jesus was interested in men and women and you and I are interested in men and women today. With reference to Africa, Dr. Lerrigo said that we have been in the habit of looking on that continent as a place of terrible misery. Today Africa is suddenly emerging from its darkness. There are bright spots all over that land. The full impact of western civilization has struck Africa as the white man goes there to search for the treasures hidden under ground. The childlike peoples of that land are bewildered but they were better able to meet the rapidly changing conditions through contact with the missionaries.

It was out of loving hearts that the message of Jesus went to the Congo. Asia has sent thousands of its people to Africa as colonists. There is today a considerable Indian population in Africa. The Christian church which has touched India tremendously has begun to permeate the whole social structure in that country. When you get right into the hearts of men and women it is discovered that they are much the same the world over. All honor to our missionaries. Right now the fields are wide open to the preaching of the gospel we send to those lands. Adjournment followed Dr. Lerrigo's address.

VALENTINE TEA WHEN CATH. WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The February meeting of the Catholic Woman's club was held Thursday afternoon at the rooms of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus, the president Mrs. Thomas J. McVeigh, presiding. The meeting was opened with prayer by the vice president, Mrs. John C Cantlin. The various committees in charge of the recent card party and dance at the Wauregan hotel reported that although all returns had not been received, the affair would net a gratifying sum.

The sewing committee reported that there was great need of warm clothing for children and that all such sent to the sewing room in the parish school would be most gratefully received. There are many garments which must be made; therefore good warm dresses or boys' suits donated at this time will greatly lessen the work of the committee. It was voted that this committee should also make quilts this winter, thus giving a greater number of members a chance to take an active part in this good work. The sewing circle is to begin regular meetings the first Thursday of Lent, to continue weekly through Lent, or while there is need.

It was also voted to broaden a bit the club aims this year and carry its charitable activities to a wider sphere of usefulness. The plans for future activities were outlined and more definite action is to be taken at the next meeting.

Following the business session, a short entertainment gave pleasure to the members. Mrs. John C. Cantlin and Mrs. Edmund M. Taft were heard in a beautifully rendered vocal duet, "Whispering Hope," (Alice Hawthorne) Mrs. Cantlin playing the piano accompaniment. As an encore they sang "Call Me Back, Pal of Mine." Bridge and whist were played, Mrs. John R. Tarrant being the winner at bridge and Mrs. John W Brassil at whist. Adding greatly to the enjoyment of the afternoon was the daintily appointed tea table with its valentine decorations of hearts and red candles, in charge of the tea were Mrs J. J. Casey, Mrs. William Farrell, Mrs. John Kennedy and Mrs. John W. Brassil. The entertainment for the afternoon was arranged by Mrs. James J. Dutton, Mrs. John R. Tarrant and Mrs. Thomas H. Savard, of Williams street.

SH-h-h! Little Whispers About A Bad Breath

There is nothing more common or more disagreeable than a bad breath. And the sad part of it is, that while we're quick to detect it in others, we seldom think of ourselves.

A sour, "gassy" or acid stomach is most always the cause of Bad Breath, and it doesn't matter how often you brush your teeth, wash your mouth, or how little or what you eat. If your "stomach's off" your breath will tell the story. But if you'll keep your stomach sweet and clean and free from acid you won't have to worry about a bad breath, gas, sourness or belching.

To cleanse and sweeten a sour stomach; to neutralize the acid and purify the breath, nothing is easier or better to use than ordinary Bisurated Maganesia, which can be obtained in small quantities at any good drug store. Use it after every meal. Bisurated Magnesia is a powerful antacid and stomach corrective. A pure product, pleasant, harmless and quickly effective. Warning: Do not confuse Bisurated Magnesia — a Chemist's product—with any of the Magnesia preperations such as milk or citrate. Bisurated Magnesia comes only in powder or tablets. Ask your druggist.

PASTIME A. C. HAS PROMISING CARD FOR TONIGHT'S AMATEURS

With an abundance of boys nearly all weights, the Pastime A. C. resume their amateur boxing shows tonight at Olympic hall. This card is, according to the promoters, the best that has been lined up as yet with entries from practically all communities of eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island.

Westerly to Send Team.

Westerly checked in Thursday evening and announced that a team would be sent for this show. This being the case it is possible that a few re-matches from the last show will be had. One or two of the Westerly boys will probably go against the same opponents that they faced three weeks ago where the decision was close.

Willimantic with a team handled by Art Miller, should be capably represented. Miller, who recently came to the Thread City, has taken over the boys of Artie Kumpf and now has 15 of them under his wing. He will bring down five of his best for this evening's show and he expects his careful training of the past few weeks to show results. Danielson will have the old standbys on hand while New London will also have several favorites here this evening.

The New York team, which has been promised, is expected to prove the feature of the show. These boys have received only the best of care down in the metropolis and they are expected to give as good accounts of themselves as have their predecessors. This team comes by way of the Schiller camp in Lebanon, which of late has become to be a standard training camp for leading New York fighters.

Darr and Lary On Hand.

Vic Darr, Mush Moriarty, Boots Lary and Young Hudson are some of the local boys slated to perform. A few of the boys had a bit of tuning-up over at the Elks last night and afterwards announced themselves at the peak of shape for tonight's affair.

The show will start promptly at 8.15 and preparations are being made for a capacity house.

WINDHAM AND ACADEMY SET FOR ANNUAL GAME HERE

Windham and the Academy are now practically ready for the starting whistle in the first game of their annual series here tomorrow. These two old rivals need but very light work to put them in A-1 shape, according to reports from the squads.

Windham beat Stonington Wednesday night and all her regulars came through in A-1 shape, physically. This game was expected by her followers to set the team just right for this most important game.

Present indications are that a large delegation will make the trip from the Thread City to cheer Windham on. Interest is running high in Willimantic about the game for Windham is supposed to have one of her best teams in years.

The preliminary tomorrow night should also draw plenty of interest. It brings together the Y Seniors and the Mercury Five, one of the City league teams in New London. The Y figures on making its best showing this time after two defeats, caused mainly by the absence of several regulars.

KID KAPLAN SLATED TO BATTLE BOBBY MAYS

"Kid" Kaplan, Meriden lightweight, who has been missing from the resined ring for a long period because of trouble to his knee, is slated to return to the hempen circle on the night of February 13 at New Haven.

Plans for the Silver City scrapper to meet Bobby Mays, New London lightweight, are announced virtually consummated, but few minor details in connection with the bout calling for completion.

In getting the "shot" at Kaplan, Mays is being favored over Georgie Day, who it was thought would be the adversary of the Meriden puncher.

Mays boasts a record that recommends him for a match with Kaplan. He has two decisive victories over Georgie Day to his credit, also has Young Conley of New London, winner of the state lightweight tournament and has knocked out "Pep" O'Brien of Scranton, who has faced some of the best in his division among them Ruby Goldstein.

Mays is a southpaw and has the all-around equipment of a good fighter.

This bout with Mays will usher in what will be a busy campaign for the Meriden boy, other matches being in the offing in eastern and western parts of the country.

GRID RULES BODY TO MEET SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—Reversing the usual gridiron procedure the reorganized National Football Rules committee is executing a shift before it goes into its annual huddle to debate the gridiron code and changes recommended in it for 1928.

Edward K. Hall, chairman of the committee, announced today that instead of meeting in New York about the middle of March, as has been the previous custom, the rulesmakers will gather in the comparative seclusion of the Seaview Golf club at Absecon, N. J., this Saturday.

In addition to these departures the committee's deliberations will be allowed to crystallize over the week end and revealed to a palpitating gridiron public early Monday afternoon by W. S. Langford, secretary of the committee. It has been the previous custom for the committee, through the chairman, to give out its findings immediately after its sessions.

HOLISTON WINS OVER DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 2—In a very hard played and rough game the Holiston Town team just barely edged out a victory over the Danielson Town team here tonight, 23 to 20. The Holiston five proved to be one of the hardest working teams to play here this season as they were in the game every minute and out for victory. The first ten minutes of play found Danielson leading 6 to 2 and then immediately after this Holiston evened the score. The Holiston boys continued on caging several baskets until at the end of the half the score stood 17 to 8 in Holiston's favor. The Danielson team opened the final half with snappy work and gradually overcame Holiston's lead outplaying the Holiston team 2 to 1 during the final half, but could not quite overcome the handicap which their opponents obtained in the first half.

Several college stars were in the Holiston lineup and special mention should be made of Red Rae and Walsh as their floor work was of a superior sort. Schofield and Blakeley were high scorers for Danielson, Blakely substituting for Armington who was injured in the early part of the game.

Gehrig's Team Next

Next week Danielson will play Lou Gehrig's team on Thursday evening and it will be the All Stars only appearance in Eastern Connecticut this season. This will be the biggest game of the season and the Danielson management is making arrangements for added seating capacity.

'BOUT SPORTS

There is one big question bothering eastern Connecticut this morning and that is "Where is Lou Gehrig going to appear next week, in Plainfield or Danielson, or both." It was announced Wednesday morning that the Danielson Town team had closed negotiations with Larrupin Lou's team to appear in Danielson some time in February. Wednesday night at the Plainfield Community house, it was announced that Gehrig's team would play in Plainfield next Wednesday evening. That seemed all right, for the average fan thought that the All-Stars were coming on a two-day visit, for Wednesday and Thursday nights, the regular playing nights of Plainfield and Danielson, respectively. But last night the management of Danielson comes out with the statement that Gehrig's All-Stars will make their only eastern Connecticut appearance in Danielson next Thursday. It is understood that Danielson had the first call on this team's services and knowing that having this team play in a neighboring community the night before would take much of the glamour off this attraction, of course, the Towners would not be over-anxious for Gehrig to toss baskets against the Pros next Wednesday. There is still somewhat of a cloud over the situation but fans are hoping one big hope—that Gehrig will be around.

The Pastimes, counting on the New York team as the feature, are in high hopes of a large crowd and profits tonight. This club has valiantly struggled through now for nearly half a year, many times confronted with big odds. They are giving the Norwich fan his only taste of fighting and few will disagree when we say that there are not many idle moments down in that ring in Olympic hall.

The Emps used 16 players.

In the other game on the evening's program the Mebs from New London trounced the Kappas of this city 45 to 29. The Whalers had an advantage most of the way.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, eight times winner of the national championship, advanced to the semi-final round of the Heights Casino invitation tournament today by defeating Mrs. J. L. Bremer, of Boston, in a hard-fought three-set match. The scores were 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

In the first set Mrs. Mallory was erratic, making many errors, and allowing Mrs. Bremer to catch her out of position with accurate placements. Mrs. Mallory steadied in the second set and had little trouble winning 6-1, but wavered again in the third and barely pulled it out.

Conn. Power Co. Games

WATERBURY, Feb. 2—(AP)—In the Connecticut Light and Power company state league basketball games here tonight, Meriden defeated New Milford, 18 to 12. Norwalk won over New Britain, 11 to 9. Waterbury defeated Branford, 14 to 6.

PELTZER SCORES SENSATIONAL WIN IN MILLROSE A. A. GAMES

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Press Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—Making his American indoor debut, Dr. Otto Peltzer, German champion, scored a sensational victory over nine American rivals in a 1,000 yards race that featured the Millrose track and field carnival tonight.

A crowd of more than 12,000 spectators, on their feet yelling from the start to finish, gave Dr. Peltzer a terrific ovation for his gameness as well as ability in triumphing under adverse circumstances over so large a field. The crowd stood with bared heads as the band played the German national anthem after the race.

Dr. Peltzer was timed in 2 minutes, 18 3-5 seconds, close to six seconds behind the world's indoor record held by Lloyd Hahn, but under the racing conditions it was considered a brilliant performance.

Dr. Peltzer was slated originally to enter a special 800-meter race which, in view of the hand-picked list of opponents, would have afforded little more than a workout for the German holder of the world's half-mile record. At the insistence of the A. A. U. the foreign star entered an open event instead and picked the 1,000 yard race in preference to the half-mile open.

Pocketed and buffeted about as the field of ten got off the marks, Dr. Peltzer's chances of victory appeared remote for the first three laps. The German showed his unfamiliarity with the sharply banked board turns but finally cut loose with a burst of speed on one of the straightaways and took the lead from Dodge, an Olympic veteran and ex-national champion. He held it only for a lap as Dodge swept to the front again, followed by J. L. Robinson of the University of Virginia. Again Dr. Peltzer sprinted. His long, flowing strides carried him to the lead on the fifth lap. He kept it over the last circuit of the track in spite of Dodge's desperate challenge while the crowd was in an uproar. Robinson finished third, ten yards behind Dodge.

Hahn Wins Easily

Lloyd Hahn, America's premier miler, sped to easy victory over four rival stars tonight in the Rodman Wanamaker mile, classic feature of the carnival.

The Boston A. A. ace won as he pleased, leading Ray Conger, of the Illinois A. C. by fully 35 yards, looking back over his shoulder as he broke the tape in 4 minutes, 18 3-5 seconds, more than six seconds behind the world's indoor record.

Brown A. A. Suggests Changes

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 2—(AP)—Votes to hold to the 1927 rule on the uncaught punt and less protection for the lateral pass by making an incompleted lateral a free ball but dead at the spot at which it is recovered at were cast by the Brown Athletic council tonight in response to a request for an opinion on these points by T. A. D. Jones, Yale coach and New England representative on the intercollegiate rules committee.

25 CENT TAX ON FIGHT "ANNIE OAKLEYS"

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A tax of 25 cents will be imposed upon all complimentary tickets to professional bouts in Connecticut, it was announced tonight by Thomas E. Donohue, Connecticut boxing commissioner. Commissioner Donohue will put the tax into operation within a few weeks.

Commissioner Donohue is initiating this method of taxing complimentary tickets in view of the hundreds of persons who are admitted to boxing shows all over the state on "Annie Oakleys," and the subsequent loss of revenue to the boxers in the main bouts who usually fight for a percentage of the gate.

The tax thus collected will be put into a fund for needy boxers. The fund will be administered by Commissioner Donohue and a committee of citizens.

Under Donohue's plan, promoters will be allowed to give to each newspaper two press tickets which will not be taxed, and as many complimentary tickets as he pleases, but the complimentary tickets will carry a tax of 25 cents.

Complimentary fight tickets also are taxed in New York where the Empire state athletic commission imposes a tax of 50 cents on "comps."

TABS RETURN MONEY WHEN GAME IS DELAYED

WATERBURY, Feb. 2—(AP)—Failure of the Hartford Yankees to arrive on scheduled time, coupled with poor attendance forced Manager Hugh Cunningham of the St. Joseph Tabs to postpone the Connecticut state league basketball contest scheduled here tonight. The Yankees did not arrive until 9:30 o'clock and when the fans became impatient and demanded the starting of the game or the return of their money, the owner of the Tabs complied with their request. The game will be played at a later date.

DAVIS CUP DRAWINGS TO BE MADE TODAY

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—With a record-breaking list of 33 nations contending for the right to challenge France's tennis supremacy, the official draw for the 1928 Davis cup tournament tomorrow will inaugurate what observers expect to be one of the most brilliant campaigns in court history. The official dignitaries taking part in the ceremony of the draw for the European and American zone eliminators will be headed by President Gaston Doumergue.

BOXING JABS

Jim Quinn and Jackie Burns, the men behind the boxing shows down in Olympic hall, claim that they have the strongest card yet lined up for tonight. They have rounded up quite a bunch of simon-pures and if things turn out, fans will have some real action this evening.

The amateurs start in Willimantic Feb. 17. Several Norwich boys are slated to appear.

Eddie Brody, the boy who has decisions over both Koziol and Quinn, continues to win down around Bridgeport.

Several of the fans are still wondering why Devine ever got the decision over Jimmy Quinn at Putnam last Friday night. Some of them thought that, at least, Devine should only have gotten away with a draw. Quinn had him off his feet twice.

Complimentaries will not be prized quite so highly now with the new 25 cent tax that Tommy Donohue has in mind.

Old Mike McTigue is way on the short end of the betting against Leo Lomski tonight in Madison Square Garden.

MIKE McTIGUE BATTLES LOMSKI TONIGHT IN GARDEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—Michael "Methuselah" McTigue, ancient of the prize ring, will match the wisdom of almost 40 years against the slashing fists of Leo Lomski, youthful Aberdeen assassin, in a light heavyweight elimination joust of 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The winner has been promised a match with Jimmy Slattery, clean cut Buffalo star and later Joe Sekyra, curly headed blonde from Dayton, as a part of the process of weeding out another challenger for Tommy Loughran's 175-pound title. Lomski and Slattery failed to lift the Philadelphian's crown in recent tries, although the hard-smacking westerner twice dumped Tommy for nine counts in the opening round of their set-to.

The canny old Irishman, who twice sported the light heavyweight title, is running a poor second in the betting with odds of 2 to 1 against his chances. A recent knockout at the hands of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, dimmed McTigue's star at the very start of his "final" come-back campaign. McTigue, who first won the light heavyweight championship from Battling Siki on St. Patrick's day in Dublin in 1923, gained it a second time when Jack Delaney renounced the division to cast his lot among the heavyweights last year. Mike lost the title to Loughran last fall.

Lomski, huskiest of the present day body punchers, is expected to determine in short order whether McTigue is still to be classed with the top-notchers of his division. The slashing westerner, a constant punching machine, fast of foot and durable, has lost only to the champion in his eastern starts.

Two rugged local middleweights, K. O. Phil Kaplan and Maxie Rosenbloom, head a string of three supporting eight round bouts.

FOOTBALL ONLY SPORT TO SHOW PROFIT AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Football as in many previous years was the only major or minor sport that earned a net profit at Yale in 1927 acording to the annual report of the Yale Athletic association, issued tonight. For the year ending June 30, last, football had a net income of $545,062.35 while all other major and minor groups brought net deficits.

The deficits, subtracted from football's net income, left a net income of $331,770.50 as compared with $183,078.17, for the corresponding period in 1926.

The gross income from Yale athletics was $1,104,359. Payments to visiting teams of $376,421 and direct expenses of $396,167 left an excess revenue of $331,770.

The association had as other income $40,000 for the old baseball cage and $2,883 as interest, which brought the gross income to $374,604. Against this figure $150,000 was paid on the new golf course, $33,596 in salaries and various other items which made aggregate indirect expenses $33,062. This left a net surplus for the year of $41,541, plus $1,455 surplus of a year ago, starting the association off on another year with $42,996. Last year there was a net deficit in operations of $1,873, but the surplus of 1925 wiped this out and left on hand a credit balance of $1,455.

PELL AND MORTIMER IN RACQUETS SEMI-FINALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Play in the national racquets championship advanced to the semi-final round today with the present titleholders, Clarence C. Pell and Stanley G. Mortimer, of New York, among the survivors.

Pell and Mortimer disposed of the Philadelphia team, Stanley Pearson and E. Edwardes, in three straight games, 15-12, 15-13, 15-8.

Making their first appearance in the tournament, the British team of J. C. F. Simpson and C. N. Bruce and the Anglo-Canadian pair, P. W. Kemp-Welch, of England, and A. J. Cassils, of Montreal, each turned in victories over American entries.

Interscholastic Sports

The Academy and Windham tomorrow composes the major news for the fans this week.

It ought to provide a real battle and it ought to attract a banner crowd.

Seeing as how Bulkeley has no bona-fide quintet the Windham series naturally takes its place as the objective one for the Red and White.

Windham trimmed Stonington without much effort Wednesday night and now has won seven and lost but one game, that to Co. C.

Wilby, it seems, is just about the best there is in this Nutmeg state of ours. She beat Naugatuck the other night and as Naugy had been giving them all some terrible beatings this is a real boost for the Brass City crew. Wilby is now practically assured of her entry in the Yale tourney.

Chapman Tech plays Naugatuck on Saturday night at Naugatuck with plenty of hopes for her seventh straight win.

Chapman had little trouble with Killingly Tuesday night.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS PLAY THREE MORE GAMES

The Taftville Crescents continue their busy policy with three more games inside of the next five days. Saturday evening they go to South Manchester for a return battle with the Recs, which team they decisively outpointed at Parish hall a few weeks back. Sunday afternoon they play the St. Joseph's Y. M. A. at Webster and on Tuesday night the Gibraltar A. A. of Southbridge comes to Parish hall for a return joust with the Crescents. The Crescents lost a close one to this club a week ago at Southbridge.

The Crescents have done well so far and victories in these games will be only more boosts for the orange-clad five of Taftville.

B. A. A. Seeking Peltzer

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Bostono Athletic association today entered the scramble for the services of Dr. Otto Peltzer with the announcement that Albert Geiger, chairman of the athletic committee, would confer with the famous German middle distance runner in New York tonight regarding the possibility of his appearance at the B. A. A. games here Saturday.

Pipe Smokers:

Old Col. Wellman certainly did know tobacco!

HIS secret method—now ours exclusively — puts Granger right at the top for taste. It mellows and "mildens" tobacco as nothing else can.

And that's not all, for Granger is cut to burn slower, too; it's Rough Cut. Any dyed-in-the-wool smoker knows what that means—cooler smoking!

All the quality where it counts—inside the package; not a penny wasted for show. It's a product we can stand squarely back of—and we do!

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

To costly tins sensibly packed in heavy foil; hence the price.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Bitgood's Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber and granddaughter, Ruth Richmond, of Jewett City, Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bitgood of Pachaug, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Develve of Eastern Voluntown.

Mrs. Mason Gray has a bad cold and her mother Mrs. Baker is quite feeble. Mrs. Baker is staying with Mrs. Mason Gray. Mrs. Gray is Mrs. Baker's daughter. Mrs. Gray's two youngest children have been quite sick of colds but are better at this writing.

George Green and grandson, Herbert August, called on William Bitgood recently. George Green was 80 years old the last day in January. He and his grandson live alone. Mr. Green does the house work. He gets up in the morning and gets his breakfast while the grandson does the chores. Then they go to the woods and Mr. Green cuts and packs a cord of wood besides getting his dinner and supper. That is one day's work but he does it right along every day. Where is the next fellow that will do that and he is lame besides. He has a stiff leg.

Freddie Congdon and friend were home over Sunday.

This is in memory of our dear daughter and granddaughter, Edna Barber Richmond, who died Feb. 8 1924, four years ago:

Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered
Sweet happy memories cling around your name.
True hearts that love you in deepest affection,
Always will love you in death just the same.

Father, mother, brothers and daughter, grandpa and grandma.

Mrs. Ellen Lewis of Beach Pond is quite sick and her son Arthur, who broke his leg a few days ago, is as comfortable as can be expected.

William Bitgood and Alfred Devolve were at Beach Pond recently.

Charles Douglas has returned home from Plainfield where he has been for a week.

John Barber of Campbell Mills called at Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's recently. He said his daughter was on the gain. She has been sick all the fall and winter.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the Middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1303 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

MANNERS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

"Manners make the man"—Like most other ancient sayings and proverbs, this is about one-half truth and the other half humbug.

Inasmuch as we all of us have to live out our lives by the light of half truths, dimly seen and imperfectly understood, to say that this old saw about manners making the man is only a half truth is not to sweep it aside as totally unworthy of consideration.

Rather it should prompt us to some thankfulness for the half truth it contains.

Especially us farmers, some of whom, as you and I know too well, affect to sneer at "manners" as something for dudes and dandies to worry about, but too unimportant for real men's attention.

As a straight matter of fact, we all know that manners do not make a man, any more than clothes make a woman. But the right kind of clothes, rightly worn, often indicate that there is the right sort of woman inside them. Likewise, the right sort of manners, rightly worn, often indicate that there is the right sort of man behind them. Insofar as that goes, there is basis for the old adage.

Just what are "manners?" Without looking up the dictionary definition, it is probably fair enough to say that they are the combination of our outward behavior towards those we meet. If our general attitude towards those around us is one of gruffness, then cliiousness, suspicion, insolence, then we are properly called ill-mannered. If we ignore the cheap ordinary civilities of society, we are justly judged as lacking manners. If we snarl back at those who speak pleasantly to us, if we seize every opportunity to say ugly things, if we magnify our own self-conceit and intolerance on every possible occasion, then we are rightly described as having bad manners.

In truth, you'll notice that "manners" is simply the plural of manner, and means our characteristic and repeated manner to others.

Now you will, I think, agree with me that this purely external dressing which a man puts on is not the man himself. At the same time, I think you will also agree with me that it affords prima facie testimony of at least some value as to what the man is.

They talk about "rough diamonds," as if being a rough diamond were a virtue. Yet we all know that more than half the market value of the diamond lies in its polishing. The "rough diamond" may contain the potentiality of a precious gem, but you and I don't appreciate it until the cutter has faceted it and polished it. Worse yet, even if we had one we couldn't sell it to anybody except a diamond cutter, or use it for anything except, perhaps, to cut glass if we could find a sufficiently sharp corner.

It is, doubtless, true that "soft words butter no parsnips," but soft words and an ingratiating manner may sometimes help a lot in selling parsnips, if you have an over-supply which you want to get rid of. My own experience as a vegetable grower and seller taught me that it was better business policy to go round to the back door with a neatly tied bunch of carefully washed parsnips in my hand and tip my hat to the woman of the kitchen and ask her with a beaming smile if any of her family happened to like freshly dug 'snips than it was to yank at the front door bell and yell: "Hey, you, want any parsnips today?"

As in everything else, the tendency of human nature in this matter of manners is to slop over, if not on one side then on the other. When suavity degenerates into servility, and politeness into obsequiousness they are apt to arouse suspicion if not contempt On the other hand, when plain speaking rasps into churlishness and self-assertion into disregard of others, they are likely to breed resentment.

As a rule, there is small danger of farmers falling in the first direction. They are much more likely to err in the last. Hands roughened and swollen from the plow and hoe handles do not take kindly to kid gloves But that's no reason why they should take on brass knuckles. We have no call to be ashamed of our big red hands stained with the grime of the soil. Neither should we demand the right to stick them, just as they are, into the pastry dough the pie-maker is rubbing up.

I remember once when I asked a customer to please pick out her own cauliflower from the basket where a couple of dozen snowy curdy heads gleamed white and spotless, as I had been handling potatoes and my fingers had some earth adhering to them, that she said: "Don't apologize, the earth isn't dirty." But she picked out her own cauliflower, just the same, and both were better pleased with each other, she because I had shown consideration for her sense of cleanliness and I because she had openly recognized the difference between clean soil and nasty dirt.

I've sometimes thought that one of the distinctions between city people and country people is found in their different ideas about manners. In the city, the temptation is to use good manners as a cloak to cover natural deformities. There's many a man walking New York streets today whose clothes are unexceptional and whose manners are irreproachable, but who is, himself, a mixture of selfishness and depravity. His assumed good manners don't make a man of him because they are worn as a mask and a disguise, not as the natural outshowing of a manly character.

In the country, our temptation is the reverse. We are so enamored of calling a spade a spade that we feel impelled to call Herr Schmidt an ass to his face. "I'm not mealy-mouthed; I say what I think, no matter who it hits," is the attitude of too many.

I'll admit that honesty is a much higher virtue than suavity; that candor and frankness are also virtues of the first water. But must one be brutal to be honest? Must he be utterly regardless of others' feelings to be frank? Must he pick out his neighbor's faults and denounce them to be candid? While we're on the subject of old saws, here's another: "The truth is not to be spoken at all times." There's a big difference between keeping one's mouth shut and deliberately lying. Old Uncle Ike whose rustic wisdom used to impress me greatly, once said: "There are several people that I don't like, but that doesn't mean that I've got to call 'em out of bed to tell 'em so."

I have as little admiration or use for duplicity as any one can have; as little respect for those "juggling fiends" who

"Keep the word of promise to our ear,
But break it to our hope."

There are men whose only idea of a denial is to yell, "No! d—n you!" There are others who can reject an offer just as irrevocably yet without giving offense.

It is, of course, matter for pride that our tablespoons are sterling silver, of full bullion value, but that doesn't lead the neat housewife to ignore the polish which is essential to their use as eating utensils. Who would want to take his soup from an admittedly solid silver spoon, just as came from the casting mould, with all its roughness remaining?

There is an almost race-wide misapprehension of what "criticism" really is. To nine-tenths of us it means only fault-finding—the pointing out and exposing blemishes or faults. Yet fair criticism is quite as plainly evidenced in the discovery and laudation of merit. The word comes from a Greek verb meaning to separate, to distinguish, to judge.

Your old fanning-mill out on the old threshing floor was a true critic. It separated and distinguished the wheat from the chaff. Yet its main purpose was not to blow out chaff, but to winnow out wheat. We farmer boys didn't turn that horrible crank hour after hour for the sake of the chaff but for the sake of the grain.

Of course, honest criticism must get rid of the chaff, some way. It must recognize faults when they are glaring. And it mustn't be afraid to condemn them when its judgment is properly appealed to. But that is not its sole nor its most valuable purpose, which is to get out the wheat and bag it cleanly for human needs.

Thought is and must be free, both spiritually and mentally. Speech also is free, under certain legal restrictions and responsibilities. But that doesn't mean that we are in honesty compelled to blurt out every suspicion we may chance to harbor about Jones' integrity or Mrs. Jones' failings as a housewife.

It is perfectly possible to be civil without being servile; to be polite without being dishonest; to be courteous without being uncandid.

It is not a sign of big-heartedness to wear one's heart on his sleeve, nor of superior virtue to be constantly rebuking others for their alleged faults The late Col. Osgood, who could have given some present-day politicians cards and spades and still won the game, used to say that "more flies are caught with molasses than with vinegar." And the cuttingest criticism I ever heard of a preacher was that it was his habit to "preach about the love of God with his fists doubled up, pounding the pulpit Bible."

A certain famous clerical hymn writer once submitted to a fellow cleric a highly controversial not to say denunciatory theological pamphlet in which he virtually consigned all who didn't agree with him to limbo. The friend read and returned it with only one suggestion, that the title be made to read: "Go to the devil; by the author of 'Come to Jesus.'" The pamphlet was not published. Its writer saw the point.

We all like men who mean what they say. It doesn't follow that they must always say all they mean.

The man would be a fool who set out to build a house of whitewash But an occasional whitewashing of the smoky kitchen ceiling does help, nevertheless.

ASPIRIN

To break a cold harmlessly and in a hurry try a Bayer Aspirin tablet. And for headache. The action of Aspirin is very efficient, too, in cases of neuralgia, neuritis, even rheumatism and lumbago! All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

POOLS CONTINUED AGGRESSIVE IN SOME SPECIAL STOCKS YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—Raising of the New York federal reserve rediscount rate from 3 1-2 to 4 per cent. which was announced after the market closed was the outstanding event in today's financial markets. While fears of an increase were expressed in some quarters earlier in the day, pools nevertheless continued aggressive bullish demonstrations in special stocks, marking up more than a dozen 3 to 14 points to new high records. Standard industrials also pointed higher but rails continued sluggish in reflection of the poor December earnings statements.

Wall street looked for a high New York rate but apparently did not expect it so soon. In the past such advances have been regarded as bearish, at least temporarily, on the theory that they tended to restrict the volume of credit available for speculative purposes. The money market gave no indication of any immediate change, call money dropping from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent while time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. The weekly statement of brokers' loans showed an increase of $27,185,000, bringing the total to $3,815,820,000 or slightly less than $5,000,000 below the record-breaking figure established three weeks ago.

Burroughs Adding Machine was the outstanding individual feature in today's market, soaring 14 points to a new peak at 139 3-4, and closed within a fraction of the top. Case Threshing, Detroit Edison, Vanadium Steel and Warren Bros Climbed 5 to 6 points, the last three at new highs for the year.

The rapidity of the advance in special stocks was attributed, in part, to the retreat of an over-extended short interest which has been built up to proportions in expectation of a general increase in rediscount rates. Heavy bond and preferred stock financing in the last few weeks undoubtedly has contributed to the increase in brokers' loans.

Among the many issues to reach new high ground during the way were Atlas Tack, American Linseed, Eastman Kodak, Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance, LaClede Gas, Long Bell Lumber, Montana Power, National Lead, Peoples Gas, and Wright Aeroplane.

U. S. Steel common advanced 1 1-8 points to 146 1-4 and General Motors 2 1-4 to 135 3-4. Sharper gains were recorded by some of the smaller steels and motors, particularly Crucible, Vanadium Transue & Williams, Superior, Studebaker and Reo.

Atlantic Refining broke 8 1-2 points and rallied 1. Houston fell nearly 4 points, but recovered half the loss. Liggett & Myers and Porto Rican tobacco issues were heavy.

Sterling cables dropped from $4.87 3-16 to $4.87 1-8 following the higher New York rediscount rate. Other leading European rates disclosed an easier undertone.

Reactionary tendencies also predominated in the commodity markets which were featured by a sharp break in rubber. Wheat lost about a cent a bushel, cotton dropped 36 cents to $1.50 a bale, coffee reacted 18 to 24 points and raw sugar declined 1-32 of a cent a pound.

Railroad issues continued rather sluggish, with the exception of a wave of accumulation in the St. Paul group, which developed a few minutes before the close.

A few industrials which are not ordinarily active were bid up a point or more, including Continental Paper & Bag 6 1-2s, Hoe & Company 6 1-2s and Murray Body 6 1-2s. Liquid Carbonic 6s and General Asphalt 6s, on the other hand, were a point or more lower.

Business in the foreign group was distributed over a long list of issues, but not outstanding features developed. Prices were fractionally irregular.

Prompt oversubscription was reported of the $30,000,000 Rio de Janeiro 6 1-2s, offered this morning.

United States government securities were firm with transactions in moderate volume.

MISSING MONTVILLE GIRL FOUND WITH TWO SAILORS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2—Michael Costello, proprietor of the rooming house and restaurant known as "The Garden of Italy," 115 Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, who has been arrested several times for violation of the prohibition law was arrested early this morning on a much more serious charge. He was apprehended by state police and charged with violation of the liquor law and keeping a minor female for purposes of prostitution. He was presented in the police court this morning, but upon the request of counsel the case was continued to Saturday morning. Costello furnished a surety on his bond of $3000 for his appearance on the later date. Yesterday afternoon, Molly Yavener, 15 daughter of Mr and Mrs. Louis Yavener, Montville, mysteriously disappeared from her home, but that she had planned her sudden leave-taking, there was no doubt, for Mrs. Yavener found a note which stated that the girl was going away and that it would be useless to search for her as she did not intend to return. Yavener went to the state police barracks, Groton, and requested that he be given aid in finding his daughter. The New London police received the same request. About 1 o'clock this morning when Lieut Roy Streaman and Officer Peter Busch, of Groton barracks, had about concluded their search for the girl, they decided to go to Ocean Beach, for they were of the opinion that the Yavener girl would be found in the company of a sailor. They went to the Bentley avenue resort and from their inquiry they learned that the girl was in the house and in the company of two sailors. A visit was made to the room that the three occupied and from the sailors was obtained an open admission of their illicit relations with the girl. All three were arrested on witness charges and Costello was taken into custody. The sailors, besides admitting their relations of the night with the girl also admitted having purchased liquor of Costello. In the police court today the girl and the sailors, James H. Cobb and Lloyd West, United States Coast Guard, were held as witnesses against Costello.

FINE OF $200 AND COSTS ON EACH OF TWO COUNTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2—Arnoldo Secchiaroli, 58 Golden street, was in the police court this morning charged on two counts with violation of the liquor law. He entered a demurrer which was overruled. He was fined $200 and costs on each count. He paid. Secchiaroli was arrested several days ago when a squad of police went to his house and made a search of the premises, resulting in the seizure of a large quantity of mash, which was destroyed with a truck-load of home-brew beer and wine. Three frequenters, who were found in the house, were arrested, but when they were presented in court today, they were discharged. They were William M. Wentworth, Samuel Wilson and Palmer Beckwith. Secchiaroli has been arrested before for the same offense.

I., this afternoon, but the officer did not bring with him Frederick Matteson, who was arrested there a fortnight ago, charged with non-support by his wife, a resident of New London. Sergeant Cavanaugh went to Hartford and obtained the signature yesterday to extradition papers for Matteson fought his return to New London. After the signature of Gov. Trumbull was secured, the officer went to Providence, but the governor of Rhode Island and the lieutenant-governor were absent from the city. The extradition papers will be sent to the Rhode Island executive by mail and his signature being obtained, Sergeant Cavanaugh will return to Warwick and bring Matteson back here for a hearing in the police court.

Miss Marjorie Lynch, of Stonington; Daniel Cgesebro, Mystic; Kenneth Leland, United States Coast Guard, and Mrs. Clarence Bants and infant daughter, Benham road, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

John F. McQueen, another coast guarder, was on Main street early this morning with John F. Sharkey, a buddy and both had been drinking. McQueen was in a boisterous mood and when Patrolman Dennis Murphy ordered him to be quiet and go to the state pier, he became abusive and showed a tendency to fight. He struck the officer, who knocked him down twice with his fists before he subdued the sailor. About that time Sharkey interfered and the officer was having an interesting time when Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolmen William Manice and Carlos Selesnitsky, who had been informed of the fight, appeared and no further difficulty in landing McQueen and Sharkey at police headquarters was experienced. In court McQueen was fined $20 and costs and Sharkey's case was continued to Saturday.

John Mullin, still another coast guarder, was presented on a charge of intoxication and was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested on Main street last midnight by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Frank Philopena and where he was boisterous and, in an ugly frame of mind. The other sailors were given suspensions of judgment.

Conrad Barker and Joseph Ryan, strangers in the city, were presented on charges of intoxication and begging. Barker was sentenced to 30 days in jail and Ryan was sent to the workhouse for 10 days. Barker and Ryan were on Main street, staggering about the sidewalk and soliciting alms from pedestrians, last night, when Officer Dennis Murphy observed their acts and arrested the pair.

PAY DAY AND LIQUOR A BAD COMBINATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3—Yesterday was pay day in the United States Coast Guard and as usual the blue jackets celebrated, but this time it was to the sorrow of several of them for when the police court convede this morning, of 15 cases presented, 10 were of sailors and all accused of charges where overitbation resulted in arrests. A quartette of the sailors, besides being charged with intoxication were charged with either resisting or striking an officer and in four of these cases, severe discipline was meted out by Judge Victor Prince, two being committed to jail and a like number fined.

George Bircher, F. F. Sylvia, Donald Hay and W. H. Downing, were on Bank street, near the corner of State street, late last night when the automobile of Dr. Charles Kaufman was driven to the curb. While motionless one window of the auto was demolished when one of the sailors, claimed to be Bircher was jostled against it. Dr. Kaufman made complaint to Patrolman John Sullivan, who was standing at the corner of State and Bank streets and with Patrolman Edward Skoczylas, who was off-duty. When the officers started to arrest Bircher, the latter struck Sullivan a blow which discolored the officer's left eye. Bircher started on a run and got away and Sylvia made a kick at Sullivan, but the latter's night stick across the sailor's shins ended further kicking. Sylvia, Hay and Downing were arrested and locked up, the first charged with intoxication and breach of the peace and the other two with breach of the peace. While the sailors were being booked, a lieutenant from the same boat where the accused sailors and Bircher are members of the crew, appeared and he made it known in plain language that Bircher would not be delivered to the civil authorities and he was so emphatic in his declaration that he assumed an antagonistic attitude. Bircher's identity was revealed by the loss of his hat so this morning Patrolman Clarence Wells and Chief Petty Officer Charles Bahm, of the Coast Guard shore patrol, went to the state pier, and when Commander Hamlin was told of what Bircher had done the night before, that official ordered Bircher delivered to the officers. Bircher was brought to police headquarters and with Sylvia, Hay and Downing was presented in court. Bircher was sentenced to 90 days in jail and Sylvia was given a sentence of 60 days in jail. Hay and Downing were found not guilty. When Bircher and Sylvia conclude their sentences they will be given a court martial.

That something is in the wind at Connecticut college is still the rumor here. No word of what took place at the faculty meeting yesterday has been given out and gossip has it that there will be surprising developments at the February 9th meeting.

Elmer Dahlenburg, United States Coast Guard, local station base 4, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, and Charles Newman, also a coast guarder, charged with intoxication, were before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in Groton town court this afternoon. A continuance was ordered to a week from next Monday. Dahlenberg was driving a roadster and in which Newman was a passenger on Thames street, Groton, late last night. At the intersection of Allen street, the auto collided with a sedan driven by William Milne, superintendent of the Plant estate, both cars being damaged, but the occupants escaped injury. Milne's auto was damaged to the extent of $150 and Dahlenberg's car suffered a disfigured mudguard and a bent axle. The state police were notified and Officer John Smith made an investigation. There was no doubt as to the condition of Dahlenberg and Newman and a pint bottle of alcohol was found in Dahlenberg's blouse. The auto of Dehlenberg, it is understood was purchased recently for $10.

Next Monday the Boy Scouts of New London will present the city an American flag for the use of the council chamber once a month. Having no place of their own, the Scouts several years ago were granted permission to use the room for holding their court of honor session, during which members of the organization are advanced in rank and otherwise honored. The flag which will be given is made of silk, is handsomely decorated with bright fringe end and is mounted. The presentation to the city will be made immediately before the opening of the council session Monday night.

The weather of the past two days has been such as the trawl fishermen appreciate. For a fortnight previous to Monday, strong winds prevented them from pursuing their business for more than a few days.

The excavation on Bank street, just north of the customs house, which has been open for more than a week, is within a day's work of being filled in so that the surface of the highway will be restored to its normal condition. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sale on North Washington Street

Title was passed Feb. 1st, whereby P. J. Morley becomes owner of the nearly new two-apartment house with two-car garage formerly owned by Mrs. Margaret E. Hayes. Mr. Morley buys the property as an investment, which is near the beautiful property now occupied by Mr. Morley and family as their home. James E. Moore was the broker in the transaction.

Palace Theatre

"Wickedness Preferred," which will be shown at the Palace theatre today and tomorrow, is the first directorial assignment of Director Henley under his new M-G-M contract and marks the third co-starring appearance of Cody and Miss Pringle as a screen team. They recently co-starred in "Adam and Evil," and in Roi Cooper Megrue's stage farce, "Tea for Three." Both of these pictures were directed by Robert Z. Leonard.

"Wickedness Preferred" is a daring story of a married man with young ideas who bragged he was a caveman and excited the interest of a much younger married woman. The cure is brought about by the shrewness of the wife in throwing her own husband and the other woman together under conditions much resembling the stone age.

The vaudeville program presented yesterday and continuing today and tomorrow is one of the best seen here in some time. Holman Brothers open the performance in a novelty bar act interspersed with comedy. Buddy Beyril & Co. have a novel offering that brings a surprise. Jack Goldie is a sure laugh producer and Hattie Aichoff, late star of Shubert's Winter Garden revue, with a company of pretty girls appear in an offering of comedy and mirth.

Closing the bill is Edith May's Creations, eight beautiful girls, gorgeous costumes and wonderful scenic effects in a well balanced program of songs and dances.

Strand Theatre

"Redheads Preferred," now showing at the Strand, is one of the fastest-moving farce comedies seen here in a long time. Raymond Hitchcock, he of musical comedy fame, plays the leading role. He is ably supported by Marjory Daw, Theo. Von Eltz, Cissy Fitzgerald and other notable stars. The story tells of two men who believe that a night off, unknown to their wives, would not hurt, so the younger man requests that a girl friend bring along a redheaded girl for him. Unknown to either man, the redheaded girl turns out to already be the wife of her companion, but fools him with the aid of a wig. It all happens at a mask ball, and the complications that follow keep the audience in continuous roars of laughter.

In the striking role of a sheriff who plays almost a lone hand against the unruly citizens of his town, Tex Maynard has a part which suits him admirably in "Wild Born." Ruby Blaine has the principal feminine role as the daughter of Judge Strong, who settles the legal affairs of the town with absolute impartiality. But that does not help the young sheriff when he is framed by his enemies. The picture was made in the open country of the Texas ranges and scenically is a delight to the eye, with beautiful photography.

Breed Theatre

Love makes the world go 'round, and sometimes it nearly shakes the big ball from its axis.

The love affair that played a big part in the winning to the United States of California, 70 years ago, is the theme of "Rose of the Golden West," coming to the Breed theatre today and Saturday.

Founded upon historical fact, this George Fitzmaurice production for First National Pictures shows how a romantic and fiery Spanish youth, portrayed by Gilbert Roland, and a starry-eyed and divinely beautiful senorita, enacted by Mary Astor, upset the intrigue of nations in the quest for California.

All the glamor of California, as it was under Spanish rule, is depicted on the screen in "Rose of the Golden West". Montague Love, Gustav von Seyffertitz and Flora Finch also are featured.

Ten thousand snowshoers and their friends are expected in Montreal today for the opening of a winter carnival in celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Canadian Snowshoers' union.

Hartford Man Speaks

At the Third Baptist church, Wednesday evening, a banquet was given to the executive committees of the Norwich Christian Endeavor societies in observance of the 47th anniversary of the founding of the first young people's society now spread to 100 countries with an active membership of 1,000,000. Harold Muttart, president of the City Union of Christian Endeavor society, was master of ceremonies at the banquet and introduced the principal speaker of the evening, Rev. Vere Abbey, of Hartford. Rev. Mr. Abbey gave a very interesting and illustrated talk to the members. His topic for the evening was "On the Mandalay" by Kippling. He also gave a description of the Burmese costumes and of the country of Burma, also exhibited a number of costumes which he brought back with him from Burma. He described the difference between an American boy and a Burma boy and explained how the women in this country are upheld as compared to those in that country, the necessity of the enforcement of the 18th amendment and efforts for peace if Christianity is going to keep its ethical appeal in the orient. The banquet menu was mashed potatoes, turnips, meat loaf, peas, rolls, pickles, cabbage salad, relish, assorted cakes and coffee. The successful affair was in charge of the social committee of the Christian Endeavor, which comprised Henry Sebastian, chairman; Bruce Blackstone, Miss Elinor Howard and Miss Elizabeth Sebastian. The following ladies assisted in the kitchen: Mrs. William Lund, Mrs. George Howard, Mrs. Fred Laytock, Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham, Mrs. Albert Haydon. JURY IN COMMON PLEAS GIVES VERDICTS FOR TWO PLAINTIFFS

Marcello Montessi of No. 3 West Thames street and George Bogner of No. 15 Thames terrace, both employed at the factory of the International Silver company at Thamesville, were given verdicts Thursday afternoon by the jury in the common pleas court at New London where their suit against L. Goffe Briggs of this city was on trial Wednesday and Thursday. The jury was out about an hour Wednesday afternoon, bringing in a verdict for $500 for Bogner, the amount he sued for, and $450 for Montessi, who sued for $700.

The two brought suit because of a collision on West Thames street on June 18, 1926 between a motorcycle driven by Briggs and a motorcycle driven by Montessi, with Bogner as a passenger in the sidecar. The machines were traveling in opposite directions at the time.

Montessi sued for the injuries he received and the damage to his motorcycle. Bogner brought suit for the injuries he sustained.

Before Judge C. B. Waller charged the jury Thursday, arguments for the plaintiffs were made by Attorneys Thomas M. Shields and Charles W. Cassidy and by Attorney C. V. James for the defendant.

LAFLAMME CLIMBING TOWARDS $1,500 MARK

Contributions to the Kenneth LaFlamme fund continue to be received by The Bulletin and on Thursday the total was $82.65 which made the accumulation in the fund now $1,325.65.

Two of the contributions showed unusual interest in giving aid to the blinded Montville young man. A little group of Summer street girls and boys brought in $1.50 which they raised by giving a play to which they invited their parents and charged admission. The money they contributed was secured by the admission fees. A contribution was made by employes of the A. Werman and Son Co. shoe shop, in which every employe in the shop had a part and the sum of $67.15 was raised in that way.

The following are the latest contributions:

Ledyard Whist club	$ 5.00

TREASURE CHEST TICKETS DELIVERED BY AIRPLANE

Two airplanes bringing the Hupmobile treasure chest tickets from Hartford winged their way over this city a little after noon Thursday and as they were ahead of their schedule they kept on to New London, delivering tickets there and then returning here where they hovered over the fair grounds to deliver the tickets to "Joe" Moore's garage, the local Hup agency.

The snow storm of Wednesday prevented carrying out the schedule that day because of poor visibility, but flying conditions were perfect Thursday.

WEQUONNOC SCHOOL LEADS IN EIGHTH GRADE THRIFT

Wequonnoc school, of Taftville, is the first eighth grade school in the Norwich district to join the 100 per cent Thrift Saving schools. West Thames Street school has also reached the goal.

The January thrift report shows that Wequonnoc school is now a 100 per cent savings school, every pupil saving money by buying thift stamps. Taftville is proud of its boys and girls as Wequonnoc is the only eighth grade school in Norwich district that has attained the 100 per cent mark.

For some reason the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades find it very hard to save money, but at Taftville they have overcome the desire to spend all, and every room is the proud possessor of a 100 per cent thrift banner.

The pupils have been encouraged in their savings by little thrift talks and the kindly interest shown by Miss Martha Reynolds, the principal, and her assistants Miss Hallen, Miss Margaret Daly, Miss Rosella Murphy, Miss Sullivan, Mrs. Thompson and Miss Katherine Burns.

Not to be outdone by Taftville the West Thames Street school has also joined the 100 per cent rank. This school has been working faithfully for a long time to reach this mark and has at last succeeded. Miss Agnes McCloud is the principal, assisted by Miss Mary Good, Miss Katharine Corcoran, Miss Helen Brophy and Miss M. Patricia Reilly.

There is now a total of nine 100 per cent schools in the town of Norwich.

Miss Katherine Smith of The Norwich Savings society who has charge of the school savings, is pleased to make this announcement to the public, especially to the parents of the boys and girls who are learning early in life the first lesson in thrift, "To save."

JUDGMENT ON NOTES FOR BANK IN NEW JERSEY

Judgment for the First National bank of Belleville, N. J., in the amount of $2,911.36 on a suit on a note against Harold H. Starr of New London was handed down Thursday by Judge C. L. Avery of the superior court.

The note on which suit was brought was given to the Miller Oil Products Co. for $2,270, dated March 14, 1923, for 60 days; was endorsed to the plaintiff bank, and protested for non-payment on May 14, 1923.

The defense claim was that Miller Oil Products corporation cancelled the note prior to its maturity, that subsequent to the issuance of the note it was purloined and frequently endorsed with the name of the Miller Oil Products corporation and discounted by others than the payee and without its authority, that the payee never endorsed the note and that the payee's endorsement on the note is a forged endorsemnt.

TAFTVILLE

J. M. Griffing of Preston City, has been a business caller in the village this week.

The excellent coasting on North Third avenue and the adjoining lot north of North B street coupled with the moonlight nights, draws hundreds of people, young and old, to that locality to enjoy the sport. From late afternoon until late in the evening there are crowds on the hill.

Today (Friday) is the Feast of St. Blase and is such will be observed at the Sacred Heart church, with special services for the blessings of the throats of the parishioners. St. Blaise, bishop of Sebaste in Armenia, suffered martydom in the year 316 A. D., his flesh being dragged off by means of iron combs with curved teeth, such as are used by woolcombers. In consequence of this he has been regarded as the patron saint of wool workers, and formerly his day was observed in Bradford, Leeds and other centers of the wool manufacturers of England as a holiday. On Thursday, all the services at the church were largely attended, the candles for altar and home use being blessed as is the custom each year of the Feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

A meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society was held Wednesday evening in the society's rooms on Providence street. The president, Miss Mary Nolan presided and arrangements were completed for a card party which the society is planning to give in its rooms.

On Thursday evening the Basketby club met in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building for work and instruction, under the direction of Mrs. Albert J. Aberg.

Some of the village milk dealers delivered milk and cream to their customers by sleigh Thursday.

Two airplanes flew over town on Thursday noon, traveling at good speed in a southerly direction.

Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears, the president presided at a business meeting of the members of the American Legion auxiliary held Wednesday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building. The members are planning a social evening with cards, to which they will invite the members of Peter Gallan Post.

Miss Gladys Kinder entertained the Phi Alphas at her home on North Third avenue Tuesday evening. A valentine party to which friends will be invited is being planned.

Mrs. Henry J. Kendall has returned to her home in Lisbon after spending the past two weeks with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burdick in New Bedford, Mass.

Fred (Chip) Dugas of Springfield, Mass., was in town Thursday on business and to make arrangements to establish his home in the village again. Mr. Dugas' family will arrive in town on Sunday, and from now on he will divide his time between his business interests in Taftville and Springfield. Mr. Dugas' local friends are greatly pleased that he is to locate among them again.

DEBRIS BLOCKS STREETS IN CENTER OF FALL RIVER

They Are Filled With Ice-Coated Piles of Bricks, Twisted Steel and Other Debris, Resulting From the Fire—Damage is Variously Estimated at From $7,000,000 to $15,000,000—In Some Cases Insurance Adjusters Place the Loss as High as $25,000,000—Some Sixty Stores and Similar Business Places Have Been Wiped Out and Several Thousand Persons Are Out of Employment—Guardsmen and State Police Are Assisting the Local Police in Guarding the Ruins.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3—(AP)—For the second time in 12 years a large part of the business center of this city tonight was a waste of smoking ruins, the result of a disastrous fire which swept the area surrounding city hall last night and early this morning. Taking a toll of the losses before the embers were yet cool, residents estimated that property damage variously from $7,000,000 to more than $15,000,000. Insurance investigators placed the loss even higher, in some cases at $25,000,000.

The damage was even greater than that caused by the conflagration of February 16, 1916, which ravaged a similar section of the city. Items in the loss were: Twenty or more buildings destroyed and as many more damaged.

Approximately sixty stores and similar business establishments wiped out or badly damaged that it may be some time before they will operate at normal.

Several thousands of persons out of employment.

Offers of assistance in the work of rehabilitation reached the city today from many sources, including the Red Cross. Due to the fact that the residential district was unscathed, there was little need for other than temporary aid to help in restoring business activities, and this came in the form of funds to enable the banks whose buildings were destroyed to resume operations.

No one was able tonight to predict what the effect might be upon the industries and business activities of the community, although all admitted that there would be many concerns which probably would be unable to resume and others which would be seriously crippled. Approximately 2,000 persons were thrown out of work, it was estimated, and as many of them were stenographers, clerks and office employes, there was prospect of a considerable period of idleness for them.

Although streets in the center of the burned arena remained impassable tonight, blocked by ice-coated piles of bricks, twisted steel and other debris, order was making its appearance in the confusion. Along the fringes of the district the pavements had been cleared and city officials predicted that communications would be largely restored before tomorrow night.

One warning was sounded during the day when the health commissioner advised that all water for drinking purposes should be boiled. The heavy drain upon the supply used in fighting the flames, it was feared might cause a leak into the drinking supply which would send impure water into the homes.

Communication had been restored through most of the usual telegraph and telephone lines by nightfall and progress was being made upon the local transportation line. In the downtown district, however, trolley wires were a tangled mass in many places, promising several days work before all lines could be operating.

The cause of the fire remained undetermined tonight although it was believed that it started in the boiler room of number two mill of the Pocasset Manufacturing company. The flames were first seen there and then spread with lightning rapidity to two other mills of the plant and from them to nearby buildings in Pocasset, Main, Sixth, Bank and Bedford streets and the streets and alleys within the area bounded by these streets.

Although the fire spread with unusual speed it was checked almost as suddenly, but only when it appeared on the verge of sweeping on through the remainder of the business district into the residential sections. Fire apparatus from a dozen towns responding to the appeals for aid when it became apparent the Fall River firemen could not cope with the flames, halted the sweep. They remained on duty during the day but by noon had reduced the fire to a score of scattered blazes which continued to smoulder and spurt tonight. Most of the outsiders were released during the afternoon.

During the day, as the ruins cooled and it was possible to enter the burned district it was found that here and there a building supposed to have been destroyed was still standing. Others that were believed to have escaped were only skeletons. Among these latter was the Union bank, supposed to have escaped serious damage. The interior, it was found, had been practically destroyed. Three other banks, the Metacomet National, the Massasoit and Pocasset and Citizens Savings bank, also were burned. To aid them in carrying on business more than a half million dollars was brought into the city by noon.

The difficulty of reaching any accurate estimate of the loss was due largely to the character of the business places destroyed, and the lack of information as to the value of records and equipment. It was estimated that the loss from the destruction of buildings was in the neighborhood of $7,000,000. Many of these buildings were occupied by offices of brokerage concerns, lawyers, insurance men and professional men and it was impossible to compute their losses, although insurance men believed they would be double possibly that of the buildings.

The Fall River board of assessors, after a preliminary survey today, estimated the value of the buildings destroyed at $10,000,000 and the value of personal property lost by occupants, $2,200,000.

Chief concern of the city authorities and residents had been felt for the safety of the funds in the five banks destroyed by the flames, but a superficial inspection of the ruins indicated that the vaults of each were intact. Steps were taken today to establish temporary quarters where the banks could continue their business.

Detachments of the Massachusetts National Guard coast artillery and state police patrol, were assisting the Fall River police department in guarding the ruins tonight. Although the fire swept business district attracted scores of spectators, no disorder was reported.

The municipal council, the chamber of commerce and the merchants' association met today to discuss plans for rehabilitation, arranging a joint meeting of these organizations. Among many messages offering aid and sympathy received today by Mayor Monks was one from President Coolidge.

PISTOL BATTLE BY GANGS OF BOOTLEGGERS IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 3—(AP)—A bullet riddled car found in the Hill street section, and a man suffering from gun shot wounds found in St. Raphael's hospital enabled the police to piece together tonight the story of a pistol battle between rival gangs of bootleggers early today.

Edward L. Mendes, 30, of 19 Downes street, the hospital patient, is said to have told the police that he and a companion were bringing in a load of liquor from Providence when they were fired on and halted near Branford by the occupants of a car which had trailed them for several miles. The liquor, he said, was removed from the machine he was driving and placed in the other car which then drove away. He told the police that the occupants of the other machine were Bridgeporters.

The police are not inclined to place credence in Mendes' story and are of the opinion that two other machines, stolen here last night, featured in the hi-jacking. They also believe that it may have occurred in Woodbridge on the west of this city and not in Branford, on the east as Mendes claims.

HICKMAN FINISHES IN SANITY PLEA CASE

HALL OF JUSTICE, Los Angeles, Feb. 3—(AP)—William Edward Hickman made his last gesture today in presenting his insanity defense for the confessed killing of Marian Parker.

Hardly had Jerome Walsh, youthful counsel for the confessed kidnaper, slayer and mutilator of the school girl, finished the words which put an end to the defense in the sanity trial, than the state set in motion the agencies it had chosen to attempt to establish that Hickman was sane at the time the crime was committed, and send him to the gallows.

The closing phase of Hickman's defense was centered in the testimony of alienists one of whom withstood a withering crossfire from the prosecution but was unshaken in the opinion that the defendant is insane. The "dementia praecox" theory of Dr. R. O. Shelton, defense alienist, came in for a heavy battering from Prosecutor Asa Keyes.

A delusion of the prisoner that "divine guidance" prompted his crimes was the text of Dr. Shelton's testimony from which the alienist adduced abnormality amounting to insanity.

"BRAZEN BRUTALITY" IN SOFT COAL MINE DISTRICTS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3—(AP)—Following an all-day tour of the bituminous coal mine districts today, Congressman F. H. La Guardia, New York, characterized the workings of the coal and iron police as the most "brazen brutality" he had ever witnessed. The congressman said he was here to learn first hand the problems of the striking miners that he might sponsor a resolution for congressional investigation if the present senate program fails. Tonight La Guardia sent a telegram to Senator Johnson, republican, California, who has asked a senate inquiry of the strike, and in it he told the senator what he had observed today.

La Guardia visited four mining towns, interviewed union miners, non-union miners and others and saw just what the coal and iron police were doing, he stated.

WHERE WOULD CANADA STAND IN CASE OF WAR?

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 3—(AP)—The question regarding where Canada would throw her support in the event of a clash between the United States and the League of Nations was raised today by Dr. I. W. Moffit, professor of history at Wesley college.

Declaging that Canada is a country in which more American capital was invested than any other, and also is a member of the league of nations Dr. Moffit asked:

"If it should come to a clash between the United States and the league, where would Canada stand?"

Canada as a member of the council of the league of nations for the next three years was in a position to make a practical contribution toward the principle of international co-operation, the professor said.

DRESSMAKERS FAVOR TROUSERS FOR WOMEN

PARIS, Feb. 3—(AP)—The idea of trousers for women is still lurking in the minds of some famous Parisian dressmakers if spring style shows now in progress mean anything.

One Paris leading "treat 'em rough and make 'em like it" dressmaker, who recently told the American women they had bad knees and coarse skins, shows trousers in many forms at the house which bears his name.

Another house suggests ruffled and lace trimmed pantalettes as the solution of women's clothes problems and displays "panties" under skirts which are split at the sides.

The recurrence of the trouser theme, however, does not excite Paris in the least. The majority of the spring collections of styles are conservative and have few changes to offer from clothes of the winter.

Lindbergh Entrusted With "Freedom" Plea

Message From the People of Porto Rico to the People of the United States.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 3—(AP)—The Porto Rican legislature, paying a glowing tribute to the brilliant exploits of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, today took the opportunity to entrust to him "a message from the people of Porto Rico to the people of the United States" making a plea for "freedom."

The message was entrusted to the American air hero at a special session of the legislature which bestowed a medal of honor upon the American airman.

The colonel thanked the legislature for its cordial welcome, but made no reference to the message. Instead he made an address on commercial aviation saying that it was easy to link the island of Porto Rico and the United States by air and that figuratively it would be done tomorrow.

The first part of the Porto Rican message was filled with tributes to the brilliant exploits of the American airman, saying that he had truly been a messenger of progress and good will of the American continent to the old world, answering the message of Columbus who once set foot upon the soil of Porto Rico.

Declaring that the flier, on his epochmaking trip to France, had been guided by the watchful spirits of those Americans who died upon the battlefields in the World war, the message said:

"Welcome to our island, Colonel Lindbergh! Welcome to the only place under the shadow of old glory where the discoverer ever set foot! Welcome worthy son of the American eagle! Welcome lone eagle!

"The good wishes of Porto Rico will go with you to the land of the brave and the free, and to your country and to your people and will convey a message of Porto Rico not far different from the cry of Patrick Henry—'liberty or death.' It is the same in substance with but a difference imposed by the change of times and conditions.

"The message of Porto Rico to your people is grant us the freedom that you enjoy, for which you struggled, which you worship, which we deserve and which you promised us. We ask the right to a place in the sun of this land of ours, brightened by the stars of your glorious flag."

Somewhat weary after last night's receptions which kept him up late, Colonel Lindbergh slept late this morning and it was not until ten o'clock that he began a tour of the city before his visit to the Porto Rican legislature. Among the places which the colonel visited were Fort San Cristobal, the new capital building, the School of Tropical Medcine, the high school and the university. Everywhere he was greeted with enthusiasm.

Tomorrow the American good will flier again will take up his tour which is steadily carrying him closer to the Pan-American conference at Havana which he will reach on February 8. Tomorrow's hop will be to Santo Domingo, just 250 miles across the Mona passage to the Dominican republic. There he will remain until February 6 when he will fly to Haiti and then on February 8 to Havana.

De Valera said he was not invited to the ball and would not have gone if he had been invited. Both men, once close friends, said that there was no chance of a meeting between them.

Panoply and Pomp at the Funeral of Haig

Dead Military Chieftan Was Accorded the Reverence Due a Great Soldier.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—All the glory that goes to great soldiers in their death was Earl Haig's today as the British empire reverently gave him its last salute.

The panoply and pomp of military mourning was merged with the simple homage of many thousand common men and women who have tasted the bitterness as the victory of war as the great funeral cortege wound slowly through London at noon today, pausing only for a brief service at the ancient Abbey of Westminster before the field marshal's body was sent back to its native Scotland.

There it lies at midnight tonight in St. Giles cathedral in Edinburgh, and there, near Bemersyde, it will be buried, far from the marts of men, even as once the body of a great American soldier was interred in the countryside at Mount Vernon.

England would have laid Haig to rest in the parish church of the empire, St. Paul's cathedral, beside the great Duke Wellington—beside the bodies of Nelson, of Roberts, of Wolseley, and other military heroes of British history, but it was Haig's wish that he be buried among his ancestors in Caledonia.

Soldiers, music and the pageantry of war marked Haig's passing through the long aisle of troops and people from St. Columbus to Westminster Abbey.

Haig was an elder at the little Scottish church in London, and there in simple service early this morning his "ain folk" paid him homage.

Later at the abbey the great of the land, envoys of all nations, including Ambassador Houghton for the United States, were awaiting the arrival of the body, while along the route from the "Little Kirk" to the great abbey were the pressing throngs who stood with heads bared and bowed as the majestic cortege rolled along.

The procession was formed around the flagdraped casket on the gun carriage which had borne Britain's unknown soldier, around Haig's widow, who walked in the street with the other mourners, and around his riderless horse, with the field marshal's boots reversed and strapped across the saddle.

Among nearly 7,000 soldiers, the flower of the empire's forces, were the Prince of Wales, of York, and Prince Henry, representing different arms of the service. Haig's old comrades in arms, both of Britain and of other lands, were there, and at the bridle of his charger walked Sergeant Secrett, Haig's "batman" for thirty years. French troops in powder blue uniforms and Belgian grenadiers in khaki added their homage to Britain's.

The service within the abbey ended with the congregation singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," the triumphant song rolling peal on peal through the vaulted spaces of the edifice. There was a poignant moment in the brief service when the skirl of pipes cleft the hushed air as from some far and unseen corner some bagpipes sounded the Scottish lament, "The Flowers of the Forest."

Haig's funeral day in London came in with sunshine but lowering skies and mists, and the raw winds of England's winter came with the cortege to the abbey, and after the service when the procession had reformed, splashes of rain fell on the plumage and trapping of war—the last touch of England's farewell.

TOOK POISON AND THEN TOLD A POLICEMAN

NEW BRITAIN, Feb. 3—(AP)—Joseph Fitryzk, 35, of 94 Commercial street, walked up to Policeman William Cronin tonight and said "I just took poison. What are you going to do about it?" Cronin took him to New Britain General hospital where his condition is said to be critical.

Fitryzk told police that he had been ill since the war and that his condition was aggravated by despondency caused by his wife leaving him. He declared that he tried to starve to death in Brooklyn several weeks ago but that after walking the streets without having eaten for several days, he collapsed and was sent to a Brooklyn hospital by a policeman. He was fed at the hospital and when his condition was again normal, was released.

It's Wisely Spent Money That Counts

A budget helps you keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read advertising. And every cent you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, a higher quality of goods and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized. It certainly pays to read The Bulletin's advertisements.

R. W. STEWART ARRESTED BY SENATE SERGEANT AT ARMS

Arrest Was Made at Order of the Senate Because of Stewart's Refusal to Answer Questions in the Oil Investigation—Vice President Dawes Signed the Warrant For the Arrest—Stewart Remains at the Willard Hotel in the Custody of a Deputy Sergeant at Arms.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—Robert W. Stewart, one of the foremost oil executives of the country, was under arrest by the senate tonight because of his persistent defiance of its Teapot Dome committee.

He was not taken to jail, but permitted to remain in his quarters at the Willard hotel in the custody of a deputy sergeant-at-arms, who is to take him before the bar of the senate at noon tomorrow unless he decides in the meantime to sue for a writ of habeas corpus.

While the chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana declined to make any statement, it was said by his close associates that he probably would appear in the senate. In that event he would be directed to answer forthwith questions as to what if anything, he knows about disposition of Liberty bonds by the Continental Trading Company of Canada, which has figured so prominently in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial.

Should Stewart again refuse to do so, the senate would have open to it two courses—adoption of a resolution directing his imprisonment in a common jail or approval of one referring his case to the District of Columbia courts, as was done in the instance of Harry F. Sinclair, who is now under a three months' sentence.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, the Teapot Dome committee prosecutor, favors the first course and probably will insist upon it. The Chicago oil operator then might have recourse to a writ of habeas corpus and a court hearing to determine whether the senate has the power to imprison for contempt.

The arrest of Stewart followed a day of dramatic events that swung from committee rooms to the floor of the senate and then to the Willard hotel. There was the anti-climax, however, for the senate warrant, bearing the signature of Vice President Dawes, was served in the privacy of the oil man's apartment. Newspaper men and photographers were locked out.

Viceroy Lord Irwin, addressing both houses of the Indian legislature at Delhi yesterday, eamestly appealed to those concerned in the boycott movement to refrain from a course which he said, could have only negative results and which might entail unfortunate consequences.

This appeal, however, failed to avert serious demonstrations in Bombay, Madras, and Calcutt today when the "hartal" or mourning closure was clamped down with all its force in all three places.

SENATOR RAPS CATHOLICS AND CONDEMNS THE PRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, issued a statement today renewing his attack on the "Roman Catholic political machine" and condemning newspaper accounts of his speeches in the senate about the Catholic church and Governor Smith, of New York.

"I am against the insidious efforts of the Roman Catholic political machine," he said, "to tie itself around the neck of the democratic party. I am not fighting religious freedom in any way. I am fighting for religious liberty in its broadest and profoundest sense.

"No Unted States senator in recent years," he said, "has been so misrepresented and villigled as I have been. While some of the papers have been fair and accurate in their accounts of what occurred in the senate last week, the majority of them have been unfair and abusive and disguesting to a vast majority of fair-minded Americans."

PARIS, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Premier Poincare surpassed all his previous efforts at speech-making before the chamber of deputies today, and left the rostrum at the end of an eight hour address with the cheers and plaudits of the majority of the body in his ears.

The speech was that in which he explained in detail what his ministryy had done toward the rehabilitation of the French financial structure, and what may be expected from it in the future.

In it he definitely refused to be hurried into the legal stabilization of the franc before the conditions prerequisite to that action definitely exists. In it he refused, too, to give an indication of the rate at which the eventual stabilization will be effected. He explained in detail what had been done, and then laid down coldly his dual refusal,—refusals that brought him an ovation from the majority of the French parliament but only increased and intensified the opposition to him and his policies, represented by the socalists and communists of the body.

A MINE IN OHIO WAS ROCKED BY AN EXPLOSION

ATHENS, O., Feb. 3—(AP)—The Luhrig mine of the New York Coal company, six miles west of here, which the owners had proposed reopening on a cooperative basis, was rocked by an explosion.

EXTENSIVE SCHOOL BUILDING PLAN FOR MANSFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 3—A sweeping school-building program was outlined to a number of townspeople who attended the meeting of the Mansfield town school committee at Storrs Thursday night. There are four centers in the town including Storrs. At Mansfield Hollow there is a new schoolhouse but an addition or a new building is apparently in need. Repairs and possible enlargement of the school at The Ridges and additional improvements to the building at Mansfield Depot are also under contemplation. The expression of the meeting wa sfavorable to taking the necessary steps for the furtherance of the educational facilities and the school committee with School Supervisor Levi E. Garrison will make a survey of conditions to report to the townspeople. The committee which has the Storrs school proposition under advisement is composed of Secretary William J. In attempting to pass a state highway department truck, Lester H. Burnham of Hampton, travelling toward North Windham near Phelps' Crossing late Thursday, drove his truck in the path of a Cadillac sedan driven by Albert M. Pulver of Forest street, Torrington, which was coming in the opposite direction. Pulver turned his machine to the extreme right to give Burnham a chance to pass but the latter applied the truck brakes and the machines skidded into the left front fender of the sedan. The Torrington car was forced against the fence and consequently was considerably damaged on both sides, the doors being jammed and fenders bent. The slippery condition of the concrete highway was given as the cause for the accident. The mishap was investigated by Officer Arthur Hurley of the local police, and Burnham agreed to s-' ' for damages.

NOANK

CARPENTER OVERCOME BY FUMES FROM FIRE-POT

Charles De Berry was at a cottage at Groton Long Point doing carpenter work with a plumber's fire pot going at up with a plumbers fire pot going at full steam. It leaked gas fumes. He being on a step ladder did not notice it until he went to pick up a board when he felt weak. Soon he was over come by the gas. His mate, Mike Lock was on the outside and came in to see how Charles was getting along and found him on the floor. Carrying him outside to get the air, with a few drops of salt water he brought him to, after five minutes work. Mr. DeBerry says he never wants to have that feeling again.

But if he failed to see his shadow oil up the lawn mower, for the winter is slipping away. When noon came, that mean woodchuck saw its shadow and after walking around the hole for a 10-minute recess he had to crawl back until the robins sing their spring song. One school boy was on East Main street with a shot gun looking for the ground hog to get a shot at that animal. It was like a movie picture act. He had to go home without his game.

Eleven members were present Different committees reported. At a basketball game given by the Legion in the town hall last month, the Noank Crescents team played Westerly to help put money in the treasury. It proved a success. The committee gave the players a vote of thanks.

Three new members were taken in and put on the list with their buddies. They discussed going to the district meeting in Baltic by automobile next week, after which it was voted to close the meeting. Then former Camp Devens Cook Lamphere had a surprise lunch for his Legionnaires, ham sandwiches, West Mystic eclairs and cocoa. While everybody was enjoying the eats, Clifford Dobson told a few war stories about when his company in France had a day of rest. Clifford wanted something to do. At 11 o'clock at night comes the last call in the army. His buddy, George Grant, the bugler, had his bugle back of him. Peck's bad boy put some paper in it. Then as the hour came to put them to sleep in the company street, George started to blow. The noise that came from the b/le was no rock-a-bye tune, but a fire call, every man running for the fire, in all shapes, officers and all. It was only a mistake on George's part, but that did not save him. The joke cost him one week in the kitchen on the dishes. The crowd had a great laugh over the story and other battle yarns were told. A one act play was put on My Girl Julia. It was Arthur Scott's night at Julia's home. Edward Morgan as Arthur Scott; Miss Nellie Jones as Miss Mollie Deane; a city chap from Waterbury, Jack Snow as Arthur Berry; Uncle Hiram Martin was Wilford Lamphere, and he looked after Julia to see if she got a big wedding. Aunt Molly Ann was Nellie Mack who did not want Julia to get married. The sheriff, Big Lawrence Hogan was Stretch Morrison, who kept the peace in Hopkinsville and saw that Arthur Scott put the cat out at 11 o'clock at Julia's home on Mixed street. It made her sweetheart mad to get the air so early just as the cake was being passed. The curtain went down as everyone sang "The Long Long Trail."

A truck was being driven by James Clark on the pond owned by the Mystic Ice Co., getting ready to cut. It had to scrape the snow off. As the truck was taking the snow away the icemen heard a noise and saw that truck and driver had broken through the ice. Clark got his first ice bath of the season, but he was not hurt. Another truck spent over an hour hauling out the truck from the pond. The drenched driver hurried into the work-shop where there was a good fire, to get dried off a bit. Then in an automobile was taken to his home.

POETRY

Old Time, Old Friends, Old Love

There are no days like the good old days
The days when we were youthful!
When humankind was pure of mind
And speech and deeds were truthful;
Before a love for sordid gold
Became man's ruling passion,
And before each dame and maid became
Slave to the tyrant Fashion!

There are no girls like the good old girls
Against the world I'd stake 'em!
As buxom and smart and clean of heart
As the Lord knew how to make 'em!
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
And plenty all supportin';
They could bake and brew, and had taught school, too,
And they made such likely courtin'!

There are no boys like the good old boys
When we were boys together!
When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet
That dimpled the laughing heather;
When the pewee sang to the summer dawn
Of the bee in the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whippoorwill
Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love
The love that mother gave us!
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
For that precious grace—God save us!
So we dream and dream of the good old times,
And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams
Of Heaven away off yonder —Eugene Field.

Forepledged

O woman, let thy heart not cleave
To any poet's soul;
For he the muse will never leave,
But follow to life's goal.

Then trust him not, he is not thine
Whate'er he seems to be;
Strong unseen tendrils round him twine
And keep him still from thee.

His words with passion are athrill,
And bear contagious fire;
He knows the charmer's perfect skill
To wake the heart's desire.

But love him not, his love is woe;
The genius at his side
Would prove for thee a fatal foe
Wert thou his wedded bride.
—Bishop Spalding.

Australia lost its most patient and painstaking man recently when Sen Salvador Alfred Case died in Melbourne. The monument to his perseverance was a piece of tapestry 6 feet 2 inches long and 5 feet wide, depicting Mary Queen of Scots mourning over the dying Douglas at the battle of Langside in 1568. Case worked into this tapestry 2,034,864 stitches. It took two years to make, and he spent from three to eight hours each day on the picture. As a work of art, the tapestry is outstanding, for although Case had no artistic training, the picture is said to be technically perfect. Colors were chosen and blended correctly. There are nine figures, two horses and a dog in the picture. The background consists of a tree, a castle and a battlefield. All the figures are lifelike—the look of anguish on the queen's face, the anxious attitude of the dog and the emotions of the others in the group are plainly discernible.

DANIELSON

JUDGE TUCKER RETIRES FROM JOURNALISTIC FIELD AT 80

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 3—One hesitates to start to say what one would like to say so well relative to the retirement of Judge James N. Tucker, of East Killingly, from the newspaper correspondence field after more than 60 years of contributing to weekly papers published in this section of the county. Nearing 80 years of age, a distinction of life that he will attain within a few months, Judge Tucker this week made his final regular contribution to The Windham County Transscript from East Killingly. He explains that his advanced years make it difficult for him to get about as he would like to go in keeping in touch with the affairs of that community.

In point of service, Judge Tucker likely is the dean of the newspaper correspondents of Connecticut. It is given to few such to look back to the recording of the doings of any community for as long as 60 years. Judge Tucker specifies that his work has been "on and off," but the "off" periods were comparatively brief and even during them he contributed news and comment from time to time.

"I have always tried to make my weekly budget of news like a letter from home to my readers," Judge Tucker said this afternoon, having in mind that many of the subscribers of the paper, now scattered in near and far-flung sections of the United States, were at one time residents of East Killingly and nearly all of them his personal acquaintances and friends.

How well Judge Tucker achieved that purpose will be attested by those who have long read what he has written for publication. He has ever had the faculty of setting down on paper an accurate, interesting account of what ever matter he was writing. Possessed of a particularly keen, orderly and analytical mind, a broad and useful knowledge of life and the things of life, what he has had to offer on the printed page has always been fully worthy of the wide attention it received. He has been at his best in applying a particularly shrewd and smiling philosophy to the treatment of issues that led many into heated controversies, especially during trying political periods. Buncombe has had no place in his code of things. He never has indulged in it, and has never accepted it, no matter what its form or alleged appeal.

Judge Tucker is a veritable mine of information relative to the town of Killingly during the nearly four score of years he has lived within its borders. That background has been another factor in making many of the things he has written so authoritative and fascinating. He is like a living history of much that pertains to the town and its affairs for the past three-quarters of a century. That he has ceased to write for publication is a matter of sincere regret. He is as alert mentally as in younger years and as capable with his pen as ever. This present week he again undertook his duties as a member of Killingly's board of relief and regularly attends the meetings here. For a number of years he was judge of the town court of Killingly.

YOUTH FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING OF CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 3.—Hurrying home to tell the town's people all about it, maybap, Paul J. Gearin, 19, of Thomaston, made a stop in Judge W. Fenner Woodward's court here today to pay a fine for reckless driving. It appears that Paul and a group of youths about his own age and from his own home town were so thrilled by the morning's accounts of the great fire in Fall River that they hopped into a car and hurried over the long trail that led from Thomaston to the Massachusetts mill city, that they might view the ruins.

Having viewed to their satisfaction the wreck and ruin wrought by the flames, they started for home and were breezing down Reynolds street at a speed considerably removed from what could be termed conservative when, somehow, the car hit a tree. A checkup of the affair led to Gearin being ordered into court. He was fined $10 for his indiscreet driving, and half of this was remitted. The joint financial resources of Gearin and his friends had to be tapped to make up the moderate fine and costs, and they just about made it, passing in a collection of $1 bills and change.

February appears to be jolly well set on turning in a weather record that will offset the unusually mild months of December and January. This morning the mercury slid down to 10 below zero, at least that reading was reported from a number of places in Danielson. Reports of six and eight below were common. The excessively low temperature this morning was not particularly punishing, because the air was so still. Little complaint was heard about the sub-zero weather, because the average person is rooting for the ice men just now and a few cold days will not matter if there is a generous supply of new ice for the remainder of the year.

The committee in charge of the final whist of St. James' parish until Mardi Gras was made up of Mrs. L. E. Kennedy, chairman, Mrs. Nelson Gauthier, Mrs. Mary Lucas, Mrs. Patrick F. Murray, Mrs. Joseph Meunier, Mrs. Fred Racine, Mrs. Lucy Caron, Mrs. Clara Nadeau and Miss Margaret Head. This whist was particularly sponsored by the parishioner residents in the district between Cottage and Reynolds streets and Spring and Oak streets. In financial returns, it topped the five previous weekly whists, each and everyone of them surprisingly successful. At whist, Miss Migonne Morin won first honors, Mrs. Harry Warren, second, and Mrs. Aldea LaMothe, third, Miss B. Richard being tied with Mrs. LaMothe for third place. In the men's division, first honors went to L. Pechie, second to Rev. James McCarthy, third to Charles Nado, fourth to Albert Redman.

It was said today that the officials who supervise such matters in town are to be asked to put into effect what is known as the boulevard method of controlling traffic at the intersection of Reynolds and Broad streets. The proposal is to paint broad white bands across Broad sreet to the north and to the south of the intersection with Reynolds and also the word stop. The intent of this is to bring all traffic moving through Broad street to a dead stop before making the dangerous cross-over of the Danielson-Providence trunk line highway. Numerous accidents have happened at this intersection and there have been unnumbered narrow escapes from them.

Advance work that has to do with the work of rebuilding the Danielson-Brooklyn state highway is the moving of trees on the C. H. Blake place in Brooklyn village. As it is to be rebuilt, the highway will be materially different in route in some places than it is at the present time.

JEWETT CITY

LOCAL CHAPTER RECEIVES REPORT OF RED CROSS WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 3—Reconstruction work in the Mississippi Valley flood area has been practically completed by 68 Red Cross chapters in the affected area, while 54 still are carrying on operations, according to the report received at the local chapter office Friday from national headquarters in Washington.

January 9, the relief organization still was feeding 20,274 persons, the majority of whom lived in Louisiana, with Mississippi second, Arkansas, third, and a few sufferers in Tennessee requiring aid. With the possibility of recurring spring floods, the Red Cross anticipated having to feed 100,000 at the "peak load" before the anniversary of the devastating flood.

Major tasks of reconstruction will be completed, however, by April—one year after the flood—due to the improved economic conditions, which have followed upon partial agricultural rehabilitation, the report states. One county in Louisiana expects to ship soon to northern markets more than one thousand carloads of vegetables, raised from seed supplied by the Red Cross.

Health conditions are excellent, with the exception of the prevalence of pellagra, the report states.

For the pellagra patients, 11,500 pounds of dried powdered yeast was provided by the Red Cross upon recommendation of the U. S. public health service which holds this to be the best cure and preventive. Expert dietitians now are considering the problem of how best to help those suffering from pellagra.

The Red Cross announces that the relief fund totalled $17,317,584.92. January 9 it had given reconstruction aid to 566,000 persons. They were in the following states: Arkansas 189,435; Illinois, 6,925; Kentucky, 1,170; Louisiana, 186,965; Mississippi, 148,710; Missouri, 16,895 and Tennessee, 15,240. With seed supplied by the Red Cross a total of 1,656,733 acres had been replanted.

While reconstruction needs of families vary in different localities, the chief items supplied in relief work are: Food, feed for live stock and poultry, clothing, medical aid, seed, household furnishings, building and repairs, live stock and poultry and farm implements.

PENDLETON HILL

PASTOR CELEBRATES TRIPLE ANNIVERSARY

The services conducted by Rev. E. P. Mathewson at the Hill church on Sunday morning were simple in character but at the same time most impressive. This was the anniversary of Mr. Mathewson's fiftieth year in the Christian ministry. It was also the 75th anniversary of his birth and the forty-seventh anniversary of his marriage. In spite of adverse winds and weather a goodly audience assembled to celebrate this triple anniversary.

Mr. Mathewson read from the first and second chapters of First Corinthians and took for his text 2d Corinthians, 2d verse, "For I am determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and him crucified."

The resume of his life in the Christian ministry was intensely interesting and likewise affecting. A member of the audience said, "Just like Mr. Mathewson," and so it was. A man of few words, who says much in a brief space, and that much goes quickly to and surely finds its home in the heart. The church was adorned with two large and handsome bouquets of pink roses on either side of the pulpit, and a large bouquet of pink carnations on the communion table.

At the close of the service Clifford B. Thomson in a very pleasing manner presented Mr. Mathewson a purse of fifty dollars in gold, a small token of his people's love and devotion.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Gray and children, Anna and Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Apply and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gray of North Stonington, and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thompson of Westerly attended the Sunday morning services on the Hill and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Thomson.

The sudden death of Mrs. Etta Andrews Billings, widow of Arthur Billings, of Natick, R. I., Saturday, Jan. 28, is a cause of bereavement to all who knew her. Funeral services were held at her home Tuesday, Jan. 31, at 1.30 p. m. The attendance of friends and relatives overflowed the house. There were beautiful floral offerings from friends and organizations to which she belonged. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Billings for a time occupied the old Billings homestead in this parish. It was here that two of her children were born, Herbert Billings, who is well kown in this vicinity and who is treasurer of the Providence Dyeing and Bleaching corporation, and Miss Hattie Billings, now an invalid. Arthur Billings, Jr., was born at their present home in Natick, where they have lived for more than thirty years. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cottrell, Misses Cathe and Cecile Palmer, Mrs. Bertha Lewis, Miss Sarah I. Palmer and Henry Johnson from this place attended the funeral.

Miss Kittie Palmer will remain with her cousins, Miss Hattie Billings and Herbert Billings, for some time.

THE TREATY WITH FRANCE

During all the discussion that has taken place between this country and France relative to the proposed treaty against war and the renewal of the arbitration which expires this month, there has been no real ground for believing that a treaty outlawing war would result. Impediments have been shown which could not be surmounted, but there is nevertheless cause for congratulations that matters have so shaped themselves that an agreement has been reached in regard to the renewal of the treaty of arbitration and that the discussions have progressed to the point where it is probable that signatures will be affixed Monday.

France was favorable to a treaty that would have outlawed aggressive wars but beyond that it could not go because of the responsibilities it assumes under the league of nations covenant which requires its participation in war under certain circumstances. This country could not place itself under such a handicap as that would have imposed.

The renewal of the arbitration treaty, with some changes, is only what was logical in view of inability to do more. Under its provisions there will be an arbitration commission of five members, two from each of the countries with the five from a neutral nation, while under the new agreement it will be possible to submit juridical disputes to the permanent court of international justice. Additional questions have been agreed upon which can not be subjected to arbitration, such including France's obligations under the league of nations and questions concerning the Monroe doctrine.

It is possible to look upon the treaty as showing no marked advance over those previously negotiated. Nevertheless it is possible to point to the fact that there has been no backsliding and that the existence of an organization which has for its object better international conditions which seemed to have blocked the outlawing of war will ultimately have the desired effect in greatly reducing war if not eliminating it. It is significant of course that we have been at peace with France for 150 years and it is our hope that such will always be the case.

NEW ENGLAND LUMBER

In connection with the advocacy of increased attention for forestry in Connecticut and other New England states, in order to supply the demands for lumber which is used for a variety of purposes in this part of the country, it is interesting to note that study has been given to this in Massachusetts by those who are interested in forestry work and those who are users of forest products.

Studies have been made by the Harvard University forest, which is conducted as a business proposition, and by the Worcester Forestry association which has given special attention to the requirements of the wood users. In the setting forth of the kinds of wood required, the locality from which it is drawn and the opportunities for filling these requirements it becomes apparent that it is not one kind of wood such as the pine that should be cultivated exclusively. For various reasons this is a desirable tree for forest purposes, for the protection of land and for the supplying of the market. But there are many others which are required and should not be neglected.

It is not so that the lumber supply of New England is today sufficient to meet the demands of the wood users of this part of the country. The large amount that is brought from other states plainly indicates that we are far from being independent in this direction. Yet that doesn't mean that there are not ample opportunities for the development of existing resources and the utilization of land which is now virtually unproductive for increasing such resources.

We may be far from the day when New England can supply all the timber that it requires, but it is to be realized that it is capable of supplying more than it is doing. Thus organizations which are engaged in presenting such facts to those who can participate in this development for their own welfare as well as for the betterment of New England from a production standpoint must be looked upon as rendering a highly valuable and needed service. Connecticut and all the New England states, needs to be awakened to the possibilities.

MORE SUBSTITUTE USERS

From time to time New England has displayed its feeling in regard to the hard coal situation. It has evidenced its dislike and it has turned to substitutes to a considerable extent. But it is not alike in its opposition to the hold-up policy which has been experienced. Figures which are given out by the fuel board of Canada show that the dominion feels much the same way about it and that it is turning to other sources for fuel. It is even able to show that, as the result of the use of other fuels during the past five years, it has made a saving of $17,000,000. That is a sum worth saving, whether it is in Canada or the United States.

Oil and electric current have been resorted to on a large scale in New England in place of coal. In Canada there has been a resort to the Welsh and Scotch anthracite to an amount that approximates the decrease in the use of Pennsylvania anthracite, while there has also been employed to a considerable extent the bituminous coal that is mined in Alberta and transported under a favorable rate for home consumers.

Back in 1924 there were sent to Canada more than 3,600,000 tons of anthracite. Figures for 1927 show a tonnage of but 2,900,000. This does not furnish cheerful reading for Pennsylvania whether viewed from the standpoint of the operators, the miners or state business. It is a movement in the wrong direction, however, which has been brought about as the result of repeated instances of hardship imposed by the troubles within the coal industry and the resultant effect upon the public's pocketbook. As a part of this latter effect, there is the action of the state of Pennsylvania in imposing a tax upon the anthracite produced, which certainly did not cause the fuel situation to be viewed with any more favor by the consumer, who of course had to pay this extra tax.

Pennsylvania coal mines have lost much business in New England as well as in Canada and we have no doubt that the operators find that it was much easier to lose this business than it is to recover it, or to get sufficient additional consumption to offset it. They are now having a chance to do some reflecting over spilt milk, regardless as to where the responsibility for it lay.

THE FALL RIVER FIRE

Fall River has suffered a serious loss. Undoubtedly a revision of the estimated destruction will have to be made but whether the amount is pushed up or down in the final analysis it will none the less be staggering.

The fire has struck at the very heart of the city and though it seems somewhat surprising that a fire could get under such headway that it was not possible to check it until such damage had been done, it simply discloses the hazards which exist in every community about which little thought is given until such serious conflagration occurs.

Such a fire means a serious blow to any city. Fall River will survive it and reconstruction will modernize many of its structures, but the blow falls at a time when the city is in the throes of textile depression, when mills are pursuing a hand to mouth policy and when in fact the very mill where the fire started was being torn down, it having been found unprofitable to operate it.

It was a fire which affected institutions and business houses much more than it did apartment and residential sections. Industrially the city will not be seriously handicapped though the inclusion of banking houses will mean more or less embarrassment for the time being.

It was not the first time that Fall River had been visited by a disastrous fire, such having occurred about 12 years ago. It is to be sincerely hoped, and Fall River will join in with it, that it will be much longer before anything of the kind occurs again. The city in its reconstruction can be expected to give serious consideration to construction that will prevent anything of the kind in the future.

A JOB FOR THE HOUSE

From all indications the house of representatives is fully aware of the responsibility which rests upon it as the result of the action in the senate this week in passing the Jones bill which means entrance upon government ownership and operation of merchant vessels. Without a doubt there are senators who have supported that measure against their better judgment because they regard it as an embarrassment to the administration. They are relying upon the house to nullify their action and it will be surprising to them if it doesn't.

Chairman White of the merchant marine committee has pointed out that the senate has completely repudiated the merchant marine act of 1920. Convinced that it is again the sentiment of the country, and against its interest, he is preparing a bill which will aid in the disposal of merchant vessels owned by the government with the purpose of encouraging private ownership. His purpose is to make this more attractive by providing for liberal loans and low interest and the increasing of the grants for the transportation of ocean mail.

It is to be expected that the president will veto the Jones bill if it is presented to him. Whether the house can upset the senate action through its substitute measure on which work is now being done is one of the questions that is arousing no little concern. It is gratifying to note that Congressman Tilson is voicing his opposition to the senate measure even as did the Connecticut senators when the vote was taken.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

There seems to be a change of emphasis put upon every branch of human learning at the present time. The new wine is certainly demanding the new "wine skins." The old school books of a century ago would hardly be tolerated anywhere today, not because they were inadequate in their day and generation, but because the onward march of learning in the field of discovery makes the new methods of approach imperative. A leading divine in a recent sermon made this point in the following remarks. "The physicist or chemist who repeats this year his classroom lectures of a decade ago ought to be debarred from further teaching. The physician who treats the human organism merely as matter ought to be convicted of mal practise. And the preacher too lazy or stupid to reinterpret religion in the light of this new revelation has no place in any Christian pulpit." In all edcated circles there is no room for old rubbish.

It is probable that the time will never come when the unaided ear will hear distant sounds without some mechanical device. And yet it is no valid argument against the possibility simply because thus far we have not been able to do it. After what has been accomplished in the recent past we ought to be careful about saying that anything is impossible along scientific lines. In a recently published article a scientist makes this statement: "I sit in a silent room. Presently there is a slight click. Instantly I am filled and thrilled with the music of a great orchestra, or I recognize a voice I know to be a thousand miles away. A silent room? No, only a room in which my dull ears had to be helped to hear." This was not the imagination of a novelist, but the conviction of a scientist. Stranger things than this have happened within recent times.

Smith college of late has been brought into the limelight through some singular happenings that must be distasteful to any cultural institution. Two disappearances under circumstances so nearly identical, which, had they come closely together, might have indicated some collusion. In the same month of the year, on the same day of the month, the 13th, and both days being Friday, certainly gives the superstitious something to think about. It is also a bit singular in this day of wonderful publicity how two scholars could have so completely blotted out all traces of detection. Added to this is the singular fact that two professors should have lost their lives through accident, one of them in Washington being hit by a trolley, and the other in Northampton by an automobile. It must impress us with the fact that while "in life we are in the prescence of death."

Why should there be criticism of quotations from the Holy Scriptures apart from the King James version? There is a certain type of mind having more zeal than knowledge that rushes into print to correct the terrible heresy of using Scripture that does not conform in language to the edition of 1611. It is conceded by scholars generally that the authorized version has never been surpassed for beauty of diction. There is a pomp and majesty to its sentences that is pleasing. But every linguist knows that in many places this real rhetorical, is vastly more accurate. There are many who prefer Weymouth or Moffit to either, and not a few have brains enough to do the translation themselves. This criticism reminds us of a certain deacon of Massachusetts who is reported to have said that "if the King James version was good enough for St. Paul it was good enough for him."

It is not easy to state just how far—if at all—a Divine Providence interferes with the normal working of law. This thought is brought to one's mind by the terrible disaster at the Preston Bridge just recently. One can plainly see on the faces of people generally a trace of sadness when allusion is made to the calamity. The numerous crowds that have visited the bridge have shown by their attitude how deeply they have been affected. Both young and old have seemed to have sensed the extent of the tragedy. Such events bring up on the part of the skeptic the old argument that if God is love and is almighty in power why does He not use that power in the prevention of such accidents? To illustrate they say that an earthly father would use his power to the utmost to save his children from a burning building or from being drowned. A larger view of the purposes of life and its safeguards will answer this argument.

There is not a scrap of evidence in the Bible going to show that any man is released from the possibility of sickness, hardship, sorrow of accident. It is not possible to conceive of a better universe than this for the general well being of man. The working of this universe is under the direction of fixed laws. To prevent the normal working of these laws just to prevent accidents in individual cases would occasion far more frightful accidents. If a child falls from a lofty window he will probably be injured if not killed outright. Suppose the Ruler of the Universe should counteract the law of gravitation, it would impose upon a large number a terrible calamity. Is it not true that the vast majority of accidents can be laid to somebody's door? Ignorance, carelessness, recklessness or perhaps error of judgment are responsible for most accidents.

But religion does give to man a strength by which he is saved from the logical effect of trials and reverses that tend to crush him. While religion does not promise us immunity from trials of various sorts it does save us from being crushed by them. A good illustration of this is the "Three Worthies" mentioned in the Book of Daniel. In common with others they were ordered to bow fiery furnace." But to the amazewhich the king had set up. This they refused point blank to do because Jehovah alone was to be worshipped. For their refusal they were ordered to be cast into the "burning fiery furnace." But to the amezement of all they were not injured and "by their side there was the form of one which was like the Son of God." They had been faithful to their God, and He did not forsake them in their extremity. In an extraordinary way this points out the fact that if we are faithful to God he will not forsake us in our trials.

It is perfectly natural that the 12th, and the 22d days of this month should overshadow all the others, but there are days in this month that are worthy of recognition because they record the birth of men of world-wide reputation. Recently one of our leading educators was asked to name six of the greatest men during the last thirty years, and right off the real he named Edison, Bryan, Ford, Roosevelt, Wilson and Moody. Possibly this list might be disputed, but I mention it because it includes the name of Dwight L. Moody who was born February 5, 1839, and if men are measured by the good they have done, no list of men who have lived in this period would be complete without his. As a preacher of righteousness he impressed two continents as no other man has done, and the work he has sponsored for the young is amazing. His place in American history is assured.

THE STRAIN OF CURRENT LIFE.

Concerning The Strain of Current Life, Mrs. Frances Gay Dawley writes The Bulletin as follows:

The newspapers have quoted Dean Inge as saying that hardly anyone now believes that democracy is the final phase of governmental progress. Why, no, of course it isn't! If we thought heaven was run by democracy and was an illustration of popular government, we might not want to go there. The final phase of governmental progress must be sought in the invisible. So far as appears, it seems to be an autocracy. But for this world democracy may be very suitable, for the errand of persons in this world is to develop, and to gain wisdom, and then their environment compels them to improve their own circumstances or pay the penalty, the more our life on earth makes for evolution and progress. The Dean ought to know, probably does know, that the high purpose of government is not merely to make things comfortable for the governed. It is to stimulate the governed to self-help. Democratic government is well adapted to do that service, since it is prone to rapid degeneration, and needs to be nudged and prodded at frequent intervals if it is to be tolerable at all. There are proceeding in this country flagrant examples of the propensity of the governments to run down hill. Here is a very big and very rich country, and the job of according to it even the necessary minimum of government is enormous. It is a job that is profitable in a money sense only to the unscrupulous. To them it may be very profitable indeed. But the necessary minimum of government is far from satisfying the people whose hands itch to take hold of the reins over their fellows. What they want is just as much government as the people will endure. They want to shape it according to their own ideas of virtue or of vice. They want the spending of monies, the control of taxation, a meticulous inquiry into everybody's affairs, the ordering of private life, and the definition of crime. Dean Inge must know all that. He sees that government has got to be done by people who have the brains for the job. So he says (as reported) that vox populi vox dei is bunkum and that Lincoln's government by the people for the people is claptrap. He thinks that the theory of democracy may last in England until the end of the century, but finds it to be "in the condition of an animal less able to maintain itself in a state of vigor and health." The real question about democracy is whether it is fit to produce man competent to manage government and put them into office. Every presidential election in this country is an experiment on that problem, and there is a good deal to favor the theory that such elections and the designations of candidates which precede them are determined by something more than incarnate intelligence. It is either that the invisible powers take an interest in our political concerns and get into the game we think we are playing or else that the choice of candidates and the success of the one who wins are determined by factors too complex and obscure for our limited faculties to measure and handle. Of course, the idea that Providence takes a hand in our affairs is not novel—most of the religious people profess to believe it and make prayers based on it. Political conventions usually open with such supplications. All the same, these matters are planned beforehand and organized and worked over with all the diligence our political managers can command. They work at them just as though they could control results, thinking ahead as far as they can, pulling all the wires they can reach, and laboring faithfully and in ways often devious with all the delegates they can get hold of. That is all right except perhaps the devious ways; all just as it should be. If we are going to trust in Providence to pull us out of holes and give a right direction to our political courses, we must first do all we can ourselves. After that, if things go our way, it is polite at least to suggest that the Lord is on our side, and if they contradict our judgment and disappoint our efforts, we may well say that Providence is inscrutable and its ways beyond prediction. . . . . Our political narrative for the last four or five years has been very much the story of prosperity; how to bring it; how to keep it. Now with another political effort about to be undertaken, is that issue still going to suffice? Perhaps so, but that is a matter for discussion, and for consideration by politicians. For one of our great parties that issue is supposed to be all-sufficient. Certainly it did well at the last election; but the other party, if it is going to make any notable performance, has got to offer something new. And what is it that can be offered as yet to American voters which will look better to them than prosperity? Of course, when prosperity cracks because the time has come for it to do so, that is a different matter. With prosperity sick abed, you might even offer virtue with some prospect of getting votes for it, but hardly when prosperity is still up and doing. Certainly we have had it in ample supply. . . . . What about it? Are we doing better than usual? Has the flood of prosperity been to our advantage? Certainly it has changed life enormously but has it benefited it? All over the land dwellings have put out new piazzas and blown themselves to coats of paint There has been vast material construction, and a great deal of it is good; some of it very good and likely to last a long time. All sorts of industrial plants have increased in size, and as a country we can make more things than we used to. But are people happier than they were? Is their behavior better? Are more people making true progress in human life because of prosperity than when we had less of it? Maybe they are. As one looks about in a suburban town on his way in a motor car to the train he sees girls going to the high school and admires their pretty frocks. He says to himself: They must be getting something. He sees the flocks of new cars on the road and finds in that more evidence of prosperity. But, bless you, how filling is it? Cries for help come nowadays from a good many people who have very nice cars indeed. They are not visibly in a bad case. They have enough money, enough things, a variety of dwellings, good cars, as said; but from many people so furnished with material things proceed evidences of distress. If you show propensity as a moralist they are likely to come to you through the mail, and they seem to come increasingly. They carry the same burden as the old cry, "What shall I do to be saved?" Current sufferers don't word it that way. They ask "What is the matter with this life? The things we used to think important, character, manners, high thinking, modesty, don't seem so any more. Everything goes that has wheels under it." They say "I don't like this life, what is to be done about it?" So far as observation can guide us, prosperity seems to minister to happiness very considerably. It commands the comforts of life, and really the comforts are not so bad. The most fun in the world—or next to the most—is the exercise of one's creative energy; and insofar as prosperity promoted that, helping people to build houses, develop taste and increase beauty it probably does increase happiness. But that phase of it is seldom permanent. The cries for help come from people who have passed it, people suffering apparently from spiritual or mental exhaustion, people stricken with a sense of the futility of things as they are and penetrated with a strong desire to learn the cure of life. What are you going to do with people who have enough to eat and can get a drink if necessary, who have beds to sleep in and roofs over them and no money cares, and still want to be saved from the life they lead—not a bad life, but not good enough for them? What is the cure? Nothing but love of course; but how are they going to get it? The cure of life is set down in the records of the great seer and teacher whose birthday we keep in December, but still the people who need the cure and know they need it and call for it, have to be helped to find it.

Perhaps helping them to find it is the greatest job; perhaps this job of curing lives is the most important of all, and to feel that it is may be what we are coming to when the prosperity issue wears out. The politicians are up against it. The great succeeding issue for a while may be the cure of life, of how to be happy in spite of prosperity, or even without it. Perhaps something else has been going on in the United States besides this aggravation of prosperity. Perhaps we have been getting wiser as well as richer. The two advances do not often come at the same time, but they may. If presently we all turn away from prosperity and run after religion it is no more than you might expect. But it won't be our grandfathers' religion, except in its derivation. The interpretation of it will be ours and our descendants' It was five years ago that an American observer wrote in a letter: "It seems to me the consolatory reflection is that all those things we were talking about today—both the mystical and the practical—would be understood and substantially agreed to by millions of persons in America, and the land is being visited by a big spirituall vision of some sort whatever we do or say is somehow a part of it and furthers it; and the more detachedly and as it were irresponsibly we give way to its intimations the more we assist." Was he right that the land was being visited by a big spiritual vision of some sort? Is the visit still continuing? There are more signs of it now than there were then. We have it on the word of eminent authority that one out of ten of the present population of this country goes first or last under treatment for nervous or mental disturbances. Governor Smith in New York state called the other day for fifty million dollars for better hospitals for the care of the insane and the treatment of deranged persons. Really it does look as though there was something quite serious the matter with us and our negotiations of the problem of existence; something for which increased distributions of money or mass production of commodities does not seem to be a remedy. Is it likely that we shall have an opportunity to try what healing virtues there may be in adversity? Yes, it is likely. One may say, indeed, that it is certain; certainly as far as business is concerned. For business prosperity is a matter of ups and downs and adjustments spread over periods of time, and though the wealth of the world increases and holds its increase, and though our command of the resources of nature also increases constantly, and with it our capacity to create more wealth, yet there is no reason to believe that we are quit of fluctuations in prosperity.

Every reaction in Wall street brings evidence of multitudes of people who are waiting for something to drop, and their anxious expectations are not without basis. Nonetheless, "take no thought for the morrow," and "sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof," are still maxims worthy of respect. The wise court is not so much to spend one's thoughts in anticipating calamity and contriving means to escape it as so to shape one's life that whether in evil days or good we shall not fail to live profitably. Insofar as we can do that we shall escape fear and keep out of sanitariums, but it is a spiritual achievement and implies belief and reliance on things not made by hand.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William Nelson Cromwell, who has just added $150,000 to his many previous gifts to French charities, is a famous New York lawyer who of late years has passed much of his time in France. As long ago as 1918 he was decorated by the French government for his charity work for that country. Mr. Cromwell is, in many respects one of the most remarkable figures at the American bar. Aside from his other claims to celebrity he possesses the unique distinction of having received the most enormous single fees ever paid for legal services. For selling the Panama canal to the United States—in itself one of the most difficult and successful individual achievements of the century—he is popularly credited with having been paid between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. Within the brief period of a dozen years he made several millions by reorganizing and straightening out the affairs of colossal financial and industrial combines that had got into difficulties.

Sunday Morning Talk

A Higher Plane.

A tourist who had laboriously climbed the Great Pyramid, 450 feet in the air speaks of it thus: The cloudless sky and perfectly dry atmosphere made it possible to see great distances in every direction to the north and west the curving river, the groups of palms, and in the distance the domes and minarets of Cairo made up a view of charmnig beauty peculiar entirely to that country and locality. To the south and east the desert stretched, away as far as the eye could reach, the heated air shimmering above the golden sands.

And now, looking down, we discerned what before we had not discovered, the fresh verdure of the river bank met the encroaching sands of the desert in a distinctly defined line. All bright-green on the one side, all dreary barrenness on the other. Upon the ground it is impossible to appreciate how distinct that line is. From that great elevation it was strikingly apparent.

That is the way with some of the churches, they live on such a low plane spiritually that they do not discern the line between the church and the world. If they would rise to their exalted privilege in Christian experience they would see it clearly.

It is there, however. It lies between the sweet restful verdure of the banks of the river of life and the dreary waste of the votaries of sinful pleasure. It is where "old things have passed away and all things have become new." It is where business methods of questionable propriety end and downright honesty begins. It is where pleasures of misleading tendencies are put away and those that make for purity and wholesome influence in social life begin.

That line exists as a necessity in the nature of things spiritual. "For what fellowship hath light with darkness?" It is a battle line the whole length of it. It is possible for all in the church to live near enough to God to see it. Let us come up to the higher plane. Then we can see clearly the beauties there is in the real Christ-life.

Today's Birthdays

Rt. Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, Episcopal bishop of Southern Virginia, born at Warsaw, Va., 46 years ago today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

One of Lorenzo Dow's Text

Mr. Editor: Mrs. Huntington in her letter of Jan. 16th says she would like to see other articles relating to Lorenzo Dow. He held many outdoor meetings, notice of time and place given out some time before, people coming for miles around to hear him.

My grandfather Simeon Lathrop attended a meeting held in Bozrah a short distance from the Colchester turnpike on the Blue Hill road. Mr. Dow stood up on the hill, the people arranging themselves as they liked on the side hill below where he stood. His text was given with a loud shout "Top not come down."

Grandfather never forgot the text, but remembered but little of the sermon.

The text was probably from Matt. 24-17, but he used only the words I have quoted.

MAKE MORE MONEY

Healthy, vigorous men land life's best prizes. Buoyant step, bright eyes, clear complexion and exuberant vitality denote a system free from impurities. Constipation poisons the whole system, slows the step, saps energy, destroys confidence and cuts down the earning power.

Rid your system of constipation and its poisons. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets remove them gently, tone up the system, clear the eyes and complexion and bring back normal vigor. A compound of vegetable ingredients, prescribed to patients for 20 years in place of calomel. They act easily and quickly on bowels and liver.

Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets and keep fit for the daily grind. Thousands of happy men and women use them regularly as an aid to success in their everyday tasks. Know them by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.

Tired people . . .

So MANY women, so many men, can't last through the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them listless and spent. Hopelessly tired.

What a difference it would mean if they but realized how constipation saps health and energy. How it steals youth. Mocks beauty. Kills ambition. How it leads in the end to untold diseases.

And it can be so easily relieved. So surely and safely prevented. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it promptly and pleasantly. To prevent it ever beginning its deadly work.

Why "all-bran" is necessary

To relieve constipation naturally, the system must have plenty of bulk. ALL-BRAN, because it is 100% bran, furnishes bulk in generous quantity. It carries moisture through the intestines—exercising them, gently sweeping out poisons and wastes. There is seldom enough bulk to properly do this work in a part-bran product. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN — the 100% bran.

Farewell, dangerous drug:

How much better is ALL-BRAN than habit-forming pills and laxatives — whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a pleasant, healthful cereal food. Don't you agree that it is far safer and far better to correct constipation in this natural way than to risk pills, drugs or part-bran products?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Sprinkle it into soups. Mix it with other cereals. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

But insist on genuine Kellogg's. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

The time set for the "Early Bird" breakfast at the Wauregan promises to be a most enthusiastic occasion, in fact nearly everybody seemed anxious to have the hour changed, so that now arrangements have been completed for 100 workers to sit down to breakfast at 8 o'clock in the main dining room of the Wauregan. Special music and short snappy remarks have been arranged for and a campaign list of over 2,000 names will be spread on the tables for the workers to select the names of those they will see during the day. The campaign is to be a three-day campaign, but the workers are going to try to complete the campaign on Monday and thereby finish it in one day.

Arthur L. Peale, the official Scout commissioner, stated Friday: "I am in accord with the executive committee's idea that nearly every public spirited citizen will be willing to chip in five or ten cents a day this year to make the Scout program secure. Of course there are some of our enthusiastic backers who will do even better than this by us," said Mr. Peale.

Letters of inspiration and encouragement are coming in in every mail. Every one seems to be interested in seeing the Scout movement come through strong this year. Below are three letters that have come in in Friday's mail from the Knights of Columbus, William S. Murray, selectman of the town of Norwich, and Judge Arthur F. Libby of the city court:

Norwich, Conn., Feb. 2nd, 1928

Mr. Charles Coit,
185 Broadway,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sir:

It gives me pleasure to acknowledge my appreciation of the principles taught through the instructions given to boys, by the organization known as the Boy Scouts of America.

Teaching them the necessity of establishing a high moral character, self-reliance, toleration of the rights of others, loyalty to parents, loyalty to God, and country. Teaching these principles, is surely fitting our boys to a greater realization of their future responsibilities as citizens of this great republic.

In the light of these facts it is fitting that the public show its appreciation of this work by contributing generously to the financial welfare of this organization.

Wishing you success,

I am sincerely yours,
RICHARD J. MARKS,
Grand Knight, White Cross council, No. 13, K. of C., Norwich, Conn.

Norwich, Conn., Feb. 2, 1928

Capt. Chas. Coit,
185 Broadway,
Norwich, Conn.

My Dear Capt. Coit:

In my opinion there is no organization in the world like the Boy Scouts to develop the individuality and initiative of the boy of today for the man of tomorrow.

It teaches him self reliance, to be practicable and independent. The boy of today who has Boy Scout teaching is more of a citizen of the world than was his dad at his age and the high ideals and principles taught the Scouts are the reason therefor.

I believe the Boy Scout movement solves the problem of the best method of working with the boys. The Scout movement gives us a plan to make real men out of boys. It is the only organization I know of that has taken hold in the proper manner on the actual problems of boys.

The Boy Scout movement has the right idea and purpose. It endeavors to make better boys by asking the boys to do better things. I believe the Boy Scout movement lays hold on the deeper objects in life.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM S. MURRAY,
First Selectman.

Chas. Coit,
Pres. Norwich Council Boy Scouts.

Sir:

During the course of a year our municipal court comes in intimate contact with a generous number of boys from all stations of life. The Boy Scout is not a frequent visitor before the court, the proportion being slight in comparison with others who are not Scouts. This may fairly be attributed to the fact that his training as a Scout develops a wholesome respect for law and appreciation for the rights of others.

If a Boy Scout comes before the court, we automatically expect more of him than of one without Scout training. A Boy Scout always shows a respectful attitude to the court reprimand or discipline. Proud that he is a Scout, mindful of the traditions that he must uphold, penitent, and determined to do better, a Boy Scout does not give occasion for his name to twice appear on our court register.

TELLS OF STATE WORK BY LABOR FEDERATION

John J. Egan of New Haven, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, who spoke here Wednesday night before the meeting of the Central Labor union, when a speaker from the United Mine Workers spoke of conditions in the coal strike territory in Pennsylvania, interested his hearers with some account of what he said labor unions are doing in the state and country.

We hear it said, he declared, that the labor union isn't doing anything. We hear it said the labor union isn't accomplishing anything. The labor union does not approve of strikes. We are not in sympathy with strikes, only as a last resort.

The labor union today is in better condition, financially and numerically, than it has been since the great war. The open shop in some sections of the state is not as extensive as the newspapers would have you believe in their paid advertisements. The labor union is making progress in Hartford. In that city they are completing the building the building they started last fall. The union there has raised the money to pay for that building. The open shop does not prevail in Hartford as extensively as some would have you believe.

There is going to be no change in the Connecticut Federation of Labor from what it has been in the past three or four years. We are going to carry on our policy of conference with the employers. We are not going into the legislature with a chip on our shoulders.

Mr. Egan said that the compensation act was put upon the statute books by organized labor in 1913. Since then, he said, we have appeared before the legislature and secured changes to the compensation law. Among the changes we secured was an increase from $18 to $21 a week for the death benefit. Mr. Egan told of other changes secured by the labor movement in the compensation law. We are going to ask the legislature to pass the old age pension law, he said. We may not be successful but we are going to make the effort.

He said the adoption of the free text book bill was brought about by the labor movement. The labor union will endeavor to educate the people of the country as to the true situation of the labor problem, he said.

Mr. Egan said that the five day week is a necessity. Machinery is turning out more than we can consume, he said. We must stave off a period of depression through the five day week. The five day week is coming and don't let anyone fool you that it isn't.

Speaking of the soft coal situation in Pennsylvania Mr. Egan said that if the United Mine Workers are defeated then the guns will be turned on other labor organizations. He intimated that if the mine workers are defeated in their fight then other unions will face defeat. When we win the fight of the United Mine Workers we win our own fight, he said.

No action was taken against the Wheeler woman at the time as she was confined to the hospital by illness. Later she left town. N. F. A. MEETS WINDHAM IN SEASON'S CLASSIC AT Y. GYM THIS EVENING

The classic of the local scholastic basketball world comes tonight at the Y gym when Windham, with one of the best quintets in the state comes down to grapple with the Red and White. The main game is slated to start at 9 p. m. with a preliminary between the Y Seniors of this city and the Mercury Five, a New London City league team.

Windham carries the favorites colors in this evening's affray for she has met and defeated several of the good taems in the state. With victories over Bulkeley of Hartford, Torington,

JIM KELLY
Academy Captain

South Manchester, Killingly, Chapman Tech and Stonington the Thread City team comes tonight with strong hopes of victory.

On the other hand, the Academy has just of late, seemed to hit its regular stride. In early games the Academy, with practically an all-veteran quintet, was way below form. The locals barely struggled through with a win over Tourtellotte and lost to Chapman Tech while in the midst of this slump. The five man defense seems to have helped considerably and tonight will mark the second appearance of this style of play.

Tonight's game is the third between these schools. Last year, in the Academy's first on the basketball court, Windham took both games.

She won the first easily but the locals gave her a stiff tussle in the second. This third one ought to be interesting, say Academy followers, for they seem to have an inner feeling that the Academy is capable of trimming her old rival.

Windham will be real anxious to beat the Academy tonight and beat her bad to atone in part for baseball and football defeats of the late seasons. Last year in baseball the state championship Red and White slaughtered Windham up in Willimantic 12 to 1 and as a result no second game was played.

In football the Academy won in the first grid game in five years and that seemed to be rubbing it in, so that tonight Windham will strive her utmost to place a win on the sport relations between these two schools.

In the preliminary the Seniors will attempt to get on the winning road after two defeats in meeting the Mercury Five of New London. Neither lineups have been announced and it may be that a few dark horses will spring up.

LOAYZA WINS DECISION OVER PHIL McGRAW

DETROIT, Feb. 3—(AP)—Stanislaus Loayza, Chilean lightweight, won the decision over Phil McGraw of Detroit in a bruising 10 round boxing contest here tonight before a crowd of 15,000 spectators. Catching McGraw flush on the chin with a terrific right hook in the third round Loayza weakened the local boy, who fought a game but losing battle from then on.

Eddie Gold, game little Buffalo bantam after receiving a terrific hammering from Carlo Mazzolo of Detroit, collapsed in the sixth round and the referee stopped the bout, awarding the contest to Mazzolo on a technical knockout.

Tommy Lane, Toledo bantamweight took the verdict over Mannie Wexler, of New York in a one-sided six round contest. Outpunched and outboxed from the start Wexler barely managed to last the limit.

HUGH JENNINGS IS LAID TO REST

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 3—(AP)—In the bleakness of the snow covered Pocono mountains, in the country which he had learned to love so well during the last two years of his life, Hughey Jennings for nearly forty years a colorful figure in baseball, today found his last resting place.

The famous "Ee-Yah", who was an outstanding character in the national game from 1891 until a nervous breakdown forced him into retirement at the end of the 1928 season, was buried this morning in St. Catherine's cemetery, Moscow, while those who knew him intimately as neighbor and citizen and those who knew him as the fiery baseball leader, stood around the graveside paying him final homage.

Few funerals in Scranton have been larger than that which moved this morning from the Jennings residence to St. Peter's Cathedral, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. C. A. McHugh, pastor of the Mary-On-The-Mount Roman Catholic church during the two years of retirement there.

The younger generation, to whom Hughey Jennings and his career had become something of a legend, was represented at the funeral. Men high in the game, those who had played with and under Hughey, were in attendance; Moosic, where he was born, and where he got his start on the sandlots, sent its citizens to the services, and Lehighton, the little town where Jennings first played semi-professional ball in 1890, had its delegation on hand.

Judge K. M. Landis, baseball czar, who had hoped to attend the funeral, wired his regrets at his inability to make the trip. National league officers and club representatives compelled to attend a meeting in New York, also sent telegrams of condolence.

LATE BASEBALL NEWS

NATIONAL LEAGUE ADOPTS 1928 SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. —(AP)— The 1928 National league playing schedule was formally adopted by the club owners in session here today, the baseball season to open on April 11 and close on September 30.

The campaign gets under way with Philadelphia at Brooklyn, Boston at New York, Chicago at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at St. Louis. Last year, the season began on April 12 and closed on October 2.

Proposed agreements with minor leagues providing for increased allowances in the drafting of players together with a like clause relating to umpires were withdrawn due to the failure of the minors to ratify these schedules.

The National league had submitted a new scale increasing draft prices on players some time ago which for a class AA club raised the maximum from $5,000 to $7,500 per player and so on in proportion to the club rating. As the minors did not take action, the club owners voted to discard the proposals.

Along with President John A. Heydler, league president, at the meeting were the following club presidents: Wilbert Robinson, Brooklyn; Charles A. Stoneham, New York; C. J. McDiarmid, Cincinnati; Samuel Breadon, St. Louis; William F. Baker, Philadelphia; Emil Fuchs, Boston; William Veech, Chicago, and Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh.

Magee New Arbiter

Sherwood Magee, aggressive and slugging outfielder of twenty years ago, returns to the major leagues next summer as an umpire.

John Heydler, president of the National league, announced Magee's appointment at the league's annual mid-winter meeting here today.

Born at Clarendon, Pa., in 1884, Magee played his first professional baseball at Allentown, Pa., in 1903, a year later he joined the Philadelphia Nationals, beginning a major league career that did not terminate until 1919. Magee's phenomenal hitting and skillful fielding soon attracted attention. He led the league in batting in 1910 and was runner-up the following year.

Magee left the Phils in 1915, played two years with the Boston Braves and two more with the Cincinnati Reds, finally dropping out of the major league picture in 1919.

League Meeting Respects Jennings

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—Out of respect to the memory of Hughey Jennings, the National league magnates adjourned their business meeting here today earlier than usual. Many of the baseball men were visibly affected in discussing the passing of their former comrade.

Less Complimentaries in N. L.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Complimentary season passes for baseball games in the National league in the forthcoming championship will be reduced practically 50 per cent.

At the meeting of the club owners today a resolution was adopted limiting the number of "comps" to be issued by each club to 500. Heretofore, many teams had a distribution of 1,000 or more free passes, it was stated.

The moguls also went on record for spick and span uniforms for players, passing a resolution for frequent dry cleaning.

NO SOCKER GAME AT J. B. MARTIN PARK TOMORROW

The soccer football game scheduled for Sunday afternoon between the J. B. Martin and Ledyard teams has been postponed owing to the snow covered playing field.

STIFF COMPETITION ON RED SOX THIS SEASON

BOSTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—Only one thing is sure regarding the 1928 Boston Red Sox and that is that no one is sure of a regular berth at the present moment, according to Manager Bill Carrigan.

The square jawed leader of the younster-veteran combination gathered under the Boston American league banner this year came down from Lewiston, Me., to attend tomorrow's Boston A. A. track meet and at the same time wind up several details concerning the advance guard's departure for the southern drill grounds on February 20.

"Too early for predictions and there aren't any fixtures on the roster yet," was his response to a double barreled question. "Everyone will have to show me down at Bradenton before we talk about a regular team."

Carrigan will stick to the one workout a day idea that he inaugurated last year in his first "comeback season" as Red Sox manager but intimated that he has no set programme mapped out yet. Climatic conditions of Florida and the physical condition of his men will govern the conditioning programme, but there is no reason to prevent practice for battery men on the day of arrival.

Carrigan and the nucleus of the battery staff leave Boston on February 20. They arrive in Bradenton at 8 a. m. on the 22nd and the work will begin that morning barring a cloudburst, hurricane or earthquake, the Red Sox leader indicated. Phil Todt at first base and the four R's, Regan, Rogell, Rollings and Rothrock look like the infield backbone, with Ira Flagstead and the two Williams additions, Ken from St. Louis and Denny from Oregon, as the outer guardians, Carrigan admitted. But nothing will be settled until the Sox start north on the zig-zag exhibition route that leads to opening days in Washington on April 10 and in Boston against the Senators again on the following day.

"Looks as though we get a chance to lead the league on opening days, anyhow," was Carrigan's final comment after a glance at the schedule.

NAVY WILL PLAY PRINCETON NEXT FALL

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 3—(AP)—Hope for an Army-Navy game this year was thrown definitely into the discard tonight, with the announcement by Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, superintendent of the Naval academy, that Navy will play Princeton on Nov. 24 at Philadelphia.

This date formerly had been set as the occasion for the annual gridiron classic between the two service schools, but because the question of eligibility of players on West Point's team had met with opposition from naval officials, athletic relationships had been severed.

Princeton has accepted the invitation of the Navy to play the game at Philadelphia next fall, Admiral Nulton's statement said, and in addition the two institutions have entered into a three-year contract.

The game at Philadelphia this year has definitely eliminated Army from Navy's schedule, but in 1929 and 1930, the contract calls for games to be played late in October.

U. S. DRAWS MEXICO AS FIRST DAVIS CUP OBSTACLE

PARIS, Feb. 3—(AP)—Mexico will be the first obstacle to be hurled by tennis stars of the United States in their campaign to recover the Davis cup, wrested from America by France last year.

The draw in the American zone, made at Elysee palace by President Doumergue today, pits the United States against Mexico and Japan against Cuba in the first round.

Drawing a bye in the initial round, China will face the winner of the Mexico-United States matches, while Canada, also drawing a bye, engages the survivor of the other first round encounter.

On the basis of their 1927 form, Japan and the United States are regarded as virtual certainties to clash in the final of the zone competition.

Tufts' Summer Grid School

MEDFORD, Mass., Feb. 3—(AP)—Arthur Sampson, head coach of Tufts football, who produced the only untied, undefeated eleven in the east last fall, will conduct a football summer school at Tufts from June 25 to July 3 it was announced here today. Coach Sampson, who conducts a regular college course here on teacher-coaching principles, plans an intensive and advanced course for coaches of experience.

Mandell Bout Looms

BOSTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—Jim Mullins, Chicago boxing promoter, and Herman Taylor, Philadelphia matchmaker, today notified the Argonne A. A. that they planned to attend next Thursday's lightweight joust here between Dick "Honeyboy" Finnegan, of Dorchester, and Bruce Flowers, of New York, with a view to signing the winner for a title go with Sammy Mandell.

Dundee Trial Put Over

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3—(AP)—The trial of Joe Dundee, welterweight boxing champion, and his manager, Max Waxman, charged with false advertising as a result of the Dundee-Hudkins fight fiasco, was held over until March 16 in municipal court today.

PACKED HOUSE WITNESSES FINE CARD AT PASTIME A. C. SHOW

The best card of amateur bouts to be staged yet, amply repaid the packed house of fans who witnessed the Pastime A. C. show at the Olympic hall Friday evening. It was hard to pick the feature bout, the ninth go perhaps, between Young Metcalf and Baby Jennes giving the fans the greatest thrill, followed as a close second by Vic Darr and Harry Hooper affair, or the Mush Moriarty and Micky Casey bout. Every bout was replete with action, the boys evenly matched, and the fans were on their feet all the way.

Graveline Kayoes West.

Young Graveline, of Moosup, 150 lbs, who has yet to lose a fight here, started the evening off with a K. O. over Young West, 150 lbs., of Willimantic, a game boy who couldn't stand up under Graveline's heavy punching. He went down for a nine count in the first round, tried to stagger to his feet, but tumbled back to the canvas to be counted out.

The second go was a hectic affair between Young Arthur, of Willimantic, and Young Bango, of Norwich. They battled in spaems in the first, each apparently fearing the other. The Norwich boy left his corner like a demon at the second bell, sailed away at Arthur and for a minute it looked like the Willimantic lad was going down, bue he met Bango coming in with a hard right flush on the button and down and out went Bango. He tried to rise at the nine count but couldn't make it. They are light weights.

Young Carpenter, another pleasing performer from Willimantic, won on a technical K. O. from Young Petky, of Norwich. Petky tried hard, but Carpenter knew too much for him and the towel came sailing into the ring to save Petky from further punishment, after being down twice in the first round. Each weighed 125 lbs.

After a slow first round, Young Major, of Moosup, and Young Jannes, of New London, speeded up a little, but by doing most of the fighting and the least holding won the decision for the Moosup boy. Jannes was guilty of hitting low several times and an apparent unwillingness to do his best. Major weighed 145, one pound more than Jannes.

The fifth bout was a fast go between Young Polinski, of Colchester, and a wild swinging southpaw from New London, Young Burrows. Burrows relied on some of his haymakers to connect, while Polinski tried to bore in to get close enough to let his hard hitting right go. Burrows missed often and left himself wide open, but Polinski was unable to get in close on account of the New London lad's odd style. He did, however land several hard blows in the last round and had Burrows rather tired. The draw decision was well received.

Darr and Hooper in Draw.

The return match between Vic Darr and Harry Hooper was a whirlwind bout. They started off with Hooper trying to circle to keep out of the way of Vic's devastating left. But Vic swarmed all over the gob at long range while Hooper had the edge on in-fighting. Hooper fought a crafter fight than he did when they met before, but Vic just wouldn't be denied. Both boys fought every inch of the way and another bout between them is looked for. The judges called it a draw, which makes the supremacy still unsettled.

The seventh bout was another great one. Young Lavetti, of New York, a clever and hard hitting featherweight, fought Young Tough, of New London, with honors even at the end of three rounds. As the name implies Tough stood up under some hard wallops and gave some in return. They slugged all the way and had the fans cheering lustily. Tough weakened a little in the third round but the draw decision was unanimous with the crowd. Lavetti is a clever little boy and should go far in his chosen profession.

Young Fettis, of Colchester won on a technical K. O. from Young Campaign, of New London, which does not detract from Campaign's fighting spirit. They started in slam bang fashion, swinging arms in all directions until Campaign went down for the count of five. He got up unhurt and went back fighting, but received a bad bruise over the right eye and his seconds refused to let him get up for the second round. Fettis weighed 168 and Campaign 164.

Baby Jennis, of New London, came within an inch of turning the tables on Young Metcalf, of Westerly, for the knockout he received at the Westerly boy's hands at their last meeting. Jennis tore into Metcalf last night and whaled away, refusing to be set back by Metcalf's hardest blows. He knocked Metcalf down in the first, and had him on the verge of a knockout. It certainly loked bad for the Westerly boy, but he managed to hang on and lasted the round out. He came up for the second, somewhat refreshed and took the lead after driving Jennis to the ropes. Jennes, however, was fighting back and was always dangerous. He tired some in the last round, and Metcalf piled up enough points to get a draw. It was a great battle and will certainly make a good rematch.

Moriarty Wins Decision

Although both boys were on the floor when the last round ended, the fight between Mush Moriarty, the Norwich favorite and Micky Casey of Willimantic, was far from a sleeping match. Mush took plenty on the chin, but gamely sailed in for more. He did practically all the leading and found Casey's jaw with his famous right on more than one occasion. Casey went down for a short rest in the second from one to the jaw. Both boys tired in the last round, but Mush continued to pile in. Casey kept fighting back until he slipped down with Mush on top of him. They arose, went at it again, went down the second time and were in that position at the bell. Mush won the decision which was popular with the crowd and which will continue to make him a drawing card at the next bouts.

Joe Connelly of New London referred. Jack Carney kept time. Alex Pasnik and Hibby Callahan were the unbiased judges.

PLAINFIELD PROS PLAY MILLVILLE TOWN TEAM NEXT

Realizing that a game with Lou Gehrig and his team on Wednesday evening at the Community house would kill the attendance at Danielson on the following evening Manager Salisbury of the Plainfield Pros, has cancelled the encounter with the Gehrig basketeers. But instead he has the fast Millville Town team as opponents, claimants of the New England championship and twice winners over the reputable Boston Whirlwinds.

The Millville team has established a distinguished record in the Bay State and why not with such players as Kittredge, Kasper and Tisdell in their fold. These three players are former members of the Purple Collegians, who have an enviable record in this quarter of the states. Curran and Peloquin, center and forward, are also fast steppers and are sure to furnish plenty of thrills when they appear in Plainfield next Wednesday evening.

In the preliminary set-to the Plainfield Buddies clash with the C. F. C. from this city.

PUTNAM TRIMS WOODSTOCK BY 52-10 SCORE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 3. —In a listless game of basketball played here tonight the Putnam High school team swamped the Woodstock academy by a score of 52 to 10. Nineteen players were used in the game, 12 of whom represented Putnam. R. Child was the only man who was able to break through the Putnam defense, scoring 7 points on 3 field goals and a foul. Leo, Bove and Cody were the heavy point scorers for Putnam. In the preliminary game between the Putnam girls and the Woodstock maidens the outcome was different the latter trounoing the locals to the tune of 43 to 14.

What is expected to be a real honest to goodness basketball game will be furnished the Putnam fandom in the game Friday evening at Putnam between the locals and the Plainfield high school representatives. These two teams fought tooth and nail in a previous encounter at Plainfield, the Putnams coming through in the last 17 seconds of play with a basket to win the game by a 26 to 24 score. 'BOUT SPORTS

Norwich gets its major scholastic basketball game tonight at the Y when the Academy tackles Windham. Of course, Windham is favored to win for she has had basketball longer and has tackled just about the best in the state. Windham has a big pre-game edge but other teams have had as large a margin and yet lost when they tackled a team that showed some fight. If the Academy gets in there tonight and plays the brand of ball of which they are capable there is no telling what may happen. The five-man defense will go on exhibition tonight for the second time and although it went over far above expectations last week still there were flaws. It is probable that the Academy can halt Windham's offensive but it is extremely doubtful if it can be thoroughly stopped so that the Academy will have to do some scoring tonight. Les Pingree will be opposed by Eddie Saba, and this ought to provide a real battle. Pingree is the main Academy scoring threat and, of course, if he is stopped, things will not be so bright for the Academy. Lloyd Jarvis is expected to show some real flashy work this evening in his third start of the year.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

At the Y tonight.

The Kappas evidently bit off too much in the Mebs the other night. The Kappas underestimated this team, it seems.

The Y Emps, after beating the Fitchville Rovers Thursday intend to tackle the Shamrocks of this city next Thursday evening at the Y.

The C. F. C., meanwhile, is preparing for the Mystic Shamrocks next Monday night at the Y. The local boys are still thinking of that Hartford Central Baptist game three weeks hence.

A real contest is looked for tonight between Les Pingree and Eddie Saba, centers of the Academy and Windham, respectively, tonight. Saba is third and Pingree fourth leading scorers among eastern Connecticut's leading high schools.

The Taftville Crescents polished off one more Tuesday night in the Hilltops of Winsted. There ought to be a real tussle next week at Parish hall when the Southbridge quintet comes down for the second game.

Bill McKnight of this city will referee the Plainfield Pros game next week.

The Windsor Locks Advertisers are another team that local fans no doubt would like to see against the Taftville team. This team beat the Crescents early in the season at Windsor Locks.

PLAINFIELD

The board of assessors for the town of Plainfield has completed the grand list for the town. The preliminary total of this list (subject to correction) is $6,097,223. This assessor's total is to be adjusted by the board of relief as conditions demand. The final grand list total for the town was $6,198,922. This, provided no material change is made, will mean a net decrease in spending money, for the town of $2,300 at the 23-mill tax rate. The total of tax exemptions as shown at present on the books at the town hall for the past year is $57,295. On the 1926 list the tax exemption amounted to $69,907 or roughly $12,000 more than the preliminary figure for the 1927 list. The 1927 list shows property assessed at $764,316 as belonging to non-residents in the town. This figure has not changed materially lately.

Rev. T. Edward Davies, 93, of Westminster, senior pastor, died at the parsonage early Wednesday morning, Feb. 1 from angina pectoris. He is survived by his wife, Rev. Maura H. Davies and a sister, Mrs. Joseph Roberts of Rome, N. Y. His funeral services will be held in the church of which he has been pastor for over twelve years.

One of the finest suppers of its kind given by the American Legion auxiliary of Moosup was served Saturday to about 150. The proceeds will be used for a unit flag.

Sunday morning the Congregational pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss will exchange pulpits with Rev. Giles F. Goodenough of Jewett City.

Thursday evening the Fellowship meeting was held at the home of Walter Kingsley.

LOMSKI DECISIVELY DEFEATS M'TIGUE

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—The comeback cruise of "Bowld" Michael McTigue, perennial challenger and sometimes champion in the light heavyweight division sprung a huge leak and nearly foundered entirely tonight on the youthful rock of Leo Lomski, iron-fisted blonde slugger from Aberdeen, Wash.

McTigue Game

For ten rounds, the swarming, tireless leather tossing youngster threw everything he had at McTigue in an effort to bring the ancient of the prize ring down. The veteran wobbled, skidded, danced and parried, and although blood streamed from gashes above his eyes and his legs were stiff as stilts, Mike was still on his feet and fighting gamely at the final gong.

It was a battle of youth, cocky and confident, and old age, easily tired and bereft of almost everything but the canny fighting brain that made Mike McTigue famous. And although Lomski slashed both of Mike's eyes open in the fifth round, he could not floor him, and Lomski himself ran into one stiff left hook that ripped his right eyebrow.

From the start, the corn-haired westerner threw himself in to the fray recklessly, fists pouring in a steady stream at McTigue's head and body. Mike blocked and retreated, fended and ducked and saved the right hand that bowled over a dozen opponents until the fifth round.

Lomski Also Cut

Then as the storm became unbearable, Mike threw away his caution and loosed his full punching power on the youngster.

One vicious cop cut Lomski's eye in the fifth but both McTigue's eyes were gashed in the exchange and Leo refused to retreat.

From that point on, each round added to the venerable one's discomfort. Carrying an added burden of nearly 40 years, Mike was punch dreamy at the close of the seventh and eighth sessions, staggering when the ninth was over, and barely navigating, although still struggling through the motions, when the match ended.

McTigue had a slight advantage in the weights, scaling 173 1-2 pounds to 170 1-2 for Lomski.

Rosenbloom Wins

Maxie Rosenbloom, New York middleweight, defeated his local rival, K. O. Phil Kaplan, in a bruising eight round semi-final. Although Kaplan did the stiffer and cleaner punching, Maxie outsmarted his opponent at close range and opened a deep cut over Phil's left eye. Rosenbloom weighed 159 1-2, Kaplan 159.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

No Seat in Heaven.

I.

Talking of sects till late one eve,
Of the various doctrines the saints believe,
That night I stood in a troubled dream
By the side of a darkly flowing stream.

And a "Churchman" down the river came,
When I heard a strange voice call his name;
"Good father, stop, when you cross the tide;
You must leave your robes on the other side."

But the aged father did not mind,
And his long gown floated out behind,
As down to the stream his way he took,
His pale hands clasping a gild-edged book.

"I'm bound for heaven, and when I'm there
I shall want my Book of Common Prayer;
And though I put on a starry crown,
I shall feel quite lost without my gown."

Then he fixed his eyes on the shining track,
But his gown was heavy and held him back;
And the poor old father tried in vain
A single step in the flood to gain.

II.

I saw him again on the other side,
But his silk gown floated on the tide;
And no one asked him in that blissful spot
Whether he belonged to "the Church" or not.

Then down the river a Quaker strayed,
His dress of sombre hue was made
"My coat and hat must be all of gray,
I cannot go any other way."

Then he buttoned his coat straight up to his chin,
And staidly, solemnly waded in;
And his broad-brimmed hat he pulled down tight
Over his forehead so cold and white.

But a strong wind carried away his hat;
A moment he slightly sighed over that,
And then he gazed on the farther shore,
The coat slipped off and was seen no more.

As he entered heaven his suit of gray
Went quietly sailing away—away,
And none of the angels questioned him
About the width of his beaver's brim.

III.

Next came Dr. Watts with a bundle of Psalms
Tied nicely up in his aged arms,
And hymns as many, a very wise thing,
That the people in heaven "all around" might sing.

But I thought he heaved an anxious sigh
As he saw that the river ran broad and high,
And looked rather surprised as, one by one,
The Psalms and Hymns in the wave went down.

And after him, with his MSS.,
Came Wesley, the pattern of godliness;
But he cried, "Dear me, what shall I do?
The water has soaked them thro' and thro'."

And there on the river far and wide,
Away they went down the swollen tide.
And the saint astonished passed through alone,
Without his manuscripts up to the throne.

Then gravely walking, two saints by name,
Down to the stream together came;
But as they stopped at the river's brink
I saw one saint from the other shrink.

"Sprinkled or plunged—may I ask you, friend,
How you attained to life's great end?"
"Thus—with a few drops on my brow."
"But I have been dipped, as you'll see now;

"And I really think it will hardly do,
As I'm 'close communion,' to cross with you.
You're bound, I know, to the realms of bliss,
But you must go that way and I'll go this."

Then straightway plunging, with all his might,
Away to the left—his friend to the right.
Apart they went from this world of sin,
But at last together they entered in.

And now, when the river was rolling on,
A Presbyterian church went down;
Of women there seemed an innumerable throng,
But the men I can count as they pass along.

And concerning the road they could never agree,
The old or the new way, which could it be?
Nor ever a moment paused to think
That both would lead to the river's brink.

And a sound of murmuring long and loud
Came ever up from the moving crowd—
"You're in the old way, and I'm in the new,
That is the false, and this is the true.
Or "I'm in the old way and you're in the new,
That is the false, and this is the true."

But the brethren only seemed to speak;
Modest the sisters walked and meek.
And if ever one of them chanced to say
What troubles she met with on the way,
How she longed to pass to the other side,
Nor feared to cross over the swelling tide,
A voice arose from the brethren then,
"Let no one speak but the 'holy men.'
For have yet not heard the words of Paul,—
Oh, let the women keep silence all!"

I watched them long in my curious dream,
Till they stood by the borders of the stream;
Then, just as I thought the two ways met,
But all the brethren were talking yet,
And would talk on, till the heaving tide
Carried them over to the other side.
Side by side, for the way was one,
The toilsome journey of life was done
And all who in Christ the Saviour died
Came out alike on the other side;

No forms, or crosses, or books had they,
No gowns of silk, or suits of gray,
No creeds to guide them or MSS.,
For all had put on Christ's righteousness.

OLD CAPE COD

The Land of Heart's Desire

Did you ever go down on old Cape Cod?
That place that speaks of peace and God,
Where the trees, and flowers, and even grass,
Nod you a welcome as you pass;
Where you hear the waves a-pounding the shore,
When the wind's nor'east and the storm clouds lower,
Where you breathe in the smell of the old salt grass,
As on the highway of God's country you pass,
No place in the world shines the sun so bright,
Or the moon when it's full on a summer's night,
And the people, "God bless them," that true do they ring,
They make you as welcome as the flowers in spring;
A handclasp that thrills way down to the toes
Is the greeting one gets wherever he goes.
Just to think of that place is to me,
With its wonderful flowers and sky and sea,
Like sweetest nectar, fit for a god,
That I drink to the health of old Cape Cod.

Mary of the Wild Moor

It was on one cold winter's night,
As the wind blew across the wild moor,
When Mary came wandering home with her babe,
Till she came to her own father's door.
"O, Father, dear Father," she cried,
"Come down and open the door,
Or the child in my arms will perish and die
By the winds that blow across the wild moor."

"Oh why did I leave this dear spot,
Where once I was happy and free,
Now doomed to roam without friends or a home,
And no one to take pity on me.
The old man was deaf to her cries,
Not a sound of her voice reached his ears,
But the watchdog did howl and the village bell tolled
And the wind blew across the wild moor.

But how must the man have felt
When he came to the door in the morn,
Poor Mary was dead, but the child was alive,
Closely pressed in its dead mother's arms.
Half frantic, he tore his gray hair
And the tears down his cheeks they did pour,
Saying, "This cold winter's night she perished and died
By the winds that blew across the wild moor."

The old man in grief pined away,
And the child to its mother went soon,
And no one, they say, has lived there to this day,
And the cottage to ruin has gone.
The villagers point out the spot
Where the willow droops over the door,
Saying, "There Mary died, a gay village bride,
By winds that blew across the wild moor."

"Butch" Tupper's Fiddle

I have heard a lot uv music from orkestries an' bands;
An' talked with those who doled it out in this an' other lands.
I've listened to th' dreamy airs uv Spain an' Honolu
But none uv them hays ever seemed t' thrill me through an' through
As did "Butch" Tupper's fiddle in th' days uv long ago,
When I went' them old dances with folks I useter know.

There was somethin' almost sacred as he tuk it from its case
An' stroked its back an' tuned it up an' held it to his face;
Why, it almost seemed 'twas human as he lightly laid th' bow
Acrosst th' strings an' waited fer its music, soft an' low.
An', dern my skin, I almost b'lieve I'd rather be back there,
Jest a-listenin' to that fiddle than be made a millionaire.

Now you may have your saxytones an' clarynets an' bands;
Th' music which hes come t' us from far an' foreign lands;
Rave on about th' magic touch uv this great man or that;
But, as fer me, their tunes are allus meaningless an' flat.
So, if you'd please me, play again them airs I useter know
As old "Butch" Tupper played 'em in th' days uv long ago.

MY TRIP TO CAPE COD

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: We certainly are having an open winter so far. I am not as fond of the old fashioned winters as some.

Balsam Fir requests the poem "The Drunkard's Daughter." My mother used to recite it when she was attending school at the old Natchaug in Willimantic, about 60 years ago. Am sending in the poem at this writing, for publication when possible.

In October, 1927, I took a trip to Cape Cod with friends. I had always wanted to go to Cape Cod and it proved to be a wonderful trip.

Starting Oct. 2nd, we went through Westerly to Narragansett Pier, then to Saunderstown and crossed by ferry to Jamestown, then crossed on another ferry to Newport. Entering Newport from the ferry, the impression is of the old-time Newport, narrow streets and buildings near the waterfront. Taking the shore drive, we passed grand estates which front on the water. Beautiful entrances wind through spacious lawns surrounded by trees and shrubbery, and suggest the magnificence beyond, of homes and palaces.

Drove through Fort Adams, which spells antique at every turn, and the visit proved interesting.

Finding a wonderful spot near the water at the extreme end of the shore drive, where the air was fresh from the ocean, our appetites were keen and a hearty lunch was enjoyed while watching the breakers and breathing the salt sea air, which was extremely refreshing, as it was a very warm day. Never did a lunch taste better.

Driving back through Newport residential section, one can hardly conceive of the wealth which the fine residences represent. The grandest summer resort of our country.

Continuing the trip from Newport to Fall River, traveling over a wonderful four-track highway to New Bedford, then through Bourne, Falmouth to Woods Hole.

At Woods Hole there is a coast guard station and a marine biological laboratory for government research work.

A night of repose at Hyannis inn.

The second morning finds us on our tour through Dennisport, where we visit Crowell's (Crowell and his windmills).

Cape Cod wouldn't be Cape Cod without its windmills. Gift shops and windmills are prominent features.

The typical Cape Cod house has blue blinds and many additions like stepping stones, each smaller than the one before.

The trees diminish in size, growing smaller and smaller until there are no trees at all on the sand dunes. The government has planted grass on some dunes, but sand dunes are not very prolific.

At Chatham we visit Chatham "Twin Lights." Near is the site of the old Chatham Lights in 1872. One light has been removed to a place where it is needed more.

About nine miles southeast from this place are the shoals of Pollock Rip, which turned the Mayflower back to Provincetown harbor and caused the Pilgrim Fathers to settle at Plymouth, instead of on the Jersey coast, their original destination.

Most of us are interested in Joseph C. Lincoln's books. Lincoln's modern home has a wonderful outlook over the ocean. A real old Cape Cod windmill is situated near his yard.

A sign reads: A. W. Edwards, Wood Novelties, "Shavings" and windmills galore.

On through Orleans to Provincetown there is a splendid road built over and on the sand dunes. Rolling over the dunes is a delightful and pleasant experience.

At North Truro, Highland light is visited by hundreds of people each year, and one never forgets the broad expanse of the Atlantic on a clear peaceful day. The impression is a lasting one.

The Pilgrim Memorial monument can be seen many miles this side of Provincetown and serves as a great landmark.

Entering Provincetown we pass the artists' colony of small houses.

The streets in Provincetown are narrow and the houses low and quaint.

One narrow main street through the town to the spot where a tablet is erected commemorating "The first landing place of the Pilgrims, Nov. 11, 1620, erected by the Research club of Provincetown, 1917."

Pilgrim Memorial monument, 252 feet high, was visited by 36,000 people in 1927. This is a marvelous construction, built wholly of Maine granite, and is 28 feet square at the base. The view from the top of the monument is superb. The entire Cape is spread out below the observer like a map, and the view extends many miles out at sea. In case of war it is to be used as an observation station.

At night the lights of nearly a dozen lighthouses are visible from the summit.

Just off from the main street in Provincetown there is a memorial bas-relief, "Signing the Compact, Nov. 11, 1620."

Returning to Orleans, we spent the second night in an inn opposite the French cable station. There have been 2,000 ships wrecked off shore from the cable station. The first of these wrecks was the "Sparrowhawk," the hulk of which is exhibited in Pilgrim hall, Plymouth.

The morning broke with a howling wind storm, tearing branches from trees and upsetting things in general.

But old Sol was our friend and smiled upon us nearly all day.

Over the king's highway through Yarmouth, where Lincoln liked to stroll, we went on to Barnstable and the antique cemetery, where some of my ancestors repose, through Sandwich and on to Plymouth.

Our Pilgrim Fathers showed good judgment in choosing Plymouth for their home.

There are so many points of historical interest in and around Plymouth. The famous Pilgrim spring, "Freely drink and quench your thirst, here drank the Pilgrim Fathers first;" The Pilgrim Maiden, Brewster gardens, Pilgrim hall with its exhibit of relics and antiques, the Pilgrim Mother fountain which was erected by the D. A. R. In 1925, Plymouth Rock with the magnificent portico over it, "erected by the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, Cole's Hill monument, the heroic bronze figure of Massasoit, great sachem of Wampanoags, who was protector and preserver of the Pilgrims; Burial hill, the Fort hill of the Pilgrims, with the "old powder house" (1770) in the background. The National monument to the Forefathers erected by public subscription and dedicated Aug. 1, 1889, erected by a grateful people in remembrance of their labors, sacrifices and sufferings for the cause of civil and religious liberty. "Ye Bradford Arms," home of Tabitha Plasket, the first woman school teacher in America, built about 1722, now serves as a tea room to the public.

In a room overlooking Plymouth harbor, near Plymouth rock, is a most wonderful place to sleep.

A few miles from Plymouth is the historic town of Duxbury, where we visited the home of John Alden and Priscilla. The house with a few acres is now owned by "The Alden Kindred of America." The Myles Standish house, with 1666 marked on three sides of the chimney, is owned by private individuals. Myles Standish monument on Captain's hill has a wonderful outlook over Massachusetts bay. In the ancient cemetery we found the graves of Standish and Alden, men of rank and understanding of the Plymouth colony.

After a wholesome dinner in Myles Standish restaurant at Plymouth our return trip was through Taunton, Providence to Westerly, over Noosneck Hill road.

To really see and enjoy Cape Cod one needs to spend more time. Have heard of people who made the trip to Cape Cod and back in one day, but I doubt if they got more than a birdseye view.

WHY SO MANY OF CLUB NO. 1 SILENT?

Dear Social Corner Friends: First I want to thank Social Corner Member for the dear little potted plant calendar. It has been some time since I wrote to the Corner but I think of you all and know each one enjoyed being at the meetings.

I was glad to be able to see so many at the December meeting. We had a fine time and good dinner, as we always do.

Mother Preston: I made a loaf of the old fashioned walnut bread today and it was dandy.

Why are so many of Club No. 1 silent? If you know how I look for a letter each week from you, I know some of you would write.

Eliza Jane: Glad to hear things are going on so nicely at the hall. Saw two of the color bearers up here last Wednesday night.

Mavis: Be on hand at Rocky Hill Feb. 14—all day Pomona.

Jennie: Was sorry to leave that night, but came home on last bus. Saw the Bible and flag. There was quite a number came out when I did. Too bad things were so late in starting. We might have had a real dinner if we had only known.

If water does not flow freely through pipe connected with kitchen sink, pour a pint of kerosene down pipe and allow it to remain there all night. In the morning run cold water. You will find it will flow freely.

Rub the ribs and all the hinged portions of the frame of the new umbrella with vaseline and it will never rust.

Blotters dipped in oil of lavender and put on shelves in book cases will keep away tiny insects that are sometimes bound in cases.

Will close with a few lines on Giving: Give and thou shalt receive; give thoughts of cheer, of courage and success to friend and stranger; give words of comfort to those crushed by sorrow; give of thy gold, and give of thy love, and wheresoe'er thy pathway leads on earth, there thou wilt find the lamp of love light burning.

I extend sympathy to all in sorrow and wish each and all a happy and prosperous New Year.

HINTS FOR THE SEWERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I have been thinking of a few little hints that might be helpful to those who sew and mend, so pass them along:

In regard to thread and needle, it is better not to have too long a thread, especially if a fine thread, for it wears and breaks before used up.

In sewing on pockets to aprons, or on rompers, it is very advisable to first sew a piece of same material, a little larger, but same size as the pocket, underneath where the pocket is to be put on; in this way, when the pocket is sewed on, on the outside, it will have a double surface for its foundation, and will endure more wear and perhaps less tear.

As the snap fasteners are used much more nowdays in place of buttons and buttonholes, it is not always easy to sew them on and make each corresponding part fit. I have learned that it is best to sew on the smaller part of the snap that has the little point first, and all of them that are to be used on the space for the closing on a garment. Then rub a little chalk on each of these points of the fasteners, then carefully press them against the cloth where the other part of the snap is to be sewed on, and there can be no mistake as to the exact location for the other half, where the little chalk mark appears.

I find it quite convenient to always make a knot in the end of the thread each time when I have finished using the thread and needle. Then it is ready when I want to use it again.

When stitching on the sewing machine, where there is a basting thread, it is best to avoid getting too near, as it is much harder to remove the basting thread and apt to pick into the cloth with the scissors.

When stitching very thin material on the machine, it is a good idea to put a piece of paper underneath cloth, and then the thread will not "pucker" or draw tight, and the paper will tear off easily.

Aries: Did you receive my Christmas card, and something else?

Theoda and Daisy Dean: Thank you for compliments to my recent letters. Best wishes to all.

MADE MANY CORNER FRIENDS

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner—The Social Corner Club No. 5 met at Buckingham Memorial Feb. 1st and carried out a very successful Lincoln-Washington social meeting under the leadership of our hostess Elva. But there was a thought of sadness mingled with the pleasure of the day.

Just a few words on the Social Corner life of Mrs. George Kampf (pen name Kasha). I became acquainted with her at the social gathering some time ago and it was a pleasure to work with her at various times in social duties. A great worker and willing helper, with a pleasing personality of sterling worth she made many Social Corner friends. As I recall her last attendance of Jan. 4th, working through the morning hours and taking part in the afternoon program, conversing with her later in the day, I said, "We are not going to let you help at the next social meeting," and with a cheery smile she answered, "No, for on that day I will rest from my labors and let others take my place." I little thought it was our last conversation. A short illness of a few days and the prophetic words came true and the spirit of Mrs. Kampf winged its flight to eternal rest and as the last rites are over, we as a body of Social Corner No. 5 mourn her loss but loving remembrances will cherish the name of Sister Kasha.

GUSTA. (Club No. 5).

GREETINGS FROM E. L. M.

Dear Social Corner Members—I was so sorry to hear of the death of Kasha. Many times she has attended our meetings and always was so pleasant to everyone. Club No. 5 will certainly miss her.

Commuter—I had a chat with Mr. C. on Saturday. Was sorry to hear you were ill, with all the other trouble.

Beers—Well you certainly had me guessing as I don't know of anything you said to me that needed an apology. Guess you must have pen names mixed. Glad you are to be hostess next time as I know that's just in your line.

YY—Some sport you, but beware of the third time with car trouble. Ha, ha.

Cosmos—Sorry we did not meet as planned, but was afraid it would be too slippery. Hear there was an accident too.

Wonder if any of you had the same experience with your windows as I did in the recent storm. The wind blew so strong there were clouds of dust, the snow was blowing too, and now it has melted the windows look as though buckets full of real muddy water had been thrown on them. Been too cold to go out and wash them so they are a sight.

Milky Way—Congratulations.

Skipper—I knew you could play bridge if you tried.

I think it's a nice idea when any of the sisters die if the one who writes about it, gives both the real name and pen name of the deceased as we meet so many and don't always know both names.

SOME OF THE SHORE BIRDS

Dear Social Corner Members: First I wish to thank our editor for my yellow slip; second, the member who so kindly sent me the pretty calendar. The calendar came to me on a day that I needed cheering up, and I can assure you that that little gift coming so unexpectedly brought home the fact to me that there are some fine people in the world yet, and that it is best to forget the unpleasant ones.

A short time ago I asked for information about Fort Ned, and in The Bulletin of Jan. 6 appeared a fine article giving its history. I want to thank E. C. Peck most sincerely for the time he spent in answering my inquiry. As a very little girl I visited Fort Ned with my parents on a picnic and when the traveling is better I hope to go there again. I only remember dimly a few things about it, as that was longer ago than I care to think about, but I shall certainly visit again the site of the old mill. I appreciated your pun, for "A bit of humor now and then is relished by the best of men."

History, and especially local history, to me is a most fascinating subject. At one time I boarded with the Perry Linnell that you mention as having been a caretaker at the old mill at Fort Ned, but never heard him speak of the mill.

The Friendly Voice wrote an interesting article on birds last week and I thought perhaps a few words about birds that live near the water might be interesting also. Our most common one is, of course, the sea gull, a bird varying in color from white to gray, but deceiving in size. Actually, the bird, although large, is light in weight, consisting mostly of feathers. They are the scavengers of our shores, and therefore are protected by law. We see them by hundreds, grouped on the ice of the harbor, or floating on the open water, searching for food. They are clever in obtaining it, too. Upon finding a clam, the gull will soar high in the air, letting fall the clam upon the ice. This breaks open the clam and his dinner is ready.

In summer on the shores of the marshes can be seen the sandpipers or "tippy toes," as my young friends call them. They teeter as they soberly walk up and down the marsh looking for worms and tiny snails. There are 30 species, mostly brown or gray in color, and of various sizes. Their call is sad and shrill, not at all musical. I have often watched them parade up and down the muddy flats in a cove where the loveliest pink mallows grow.

Here, too, I have seen a tall solemn crane, standing on one leg in the water, watching for a minnow for his dinner. I have seldom seen them fishing in the afternoon, as they seem to spend the most of their time sleeping, usually on one leg. Upon being scared away, they flap their long legs and wings and fly to some quiet retreat farther back in the reeds of the marsh.

In the early spring or late fall we see the wild ducks, often in flocks of 40 or 50, or more, resting in the coves while the migrating season is on. The male is beautiful. His head and neck is a deep green, separated from the dark chestnut body by a white ring. It is funny to see them dive for food in the water, leaving only the feet and and tail exposed.

When we first came here to live we saw geese, during the migration period, in our pond, but civilization has driven them away. I loved to hear them talk to each other as they settled down sleepily for the night, talking perhaps of the long journey before them on the morrow.

Now in closing I would like to have someone tell me how to make a calla lily grow and bloom. I have both the spotted leaf and white calla, but neither has bloomed, and the bulb of the white calla separates into smaller bulblets. They look thrifty, but that is all I can boast of.

With best wishes for a prosperous New Year, I am as ever,

WINTER ROBIN.

CHATTY LETTER FROM JOAN

Dear Social Corner Friends: I was much interested in the letter describing Mt. Misery, by Kochia, and the one about Fort Ned, too. We can picture them in our minds after reading of them. I would like to read the one Rural Delivery sent to the paper telling about the public hanging, as I've heard my stepfather tell of being present. He lived in Griswold at that time and he said the man rode on his coffin, and the text was "Be sure your sin shall find you out." I do not remember the man's name. It must be the same one, because he said it was the last public hanging.

Betsey Bobbett: I have a picture of that rock you mentioned, also have a nice picture of Chapman's falls at the Devil's Hopyard. A long time since I've met you.

Aries: Thank you for the poems. You and I must get busy, as there is no poetry of late, and I miss it.

Wind Bell: No, I cannot forget what I'm all the time thinking about.

Mother Preston: You will hear from me in the near future. Hope to meet you at some of our gatherings.

When I read Slow's letter about Florida it reminded me of what my cousin said. He once had an orange grove at Orlando. About the long journey there, he said: "I would prefer riding behind a slow horse, and not over 10 miles from home."

At the last meeting it seemed like old times to have Desrie, Unome, Canterbury Bell and Cady with us. Then on my way home I met Dudley's Wife, and we had a chat.

It looks now quite like winter. I for one love to see the ground all white, and it's good for the hardy plants in the garden. It's fun to see the children out with their sleds, sliding down hill. We don't see any high hills these days like we used to have when I used to slide down West Main street hill. "All things change," and we change with them.

JOAN.

ANSWERS 1928 ROLL CALL.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I do not want to be a slacker, and wish to answer to the roll call of 1928, I will try and write a few lines to the Corner.

First, I want to thank the sisters who remembered my birthday, Jan. 13, and also the Social Corner sister who sent me the pretty calendar. It is nice to be remembered and I think it is nice to have a birthday. We are only as old as we feel so it does not make any difference how many birthdays we have. I was in Hartford attending the state grange and I also went through the state library and saw the portraits of our governors and went through the J. P. Morgan Memorial and looked at the different minerals and antique furniture. I thought it was a wonderful sight.

Priscilla: I attended to the errand you wanted me to do for you and it is all settled now.

Mrs. H.: Had a wonderful time. Will try it again some time.

Necia: Where were you that you did not go to Hartford? You missed a good time.

Calla Lily: I thank you for the card and the note was very cheery. You never forget me. Will try and meet with you at the next meeting.

Cady: Had a letter from Mrs. V., and a picture of the wedding. I suppose you received one too.

Will ring off now as I have answered the roll call for 1928.

BONIE.

NORTHWEST ANTICIPATING EARLY SPRING

Dear Social Corner Members — Well here I come again to wish you all a happy new year. And to thank the sisters who sent me Christmas cards. And I sure appreciate the pretty calendar, with its beautiful design. I think I know who so kindly remembered a sister so far away. I am sure it is the nicest calendar I ever received, for I dearly love all flowers.

The holidays are over and soon it will be spring time. Seattle had one light fall of snow the last of December, but a warm rain soon took it off, and we are looking forward to an early spring. The robins have been with us all winter and the meadow larks are singing their morning songs. The early flowers are coming up, but the mountains are covered with deep snow—yet. It was a surprise to me when I read of the warm winter in New England and the cold weather in the south.

Looks as though this old world is playing us some funny tricks. Some sister wanted to know where the fun lovers are. We are kept in such a whirl, with many serious conditions surrounding us, it is pretty hard to get in touch with a real live joke.

Balsam Fir—Your letter received. The last word from the Bach was from San Diego, Calif.

Hope Cobweb—I agree with you, the world is growing better in spite of all that seems the worst of crimes.

Joan—I am wondering when I will receive one of your nice long letters.

Kansas Lily—Did you once live in the Sunflower state?

Kochia—I was much interested in you last letter. Your expression of life as it is today rings very true.

Kentucky Wonder—When are you going to write? Have been looking for a letter ever so long.

Am glad to read of the gay times you have at the clubs. When I visit New England I will meet you all.

POTLATCH.

STEAMED PUDDINGS

Dear Corner Sisters: No season is more suitable to substantial desserts than this time of year. Puddings give their heartiness and starch-energy so necessary to help resist and enjoy cold weather temperature. In the family with growing children, mothers know that puddings are the one dish guaranteed to stand by the appetites sharpened by winter sports. Indeed, all such steamed desserts are most desirable for growing children, because they combine high food value with ease of digestion. Puddings should be plentifully supplied to boys whose demand for food is often so great that they tax their stomach capacity. For them the concentrated but simple dessert is ideal; its economy, ease in making and delicious variety commend it to mothers.

Steamed puddings fall into two groups: (1) those thickened with cooked ingredients as cake, bread crumbs, crackers, mashed potatoes, etc.; (2) those thickened with uncooked ingredients as flours, cereals, grains. The former takes much less cooking time than the latter. But in either case steamed puddings must be cooked over steam of water held continuously at the boiling point or simmering point. The covered molds may be laid into the boiling water or in an upper inset of a steamer. Well oiled paper should be placed between the pudding and its lid, and about one-third of the space of the mold left empty at the top, in order to leave room for the pudding to expand and become light and spongy.

When using flour, cornstarch or a cereal as thickening, this thickening should be cooked separately in hot liquid until it becomes a smooth sauce. Then it should be combined with the fruits, eggs and other ingredients. This method insures that the thickening is smooth, free from lumps, and ready to increase in size evenly throughout the batter. For the same reason, bread crumbs, crackers, etc., should be covered with hot liquid and allowed to swell fully before being added.

When eggs are included their yolks and whites should be beaten separately. The yolks should be added during the last of the mixing and the whites folded in at the last in order to secure as much air as possible in the batter and thus make the pudding light and spongy. Whenever eggs are employed the temperature of the cooking water should be kept lower than usual. Fruits like raisins, preserved ginger, dates, etc., should be cut in smaller pieces and well floured, then shaken free of excess flour and added.

All molds used should be very well greased with butter or vegetable cooking oil. It is best to heat the mold and melt the oil in it, then slide around, filling the batter into the hot and very greasy mold. Heating the mold reduces the tendency of the batter to "stick" on removing the pudding. Small molds cook in less time, are ready for individual service and increase the chances that the pudding will be evenly light without soggy spots. But the single "melon" and "turkshead" mold are impressive and decorative and lend themselves to attractive garnishing with whipped cream, hard sauce, candied fruits.

Steamed puddings offer a good way in which to use up stale cake, bread and left-over cereal. Slices of sponge and similar cake can be arranged along the side of the mold to completely cover it, and the batter or cases I find it is better to let the entire mold stand for an hour to swell and bind the custard or batter with the cake lining before placing to steam. Doing this also reduces the actual cooking time. Speaking of cooking time, I do not consider it necessary to stream for hours and hours. With the aid of the new light aluminum molds which conduct heat so rapidly, puddings of medium size steam perfectly in about one and one-half hours. And since this is on a very low flame, and does not require any of the housewife's attention after it is placed in the boiling water, the work of preparation is much less than that of many a pastry, cake or frilly dessert.

Boston brown bread, Indian meal pudding, cabinet pudding are a few of the traditional dishes, and they are certainly as appetizing now as in olden days. The addition of hard sauce, fruit sauces and maple sugar make these puddings much more "company desserts" than their simple and inexpensive ingredients suggest. Here are a few interesting specimens:

Mock Cherry Pudding—One-fourth cup each of butter and sugar, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, 1 cup cut cranberries, whites of 2 eggs.

Method: Cream butter and sugar, add sifted dry ingredients with milk, add cut berries and fold in whipped whites. Steam 1 1-2 hours, serve with sauce made of sweetened juice of additional cranberries.

Valentine Pudding—One-half pound stale sponge cake crumbs, 1-2 pound grated moist cocoanut, 2 cups milk, 1-2 cup sugar, 4 eggs.

Cover cocoanut and crumbs with hot milk and let stand; add sugar and beaten eggs. Have your pudding mold well oiled and decorated with the sections of ginger cut into fancy shape. Hearts are very good to carry out the name of the pudding. Pour in batter, cover close and steam 1 1-2 hours.

ETHELYN.

WHO CAN BEAT IT?

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Saturday, Jan. 28th. What a wonderful winter we are having! No snow at all at this writing and January nearly gone. I listened in to Cheerio exchange again this morning and while doing it I am knitting wash cloths for the hospital, to keep busy.

Starlight: You ask how many are braiding rugs, etc. We are on our fifth one, and I have one more to do. Who can beat it?

Roberta: I cannot seem to remember that you came to my house with Mrs. K. Please make it a little plainer for me. I stayed with her several weeks, but do not remember who lived the other side of the fence.

Anne D.: You no longer keep me in the dark. I think you are a cousin to the man who set out the black walnut trees on the old home farm. In looking over a box of treasures (my souvenirs) I came across a card on which was printed Abington Center school "Character is your capital." G. A. H., teacher. In looking over the list of 46 names, 33 have passed on, but your name and mine are among the living.

Black-eyed Susie: Glad you have started the ball a rolling concerning our genial and hard-working mail men. I do not think many have even given the subject one single thought. Hope to hear more about it.

Least Rose of Summer: Hope you are better. I did not know you were ill until Queen Marie wrote me about it.

ANN TENNA.

CHATTY LETTER FROM KOCHIA.

Dear Editor and Corner Members: Not so long ago, many said we were not going to have any winter, "Some one" must have been mistaken. Since I can remember winter never has yet rolled in the sky.

And someone, for the past few days began to turn the wind on, and on it came, harder and harder. Along came a little more snow, which shows us that winter is not gone yet. Many say they do not like winter as they once did. True with us all. One reason is we don't have the snow as in former years to enjoy sleighing, coasting, and for the children to make snow men. But there are many other things to be enjoyed in the winter time besides snow. The good man of the house enjoys coming home from a long trying day of labor, and sitting down with his family, by a glowing fireside, and listening in on the radio. He reads the evening news, and enjoys a quiet smoke then has a sociable game of cards, with a well-filled dish of pop corn and apples.

Brown Eyes: I at last have learned who you are. Glad you enjoy my letters. Why not take hubby and come up and make me a call. Not so very long ago I drove by the little school house, where you at one time taught the children their A B C's. What changes have taken place in that section, almost a deserted community. The little chapel is burned, buildings are decaying and crumbling down. House after house seems to be empty of voices and life. Many, of course, have, like yourself, moved to other sections.

Eben Shirley: I recently saw by the paper, where you were granted your request. May the roses now bloom more fragrant along your daily path as the years roll on.

Peggy Alder: Was pleased to read your letter. Regarding Checkerberry school house, I knew that it burned some time ago. More than 25 years ago a man by the name of Bitgood owned a sawmill here, moved it into that section and cut a large timber lot off. They tell me years before that, in a family living in that section, the man of the house, one day loaded his gun, and set the butt between his feet and in some manner the gun was discharged and blew his head off. Perhaps Rural Delivery may recall the incident.

To those who have been inquiring, the blacksmith here 35 years ago was Frank Marshall, who afterwards was succeeded by Jesse Bently.

Phuller Phun: Where are you these days? Not frozen so you are unable to write I hope. Big brother of yours whirled in Sunday and spent the evening with us. Sorry you were not along also. Best wishes to everyone.

KOCHIA. (Feb. 12)

LEARNING TO LIVE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I think it is a quite generally accepted truth that a goodly portion of us die about the time we have learned how to live. This seems a great pity and loss to the world. As it isn't probable that the longevity of man will be much increased very soon, it behooves us to learn how to live wisely as early in life as possible. One of the many things that it is expedient for us to learn early is how to adjust ourselves to our environment so that whatever that environment may hold of good and evil influence we shall allow only that which is beneficial in it to affect us. As a rule it is much easier and wiser to do this way than to try to radically change our surroundings. It requires tact to gracefully adjust one's self to one's environment, but the art of doing this is well worth cultivating. We must also learn to live with others and to work with others, however uncongenial they may be to us, with the minimum of friction.

Once when as a saleswoman in a department store I found that a new assistant was of a temperament particularly trying to me, and was wondering how I could do good work with her, our employer, as though he were a mind reader, approached us and made the following announcement: "Now, I expect you two young women to get along well with each other. If you don't, I shall discharge you both." We wanted to hold our positions, so quickly adjusted our differences and pulled together. It doesn't pay to allow the unkind acts or words of others to affect us too deeply. We must in some way (each after his own fashion) encase ourselves with protective armor, self preservation being the first law of nature. Nerve force can be used much faster than produced and we cannot learn too early in life to husband it carefully instead of dissipating it. We must be thrifty with our physical and mental resources as well as with our earnings. It isn't necessary in argument that we always have the last word and wear our nerves to a frazzle getting it. Many a time I have been disgusted with myself for arguing about some topic of the day until I had a nervous headache. It is a wise person who knows when he or she has said enough, and it is good common sense to see to it that it is the other fellow, if anybody, who gets angry. Anger is a very destructive force and few of us can afford to indulge in it. Another thing to learn early is how to stand alone or "paddle one's own canoe." Most of us, no doubt, believe that Miles Standish might have won Priscilla if he had gone "on his own" instead of sending his friend John Alden to do his wooing for him. Sir Walter Scott says of the gallant young Lochinvar when he was attempting to win the fair Ellen, so nearly lost to another, "he rode all unarmed and he rode all alone." He got Ellen. In "The Winners" Rudyard Kipling says:

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week Joseph P. Monaher was elected foreman of the Delanoy Steam Fire Engine Co. at the company's annual meeting. John C. Shea was the choice for first assistant and Thomas Fitzpatrick was elected second assistant. As a whole the week was a quiet one in Norwich. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of 1878 are as follows:

Monday, Jan. 28, 1878—The union temperance meeting Saturday evening was much enjoyed by those present. Mr. N. S. Gentworth gave a very interesting talk upon the state of things in Preston since the no-license vote. He said the change was marked by the absence of brawls, street rows and open bars, making a wonderful improvement in favor of good order. Mr. Cressy, a member of the Redford club of Providence, addressed the meeting giving sketches of his personal history in reformation.

Mr. Joseph Lewis, who kept books years ago for large firms, was fatally stricken with paralysis a few days ago at the Howard house, Niantic, where he has made his home for the past 10 years.

Thursday, Jan. 31, 1878—The New York boats have been able to navigate the river nearly all the time this winter, but the City of Norwich got caught yesterday and had much trouble in extricating herself.

A fasting prayer and conference meeting was held at the Central Baptist church throughout the day Tuesday and a religious interest was manifested in a more marked degree than has been known for years. The meetings in most of the churches have been remarkably well attended since the week of prayer, and as the result of revival work in several, numrous converts are reported.

The measles are quite prevalent among the scholars of the public schools. The disease has been very light in form, and few, if any, cases are at all severe.

Shea; second assistant, Thomas Fitzpatrick; secretary and treasurer, Patrick F. Kelley; fire police, P. Mahoney and G. W. Maples.

SOCIAL CORNER

"What is the moral? Who rides may read,
When the night is thick and the tracks are blind,
A friend at a pinch is a friend indeed
But a fool to wait for the laggard behind.
Down to Gehenna or up to the throne
He travels fastest who travels alone."

This was evidently the opinion of "The Lone Eagle," keeping his own counsel and with faith in his destiny he traveled with no companion save his God, and reached the goal.

What a big sheaf of fine letters of late! I find that our page is more and more generally read, and with keen interest, too. A warm welcome to new members. We need you all. Everyone has something helpful to pass along to others.

With best wishes,
EVELINE BURR.

WALKED 7½ MILES FOR CLUB NO. 4 MEETING

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: How are you all? At last I have attended a Social Corner picnic at G. A. R. hall, Danielson. There were 52 sisters there and we had a fine time. I live five miles from Danielson and my husband is working in the woods, but I made up my mind to get to the gathering somehow. So we got together, Stubby, Snozer and Killingly Bud, and walked every step with our grub in handbags, and, believe me, we felt like eating when dinner was ready. We had a swell dinner and all we could eat of everything. After dinner we enjoyed the afternoon with singing and readings and had a lovely time getting acquainted with the sisters. We started for home at 4 o'clock and walked 2 1-2 miles toward home. At last a kind neighbor came along and we enjoyed a ride the rest of the way. We were not sorry to ride as we were nearly on our last legs. Some jaunt—7 1-2 miles—but we enjoyed every minute and felt well paid for our trip.

Now I have been making a mistake in my pen name. I thought mine was Starlight but it seems someone else has that and mine must be Starbright. I am sorry if I made the mistake. They are so near alike I would like to change mine to another one. If we were twins they would be good ones, but as we are not I will change it to JUNIPER.

(As Juniper belongs to another member, will you please make some other selection?—S. C. Editor.)

OH, WON'T WE HAVE A JOLLY TIME!

Dear Social Corner Sisters: At our next meeting, which will be Feb. 14 (Valentine day), we have planned to have something out of the ordinary which will be pleasing and also entertaining. Come with your voices in good condition so you can sing. And of course you do not want to miss that wonderful pie that Red Rose is going to bring. It really will be so large it will take her several hours to prepare.

As we commemorate the birthdays of our presidents, Washington and Lincoln, this month, let all come prepared to quote a line from their sayings.

Milky Way: So fortunate to have a quarter of beef to cut; also to win prize on same.

Call Lily: Will seem good to have you with us once again.

Unome: Was pleased to see you and did enjoy my talk with you. Trust daughter is gaining.

Ann Tenna: I often wonder if you are listening in on the same program that I am. We did not hear Roxy Sunday, did we? I understand that Scottie has had a fall and has injured her foot. Hope it will be well soon, as we want her with us next meeting.

Beers: I would dearly have loved to have seen the surf.

Now don't forget the date, Feb. 14; come one and all and have a jolly time.

TRUE BLUE (Club No. 2)

WANTS ALL CLUB NO. 2 MEMBERS PRESENT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Just a few lines to greet you all. I would like to hold your attention for a few minutes. May I?

Club No. 2 meets at Buckingham Memorial Feb. 1. Come early and stay late. I wish it would be possible for all members of Club No. 2 to be present, and members of other clubs are invited.

Please bring something good to eat and something good for the entertainment. I am letting you all in on a big secret of mine. I enjoy seeing a big crowd, a happy crowd, a crowd all laughing and talking and having a splendid time together. Come one and all with the expectation of having a good time and the fact will be realized with full measure heaped up, pressed down and running over.

I will be there to welcome you and if you are not having a good time report to me at once and I will see what can be done for you. And when the day is over I trust one and all can say "I am glad I was here."

I trust we have a pleasant day, a table full of goodies and a pleasant time. Bring your books and voices and use both. If you want a piece of Washington pie you will have to come to the Buckingham after it.

Black-eyed Susie: Thank you. I was pleased to hear from you.

SISTER READY.

SUGGESTIONS FOR YOUNG HOUSEKEEPERS

Dead Corner Friends: I would like to make a few suggestions for the young housekeeper.

When you make French fried potatoes try cutting them as you would fry and then steam them for about 20 minutes; cool, then fry as you would French fried potatoes. It doesn't take near as long to fry them and they aren't so greasy. I like them better this way.

Stale cake can be made fresh dipped in cold milk and then rebaked in a warm oven. It will taste like fresh.

This is a good way to cook cabbage: Two hours before I am ready to serve dinner I prepare cabbage for cooking. Place in baking dish and fill dish two-thirds with water the meat has been cooked in. Cover closely, put in oven and when ready to serve you will find your cabbage delicious and no odor through the house. I cut cabbage fine and turn once or twice while cooking.

Beef and Spaghetti: Dice an onion and mix into the spaghetti; also one can of tomato soup, salt and pepper to taste, and one pound of hamburg steak. Place in a baking dish and bake for 55 minutes in a moderate oven. Baste frequently, for it may become dry.

Here is a tasty supper dish for a cold winter night: Into a double boiler melt one tablespoon of butter, add 1-2 cup cream cheese. When melted add 1 can of tomato soup, 1 cup of ground ham and season with paprika. Serve hot on crackers.

Southern Waffles: One tablespoon melted butter, 1 tablespoon sugar creamed together, 1- teaspoon salt and yolks of 2 eggs; mix thoroughly, add alternately 2 2-3 cups of flour and a pint of milk beat very smoth; just before using beat the egg whites stiff; beat in 3 teaspoons of baking powder with whites (this is the secret of the success with them) and add to batter by beating very lightly. Have griddle smoking hot and well greased, if it is iron. They are truly delicious and I have never had a failure yet. This makes eight large waffles.

Pistachio Blanc Mange: Make blanc mange as usual; color green and flavor with pistachio; set in small molds to harden. Decorate with strips of angelica and candied cherries.

Here is my recipe for nut bread and we think it wonderful:

Nut Bread: One cup sugar, 6 teaspoons baking powder (level), 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons of granulated meal, sift three times. Stir in 1 cup of nut meats put through grinder; add 2 cups of milk, beating egg up in 1 cup of the milk; add all together; let stand 20 minutes (bake 55 minutes).

Lindy Gingerbread: One-half cup each of sugar, lard and hot coffee, 2 tablespoons of soda in 1 cup of molasses to foam, cups of flour, 1 tablespoon cream tartar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon of ginger, 1-2 teaspoon cloves; sift the dry ingredients three times, then add to the molasses, etc.; if not quite stiff enough, add a little more flour.

Majestic: I wondered where you were; was very glad to have word from you.

Little Sister: Yes, I have various ideas, as they are thrown at me from the outside, then I have to look up from different helpers' ideas so as to get my rating, you see, they are not all original, not by any means. You remember reading in The Bulletin some time since this sentence: "A man is overrated." Well, it stands for woman, too, and I am very much so. I also read in a letter written by The Man Who Talks how a man strives to get to the top, and then he has to work hard to keep there, or something to that effect, but it is a true saying, just the same. I average about 25 to 30 letters a month from people I am not acquainted with, inquiring for ideas; so you see if I keep up the reputation I have established I am obliged to work to do it. Oh, don't think I am imbued with ideas, for I am not any more so than any other writer for the Corner.

I wished to advise the young housekeepers of the Corner and also the interested readers of the Corner that a marked saving can be realized by the use of evaporated milk for whipping purposes. Evaporated milk can be whipped stiff by the following process: Empty a can of evaporated milk in a boiler and scald five minutes, cool and put on the ice to chill. Stir the milk both while scalding and chilling to prevent a crust from forming. When it is thoroughly cooled, whip it as you would fresh cream.

WHERE ARE RUG AND QUILT MAKERS?

Dear Social Corner Members: I want to write to say what a pleasant time I had at the meeting of club number 6 at Westerly last week.

A friend very kindly took me there. It was a beautiful day, the dinner all that could be desired, a jolly programme and a crowd of interesting ladies to chat with.

What more would you want for a "perfect day?"

Would like to tell Crimson Rambler that I once made a "maid" much like the one she wrote about and this is the rhyme that was sent with it:

A Ready Maid.

"You stir your porridge with my face
And with my apron dust the place.
The dishes wash up with my shawl
It's very strong and not too small.
My skirt you'll say is not a 'hobble,'
'Twill clean your floor without much trouble.
And if you want a mop, 'tis said
You'll find it in my wooden head."

We don't seem to hear much from the rug and quilt makers this winter. Are they going to surprise us later by telling us of the number of hooked rugs they have made?

A friend of mine is making a large rug with a ship "sailing the ocean blue," on it. It's going to be beautiful but I'm afraid my courage would fail before I even commenced one.

Best wishes for a prosperous new year to all from V. B. A.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATED

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: It has been some time since I wrote you, and I sincerely hope you are all in the best of health and are enjoying this beautiful winter.

I am very happy to write you to say that my husband and I celebrated our 50th or golden wedding anniversary at our home amongst the Alpine hills, Fitchburg, Mass., a few weeks ago and had a most wonderful time, 125 guests being present. In the receiving line we were assisted by our four children. We are the parents of five children four of which are living, 21 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, all the grandchildren and great-grandchildren also being present. The house was prettily decorated in palms and cut flowers and an orchestra played during the reception, and refreshments were served. We received some very lovely gifts of cut glass, hammered brass, silver and gold pieces. A poem, Their Golden Wedding Day, was composed and read by a friend of 50 years ago, Miss Lizzie E. Baker of Westminster, Mass., who also attended the anniversary.

HYBISK.

RICKETY ANN SEEKS HELP.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Season's greetings if not too late. Just think one month of the new year gone.

I wish to say "thank you very much" to Social Corner member for 1929 calendar. It is good to be remembered and surprised.

Can any one tell me how to clean cream from rose colored crepe. On account of color I do not wish to experiment.

Sister Barber: I see you received a yellow slip? Also read your letters. Do you ever think of us over here in L?

RICKETY ANN.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER.

Social Corner Editor: If I may I would like to join the Social Corner and Club No. 4. Will take as my pen name

RED.

LOVE OF FLOFERS

Social Corner Editor and Sisters—Hope all the Social Corner sisters are all well this fine winter morning. I want to thank the Social Corner member that sent me the pretty floral calendar. It is very pretty. I love flowers and love to see them growing all times in the year. My sympathy goes out to all those that are sick or in trouble. Best wishes to the editor and sisters.

EARLY BLUE BELL.

MAKE LIVE WORTH LIVING.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters—How are you all. Just think one month of the new year is gone and how many of us have kept our new resolutions! Well we have not to wait until 1929 to form new ones for each day is a fresh beginning as if it were the beginning of a new year. We have only to live a day at a time so let us try to make that day a good one. But if we fail let us endeavor to do better the next one and thus continuing we will make life worth living. For if we endeavor to do our best and to retrieve the failures of the past we will diffuse brightness and cheer on other lives than our own, so when life's work is finished it will be said, "She or he did what they could and some one was made happier because of some small act, a kind word, a smile or in some way the burden of some one was made lighter because of us."

So let us shed cheer and brightness and smiles everywhere for we cannot tell but they will help some troubled soul. Let us not wait for a new year to try to live aright, but begin now, right now, for we cannot tell if we have tomorrow. We have today. Life is uncertain so let's make the most of the day we have. But if we have many days let us continue so that at the end it can be said the world was the better because we lived.

I suppose you all have your thank-you letters written. I have a few more to answer. My sister and I did not recover from the grippe as quickly as we hoped to, but are much better, so I had to let letters wait. If there is any sister I have not thanked, please accept them now. You are all very good and kind to me and I appreciate the letters, cards, messages and gifts.

I have been having a nice time this week and been highly entertained. Last Tuesday morning a young man called who had been staying with his mother for a while and brought his Victrola and records with him and said he wanted me to take care of them for a few days, having it play all the time or just when I pleased and I have. I expect him to come for them any time but surely they have given me much pleasure for I enjoy every record, the foolish ones and all, and believe me there are some fine records among them.

I wondered if Hulda was in the south and yesterday's mail answered that question as it brought me a letter telling of the fine trip they had.

I give my hand to welcome each new sister and my sympathy is extended to those who are sick, or in sorrow, or in trouble of any kind. Best wishes,

DIANA.

DAYS AT THE CHECKERBERRY SCHOOL

Dear Editor and Friends—Well, we sure are having winter. Hope it doesn't last long. I see Kochia, Peggy Alder and Rural Delivery are writing up the old Checkerberry school, so I will add a line to it. Eighty years ago my mother went to school there with her little friend and chum, a girl by the name of Orrie Clark, and I think they had some fine times by what she has told me so many times. One story I have always remembered. There were some who went there that were not liked very well by the others. They were so very naughty, mother said. One day she and her little friend were eating dinner. She was always very fond of johnny cake and molasses so that she had some for her dinner. The two began their meanness, so two of the larger boys said, Sal, if you will rub that johnny cake and 'lasses in her hair we will hold her. So of course it was done. Then they took the boy. Oh, my, those heads looked like porcupine quills, mother said. So when the school bell rang they all trooped in. The teacher was William Hyde. He looked at the boy. What is the matter yith your head? he shouted Sal did it, was the answer. Then he asked the girl. She gave the same answer. He look at mother, took out his handkerchief and began blowing his nose, walked over to the window and looked out. He wanted to laugh so bad he could not speak for a few minutes. Then he turned and said very mildly, Sarah, you were a naughty little girl. Her little friend hollered, No worse than me, for I helped. They could not wear anything on their heads that night for they were covered with the cake and 'lasses. Well, I don't think there is one of the children left that went to school with her but she dearly loved to go there and see the dear old place. Even after it was burned she would sit for hours and tell me about her school days there.

Peggy Alder—Don't ask me why I don't call. If you don't see until next July or August then I think I would bring a thunder storm.

1492—I went by your house Saturday afternoon, looked up to see if I could see you or Keziah Doolittle. I was going to ask you both to go sliding down hill. Tell the truth I did not dare look much for fear I would be sliding down without the sled. What a sight that would have been!

Providence Rose—You were talking to Kansas Lily instead of Calla Lilly. Never mind, a mistake is no hay stack. If it was every poor man could keep a cow. You just write to the editor and say you want to join club No. 4 and have some good times with us this summer. You won't regret it.

Arise—I received your letter. Many

MASONIC

It is with heartfelt gratitude, the board of managers now report a completed home, said Thomas McKenzie of Pawcatuck, president of the board at the annual meeting this week of the Masonic Charity foundation of Connecticut at the Masonic temple in Hartford.

The board of managers received and considered 124 applications during the past year. Of this number, eighty-seven were accepted; action deferred in twenty cases, pending necessary information, and two applicants died before coming to the home. There were fifty-one deaths, forty-nine at the home, and the two mentioned above. The total membership December 31 was 327, an increase of twenty-six during the year, and an increase of ninety-nine in five years.

The present membership represents eighty-seven lodges, thirteen chapters of the Eastern Star, one from another grand lodge jurisdiction and one commandery, Knights Templar. The membership is distributed as follows: In the home, 52; in the hospital, 72; outside the home, 32, all adults; in cottage at home, 3 children; outside the home, 68 children. The increase in the number of children over five years ago is 64.

The average per capita cost of membership in 1927 was $50.76, an increase of $26.76 over five years ago. The total amounts expended for the new construction in 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927 was $335,797.49. This includes the Eastern Star hospital, power house, laundry equipment, additional story on dining room wing, sewage plant, disposal plant, new water mains and other work.

President McKenzie reported the endowment fund had reached a total of $316,488.96. The income from the fund in 1927 was $16,200, "a very substantial aid."

Secretary George A. Kies of Hartford reported contributions for various purposes. Corinthian lodge, No. 104, of Bridgeport gave $1,000 to the endowment. The sum of $2,000 was received on account from the bequest of Edward T. Carrington. The grand court of Connecticut, Order of Amaranth, gave a dental cabinet and equipment to the home. The total cost was $497.86. The grand commandery of Connecticut, Knights Templar, gave $500 for the dining room. The late Rev. Charles A. Marks of Norfolk, associate grand chaplain, gave $100 to the endowment fund.

Treasurer Joseph Buths of Hartford reported the balance on hand at the last annual meeting as $1,403.46. He received $67,000 from the grand lodge; $3,632.64 from pensions; $1,148.80 from donations; $9,338.55 from miscellaneous sources, the total being $82,523.14. The disbursements were $80,840.99, leaving a balance of $1,677.15.

Members of the board were re-elected as follows: Frank L. Wilder of Bridgeport for three years, by life members of the Masonic Home corporation; Thomas McKenzie for three years by the delegates to the grand lodge; H. Morton Jeffords of Wallingford, George R. Sturges of Woodbury and Leonard J. Nickerson of Cornwall, each for one year, to represent the Order of the Eastern Star in Connecticut.

After the meeting the board of managers met and re-elected the following officers: President, Thomas McKenzie, Pawcatuck; vice president, the Rev. Arthur F. Lewis, Naugatuck; treasurer, Joseph Buths, Hartford; secretary, George A. Kies, Hartford.

LADIES' AXUILIARY, U. C. T.

On Tuesday afternoon the Ladies' Auxiliary of the United Commercial Travelers, Thames Valley council, No. 309, gave a luncheon bridge at the Mohican hotel, New London. Four tables were in play and the prizes were taken by Mrs. Thomas Griffin of New London, Mrs. Simon Solomon, Mrs. A. Levine and Mrs. Ernest Dean of Norwich.

REBEKAHS

The regular meeting of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, was held in Odd Fellows hall on Wednesday evening with Noble Grand Carolyn Howard in the chair. Regular routine business was transacted. The degree was conferred on a class of candidates. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the supper committee. After the business, refreshments were served by the social committee.

This was the first of a series of whists and pinochles to be held in February and March, and the proceeds are to be used to finance the trip to Wallingford. The committee in charge are: Chairman, Past Regent Teresa Watters, Mrs. Marie LaValle, Mrs. Herbert Rich and Senior Regent Minnie Smith.

At the next meeting, Thursday evening, the committee is planning a Valentine social and an enjoyable time is expected.

LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

At the regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., No. 54, the membership was increased by the initiation of three new applicants: Mrs. Mary Bundy, Miss Cornelia Tobin and Miss Catherine Toomey. Miss Jennie Breen presided at the piano during the initiatory ceremonies.

A social hour for the members with music, dancing and refreshments will be held after the business session of the next regular meeting. The increased attendance at the meetings has shown the efficacy of these "social hours."

Miss Catherine Coughlin reported progress in the sale of tickets for the dance to be held in the Wauregan ball room.

It was voted to donate $10 to the Kenneth La Flamme fund.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The committee in charge of the Valentine card party and dance, of which Miss Frances Kelly is chairman, held a meeting in the assembly rooms on Tuesday, January 31st. The affair is being well advertised, posters having been placed in conspicuous places in all sections of the city. Several prizes have already been donated by members of the assembly and their friends, and the committee has been very successful in the disposal of tickets. Another meeting will be held the latter part of next week and all members on the committee are urged to be present.

A joint installation of the officers for 1928, of the Hartford, Rockville, South Manchester and Thompsonville assemblies is to be held at South Manchester on Sunday, February 5th. Mrs. Margaret Dutton, of Norwich, state president, will install the officers. Many members of Mercier Assembly have accepted the kind invitation extended to them by the South Manchester assembly to be present at this joint installation, and will leave by bus on Sunday at 12:15.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Members of White Cross council, No. 13, will attend the 7:30 mass at St. Patrick's church in a body on Sunday and in the evening the annual memorial service will be held at 7:30. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Charles Corcoran, of Deep River, a member of White Cross council.

Some Tracks in the Snow

Who reads the signs doth knowledge gain
That others often seek in vain.
—Reddy Fox.

When Reddy Fox left Peter Rabbit in Johnny Chuck's home Reddy hurried back to the Old Pasture. How he did hope that no one had seen him when he had tried to walk Peter down and Peter had so cleverly fooled him. Reddy's pride was hurt. Yes, sir, Reddy's pride was hurt.

From the Old Pasture he went over to the Green Forest and finally came to follow down toward the Smiling Pool. Now, in the alder swamp on the edge of the Green Forest, where the Laughing Brook made its way out to the Smiling Pool, there was a spring, and where that spring was there was open water, save in the very coldest of the cold weather. This spring-hole, for that is what it was called, was a good place to watch, for it was visited by various little people. So it was toward this spring-hole that Reddy was making his way.

"Jerry Muskrat is using this spring-hole right along," muttered Reddy

As Reddy drew near he moved very carefully. Every two or three steps he would stop to look and listen, standing as motionless as if he were carved from stone. When he was where he could get a full view of the spring-hole a feeling of disappointment crept over him. No one was there. No one was anywhere about. Reddy felt that he had stolen up there for nothing. All that care he had taken had been wasted.

Now, the snow over there was soft. Whoever walked in it left a track Reddy's own footprints might have been followed all the way down the Laughing Brook by any one who was interested. Even so small a person as Teeny-weeny the Shrew left his footprints. So Reddy was using his eyes to see who else had been over there recently.

When he was near enough to the spring-hole to see clearly all around it he paused. "It will be just as well not to leave my own footprints here," thought Reddy. "I don't want other folk to be suspicious." So he stopped at a little distance from the spring-hole and began to study the snow all around the spring-hole. In a jiffy he had made one important discovery. "Jerry Muskrat is using this spring-hole right along," muttered Reddy to himself. "There are his footprints over there; there is the mark of his tail and there is a place where he has been sitting down. Now I would almost as soon have Jerry Muskrat as Peter Rabbit. He wouldn't be quite so tender, but he would be very filling. And, after all, when we are hungry it is something filling that we need and want. Jerry must swim over here under the ice. This spring-hole will bear watching. Yes, sir, this spring-hole will bear watching. Of course, it would be useless to try to steal up on Jerry. I must be hiding close by when he climbs out of the water."

Reddy sat up and looked things over very carefully. "Ha!" said he, "the last time Jerry came out he went over to that clump of alders. He should have been more careful. His tracks in the snow tell just what he has done. Now, if I had been hiding just back of that clump of alders I would have had Jerry. What Jerry has done once he may do again. I'll have to look into this. Perhaps the next time that Jerry comes out and visits that clump of alders he'll get a surprise. He may not think it a pleasant surprise, but I will. What a difference one's point of view makes. My goodness, what a difference one's point of view makes! I wish I knew what time of day or night Jerry is in the habit of coming out. It would save me a lot of weary waiting. I'll make some inquiries. Perhaps some one has seen him and knows what time he comes out."

STOCK MARKET RALLIED AT OPENING AND TURNED WEAK IN THE LAST HOUR

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—The stock market, after rallying briskly from the opening reaction caused by the unexpected increase in the New York Federal Reserve bank rediscount rate, turned weak again in the last hour.

Opening losses, which had ranged from 1 to 6 points, were substantially reduced, or wiped out by early afternoon and in a few insances replaced by gains which ran as high as 9 points. The late decline carried most prices to their lowest levels of the day, with the standard industrials and rails showing net declines of 1 to 3 1-2 points, and several specialties closing 5 to 8 points below last night's final quotations.

A widespread speculative belief that the higher rediscount rate was intended as a warning against a further expansion of brokers' loans brought a flood of selling orders into the market over-night. The opening decline was an orderly one and the apparent absence of any extensive volume of forced liquidation, combined with the fact that the call money renewal rate was lowered from 4 1-2 to 4 1-4 per cent led to a renewal of aggressive speculation for the advance.

Pools acted on the theory that no good reason existed for the wholesale conversion of securities into cash, which they contend is the only logical excuse for a major bear market at the present time. Except in a few issues, however, little outside buying was attracted on the rally with the result that bear traders renewed their selling attacks, and forced the liquidation of many stocks bought for supporting purposes earlier in the session.

Call money appeared to be in plentiful supply all day at the renewal figure of 4 1-4 per cent although banks called about $10,000,000 in loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, but a further stiffening was noted in the rates on bankers' acceptances. The monthly report of stock exchange member loans, issued after the close of the market, showed a drop of $12,554,780, bringing the total on January 31 down to $4,420,352,541, as compared with $3,138,786,338 a year ago.

Hi priced specialities were the hardest hit. Montana Power opened at 160 1-4, advanced to 162 7-8 and then broke to 155 1-2, off 8 points net. Burroughs Adding Machine opened at 156, advanced to a new record top at 165 and then dropped back to 158, off 4 points net. American Zinc & Lead preferred, Christie Brown, Cushman, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, Greene Cananea Copper, Houston Oil, Hudson Motors, International Harvester, Midland Steel Products preferred, National Biscuit, Rossia Insurance, Peoria & Western, Seaboard Air Line preferred and Texas & Pacific were among the many issues to sell down 4 to 7 points.

U. S. Steel common was sluggish all day, opening 1 1-2 points lower at 144 5-8, rallying a fraction and then breaking to 142 7-8. General Motors closed 1 7-8 points net lower at 133 7-8 after having touched 135 3-4. Radio corporation showed a net loss of 3 3-4 at 99 after having sold above 103.

Foreign exchanges also were heavy on selling inspired by the belief that the higher bank rate would result in the withdrawal of American funds now on deposit in London and other European capitals. Sterling Cables lost nearly half a cent by selling down to $4.87. Recessions in the Continental rates ran from 1 to 6 points.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—The curb market followed the "big board" over the jumps today, opening weak with an accumulation of selling orders, rallying a bit and then closing off under liquidation influenced by the increase in the Federal Reserve bank rediscount rate. While a few industrial specialties resisted selling sufficiently to hold their ground, or under the inspiration of buying encouraged by favorable trade developments, moved up a bit, the general trend of the industrials, as well as other groups, was downward at the close.

This decline was marked in the utilities, where a continued advance over the past two weeks was checked by a selling movement that carried American Gas & Electric down 7 points net, Electric Bond & Share and Middle Western Utilities down nearly 4 points each and Transit, Northern Ohio Power, Northern States Power, Lehigh Power Securities and other leaders to lower ground. National Public Service A was the exception, rising a point on the way to a new high at 27 1-2.

American Rolling Mills, Bancitaly, General Baking, Lehigh Coal, and other favorites closed lower. Melville Shoe dropped 5 points, Niles Bement Pond dropped 5 points, Niles Bennet Pond was down 3 and Tubize Art Silk lost 13 in the selling movement following the rally which had carried them to high levels.

Their strength apparently was transferred to such issues as Shawinigan, which remained at a high of 95 3-4 for a net gain of more than 10 points, Celanese and Deere & Company, up 3 points each, and Safeway Stores, which gained about 5 points.

Vacuum Oil led the oils and pipe lines downward in the slump from which few recovered, although losses, with the exception of Vacuum's 2 3-4 point drop, were within narrow limits. The mines similarly were off, following the lead of New Mont, down about 5 on the day.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 3—(AP)—Better export call for corn, with the export trading basis stronger and no pressure of offerings, gave an evident upward trend to corn values today. On the other hand wheat was easier, Argentine shipments increasing.

Corn closed firm 1-8 to 1-2c net higher, wheat unchanged to 1-4 and 3-8c off, oats a shade to 1-4c up, and provisions 7c to 17c down.

Hesitancy which the corn market showed at the start gave way in quick order to a display of buying power and to indications that corn export business today would at least be upward of 200,000 bu. Meanwhile, it was current talk that other export purchasing had been done, either at the Gulf of Mexico or the Atlantic seaboard. Furthermore, country offerings and consignments were small, despite auspicious weather and notwithstanding that this is the time for the peak of the winter movement of the domestic crop.

Particular notice was taken today of assertions by trade experts that the movement of corn from farmers' hands is now decreasing rapidly in Illinois, where a large part of Chicago arrivals of corn have come from of late. It was also pointed out that Europe this season is short of corn until the new Argentine crop is available.

A good deal of attention was likewise given to renewed assertions that the official report on domestic corn yield is a decided over-estimate and that commercial demand at present for corn is the best since the war. Profit taking sales in greased, however, on all the bulges, and kept advances in check.

In the wheat market persistent weakness of Liverpool quotations together with larger shipments from Argentina than either last week or a year ago outweighed the influence both of continued dry weather in winter wheat sections, southwest and of winter killing in the central west. Besides, no export business in wheat from North America was heard of today. Oats were responsive to improved cash demand.

Scattered selling pulled provisions lowers.

Do you like sophistication?

Or do you prefer simplicity, dignity, philosophy of life?

"After Midnight," Norma Shearer's new starring production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, coming Sunday to the Breed theatre, contains all of these ingredients. It is a slice of life with life itself in the role of villain.

The picture, directed by Monta Bell, was based on the director's own original story, which was later fictionized by Adele Rogers St. Johns and published in Cosmopolitan Magazine.

It is a smart story of two sisters, as unlike as day and night—one, who despite her profession as a cigarette girl in a jazz palace, maintained dignity and decency, the other, a chorus girl who lived for today only, picked her friends at random but made the supreme sacrifice when it became necessary. Lawrence Gray and Gwen Lee are seen with Miss Shearer in this lavish production of modern New York life.

In conjunction there will be shown a Helen and Warren comedy titled "Back to Mother," Topics of the Day, a novelty reel and the latest news events.

Strand Theatre.

"The Phantom of the Opera," Lon Chaney's much heralded spectacle and most daring departure in screen portrayal is showing at the Strand on Sunday night. It is a spectacular mystery story of Paris, in which a complete operatic performance staged in a huge replica of the Paris Opera house, largest in the world, is compared with weird and grotesque adventures in the great cellars and catacombs. Lon Chaney plays "The Phantom" a strange creature of the shadows. Mary Philbin plays the opera singer whom he kidnaped into his underground stronghold and Norman Kerry plays her lover and rescuer. The dropping of the huge chandelier of the opera house on the heads of the audience, and the strange adventure on the underground lake are among the big scenes of the story. A remarkable cast is seen in the principal roles, and fully 4,000 people are in the cast. For an evening of rollicking, side-splitting entertainment, by all means see "Love Makes 'Em Wild." Johnny Harron and Sally Phipps have the leading roles in the film, which concerns an office worm whom romance turns into a roaring lion. Some breezy scenes ensue when the worm decides to "settle" with all those who previously made life miserable for him. Included is everyone from the big boss to the elevatotr boy. See "Love Makes 'Em Wild." It's a tonic.

SOCIAL CORNER

thanks for the enclosed. Will answer it soon.

Ann Tenna—Your letter just received and I do appreciate very much the picture in it. Many thanks. Please doctor up that cold and get well so when the warm weather comes we can meet at some of the gatherings.

M. G.—Could you find out any more about that tower? If so let me know.

Ma of Greene Gables and Rural Aunty—Glad you showed up. This weather makes us think of the sunny south.

My sincere regards to all and hope the sick ones are better. My prayers and best wishes for all who are in trouble.

NONESOPRETTY.

BUSY DAYS FOR WHIRLWIND

Dear Social Corner Editor and Cornerites: Now don't drop dead with heart failue when you see who this letter is from. First I want to thank the sister who so kindly sent me the very pretty calendar. I think it is lovely and lovely for the sister to send them each year. Second: Many thanks to each of the sisters who so kindly remembered me holiday time. Also many thanks to Foxglove who so kindly helped me when I needed help, really do not know what I would have done without her.

I see we are getting new writers and that is fine. In looking over the old papers I find there are very many who used to write that do not do so now. Of course I know there are many who have gone to their Home above; but where are the rest of them? While we like to hear from the new writers we also miss the older ones.

Twice Twenty: Thank you also for the nice letter, will answer soon. Wish I could see you and have a nice long chat with you. Glad Zany is well this winter.

Sis Hopkins: I think I owe you a letter; have patience, Job had patience.

White Clover, Black Eyed Susie, Hope Cobweb and E. L. M.: Thanks for the pretty cards and the nice wishes for 1928.

Balsm Fir, Milky Way, O. D. and Lucille: I am still in the land of the living even though you do not hear from me. Do not have much time for anything but work and there is plenty of that.

Olga, Bachelor Maid, Lonesome Pine: Think of you all so often. Hope you are all well.

Joan: Received your nice long letter and was pleased to get it.

Diana: Received your nice long letter and am glad you have recovered from your illness and trust your sister will soon be herself again.

Catnip: Am still looking for the letter you owe me. Trust I will not have to look much longer.

Arles: I see you are wondering where Whirlwind and Foxglove are. We are very much alive but so busy. Foxglove got very ambitious and brave so she took up night school, studying stenography, and I have a sick and crippled mother to care for so you see why we have not been to the meetings and not written.

Where are White Daisy and Blue Aster? Do not fall asleep just because I do.

Jennie, Olive, Marvis, Priscilla and others: Hope to see you all soon.

Well I will ring off and get dinner, as the other half comes home at noon these days.

A happy New Year to you all, the editor included.

WHIRLWIND.

GOOD TIME READING A MAGAZINE.

Dear Social Corner Friends: The letter from Slow in last Saturday's issue was most interesting, as are all letters from Florida. That is one of the states I have never visited, but hope to do so sometime. She speaks of being sensitive to the cold and of having frosts there which is also true of California in the "unusual" seasons. The keenly penetrating element of the cold is the cause of so much discomfort in both states and is probably caused by the dampness in the atmosphere. This seems to be true of all states in close proximity to the Atlantic and Pacific oceans or other large bodies of water. Fortunately no state posses all the good things and we have many things for which to be thankful in which ever state we may live. Just now a large portion of the country is covered with a white mantle of snow, hiding from view many unsightly objects,

EUGENE O'NEILL, PLAYRIGHT, SELLS MORE REAL ESTATE IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3.—Eugene O'Neill, famous playwright and son of the late James O'Neill, nationally known tragedian formerly of New London, is disposing of all his real estate holdings here, indicative of the fact that Mr. O'Neill does not intend to return to New London, but will spend his spare time at his residence in Ridgefield, this state. Yesterday Mr. O'Neill sold a building and two building lots on Pequot avenue to Joseph A. St. Germain and today he sold the residence, 71 Golden street, to Mary Avery, besides selling an undivided one-half interest and an undivided two-thirds interest in the building, 81 Golden street, to Rita Barrows and Myrtle B. Strickland, mother and daughter, respectively. The disposal of the three pieces of realty was practically all that Mr. O'Neill owned in New London. Since Mr. O'Neill became successful in the writing of dramatic productions he has spent the greater part of his time in New York and at his Ridgefield residence.

Herman A. Sievert, son of Mrs. Albert Sievert, of Tacoma, Wash., and Miss Catherine Shea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shea, 17 Vietz street, were married at the rectory of St. Joseph's church last night by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. John H. Shea, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Rosalie Shea, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Sievert are spending their honeymoon in New York.

The fund for Kenneth LaFlamme, Montville youth whose sight was destroyed in a motor vehicle accident several weeks ago, is constantly swelling and it would not be surprising if the fund reached the $3,500 mark. In New London last night the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians voted a contribution of $25 to the fund and the Italian Ladies' Aid society voted to give $10 for the cause. At Groton last night a bridge party was given for the purpose of raising money for the fund and $44 was realized. The Ladies' Aid society of the Poquonoc Bridge Baptist church yesterday donated $5 to the fund.

Sarah Frances Dorr, widow of George P. Edgar, formerly of New London, died recently in New York and left an estate of $17,278.97. Mrs. Edgar left a will, which provides that her estate be divided equally between her two sons, Clark D. Edgar, of this city and George Parker Edgar, of New York. Augustus Parker Smith, of New York and Clark D. Edgar were appointed executors of the will.

Frank Fuller, of Westerly; Horace Chapman, 20 Morgan street; Mrs. Harry Bell, Montville and Mrs. Daniel Hogan and infant son, 483 Williams street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral services for Mrs. Julia Keating, wife of John Keating, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners for Mrs. Keating was widely and favorably known. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. George Clark. The bearers were Patrick Murphy, Lawrence O'Connell, Michael Murphy, Frederick Flanegan, John Keating and James Murphy. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. Clark.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah L. Bruce, widow of Frederick W. Bruce, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bearers were Samuel D. Johnson, William McNeil, William Mason and Max Rogoff. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Isabel T. Latham, widow of Earl Latham, was held at 48 Shapley street this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Elder, a former pastor of Huntington street Baptist church. Relatives of Mrs. Latham officiated as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Miss Edith Smith, clerk in the office of City Treasurer Herbert J. Huntley is enjoying a vacation of a fortnight.

The police have not been able to obtain any trace of the Chevrolet automobile, owned by Lawrence C. Joseph, 41 Williams avenue, Mystic, which was stolen from Huntington street last night. The car is a coach and carries Connecticut registration 32838.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Morris Lubchansky, 642 Bank street.

The only business that claimed the attention of the police court today was cases of intoxication. There were three of them and all of them, including that of one old offender, were disposed of without penalties being imposed.

William J. Brady has sold two building lots, Ocean avenue, corner of Plant street to William J. and Ada W. Sparks.

Patrolman Henry Hick discovered the rear entrance of the store, 238 Bank street unlocked last night. The officer was successful in securing the building the remainder of the night.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters this morning for a fire in the store conducted by Benjamin Horowitz, 541 Main street, Chief Thomas Shipman and Thomas Hose and Nameaug Engine companies responded. The firemen found the blaze located in a quantity of refuse paper and boxes in a rear room and quickly subdued it with a liberal application of chemicals. The damage was not of consequence. The fire, it is believed, was started by a careless smoker.

Mid-year examinations at Connecticut College for Women were concluded today. Many of the students, who reside in New England improved the opportunity of the short recess and went to their homes for the week end. Sessions at the college will be resumed Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Darling, 191 Montauk avenue, have returned home, after having visited for several days with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Harry Brooks, in Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Ernest Swanson, of Waterford, Mrs. Robert Swanson and infant daughter, 13 Bolden street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Edson Strickland, of Broad street, a member of the former firm of H. D. Barrows & Co., is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from a form of stomach trouble. His condition is considered serious and he is under observation.

All the sailors of the United States Coast Guard, local section base, 4, state pier, who engaged in fights about the city Wednesday night, did not get into the police court. There is one of their number in the sick bay at the pier and he will probably be there for some time. His eyes were badly banged up when he returned to the pier Thursday morning and he admitted having sustained his injury in a fight. Another sailor also appeared at the pier Thursday morning and he bore evidence of having been in mortal combat.

The condition of Attorney John C. Geary, who has been at St. Petersburg, several weeks, with Mrs. Geary, is vastly improved, according to reports having been received in New London this week. Mr. Geary was taken ill about three weeks ago and was taken to a hospital for treatment.

The work of razing the six buildings recently purchased by the Connecticut Power company of the Gager-Crawford company and Mrs. Arthur Gager, Water and John streets, is progressing rapidly for today two of the buildings, one on Water street and the other at the corner of Water and John streets, had been entirely demolished. The other buildings will be razed as fast as the work will permit. All of the buildings are of wood construction and the timbers are free to anyone who will cart them away. As a result several men and women, to say nothing of a large number of boys were engaged throughout today removing the wood to their home and judging from the number of trips that all made the wood will be the means of providing fuel for several homes the balance of the winter and a part of next winter. With the heads of many families being out of work the wood was most welcome in numerous households.

The state police, Groton barracks, are conducting an investigation to ascertain the cause of the fire at Lord's Point Thursday morning that destroyed a large summer hotel, several cottages and garages. Lieut. Roy Streamer has assigned Sergeant Henry J. Albright to the work of obtaining such information as it is possible to secure with a view to determining where the fire originated. Sergeant Albright has been on the case throughout today, but his efforts were not rewarded by obtaining any solution of the cause of the worst fire that the Stonington and Mystic departments have been forced to contend with in a long time. The damage was estimated yesterday at $75,000, but it is now believed that it will exceed that amount, but only slightly. Practically all the owners of the destroyed buildings will be compelled to stand their losses, for but little insurance was carried because of the fact that the buildings were outside of fire limits and far away from the center of Mystic and Stonington. It is believed that someone who had access to one of the buildings caused a fire to be started for the purpose of providing heat and it was from this after the occupants had left, that the blaze was caused. It was not discovered until it had gained great headway.

The continued case of Mike Costello, proprietor of the "Garden of Italy," rooming house and restaurant at 115 Bentley avenue, Ocean beach, charged with violation of the liquor law and keeping a disorderly house, will be tried in the police court tomorrow. Costello had made it known that he intends to fight it. Costello was arrested Thursday morning by Lieut. Roy Streaman and Officer Peter Busch, Groton barracks after they had obtained much evidence against Costello. The officers found Molly Yavener, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yavener, Montville, who had run away from home earlier in the day. The girl and James H. Cobb and Lloyd West, United States Coast Guard, were found about 1 o'clock, were arrested and at police headquarters, Cobb told freely of what had occurred at the Ocean beach resort. His story included his illicit relations with the girl and he told of West's part in the night's entertainment. The girl was most reluctant to discuss her actions and only after a long grilling did she make a statement. All these statements have been signed by Cobb and West and the girl and will be used as partial evidence against Costello.

Another case that will be tried is that of J. S. McQueen, another coast guarder, who is charged with breach of the peace and striking and resisting an officer. John Sharkey, who was with McQueen when the row occurred, and who is charged with interfering with an officer, will also be tried.

PAPERS FOR BEDDING FOR TRAMP ROOM GUESTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3.—The tramp room at police headquarters continues to be in demand. During the past week there have been more men to apply for lodgings there than has been the case since last winter. It is a nightly condition now to find more unfortunates quartered there than there are bunks provided. The first to arrive and they apply for lodgings as early as 7 o'clock, obtained the iron beds and the others use the cement floor to sleep on, with newspapers as their sheets and blankets.

RENT IS BOOSTED UNDER STRANGE CONDITION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3.—One State street store has gone out of business, principally because of rental conditions of the building. The lease of the owners of the store expired Feb. 1, and the rent was increased from $5500 to $7000. The agent of the building would not grant a lease in excess of three years. The occupants of the store desired to have a new and modern front substituted which would entail an expenditure of fully $9000. With the increased rent and the outlay necessary for the desired front, the owners would not accept the advanced rental unless they could obtain a lease of at least 10 years. This was denied them and they decided to go out of business, at least temporarily.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fine Feature Picture at Y. M. C. A.

At 4 o'clock on the coming Sunday in the big gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. the impressive moving picture feature, "Not One to Spare" will be shown, and also a Pathe reel will be screened.

The feature picture is based on Ethel Lynn Beer's famous poem. Ethel Wales and Willis Marks taking the leading parts.

The story is that of a large family having a hard time to get along, and a letter from the father's rich brother asks for one of the seven children. The brother promises a home and land in return for the child-surely a bargain the father thinks. When night comes the father and mother takes a lamp and go around to where the children are sleeping to look at each one, to see which they can spare. The parents are puzzled to decide which it shall be. At last they decided on one of the girls who is talented and they think she will have a chance to have violin lessons which they cannot afford to give her. The next morning they tell the children, and the father starts for the station leaving everyone with wet eyes. The whole picture is profoundly impressive, and the final climax is such as to deeply touch every heart in the audience. The Pathe reel will be of real interest. Hugh Kinder will furnish appropriate music and boys and girls fourteen and over are invited; young children are not expected. A free will offering will be taken.

Whippet Autos.

With the perfected Whippet occupying the most conspicuous position in its history in the light four cylinder field, Willys-Overland merchants throughout the nation report that buyers are paying more carefu attention to the mechanical details of this car, which 18 months ago set a new trend for modern car design

These merchants further state that car quality and proven performance likewise are major factors considered on the part of the buyers.

It is said that recent developments in the light car field have emphasized the fundamental features which were introduced by the Whippet and which have been steadily maintained in its production. Motor car authorities say that in its basic elements of construction, the Whippet remains as distinctly advanced as when it was first presented.

The Whippet, engineers state, still has the only motor in the light four cylinder class that actually develops 100 per cent more power than its official rating and will develop this power with actual savings in cost of operation.

Power, speed, economy and stamina accomplishments of the Whippet have set a new high standard of performance in the light car field since its initial presentation 18 months ago. Since that time the combined mileage of the Whippets in the field is estimated at a half billion miles.

Willys-Overland officials declare that the recent reduction in Whippet prices which places these modern cars in direct price competition with the lowest priced cars, was not an attempt to meet a price situation for it was definitely decided that the original Whippet quality and beauty should be maintained regardless of what prices could be reached.

It is pointed out, that part for part and specification for specification, the perfected Whippet duplicates the original car in every detail of quality and workmanship with even greater value being offered at the new prices in some details of construction.

The tremendous sales volume is cited as evidence of public acceptance of the Whippet, and an indication of its quality leadership in the light four class.

Palace Theater

Showing for the last times today are Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle in their latest screen success, "Wickedness Preferred," together with five acts of vaudeville, including Edith May's Creations, which is exceptional. No less important, to the children at least, is the Kiddies' Frolic and episode No. 5 of Melting Millions.

The screen attraction for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday is "The Divine Woman." According to Victor Seastrom, the director of this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, its star, Greta Garbo, is responsible for introducing a new type of acting on the screen. The old "vampire" type has been doomed, but Greta is substituting it with a sort of innocent sophistication which combines all the standards of virtue with the best dramatic qualities of the "vamp."

"She has not appeared in innocent roles by any means, but she has succeeded in playing sophisticated roles in such a manner that she has drawn sympathy for her character, no matter how many of the social or moral standards that screen character violates. Miss Garbo's characters always have such positive redeeming traits that they almost counterbalance the ultra-sophistication of her roles."

Through a veteran film director Seastrom marvels at the manner in which Miss Garbo portrays her roles. "When you stop to think that she has never failed to deliver, and that not one of her pictures has been a failure, one can't help but believe the success of Greta Garbo is due to herself, rather than to direction, vehicles, magnificence of wardrobe or elegance of settings. She is the only screen star I have ever known who has succeeded in every characterization she has attempted."

Lars Hanson, a distinguished Swedish actor, and Lowell Sherman, American character artist, have the featured male roles opposite Miss Garbo in "The Divine Woman."

GREENEVILLE

Thursday being the Feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary commonly called Candlemas day commemorating the presentation of Infant Christ in the Jewish temple at Jerusalem was celebrated in St. Mary's Memorial church with a special mass at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning with many of the parishioners attending and receiving the sacrament of holy communion. It is the custom of the church on this day for the priests of the parish to bless the candles which are to be used at the church and in the homes for religious purposes during the coming year. The candles were distributed to the members of the parish after the 7:30 o'clock mass. Friday the Feast of St. Blase was also observed at St. Mary's Memorial church with special services for the blessing of the throats of the parishioners after the regular first Friday's masses at 5 o'clock which was offered by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan and the 7 o'clock mass by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe. A large number of the parishioners approached the altar rail to receive holy communion at both the masses. Special services for the first Friday of the month were hold in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, after which the blessings of the throat again took place. St. Blase, whose feast day the church celebrated yesterday, was a bishop of Sebaste in Armenia and suffered martyrdom in the year of 316 A. D., his flesh being dragged off by means of iron combs with curved teeth such as are used by woolcombers. In consequence of this, he has been regarded as the patron saint of wool workers and formerly his day was observed in Bradford Leeds and other centers of the wool manufacturers of England as a holiday.

Miss Eva Witkin, of the Willimantic State Training school, is spending the week-end as guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Witkin, of Central avenue.

A surprise party was held at the home of Miss Irene Thowe, of Baker avenue, Friday evening with 20 of her friends present. Singing, telling of stories and dancing furnished entertainment for the evening. Refreshments were served by hostess which consisted of sandwiches, fancy cookies, salads, chocolates, ice cream and coffee. Among the guests present were people from New London, Montville and Hallville.

Mrs. Edward McDonough, of Mystic, is spending a few days as the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDonough, of Page street.

Thomas Howarth, of Southbridge, is spending the week-end at his home on Boswell avenue.

The children of Greeneville have been enjoying coasting for the past two days. Boswell avenue attracts a large number of children as they can slide the length of four streets. The children are allowed to coast from 6:30 to 9 o'clock in the evening.

The people in the village began to believe that there is some truth in the story of the ground hog day for in the early hours of Friday morning the murcury dropped to zero in Greeneville while one milkman stated that at his farm in Preston, the mercury was 8 below zero at 3 o'clock Friday morning.

Mrs. Fred Fleming, of Central avenue, is spending a few days at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. August Fournier, of Taunton, Mass.

Miss Loretta Higgins, a student at the Willimantic State Training school, is spending her week-end recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Higgins, of North Main street.

Joseph Colberg, of Unionville, spent Friday calling on relatives in town.

The H. I sewing class of Auxiliary No. 1, A. O. H., met with Miss Molly Carroll at her home on Boswell avenue Thursday evening. Several beautiful lampshades have been completed and more are in progress of making. A quilt has been started by some of the members of the class. The tie-backs are proving a great attraction. After the sewing hour, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Carroll. The class is to meet next Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Jeremiah Shea, of 320 Prospect street.

TAFTVILLE TROUPE STARS IN MOCK TRIAL TO ENTERTAIN MILL MEN

Over 175 members of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association attended a meeting at Ponemah hall, Taftville, Friday evening as the guests of the Taftville members. The entertainment in the form of a mock trial, entitled, Who Stole the Mince Pie? was staged by the local members and created a great deal of amusement.

The cast was as follows: Judge, Arthur E. Edmonds; clerk, Robert E. Cooper; prisoner's counsel, Harold E. Linderson; district attorney, George W. Weller, Jr.; sheriff, Alfred Linderson; prisoner, Arthur Dufour; members of the jury, John W. Brierly, Gustave Hedler, James B. Jackson, Kenward Ducarme, Leonard Pingree, William Hassler, Clayton Sharples, Victor H. Davis, Arthur Satterstrum, Ralph Lillibridge; witnesses, Albert Mastchson, Arthur Ouimet, David Lussier, William F. Chamberlin, Wilfred E. Linderson, Joseph E. Ekelson, Ernest O. Davis.

Following the entertainment President Roy Bennett of Moosup called the meeting to order and introduced Frederick L. Babcock of Boston, whom he called "The Father of the Eastern Connecticut Mills Association." Babcock said: "This is a get-together that has gone over big and is a demonstration of what we can do. There isn't a mill in the association that can't do something along the entertainment line. While group meetings have deep purposes back of them a primary part is to have a good time. Formerly for entertainment we called on the theatrical bureaus, but a lot os it is no better than we have had on this stage tonight by the Ponemah boys and they deserve a lot of credit. Moosup is scooping us and I hope they will do their best to beat Taftville and they will have to go some.

"Government figures show an investment of $750,000,000 in cotton manufacture in New England and about $640,000,000 in woolen manufacture. When you men represent industries that represent approximately $1,400,000,000 in working goods you are a long ways from being a dead industry. These meetings will create interest that will bring out interest and when you get together you will ask each other questions."

President Bennett then called on Frank B. Ricketson, agent of the Ponemah mills, who said: "We are always glad to welcome friends, we are glad to have you come and have a good time and sorry to have you go. When you meet in this way you are bound to talk of things of interest to yourself." Mr. Ricketson outlined in an interesting manner some of the problems of mill management in manufacturing lines and stressed the value of co-operation in obtaining production.

During the business session J. Arthur Atwood, treasurer of the Ponemah mills, was made an honorary member of the association and those present gave a rising vote of thanks to the Taftville members for their hospitality.

Upon adjournment delicious chowder, doughtnuts and coffee were served and there was a social hour with musi cand singing. Swahn's orchestra furnished the music and Clarence J. Nagle catered.

The committee in charge was Alfred Linderson, John E. Sarples and Harry E. Prentice.

DISMISSES WOMAN'S CLAIM FOR WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

A workmen's compensation claim made by Mrs. Frances Greelo of 8 Spring steet, an employe at the Cortticelli Silk company mill in this city, is dismissed and disallowed in a finding and award made by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey. Mrs. Greelo sustained an injury to her ankle for which she was paid compensation at the rate of $9.04 per week up to Sept. 26, 1927 when she returned to work. Subsequently she claimed that she again turned the ankle, which had been injured on Sept. 2 and that she was again incapacitated. The commissioner finds that the evidence presented at the hearing established the fact that the second injury occurred while Mrs. Greelo was getting off a trolley car, which occurrence had no connection whatever with her employment.

BALL INVITATIONS OF '42-43 WHEN DANCING BEGAN AT 6

In looking over some old papers this week, Frank N. Ranger, of Church street, Norwich, discovered a quaint invitation of 1842, on a folder about the size of a small sheet of letter paper, embellished with a crude wood cut of the national arms and a soldier in uniform. It read:

Washington ball.
In honor of the Father of Our Country,
Feb. 22d, 1842.

The company of Mr. (L. T. Wilber) and Lady is respectfully solicited at a military ball, at the hall of J. H. Hyde, in Franklin, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 22d., 1842.

Managers—
Brig. Gen. Amos Fowler,
Col. Albert F. Bennett,
Maj. Ebenezer W. Woodworth,
Adj. Joshua H. Woodworth,
Brig. Gen. Wm. C. Stanton,
Col. Ephraim H. Douglass,
Maj. Jedediah S. Hough,
Quartermaster Nathan Bingham.

Gentlemen who attend are requested to appear in full uniform, according to rank. Dancing will commence at 6 o'clock.

Franklin was evidently a gay locality at this era; for a second invitation reads: Thanksgiving Ball. The managers respectfully solicit the company of Mr. (Roswell B. Downing) and Lady at the Hall of James H. Hyde, in Franklin, on Thursday, the 30th of November, at 6 o'clock in the evening. Managers—Horace Woodard, E. H. Stiles, R. B. Downing, A. R. Bingham, W. H. Hyde, Cyrus Kingsley, Jona. Hatch, Alex Sherman. Nov. 13th, 1843.

The social gayety continued, for in the same year and appointed to start at the prudent and seemly hour of 6 o'clock, "Mr. Roswell B. Downing, Present" received the following invitation, this time for Franklin hall, in Norwich: Mr. Hazen's quarter ball. The managers respectfully solicit the company of Mr. (Roswell B. Downing) and Lady at Frankklin Hall, in this city, on Friday the 10th of March, at 6 o'clock p. m. Managers, Gilbert L. Congdon, Henry Prentice, Douglass Bushnell, Chester Hazen. FORMER NORWICH MAN GAVE EAGLE TO PARK

The eagle which has been given recently to Mohegan park was presented to the park commissioners by Joseph G. Harrigan of New London, a former Norwich man, and the addition to the park attractions is greatly appreciated.

According to Mr. Harrigan, the bird was caught by Mr. Marvin and given to Mr. Harrigan to put with the rest of his collection. As the eagle was alive Mr. Harrigan hated to have it killed and recognizing the desirability of such an acquisition for the park thoughfully made the offer and it was gratefully accepted.

Mr. Harrigan states that the bird is a very rare specimen for this part of the country. Three or four have been found west of the Mississippi but it is seldom that one is found east of the river, it is a golden eagle.

TAFTVILLE

In the account of the comedy drama, "The Dirthy Dozen" produced last Sunday evening at Parish hall, the name of Daniel Caplett was through error omitted from the list of members of the cast. The Taftville Dramatic club are making arrangements to present a minstrel show followed by dancing at an early date. The club plans to devote the proceeds to the purchase of a new boiler for the Taftville Congregational church.

The Phi Alphas have issued invitations to a valentine social to be held February 10th in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church.

Crowds of parishioners attended the services for the blessing of throats Friday at Sacred Heart church, the day being the Feast of St. Blaise. Being the first Friday in the month, there were also the regular devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

A number of Taftville people were in Norwich Friday evening to attend the violin recital by John Corigliano at Slater hall.

NEW PEACE TREATY WITH FRANCE OPERATIVE TODAY

The Pact, Which Will Be Signed Today, Virtually Renounces War as an Instrumentality Ever to Be Called Between the Two Republics—The New Treaty Goes Far Beyond the Assertions of Peace and Friendship Contained in the Original Covenant With France.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A bond of peace and friendship between France and the United States which had its beginning just one hundred and fifty years ago, on February 6, 1778, will be sealed anew at the state department tomorrow when signatures are attached to the new peace pact which virtually renounces war as an instrumentality ever to be called into play between the two republics.

The anniversary is not alone that of the first Franco-American treaty with its solemn declaration that "there shall be a firm, inviolable and universal peace, and a true and sincere friendship between the most Christian king, his heirs and successor, and the United States of America," but also of the first treaty of any character entered into by the American government it is the anniversary of the first recognition by any power of American nationalism as it had been asserted in the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776.

But the new treaty to be signed tomorrow goes far beyond the assertions of peace and friendship contained in that original covenant with France. It not only asserts that war between the two nations is unthinkable, but it sets up a new and strong machinery for the adjustment by arbitration or conciliation of disputes between them which might otherwise lead to war.

That first treaty was born of months, almost years, of struggle with difficult and slow communications. It stands as No. 1 in the treaty archives of the state department, a slowly fading linen fabric that bears the signature of Louis XVI, that same ill-fated French monarch whose head was to fall victim of Madame Guillitine. It is quill-written, with a perfection of penmanship that makes it look almost like copper plate and it outlines the agreements of commerce and amity that were to guide relations between the two countries for the century and a half that have elapsed, although this treaty itself was abrogated at the end of 20 years.

The original copy, that signed by the plenipotentiaries and which was succeeded by the exchange copies bearing the signature of the king and of the American chief executive, shows the self-written names of Benjamin Franklin, Silas Deane and Arthur Lee, for the United States, and Conrad Alexander Gerard, secretary of the French council of state, and later French minister to the United States, in behalf of France. Beside each signature is the imprint of the signet ring of the signer, the wax seals tied together with strands of light blue silk imbedded in them.

Curiously enough, the signature of Franklin has a significance wholly aside from the treaty itself. As compared to the months that the sailing ships of 1778 took to carry back and forth exchanges that led to this first treaty, the new Franco-American pact was completed and prepared for signature in a matter of days, almost hours, so far as its final phases were concerned. And it was by virtue of 150 years development in the use of that new force, electricity, which Franklin discovered, that this modern miracle in communication was possible.

The first American diplomatic moves toward the treaty, which antedate the constitution, began when the continental congress sent Silas Deane to Paris. His letters complain bitterly of the months that elapsed before further instructions could reach him. Later, he was reinforced by Franklin and Lee, but it was four months after Franklin left Philadelphia before supplementary dispatches could reach him in Paris.

The negotiators struggled to obtain French recognition for the new country that was in its birth pangs across the Atlantic. It was a serious problem for France to make this decision with England just over the channel from her shores. But in December of 1777, word of Burgoyne's surrender to the Colonial army finally drifted into Paris and events moved swiftly forward to the treaty that gave diplomatic birth to the nation that was later to cross the seas again and aid in rescuing France in her hour of need.

BULLET FIRED THROUGH WINDOW OF A CHURCH

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 5.—(AP)—A bullet through the window of the Roseville Baptist church, showering the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Clarence Bleakney with broken glass, threw the congregation into a panic at a vesper service tonight.

Although Dr. Bleakney said he knew of no personal enemies that might account for the act, police started to investigate the theory that a deliberate attempt had been made on the pastor's life.

With blood streaming over his face from several minor cuts Dr. Bleakney prevented a stampede to the doors by asking his audience to join in the singing of a hymn.

Dr. Bleakney had just started his sermon when the bullet came through a huge, stained glass window to the rear of him. The lead grazed a picture, and embedded itself in the rear balcony, almost simultaneously with the falling in of the entire window.

The pastor, after the hymn, pronounced benediction, and the congregation filed out of the church. He was then taken to a doctor's office where his cuts were treated.

BODY OF MISSING BOY FOUND IN AN AUTOMOBILE

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Feb. 5—(AP)—The body of Morris Livingstone, 17-year-old Boston university student who had been missing from his home in Salem since Wednesday, was found shot through the heart in his father's automobile on Risley road, Marblehead Neck, today.

Suicide was assigned as the cause of death by James E. Simpson, assistant medical examiner, who said that the youth probably had been dead since sometime Wednesday night.

Hyman Heller of Salem, a friend of Livingstone's, and two Salem police officers Heller had asked to aid him in his search, found the body on the lonely road. Heller said it was a spot often frequented by his friend during the summer. The doors of the sedan were locked from the inside and it was necessary to break the glass to reach the body which was on the rear seat. The revolver with which Livingstone killed himself was still gripped in his hand. A girl with whom Livingstone spent Wednesday evening said that the youth had been brooding over his failure to pass two of his mid-year examinations at the university and that he seemed quite despondent Wednesday evening.

LEVINE MAY START HIS FLIGHT FOR HAVANA TODAY

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine announced tonight that the start of his flight to Havana in the Columbia with Wilmer A. Stultz as pilot and Miss Mabel Boll as passenger, had been tentatively set for tomorrow morning at dawn. Final decision, he said, would depend upon weather reports.

The Columbia remained in its hangar today, its tanks containing the 450 gallons of gasoline, the same amount carried when Levine, with Clarence Chamberlain as pilot, started their record making flight to Germany last summer.

Levine declined to comment on the purpose of the large quantity of fuel, or of the sealing of the instruments on the plane, customary only in preparation for record-breaking attempts.

TO STUDY RELATIONS OF CAPITAL AND LABOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The national civic federation today announced the appointment of a commission to study relations between capital and labor with especial attention to four issues cited as "causes of much bitterness between the two great forces." The issues were:

Should the Sherman anti-trust act, the Clayton act and similar laws be repealed, amended or left intact?

Should the court be prohibited from issuing against labor unions injunctions which have upset what labor believes to be its constitutional rights?

Assuming that the employer has the legal right to organize a company union, is there any practical method whereby the trade union may cope with this new and powerful opponent?

The survey commission, authorized at the annual meeting of the federation, includes 53 men, representing labor organizations, industry, finance and commerce. Among them are Owen D. Young, Otto Kahn, Jeremiah Whipple Jenks, Harry Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.;; P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central railroad;; Hugh Frayne, of the American Federation of Labor, and James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany.

40 FAMILIES DRIVEN INTO STREET BY FIRE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—More than 40 families were driven to the street when fire which destroyed the South Baptist church in South Boston, threatened an adjacent wooden tenement district late this afternoon. The church structure was valued at $75,000.

The firemen were handicapped in fighting the blaze because of the necessity of their leaving the inside of the building when the tall steeple, which was wrapped in flames, threatened to collapse with the 2,000 pound bell hung within it. One fireman, Frank Rourke, was overcome with smoke and was treated at the hospital.

The fire, which necessitated four alarms, was brought under control early tonight.

MORE THAN 250,000 PERSONS VISITED FALL RIVER SUNDAY

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 5.—(AP)—More than 250,000 persons flocked to this city today to view the ruins of last week's great fire.

The estimate was made by local police and the officers of the 75 state patrolmen still on duty here. For hours the three main highways leading here were thronged with automobiles. In many instances it took motorists nearly two hours to reach the devastated area from the outskirts of the city.

The four batteries of the 243d Coast Guard Artillery which had been on duty continuously since the night of the fire were withdrawn tonight.

Two Boys Burned to Death in Waterbury

Man's Body Also Was Found in the Ruins of Four Family House.

WATERBURY, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The body of a man believed to be that [illegible] Jacob Silver, of 192 Oak street [illegible] Haven, and reported to have [illegible] caps in the coat pockets [illegible] early today among the [illegible] of the building at [illegible] Baldwin street by firemen who [illegible] found the bodies of two young [illegible] Police are holding Louis N. Leopold, owner of the building for the coroner and are investigating the activities of the man whose body was found on the scene and who is believed to have been a victim of his own attempt to destroy the building by fire at 2 o'clock this morning.

Officials found near the scene of the fire an automobile bearing the markers E-5667. Officials of the motor vehicle department at Hartford state that this car is registered in the name of Jacob Silver, of 192 Oak street, New Haven. Captain William P. Keegan and Lieut. Joseph P. Stevens and Sergeant Henry L. Johnson, of the detective bureau left for New Haven late this afternoon to investigate the presence of the car there and had not returned at six o'clock.

Although the identity of the man found in the ruins and the fact that dynamite caps and other explosive materials were found in his pockets had not been confirmed by police, these facts are believed to be correct. Medical Examiner Dr. A. A. Crane declined to state what was found in the man's pockets, explaining that Coroner John T. Monzani and police knew what had been found and that it was a matter for them to reveal.

A terrific explosion at 2 o'clock this morning preceded an outburst of flames which swept through the building almost before the members of the three tenant families could leave the premises. Joseph, 9, and John, 7, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moynihan, second floor tenants, were lost in the smoke and were burned to death. All others escaped except the man whose body was found. The building was given over to four stores on the ground floors. The tenants lived on the second and third floors. Only three apartments were occupied, the others being either vacant or converted into use as a store room for furniture, owned by the Waterbury Furniture company. Leopold is president of this company.

Men near the front of the house stated that a second explosion occurred several minutes after the first. People living in the block are believed to have been awakened by the first blast which started the fire. Some remembered hearing a second and others did not.

Two firemen and one patrolman were slightly injured as the fire was being checked. A dozen companies fought the flames for over an hour before the fire was under control and apparatus remained there until late in the afternoon. People of the neighborhood aided members of the fleeing families to safety and the tenants were cared for in nearby homes. Leopold estimated the loss of the building at $40,000 and the furniture loss at $112,000. The building was insured for either $9,000 or $11,000, he said and the furniture for $1,100.

UNEMPLOYMENT GIVEN AS THE CAUSE OF SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Despondency because of temporary unemployment was blamed for the suicide by gas today of Phelps Decker, 41, until recently scenario editor for Universal Films.

The body was found by his wife, Mrs. Clarence Vanve Decker, a former vaudeville actress, when she returned to their apartment after remaining with friends Saturday night.

Decker was born in Indiana and educated in California and began his motion picture career seven years ago with D. W. Griffith. He was connected with Mary Pickford's company before joining Universal Films. He assisted Elmer Clifton in producing "Down to the Sea in Ships."

3 Women Drowned When Auto Broke Ice

A Man Was Rescued When He Crawled From Auto and Came to the Surface.

OAKLAND, Maine, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Three women were drowned and a man rescued from a similar fate here today when their automobile went through the ice on Messalonskee lake into about 13 feet of water.

The drowned were:

Mrs. Harry Ware, 35, Mrs. Eugene Strong, 40, and Miss Natalie Cole, 25, all of Waterville.

Brett Morse, 35, of Waterville, driver of the car, was rescued when he crawled from the automobile and came to the surface. Morse was rescued by the husbands of Mrs. Ware and Mrs. Strong, both of whom were in another automobile.

Morse was in a state of hysteria for hours after being rescued and a coherent story could not be obtained from him.

The bodies of the three women were recovered four hours after the accident, after 200 men from Waterville and Oakland had hauled the machine to the surface by means of ropes. It was then necessary to chop a hole in the top of the sedan to remove the bodies.

According to Ware and Strng the party was driving to a camp across the lake. They believed that the ice was sufficiently strong to bear the weight of automobiles. At the spot where the Morse car plunged into the lake Ware and Strong stopped and went to the rescue, but could not save the women trapped in the machine.

GOV. POTHIER OF RHODE ISLAND DIED SATURDAY

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Feb. 5—(AP)—Gov. Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island died at his home here at 7:50 o'clock last night. He was stricken with a shock Friday night and failed to rally.

Gov Pothier was the first man of French-Canadian birth to become the chief executive of one of the states. Elected seven times to the office, he served continuously from 1909 to 1915 and from 1925 until his death.

ARAM J. POTHIER

He had also served as president of the Union Trust company of Providence.

He came to Woonsocket at the age of 18 from the province of Quebec, where he was born on July 26, 1854. He had attended Nicolet college.

He was largely instrumental in the establishment of the woolen and worsted yarn and cloth industries in and near Woonsocket.

BOTTLE BORE MESSAGE OF A TRAGEDY AT SEA

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 5.—(AP) — A stained, faded message that washed ashore in a bottle near the mouth of the Elizabeth river today is believed by those who attempted to decipher it to hold a secret of another tragedy at sea. While only a few scattering words could be read, it appeared to have been written by the skipper of a sinking ship.

The date, May, 1926, the name R. T. Meres or Merec, and a reference to something being worth $25,000 and a Norfolk lawyer were made out on the first four pages, apparently torn from a notebook. On the second page only the words "he was in the boat" could be deciphered. The third page read "— — — my lawyer— — take of it — — — tell him I have gone down on the Cape ——," the last name of the ship appeared to be May or Mary. The fourth page was so badly damaged that it added little. The part decipherable read "— is in New York — — boat — — May — — the water." And the concluding sentence was "God bless my true men."

The bottle and message were placed in the hands of shipping authorities who have been unable to learn of any disaster to a vessel named Cape May or Cape Mary in 1926.

CASE AGAINST STEWART TO BE BROUGHT TO GRAND JURY

The Senate Has Authorized Its Oil Committee to Employ Counsel to Oppose the Release of Stewart From Senate Arrest—Hearing on the Writ is Not Expected to Consume More Than Two or Three Days—Stewart Has Been Temporarily Released by a Writ of Habeas Corpus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—(AP)—Indictment of Robert W. Stewart, wealthy Chicago oil executive, is to be sought because of his refusal to answer questions before the senate Teapot Dome committee as to whether he has knowledge of the liberty bond transactions of the Continental Trading company of Canada.

Acting upon a certification of this refusal from the senate, District Attorney Gordon plans to present the case to the grand jury in the District of Columbia supreme court this week with a view to a presentment for contempt of the senate.

This proceeding will be entirely apart from that set for Tuesday before Justice Jennings Bailey in which the chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana seeks permanent release from the senate order of arrest which was served on him late Friday but vacated temporarily yesterday by a writ of habeas corpus.

The senate has authorized its oil committee to employ counsel to oppose the release of Stewart from senate arrest. Hearing on the writ is not expected to consume more than two or three days, but should Justice Bailey vacate his temporary restraining order Stewart would have the right of appeal to the District of Columbia court of appeals and finally to the supreme court of the United States.

Should Justice Bailey turn Stewart back to the senate, Senator Walsh, of Montana, prosecutor for the oil committee, has indicated that he would not favor giving him an opportunity to purge himself of contempt, but rather would insist upon his prosecution under the contempt statute which calls for a minimum punishment of one month and a maximum punishment of one year in jail.

Reference of Stewart's case to the District of Columbia court for action was voted unanimously by the senate, but not without caustic attack on that court because of delays in the various oil cases, including that of Harry F. Sinclair, who was convicted of contempt of the senate nearly a year ago but who still is at liberty on bond pending appeals.

Senator Walsh said these delays were "regrettable," but his democratic colleague, Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, declared they had become "a national scandal." He made particular reference to the pending criminal contempt proceedings against Sinclair and others before Justice Frederick L. Sidons.

While the Stewart contempt prosecution and the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus are entirely apart, the issues in the two cases are the same. Each trial judge will be called upon to decide whether the questions Stewart refused to answer are pertinent to the inquiry the oil committee is conducting for the purpose of aiding the senate in legislation.

While awaiting the court actions, the investigating committee will resume its sessions tomorrow in an effort to trace more of the $3,000,000 in liberty bonds representing the profits of the Continental company.

To that end it has summoned H. L. Phillips, of Tulsa, Okla., president of the Sinclair Crue Oil Refining company, and J. B McMann and S. S. Gano, directors of that company. In addition it has under subpoena Sheldon Clark, vice president of the Sinclair Refining company, and one of Sinclair's closest associates.

WASHINGTON TO WELCOME NOTED FRENCH AVIATORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—(AP)—Washington officialdom is making preparations to welcome the noted French aviators, Lieut. Dieuronne Costes and Lieut. Commander Joseph Lebrix, upon their arrival here from Paris on a flight which already has taken them to Africa, South and Central America and Mexico.

The government will endeavor to reciprocate the hospitality shown by the French to Col Lindbergh at the conclusion of his famous trans-Atlantic flight and to other American aviators who have landed in France, notably Commander Byrd and his companions.

Details of the reception which will be accorded the two French fliers have not yet been worked out, but undoubtedly they will be officially received by President Coolidge at the white house and by the secretaries of state, war and the navy. Air service officials of both military branches of the government are anxious to do everything for the fliers while they are here.

BARCELONA WORKMEN STRIKE AGAINST TAX

HENDAYE, France, Feb. 5—(AP)—The general strike of Barcelona workmen workmen against the new income tax, which has practically tied up business in the Catalonian capital, is expected in government circles to end soon when the strikers reach the limit of their meagre financial reserves.

Information reaching the border is that so far there has been no violence in connection with the protest against the government's effort to extend the income tax to laborers.

The number of men quitting work is gradually increasing but an attitude of passive resistance rather than violence has so far marked their conduct. Both employes and employers appear agreed that the governmnet made a mistake in applying a new tax at this moment when it had just been announced that a national budget had been balanced and there was no need for further taxation.

The new income tax reaches all laborers earning ten pesetas daily and there are a large number of these as wages have gradually been advanced since the war. The percentage payable by laborers is 3 1-2 on incomes ranging from 3,250 pesetas upwards. Employers are compelled to deduct the tax from the laborers' wages and remit it to the government.

EXPENDITURES OF $1,100,000 BY COMMONWEALTH FUND

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—(AP)—Expenditures of $1,100,000 were made in 1927 by the commonwealth fund to improve the physical and mental health of children, the annual report showed today. The fund was established in 1918 with a gift of $10,000,000 from the late Mrs Stephen V. Harkness.

Other gifts for hospitals, educational and welfare work brought the total of the year's expenditures to $1,953,557. The capital endowment of the fund now totals $38,000,000.

The year brought to a close the five-year demonstration of health work at Fargo, N. D., and the beginning of a period in which that city will continue at its own expense the work begun by the fund. The demonstration, the report showed, raised the health rating of the city from 320 to 814 out of a possible 1,000 points.

Similar demonstrations were continued in Rutherford county, Tenn., Clarke County, Ga., and Marion county, Ore. Rural hospitals were established at Farmington, Me., Beloit, Kans., and Wapseon, Ohio, in an effort to improve local medical practice and to provide an incentive for good physicians to remain in and young physicians to come to the country.

MAN SLAIN AND HIS BODY PLACED IN FIELD

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified well dressed man with sash cord heavily knotted around the neck and a bruise on the right cheek, was found today in a depression in a field on the Bathgate farm in Basking Ridge about ten miles from here. County Physician George L. Mack said the body was apparently placed in the field this morning. The fact that underneath the victim's outer clothing there was part of a pajama suit indicated that the slaying had been committed elsewhere. The man had been killed by a severe blow on the face, presumably with a lead pipe in the opinion of Dr. Mack.

The victim was about 40 years old and five feet five inches tall.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The raising of property valuations by the assessors on the grand list of 1927 is resulting in lively responses of dissatisfaction on the part of property owners to the board of relief. The relief board, comprising F. Louis Hall, Lawyer G. Gerry and John H. Wilcox, held its second session today and listened to complaints by about 25 of the 60 odd property holders who figure in the revaluations. In cases where increases were made, notices to that effect were sent out by the assessors to the proprietors and it now appears that practically all of them will protest, mildly or vehemently, as the case may be. The board of relief takes account of complaints and records them for discussion at a joint meeting with the assessors at the end of the month. The third meeting of the board of relief will be held Tuesday, February 14 from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

AGAIN A FALSE FIRE ALARM IS SENT IN FROM BOX 75

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 5.—At midnight Saturday a false alarm was sounded from Box No. 75, corner of Pierce and Dayton streets, Westerly. Both the new fire whistle on the Clyde Mills, Inc., on Main street and the bell on the Christ Episcopal church, which has not been disconnected, was sounded at the time the Westerly town clock was striking the midnight hour. By many it was thought that an alarm was being turned in on both the Westerly and Pawcatuck sides of the river. The Ahrens-Fox pumper, Alert Hook and Ladder truck and Seagraves pumper, all responded, and the clamor made by them in passing in quick succession aroused many from sleep.

Fire Chief George E. Egger found the alarm box had been tampered with and the box door left open. Numerous other false alarms have been sounded from this box. Many outside attracted by the double alarm passed and repassed in the narrow streets of the section. For firemen, the whistle alarms with many numbers similar on both sides of the river, is confusing.

ARMY PLANE DAMAGED MAKES FORCED LANDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 5—An Army 267 aeroplane with two occupants apparently made a forced landing about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in a lot on the right side of the old road leading to Pleasant View beach. The plane was seen to circle the field and descend rather suddenly. Examination showed the plane splashed with oil and the two men who left the aircraft a short time before were splashed with oil as if some connection had sudden y given away.

Lieut. R. E. Cobb, U. S. A., of Boston, was the pilot of the plane, and had with him as a passanger, R. F. Raymond, who phoceeded to Boston by steam train. Both men are uninjured.

Lieut. Cobb reported leaving New York at 2 p. m. and on a beautiful clear afternoon proceeding up Long Island sound at a low elevation above the water. When off Watch Hill point a cam shaft broke and the housing, leaving six cylinders of the 12-cylinder Liberty motor of the former mail plane dead. As the pilot, Cobb began to climb for altitude to make a forced landing on the land, oil splashed over the side of the plane and back in his face and on his goggles. In the lot where the plane came down it pased between two deep holes, to drop into which would mean destruction for the plane and certain injury to the passengers. When the plane was securely moored, a telephone call was sent to Boston headquarters where Lieut. Cobb's wife was waiting. As the plane was due in Boston at 3:25 p. m. radio calls were being sent out to ascertain its whereabouts. On account of cold weather at this time of the year the government keeps a careful checkup on all army planes. Lieut. Cobb has passed Westerly many times in his plane and on numerous occasions has had Gen. Brown of the First Corps area as a passenger, on inspection visits to Fort Wright, Fishers Island and other points.

Postmaster Charles M. Lamb of Pleasant View, who happened to be at the beach, brought Lieut. Cobb and Mr. Raymond to Westerly. Lieut. Cobb is at the Elm Tree inn, Pawcatuck, awaiting the arrival of mechanics with truck and parts from Boston. The vibration of the broken part broke off the studs on the cylinders and loss of oil made further progress impossible.

Miss Annie Sullivan, well known in Plainfield for many years, who died at Norwich State hospital Saturday, Jan. 28, practiced chiropody in Danielson and Putnam for a numbers of years. Miss Sullivan was born in Plainfield on the Canterbury road in May 1877 and lived there or in that vicinity all her life until the illness which required her removal to the state hospital, about twelve years ago. Miss Sullivan leaves three brothers, Thomas, employed by James Appley of Canterbury, Daniel, living in Danielson, Jerry of Jewett City, also a niece, Mrs. William McGuggage of Jewett City.

At her funeral services, the high mass of requiem was sung Tuesday morning at St. John's church in Plainfield by Rev. John H. Landry. Miss Teresa Sullivan was the soloist. Friends and relatives from a number of towns attended the service. The bearers were Augustus Caffrey, Dennis Sullivan, William O'Neil and James Downing. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Greenville.

Mrs. Fannie Parkhurst Caswell, 70, widow of John Caswell, who died at her home, 19 Lawton avenue Monday after an illness of some months had lived in Plainfield eighteen years, coming there from Norwich soon after her husband's death. She and her daughter Caroline had made their home here.

About three months ago Mr. Phillips finished work at the Newton homestead and went to Worcester, to live with his son Prentice. Mr. Phillips died of pneumonia at a Worcester hospital.

At St. Paul's Episcopal mission, at the annual meeting in St. Paul's hall, reports were given by various officers, on the finances and activities of the mission. In his report the minister in charge pointed out several facts which made 1927 an excellent year in the history of the mission. For 1927 as well as in 1926 the quota for missions was met in full. He pointed out in his address that the mission had the bishop's crusade last spring, that the confirmation class for the year was the largest ever, that 90 puplis were enrolled in the Sunday school, that the membership of the Girl's Friendly society had reached a total of 50 and that the volunteer choir had rendered excellent service. The rector stated that the debt which the mission assumed two years ago at the time when the addition was built on the church had been reduced one-half. A very pleasant entertainment in charge of Mrs. Ellen Paul of Jewett City followed the business meeting. The program included duets by the Misses Seddon, of Moosup, an amusing stunt song and a reading by Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Alexander Finlayson of Norwich put on a group of songs and sketches called "A Wee Bit of Scotch". He sang several of Harry Lauder's hits among them "Roamin' in the Gloaming." He responded to numerous encores. His kilts and the tartar of his clan added to realistic effects. Refreshments were served by members of the woman's auxiliary.

MONTVILLE

Funeral services for Mrs. Angie G. Gallup Chapel were held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the assembly hall of the Uncasville schoolhouse, where all church services are being held temporarily, with the Rev. Charles Smith officiating. Bearers were Jerome W. House, Dan D. Home, Frederick Rogers, Earl Smith, Robert Slimpson and John B. Home.

Mrs. Chapel died at her home in Uncasville on Wednesday after several days' illness. She was born in Salem, 67 years ago, the daughter of Henry A. and Phoebe Esther Peckham Gallup. In October, 1888, she was married to Robert S. Chapel at Ledyard. They made their home in Uncasville for many years. Mrs. Chapel was an active member of the Uncasville Methodist Episcopal church, and always an earnest, cheerful worker in the membership of the Ladies' Aid society of that church as well as of the League of Women Voters, where her presence will be greatly missed.

Surviving Mrs. Chapel are her husband, a brother, Charles Henry Gallup of Norwich, and the following sisters, Mrs. John Williams, a twin sister, of Mystic; Mrs. Frank Bushnell of Occum, and Mrs. J. D. Austin of Mystic.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Uncasville M. E. church held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon, when the usual plans for future activities were discussed, much work being accomplished at this time. At the close of the afternoon a dainty collation was served by the hostess.

In attendance at the mid-year rally of the New London Baptist association held at the Central Baptist church of Norwich, Thursday, from the Montville Union Baptist church were its pastor, the Rev. Edward L. Nield and his wife, and the church clerk, Miss Susie M. Wood.

An evidence of real service to the public was brought to light the early part of this week when the issue of Evening Day for Saturday last was delivered to customers of the Curtin route Monday evening. It is a rare occurrence and the first for many customers on the Curtin route to fail to receive their evening paper. In this instance Masters Edward and Francis Curtin waited for several hours at the trolley station for their daily allotment of papers and finally returned to their home without them. Early Sunday morning found the boys again at the station with no results. Monday afternoon Francis called at the office of the Day, secured his papers and placed them in the hands of their customers together with Monday's issue. No papers had been sent to them Saturday; but the boys were on their job and rendered real service to their customers as far as they were concerned.

Oxoboxo lodge, No. 116, F. and A. M., met at its regular meeting in the lodge rooms of the Palmer memorial school building Friday evening.

Mrs. Edgar Wild of Uncasville was a Thursday visitor in New London.

Miss Anita Dufour of Oakdale visited Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Pearson of Quaker Hill recently.

Two airplanes flying in the direction from Norwich to New London attracted considerable attention in the village Thursday noon. Owing to their low flying, the noise from the engines was much plainer than is usually noticed.

Industries in this country are spending twice as much for industrial research as the government spends for that purpose.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON PEOPLE GRIEVED OVER DEATH OF J. F. CARPENTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 5—Danielson members of the bar were shocked today upon learning of the death of Attorney John F. Carpenter, of Putnam, whose body was found in the bathtub at his home this morning, as told in the Putnam news. Attorney Carpenter was particularly well known throughout this section.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill said this afternoon that his report on the matter from Dr. F. A. Morrell, medical examiner in Putnam, indicated that Attorney Carpenter's death was caused by gas escaping from a heater in the bathroom. While the body was not discovered until this morning, Attorney Carpenter being alone in the house last night, indications were that he had been dead the greater part of the night. The escaping gas came from a connection from which a rubber tube leading to a little gas heater had pulled off, Coroner Bill said.

Attorney Carpenter was, among other things, president of the Central Worsted company of Central Village, having been elected for another year a week ago last Saturday and he also was president of the Bragg mill, which is closely affiliated with the Central Worsted company, and is located near Nasonville, R. I.

Numbers of motor parties from Danielson and other towns in this section made the trip to Fall River today to view the destruction wrought by the conflagration of last Thursday night. For numbers who made the trip it was not as successful as they had hoped. They found state and city police and National guardsmen hemming in the fire zone and permitting none of the curious to enter it. Only passes would get one past the lines of armed officers and men. However, from a distance the local people did get a look at the wrecked area and are a unit in declaring that the destruction is appalling.

Following the frost season, the matter of painting the name Danielson on the roof of some large building here, as a guide for aviators, will receive attention. The subject has been given consideration by the Chamber of Commerce, which has a committee especially appointed to determine where the sign should go and as to how it will be painted. Opinion appears to favor painting the name on the roof of the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander. This is a very large and nearly flat roof, close to the very center of the community and would lend itself favorably to the purpose mentioned.

Following his talk to the members of the Chamber of Commerce at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, James L. Case, of Norwich, will give another talk at the Orpheum theatre. It will be a talk of very general interest, and President Moses H. Berthiaume, of the Chamber, is anxious to have the public attend. This is to be an effort to arouse interest in the welfare of the town as a whole.

Members of the board of relief have not as yet received any great number of citizens seeking reductions from the assessments appearing in the new grand list and on which the taxes of this year will be collected. Some have come into the board of relief to make checkups of their assessments, and this is not unusual, as it happens every year.

Three curves are to be taken out of the Danielson-Brooklyn state highway in the course of the reconstruction work that already has started. The first of these curves is near the Thomas Clemons place, about two miles west of here, the second at the foot of Ledge hill, the third, and a particularly bad one, about half way up the hill. The new route, now being graded through the fields by a power shovel, will leave the present highway near The Maples and lead in a direct line to the top of Ledge hill. This arrangement will give four miles of highway practically without a curve from the Quinebaug bridge right into Brooklyn village; that is, no curve of any consequence. The new route likely will be one proving a temptation to speeders.

This morning there was inaugurated at the Danielson central telephone exchange a new service arrangement that will be a benefit to subscribers in the Danielson telephone division. It has to do with putting calls through to Norwich and Willimantic. On number calls there cities may now be reached simply by taking the receiver off the hook and giving the number wanted—for instance, 480 Norwich, or 726 Willimantic. The local operator will handle such calls without reference to the toll line operators. The system is the same as has been in use between the Danielson division and the Putnam and Moosup divisions for several years. Its object is the saving of time for the subscriber. Where one wishes to talk with a particular party or desires to reverse the toll charge to points in the Norwich or Willimantic divisions, the subscriber will have to ask for the toll line operator, as at present. The new service is on number calls only.

The week-end brought another sharp setback to the prospects of getting ice enough for Danielson throughout the year. The break in the cold weather Friday night followed by the spring-like and thawing weather of Saturday, cut down the ice surprisingly, and today hardly helped at all toward the desired end. The icemen remain confident that they will yet fill their houses. Had the weather continued unbroken cold, harvesting could have been under way during the early part of the present week, but that prospect has gone a glimmering.

Rifle practice on the range in the basement of the state armory here has been undertaken by candidates for the team that is to represent Danielson in the Rifle league having teams in various towns and cities in eastern Connecticut. Some indoor matches are probable for this month and March. As spring opens, the team will go into the open, shooting on the rifle range of the Danielson Rod and Gun club, two miles south of Danielson on what has for years been known as the Dyer property.

Reconditioned and repainted motor coaches of the Connecticut company on the local line give the vehicles the appearance of being brand new. They have been gone over, inside and out, and are now in fine condition.

The slicing of gasoline prices that brought the price down to 15 cents a gallon in sections of Massachusetts last summer has now crept to the very border of the town of Killingly. Rhode Island appears to be the present battle ground of the big oil companies and motorists are getting the benefit of the situation. Rates here, too, are comparatively low, particularly so when one hearks back to the 37 cents per gallon that stood for months back during the World war and for a considerable time thereafter.

G. Rene Caron's name heads the list of applicants for instruction at an air school to be opened in Providence in the spring.

Charles Pierce was a guest at the Mohican hotel in Fall River last Thursday night, when the building was destroyed in the great fire. Mr. Pierce watched the onward sweep of the fire through other nearby structures, and then went to the street.

Spring-like weather on Saturday cleared away much of the ice and snow in this territory.

Walter Greenman, of Brooklyn, is recovering from an injury to his foot, the injury sustained when he was kicked by a cow.

Howard A. Hotkman, of Worcester, was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

A cast has been selected for the Junior play at Killingly High school, and rehearsals are under way.

The Ladies' Benevolent society is to meet Monday in the parlor of the Westfield Congregational church.

Mrs. Will Bowen has been ill at her home near Killingly Center the past two weeks.

Mrs. Clinton W. Atwood will have the members of the Fortnightly club at her home for a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

This week's meeting of the Ladies' prayer circle is to be with Mrs. Hattie Codding, of Winter street.

There will be attendance from this section at the Norwich District Ministerial association meetings in Willimantic Monday and Tuesday this week. The members of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church have been invited to attend.

A report came this afternoon, as another hopeful sign that spring may not be so far away, that a bluebird had been seen in the vicinity of Goodyear.

Mrs. Harold B. Atwood was the soloist at tonight's union service at the Westfield Congregational church.

Mrs. John Winslow, of Norwich, formerly a resident of Elmville, was a week-end visitor here.

William R. Spooner, of North Sterling, underwent a surgical operation at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Hearing of the case of George O'Neil, of Plainfield, held at Brooklyn jail to face an allegation of embezzlement, is set for Friday of this week in the Killingly town court.

At the week-end, the firemen were called out for a chimney blaze at the Barbeau house on lower Dyer street.

BROOKLYN SELECTMAN IS ARRESTED FOR KILLING DEER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 5.—Charles Parker, a member of the board of selectmen of the town of Brooklyn, a former jailer at the Windham county jail in that town, and at present an employe at the institution, was arrested today by Deputy Game Warden Gurdon L. Withey and on Tuesday, according to tonight's plans, will be presented in a justice court in the town of Brooklyn and charged with killing a deer, hunting on Sunday and hunting without a license. Warden Withey was scouting isolated territory in the western section of the town today when he heard the report of a gun. Going in that general direction, he eventually saw a light lumber wagon being driven down a cart path into the woods by a boy. Following at a discreet distance, the officer trailed the wagon. In due course of time, Warden Withey encountered the rig coming out on the return trip. Mr. Withey said this afternoon that Mr. Parker was walking beside the wagon and that he had a gun in his hand. Warden Withey quoted him as saying that he had been hunting on Sunday contrary to law, that he had no hunter's license for 1928 and that he did have a deer in the wagon. The warden took possession of the deer and was arranging tonight for Mr. Parker's appearance in court on Tuesday.

JEWETT CITY

POSSIBLE ICE HARVEST IN SPITE OF LATE SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 5.—F. I. Ray tells of cutting ice to fill the town farm ice house, when he managed the place, in the month of April. On the A. F. Read saw mill pond, where years ago there used to be an ice house and an old time up-and-down saw mill, records show that the ice never melted until May. One year, arbutus hunters, the first week in June, came around the upper end under a then heavy hemlock growth, in the shadow of a steep hill. The ice in the west end of the little pond would bear up a man.

PUTNAM

ATT. JOHN F. CARPENTER FOUND DEAD IN BATHTUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 5—Attorney John F. Carpenter was found dead in the bathroom of his home on South Main street, by his sister, Mrs. Chester M. Child who lives in the next house to that of her brother, early this morning.

Mr. Carpenter had been at the home of his sister, Mrs. Child, on Saturday evening. He was completing plans for a trip to Port Chester, N. Y., where Mrs. Carpenter is visiting. He told his sister that he had some baggage to pack and that he would take a bath and retire early.

When train time neared Mrs. Child became anxious of her brother's whereabouts and she went to his home and found the house filled with gas. Entering the bath room Mrs. Child found her brother dead in the tub. A small gas heater that Mr. Carpenter had used to heat the room had become loosened from the jet and the cause of his death was given as asphyxiation.

John Frederic Carpenter was born on April 9, 1870, the son of John A. and Elizabeth (Williams) Carpenter. He pursued his education in the public high schools of Putnam and upon graduation from Putnam high school in June 1888, he determined to follow the practice of law as a life work. He became a student at Yale Law school, being admitted to the bar in 1892. He then located for the practice of his chosen profession in the town of his birth, Putnam, where he has gained the respect and admiration of his fellowmen.

Politically Mr. Carpenter was a republican, and he has always been a close student of the questions and issues of the day, thus being able to support his position by intelligent argument. In 1911-12 he represented his district in the state legislature and gave thoughtful and earnest consideration to all the vital questions which came up for discussion and settlement. During his term as representative to general assembly he served on the committee of cities and boroughs and was connected with the constructive work of the general assembly.

Fraternally Mr. Carpenter is a member of the Putnam lodge of Elks, being a charter member and one of the few members in possession of a life membership in the lodge. Mr. Carpenter is also a member of the Quinebaug lodge of A. F. & M. and a member of the Masonic club. He was also a member of the Connecticut State Bar association.

He is survived by his wife, who was Elizabeth Cornwall before her marriage, and two daughters, Mary and Alice Carpenter Dustin. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. John A. Carpenter, two sisters, Mrs. Edgar M. Warner and Mrs. Chester E. Child, all of Putnam.

Mr. Carpenter was well known in Putnam, where he lived his entire life, and with his death he leaves a large circle of friends in this city and throughout Windham county.

Former Mayor Victor Chapdelaine left Putnam Friday to attend the funeral of his brother, Clement Chapdelaine, who died in St. Ours, P. Q., Canada, during the earlier part of last week. Some of the older residents of the city will recall the late Mr. Chapdelaine as he resided in Putnam some years ago, before they left to live in Canada.

Mr. Chapdelaine will return to Putnam after a short visit with friends in St. Ours.

PUTNAM SILENT COP IS GETTING ITS BUMPS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 5—The new silent policeman on McGarry's corner is having its "ups and downs." Since the wooden officer of the law was placed by the police department on McGarry's corner last June it has spent more or less of its time on the sidewalk, a victim of careless "hit and run" drivers. Each time the silent cop had been waylaid Captain Jarvis took time and pains to replace it, so that drivers might be warned when approaching the dangerous intersection at McGarry's corner and South Main street.

Thursday morning when Officer Sponcey went to bring in the lanterns on the silent policemen throughout the city, he found the one on the corner of Grove and South Main streets, broken and the dummy knocked down in the street. Friday the "silent guide" was replaced.

When covering the beat in the south end of the city Sunday morning Captain Jarvis found his silent cooperater, again laid out in the center of Grove street.

A warning has been given to drivers that if the guilty one is caught he will be brought up before the local police court for an explanation. Captain Jarvis stated that it was a good thing for the persons who get a thrill out of knocking down silent police officers that the silent policemen have no "power of speech."

NOANK

Bernard Steward read about the big fire in Fall River Friday morning in the Bulletin and said his uncle, Dave Murray, worked in a theatre on Main street there, so, in the afternoon with Smokey Joe Walsh and two more friends in his gray sedan, he started for that town, to see if his uncle was injured or lost in the fire. It is 10 years since they saw each other. Joe is a great fireman and for seven hours was busy on a hose with the nozzle end a few years ago out in St. Louis in February at 6 below zero and had his left hand frozen. He said firemen have no easy job when an alarm is sent in, at any time of the night. The party was to stay until Sunday and Young Steward meant to bring back his uncle. Smokey Walsh will tell the firemen at their next meeting night about the Fall River fire.

Maxson Langworthy is spending a few days in Occum.

John Ebbetts was listening in to the radio at his home on Pearl street as his work mates from the machine shop of the ship yard came and asked, "Is John home?" Mrs. Ebbetts said he was, so the gang walked in and he was surprised to see them as he had forgotten that it was his birthday. Games were played and a peanut hunt was one stunt. After looking behind pictures and under the piano for 15 minutes, Arthur McDonald found 22 peanuts, getting as a prize a hand-painted picture of the four-masted schooner Jennie Dove, built at the ship yard in 1898. Stories were told by Herman Fisher about how boats were planked for $1.50 a day. Today the wages are 90 cents an hour for carpenters. Rose Brothers' orchestra played for old-time dances, also Irish breakdowns. On the large table was a birthday cake, but no candle to tell how old the host was, everyone to guess. But it was no use. A clam chowder was served with cake, jello and lemonade. Herbert Reeves, in behalf of the guests, gave Mr. Ebbetts a machinist's tool set. The remembrance was from the machine shop gang. Jack thanked them all and lost his voice for a second, over the gift. Later the machine shop trio, Salmon Meister, bass, Frank Porter, tenor, and Sidney Butson, baritone, sang "Never Met a Better Fellow than Jack." The visitors listened over the radio to the fight in New York between Mike McTigue and Lomski. Dave Doyle, Jr., said it will take several Lomski's to beat one good Irishman. Mr. Ebbetts received many other pleasing gifts.

NORWICH BOY SCOUT WORK

Everybody is interested in the boys. Everyone wants to see them become good, substantial citizens and anyone who has had an opportunity to see it in operation and note its results cannot fail to recognize the excellent service that is being rendered by the Boy Scouts organization in that direction.

Whatever can be done to increase the activities of the Boy Scouts and make its work more effective means the shedding of an influence that is certain to have a lasting effect upon the future of its members.

Boys need to be guided. They always have and they probably always will. It is desirable that that guidance should be of the highest type, that it should so grip their imaginations and so cater to their interests as to aid in the provision of the right foundations for those citizens who must shoulder the community's responsibilities in the days that are to come.

Frequently it is said by those who are interested in better citizenship that they would welcome the opportunity to stimulate it. The opportunity is right at hand. For the maintenance of the Boy Scout organization in Norwich during the ensuing year $6500 is being sought. Today there will be opened the campaign to obtain such a sum and there ought not to be the least difficulty in getting it. The worthiness of the purpose for which it is to be used is inspiring and convincing. Norwich not only desires the continuance and further development of the Scout movement within its midst but it has every reason to want to participate in its maintenance.

Scouting teaches. Its principles are the highest. Scouting interests. Its work is fascinating and instructive. It has an appeal which fits right in with a boy's ambitions. It means worthwhile study and knowledge. Scouting trains and in so doing it puts to good use those many idle hours which might not be as well employed otherwise. Scouting means doing something for the boys which they have a right to expect will be done, and in such a matter Norwich wants to have a leading hand. Contributions large or small will aid in a most worthy cause.

Don't be among those who say "I wish I had done something." Do it now, and be sure it brings good results. Set an example in doing a good turn.

UNCLE SAM WILLING

Not a little interest is being awakened by the efforts in the lower house of congress to bring about the outlawing of submarines. It is, of course, only the first step toward such a goal and if it is taken at this session there promises to be a long wait before it can be expected anything will result, if it ever does.

Whatever congress may do settles nothing. That is, it can be definitely accepted that the United States will never declare to the world that it will abolish such underwater boats as it has and never construct any more. It will not undertake alone a move which would place itself under the worst kind of a handicap in case of trouble. It has been, and it still stands ready to participate with the other leading nations in eliminating the submarines. Whether anything would come of such action as is proposed in the house is a question, but it could do no harm. It would indicate the feeling of this country whether it influenced any of the others.

No surprise will be manifested as the response of Secretary Kellogg of the state department in declaring to the query of the chairman of the house foreign affairs committee that the United States is ready to take the lead in an international agreement to outlaw the submarine as an agency of warfare. It is in keeping with the effort that was made at the Washington conference to bring about that result.

Any move of that kind would have to come about through an agreement of all leading nations, and it will be that agreement on which the whole matter will hinge. Nations which have opposed any step of the kind have been firm in their attitude and unwilling to sacrifice the protection which they feel they get from the submarine even though an international agreement would mean the denial of such craft to all nations. They feel they can afford the protection which is obtainable through such small vessels which would not be possible if larger ones had to be built. They likewise feel that through the submarine they are able to make up in naval protection what is now denied them in other naval armament because they are smaller nations. Thus getting all nations to agree on abolishment is going to be the big task in a worthwhile effort.

FINGERPRINTING

Isn't it time to get away from the idea that fingerprinting is degrading?

Fingerprinting is resorted to as a means of identification, the most reliable one that is known, and it is perfectly evident that there would be fewer instances of persons remaining unknown in death or being unable to hide their identity in life intentionally or through sickness, if fingerprinting was more general.

Banks and other institutions do not regard fingerprinting as degrading. They have adopted such a system for the purpose of giving a full measure of protection to depositors and at the same time protect themselves against the many and various schemes of misrepresentation.

The only possible reason for looking upon fingerprinting as degrading is because it is employed in connection with the maintenance of criminal records. That of course simply gives recognition to its value as a means of tracing those who have violated the law, but because it is thus employed casts no reflection upon any other use that may be made of it.

It is employed in connection with the identification of criminals because of its efficiency. That commends it for whatever use to which it may be put. To be fingerprinted carries no brand in itself. There is no more humiliation in having a print taken of one or more fingers than there is in being obliged to submit to the requirement that a photo be taken of certain size and dimension to be placed upon a passport. We hear no one refer to that as degrading and yet the purpose is the same in the respective cases.

In the city of New York there have been numerous instances of paying for the same work several times and padded payrolls. With the idea of placing a check upon this the commissioner of accounts asked that all snow shovelers, more or less of a temporary list of employes, be fingerprinted. The purpose was to protect the city's funds. It would have been effective without injury to anyone but it was held to be a degrading process and discarded. Why would it have been any more degrading than being photographed for a passport? Fingerprints do not make criminals, or cause the fingerprinted to be associated with them.

MAINTAINING THE ARMY

In making provision for the army the bill presented to the house calls for the appropriation of the sum of $339,000,000. It is a large sum but it is inside of the budget allowance even though there is an increase over last year of a little over three and a half millions.

There are several things to be noted in connection with this army bill. Under its provisions there is to be no increase in the army strength. That remains as it is but out of that number there will be 1248 men absorbed for the further increase of the air service. The total army strength will be 130,750 men including 13,000 officers as regulars. In addition to this there are the 181,000 guardsmen and 110,000 reserve officers, or a possible force of slightly over 400,000 men and officers.

The appropriation bill provides for about $50,000,000 for the air corps and gives added attention to the need for better buildings for the housing of the regulars and for an increase per capita allowance for subsistence. This increase brings the allowance up to that of the navy and marine corps. It will mean the continuation of a present order which was issued by President Coolidge last July when the need was demonstrated.

Furthermore there are appropriations in the bill to the extent of more than $50,000,000 which are for non-military purposes. These concern river and harbor projects. The bill as it stands conforms to the recommendations which were made by the president in his message and to those which have been put forth by the secretary of war, but it cannot fail to be noted that in so doing there has been success attained in keeping within the limits of the budget.

ARAM J. POTHIER

Governor Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island was not the only person to rise from a humble place to one of prominence, but that detracts none from the successful manner in which he did it nor the widespread confidence and respect which he gained in doing it.

In the city of Woonsocket, to which he came as a boy from Canada, he has been a most important factor in business, banking and industrial circles for many years. How appropriate was his choice for the governorship of the state to the east has been repeatedly demonstrated by reelections until it was in his 13th year in that office that he was serving when death ended his career. Rhode Island has had many reasons for thanksgiving over the fact that he was at the head of the state's business, so much so that it quickly replaced him in the chief executive's chair when it got the chance after being out of office for a time.

He was not a man in robust health when he consented to lead the republican ticket, but he was conscientious in his interest in state affairs and there was the utmost confidence in his ability and integrity. Rhode Island was satisfied to reelect him as often as he would stand for election because the people of that state knew that his leadership and judgment could be depended upon. The honor of holding the office the longest of any since the state constitution was adopted is by no means an empty one. It was won on merit and fully deserved.

In the results obtained in Rhode Island in industry and state guidance, Governor Pothier's record is conspicuous and will remain so even though death has intervened.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Be a good scout, help the boys.

Lindbergh is making quite the same hit in South America and the West Indies as he has elsewhere. He makes a fine impression anywhere.

One of the great troubles with those who commit murder is that they don't like to pay for it. And there are those who uphold them in such an attitude.

In Ontario 54,000 Americans bought rum permits from June 1 to November 1. That shows they were more respectful of law in Canada than they were at home.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Braided rugs may be made from worn silk stockings.

If the claws of a chicken are soft, it is young and tender.

Waste baskets, decorated at home, make a very useful gift.

Painted walls are best in the kitchen on account of the washing possibilities.

With the very low cost of coat hangers, it is a very foolish person who does not have one for each suit, frock or coat.

Varnish the insides of bureau and dresser drawers. This will prevent warping and sticking, besides acting as a warning to moths.

Be sure to run the newly painted window frames up and down several times a day for a few days following their painting. It will prevent their sticking.

A layer of newspapers under the mattress of the bed will help keep out the cold.

Try beating the meringue into the custard of your next lemon pie before browning it. The difference is all to the good.

Baked tomatoes, stuffed with spinach and ham and topped with bread crumbs, are very good.

To have fish a nice brown, brush it over with a paste of flour and water; then dust it over with bread crumbs and fry at once.

Try cooking a pot roast with one cup of currants.

Pineapple and sweet potatoes baked en casserole and topped with marshmallows are delicious.

To crumb pieces of dry bread quickly and easily, use a meat chopper or a deep bowl with a wooden vegetable masher.

Left-over jelly may be used on top of a ball of cottage cheese served with a salad or on half a slice of orange as a garnish for the meat plate.

Frozen desserts may be made by using snow and salt as well as ice and salt. Try using a mold packed in a pail or dishpan.

COAT THE LINOLEUM

After a new linoleum is laid, give it a coating of liquid wax. That will make it easy to sweep with a soft brush and dust with a dry mop. It can be cleaned occasionally with a cloth wrung out in lukewarm water and mild soapsuds. Rinse with a little clear water. Strong soap or washing powder and hot water will ruin any linoleum.

KEEPS BROOM TOUGH

Brooms will last longer and not wear the nap off the carpet if they are occasionally dipped into boiling water and allowed to stand in it until the water cools. Then put them out in the open air until they become dry. When the brooms are not in use they should be inverted and placed in a cupboard to keep them out of the way, or hung up.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Babies should have sun baths even in winter.

Iodine should be kept out of the reach of children, but in an emergency it is well to know that the antidotes of iodine taken internally by mistake are mixtures of flour or starch water, followed by an emetic.

Always work on your scalp directly after you have washed it, as that is the time when it is in the best condition to receive the benefits of your treatment. This is particularly true if you have used a tonic shampoo which has strong balsamic content. The heat of the water and stimulation of the balsam have relaxed the scalp, opened its pores and made it unusually absorbent.

If you do not go regularly to the manicurist, there are several simple methods to keep hands at their best. One method is to dissolve half of a small cake of pure soap, shaved fine, in 1-2 cup hot water. Then stir in 2 teaspoonfuls olive oil and let cool. This cream, rubbed around the nails, will both cleanse and soften the cuticle. To polish the nails, shave fine a dry piece of soap, rub the shavings on the nails with the tips of the thumbs and finish with chamois.

NEW TABLE LINENS

The loveliest of the new table linens this season are made of handkerchief linen, with insets of colored linen set in with tiny hemstitching. In peach color with sprays of wild flowers they are particularly charming.

BOTTLES FOR THE BATHROOM

Bottles of various sizes are an excellent choice for the bathroom, particularly when they are of etched glass and shade from white to indigo blue.

FOR NURSERY FLOORS

Plain color linoleum is an ideal nursery floor. Hopscotch or map-making, railroads, lakes and farmyards—there is no limit to the designs that can be chalked on its smooth surface. A damp cloth will quickly remove all trace of the day's activities and leave it clean and spotless, ready for new adventures on the morrow.

UNWRINKLED SCARFS

The tailors' hanger, with a bar across, is the one thing on which to hang silk scarfs for convenience and for keeping them unwrinkled. In this way, too, drawer space is conserved.

GRIDDLE CAKE BATTER

When making griddle cakes, melt two tablespoonfuls of shortening and add to the batter. This eliminates all need of greasing the griddle, saves time and there is no smoke.

WARMED-UP ROAST

The best way to warm up a roast and have it taste like a freshly cooked one is to wrap it in thickly greased paper and keep covered while in the oven.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Tawny and amber shades in satin gowns and wraps are newly smart for evening wear.

Scarlet oil cloth, lined with white toweling, fashions the newest Palm Beach bathing coat, just out.

A dolman wrap of white velvet is richly embroidered in crystals and strass and has a luxurious collar of white fox.

Quite an innovation in the way of lingerie consists of a nightgown, of pink crepe de chine, which has long sleeves.

Daytime dresses employ embroidery to add daintiness. A little batiste and narrow cuffs, embroidered heavily, lighten a flame satin frock.

A very new suit consists of a skirt and three-quarter length coat of black and white homespun trimmed with a fur closely resembling white pony skin.

Chintz bags, slightly smaller than a suitcase, keep underwear and blouses fresh and your suitcase looking much more orderly.

The little girl will look her very best in a party frock of white crepe de chine that has two rows of small blue and rose flowers on the skirt done in petit-point embroidery.

Worthy of the loveliest of evening wraps are the new bags of colored velvet lavishly embroidered with jewel-ed stones. All the favorite shades of the mode are presented.

Colored organdy aprons, and collars and cuffs make the waitress and parlor maid fit into the decorative scheme of things most beautifully. They come in green, yellow and orchid.

One of the loveliest wedding gowns seen recently was made of transparent white velvet. It was untrimmed except for a little pearl embroidery at the hips to hold in the gathers or wrinkles across the front.

The new southern hats are charming as very wearable, as they are simple and practical. Some of the nicest are extremely large, made of leghorn and trimmed with a plain band of ribbon around the crown.

CUFF BRACELET

The latest jewel sensation is a cuff bracelet made up of a series of narrow diamond set bracelets held apart with small frames of platinum, diamond covered. The ornament is over six inches wide and sometimes is made deep enough to reach from the wrist to the elbow. It takes thousands of jewels to make one of the bracelets. In real stones one costs a small fortune.

LATEST STYLES IN UMBRELLAS

In order to have a short umbrella and not lose it designers now are turning out water and snow shedders which are short but which have a stubby, large, crooked handle, by means of which the umbrella may be hooked over the arm and not put down and forgotten when on a shopping trip.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Fresh ink stains may be removed from cloth by applying milk or salt and lemon juice.

Automobile and car grease in wash materials should be rubbed with lard before attempting to launder the garment. The lard will loosen the grease and cause it to wash out easily.

Fine lace collars can be washed without fear if basted carefully on a piece of white muslin and washed on that, using lukewarm water and white soap. Rinse thoroughly and dry in the sun.

When starched clothes get wet on the lines, let them remain there until dry. If it is just a shower. Then they will be just as stiff as before the wetting.

A soiled clothesline can be wrapped around the washboard and thoroughly scrubbed with a brush and hot suds. Rinse well and it will be as good as new.

STAINS ON TABLE LINEN

Borax and cold water will take out chocolate and cocoa stains. Soak the article in the solution for a day.

Tea and fruit stains should be smeared with glycerine and left for a few hours. Wash in warm, soapy water.

Egg stains should be soaked in cold water before washing, as hot water will only set the stains. Common table salt will sometimes remove fresh egg stains if rubbed on immediately.

DRY-CLEANING YOUR GLOVES

White kid gloves that are not very badly soiled can be cleaned at home with a mixture of finely powdered fuller's earth and alum. Rub it well in with a clean piece of flannel, then thoroughly brush it off with a soft, clean brush.

TO CLEAN CUT STEEL BUCKLES

To clean cut steel buckles, buy an ounce or two of flour of emery, grade 120. Make a paste of the emery and one tablespoonful of salad or sweet oil. Dip a small brush into this mixture and rub the buckles until they are clean. Brush with the dry brush to remove the emery.

TO MEND CANE CHAIRS

Those useful cane chairs that find a place in the home as well as in the garden have one cardinal defect in feminine eyes. They are apt to split and become spiky, to the constant menace of light frocks. This is a trouble, however, that can be simply and effectually remedied. Buy a spool of adhesive tape—the kind that is sold for first aid purposes. You will find that it can be used to bind up the splintered cane in most practical fashion. It keeps in position without any trouble and is virtually invisible unless one deliberately looks for it.

IF ROAST HAS BONE

Never throw away bones left from a roast or shoulder. Put them on in cold water and cook several hours and you will have a very good soup if you add diced vegetables.

CONCERNING WOMEN

There is only one woman registered pharmacist in Great Britain.

Twenty million women will be eligible to vote at the November, 1928, elections.

The Kansas state board of motion pictures is composed entirely of women.

There is only one woman enrolled in the School of Law at the University of Missouri.

California's only woman fish and game warden is Mrs. Walter Sellman of Fairfax.

There are 1,470 unmarried women for every 1,000 unmarried men in England and Wales.

Of the more than 17,000,000 people employed in England and Wales, over 5,000,000 are women.

Miss Avis Lobdell is welfare director of one of the large railroads operating in the northwest.

FADED GARMENTS

Freshen faded garments with the soap variety of dye. Put the soap in your soap shaker and shake thoroughly through the boiling water until it is the desired shade. Then immerse the garment.

REHEATING MEAT

To reheat cold roast meat put in granite pie plate and put in steamer over boiling water for one-half hour.

RECIPES

Pineapple Pudding Sauce: Cream one-half cup of butter with one cup of powdered sugar. Heat one cup of pineapple syrup and pour over one tablespoon of cornstarch smoothed to a paste in two tablespoons of cold water. Bring to the boiling point and cook until clear. Combine with the creamed butter and sugar, and stir briskly. Season with a little grated lemon rind and serve.

Chocolate Creams: Form some of fondant that has been set aside for a day or two into tiny round balls. Melt either unsweetened or the usual variety of milk chocolate in a double boiler, without allowing the water to boil. Drop the balls of fondant, one at a time, into the chocolate and stir them around until they are thoroughly covered. Fish them out with a fork without piercing the center at all. Place on a wax paper to harden, and in getting clear of the candy with a fork, bring it up and over the top of the candy, so that a tail of the chocolate will be curled up on the top of the completed cream. This marks your effort as a hand-dipped article and tends to give it a professional look. If at first you do not succeed in this business of dipping, do the usual thing—try again and again, and eat the failures! They are not hard to dip, nor are they very easy, but they take a bit of practice.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Claude A. Swanson, the vigorous defender of the south's voting laws, came into the United States senate from Virginia in 1911 to fill out the term of John W. Daniel. Later he was chosen by the legislature for a fullterm, and has been twice re-elected, thus maintaining the southern tradition as to tenure of office and the theory that it pays to retain the man who has accumulated experience. His early career was not one of affluence or of easy conquest of an education and he worked his way through Randolph-Macon college and the law school of the University of Virginia. His public career began with his election to the Fifty-third congress. He served creditably during six succeeding congresses. In 1906 he temporarily ceased being a lawmaker and until 1910 was governor of Virginia. Then he returned to Washington as a senator.

YOUR HEALTH

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF FREQUENCY of URINATION.

By Elmer Hess., M. D., Erie Pa., Member Gorgas Memorial.

A great many people consult me because of the condition of frequent urination. Perhaps there is no other complaint quite so universal and this condition is a source, very frequently, of great distress and embarrassment.

Naturally, the first thing that interests the individual is the question of the cause. Anything which irritates the neck of the bladder can cause it, such as a highly acid urine, an infected urine, and inflammatory conditions at or near the neck of the bladder.

There are three general diseases which cause this condition merely as a result of the increased drinking of fluids: Diabetes mellitus, commonly known as sugar diabetes and the sweet sickness, causes this condition as a result of the great thirst of the individual together with the irritating influence of the great quantity of sugar which is thrown off in the urine.

Diabetes insipidus, which is nothing at all like the above diabetes but which causes the intense thirst and the desire to drink huge quantities of fluids, causes this symptom purely as a result of the elimination through the kidneys of equally great quantities of urine.

Interstitial nephritis, a form of so-called chronic Bright's disease, is a condition of such nature that large quantities of urine are thrown off by the kidneys and this symptom may be the first noticed by the patient. In this latter condition the heart and blood vessels are always more or less involved. It can easily be seen that the causes of this condition are local, at the neck of the bladder, and general, due to disease elsewhere in the body.

Given this condition of frequency of urination, it is a physical impossibility for the patient, regardless of his education, to differentiate between the various causes. It is therefore absolutely necessary that he consult competent medical advice. Very often it is an extremely difficult thing in some cases for the general physician to make a final diagnosis without in turn consulting a specialist in the matter.

I do not mean to infer that in the majority of cases a specialist is necessary, for if the family physician makes a thorough physical examination and examines the urin, he will in a great number of cases very readily find the cause of the trouble and be able to prescribe for the condition with very simple measures. If, on the other hand, the condition should recur, he will advise the prompt consultation of a specialist so that, if possible, the true cause may be ascertained while treatment and cure are still possible.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Quotation, not a Quotation

Mr. Editor: A quotation whether it be from the Bible or Shakespeare or from any authority, should not deviate from its source, otherwise it is a distortion of the original and is not excusable by any process of argument.

If a man tells us that the Bible says that "The truth is not to be spoken at all times," it is proper to ask him to show us chapter and verse.

This was the point made by a writer in a letter to the editor a short time ago and we think it is supported by the facts. Of course we all know that there are several versions of the scriptures, but does any one of these justify the distortion put forward so often as a quotation from the words of Jesus? (John 5-7.)

A similar danger awaits the man who puts forward the assertion that "the Bible does not have a scrap of evidence going to show that any man is released from the possibility of sickness, hardship, sorrow or accident." This is quotation by omission and, we believe, unwarranted by the fact.

At a recent funeral the clergyman, for the comfort of his hearers, read the 91st Psalm. Without quoting the whole psalm or troubling the reader too much we would offer what is said, in part, about God's protection for those who abide under His shadow. "Surely He shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisesome pestilence. Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night nor for the arrow that flieth by day. A thousand shall fall at thy side and ten thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come nigh thee. He shall give his angels (messengers) charge concerning thee. They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone."

This scrap is only a sample of the whole psalm—which gives the divine assurance of the wonderous protection, granted and recorded in God's word for the comfort and courage of those who trust in him, and is also endorsed in the petition give nus by our Lord's prayer, that we be "delivered from evil."

More than ever, surely, this is a time when earnest heed should be given to all these dictates of God's word.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

SILVER MONEY

Jingling in the pockets of Englishmen today are the new silver coins recently released by the British government which mark the first change in design of British coinage since 1816.

"Silver has been important in British coinage since the days of Charlemagne," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Graphic society. "When that great emperor set up a silver standard in France in the eighth century he established a pound of silver as a basis of value. Then the British across the channel became familiar with the silver pound and from Charlemagne's pound came the pound sterling which is a measure of value rather than weight.

"The shilling, England's silver piece which is similar in size and nearly equivalent in value to our quarter-dollar, got its name from fragments of armbands which were worn by northern European warriors," continues the bulletin. "The conquerors stripped the bands from their fallen enemies, broke them in small pieces called schillingas and distributed them among the soldiers.

"Silver did not begin its reign in the 'Wall Street' of the ancients until 200 years before Caesar. Before that time almost anything of value was traded employed as a basis of exchange by employed as a basis of exchange by some pastoral people. Sheep, which were plentiful, played the part of the penny in their early monetary system. An ox was worth ten sheep. But it took from ten to fifty oxen to buy an armor. If a tradesman did not have ready 'cash' he would pick up a lump of clay, inscribe a promissory note thereon, and hand it to his creditor. The gambler likewise made and handed his adversaries 'I. O. Us' to cover his losses.

"Cattle and sheep had to be fed by the owners and sometimes wandered away, so when copper was found in quantities sufficient for coinage it became the principal medium of exchange. Copper pots were popular and passed from owner to owner as currency. Later the coppersmiths decided not to hammer the metal into pots. The metal and not its shape, came to be recognized as the thing of value.

"The Romans explored their domains for copper. Much of it came from Cyprus from which copper got its name by some twist of the Island's name. The ambitious Romans flooded the market with the metal. The Roman housewife had to load a donkey with copper to buy sufficient food for a feast day. It was then that the rarer and more valuable silver began its 2,000-year rule of the money world.

"The first dollar was a silver dollar. It was made in the sixteenth century by the Count of Schlick of St. Joachimsthal Bohemia. He had a silver mine from which his retainers took the precious metal. He decided to make coins upon which the face of St. Joachimsthal, the patron saint of his village, was to appear. The Count called the coin a 'Joachimsthaler.' When it reached Germany the practical people cut the name to 'thaler.' In the Netherlands the silver piece was called a 'daler.' But when it reached England the broad 'a' was discarded for an 'o' and another 'l' added to make the coin a dollar.'

"Few people in this country have seen the United States silver half dime or the three-cent piece. When the first silver coins appeared in 1794 there was a half dime, half dollar and dollar in silver. Two years later the silver dime and quarter appeared. There has been little change in our silver money since, save for the minting of a trade silver dollar for use in China and a silver three cent piece durin the last century.

"The flood of Spanish money in the colonies influenced our monetary system more commonly used than English money. Spanish 'pieces of eight' were more commonly used than English money. The 'piece of eight' equalled eight reales which in English were twelve and a half cents each. Hence spoken of as 'bits,' amounting to the oft-heard name 'two bits' for a quarter dollar. In New England when the Spanish or English money could hand-made nails, wampum, tobacco not be obtained, the colonist used and slaves as media or exchange. The demand for tobacco in England made the weed ready cash in the hands of an owner.

"While the civilized world now uses coins and paper money, the primitive races are still clinging to old money customs. In parts of Africa, particularly in Abyssinia and Morocco, slabs of salt are as valuable as coins. In the South Sea Islands, porpoise teeth strung around a native's head indicates his wealth; and on the island of Yap, the plutocrat displays his by the number of cart-wheelike stones in front of his hut. Some of these stones are 12 feet in diameter and must come from distant islands to be valuable.

"In the East Indies and many parts of Africa beads and cowrie shells are money. In the Polar regions fish hooks may buy a warm polar bear skin from an Eskimo."

Officials of the Pressed Steel Car company report a substantial increase in operations as a result of the recent spurt in equipment buying by the railroads. The company recently obtained an order for 50 passenger cars from the Pennsylvania railroad and another for 500 gondola cars from the Texas & Pacific. With nearly one billion dollars being expended on railroad equipment, additions and betterments this year, the outlook for a resumption of dividend payments on the common stock is regarded as bright.

Idle Gossip.

Michief grins and slyly winks,
While gossip tells more than it thinks.

—Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox was anxious to know how often and just when Jerry Muskrat visited the spring-hole in the swamp where the Laughing Brook leaves the Green Forest to enter the Smiling Pool. But Reddy didn't want to be seen over there. He didn't want Jerry to become suspicious. He knew that if Jerry suspected him of hanging around that open spring-hole Jerry would at once change his ways. He would not knowingly take a chance of being caught.

"I'll do a little gossiping," thought Reddy. "One can find out almost anything through gossip. Yes, sir, a gossip is usually a telltale without knowing it. Now, I wonder who there is likely to be around that spring-hole more or less. Of course, Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow probably could tell me just what I want to know. But neither would knowingly. Those fellows always delight in making trouble for me instead of in helping me. I guess I'll have to get it out of one of them without his knowing what I'm after."

Now, Reddy long ago learned that the surest way of attracting attention is to do something unusual. Arouse curiosity and you will have all the attention you desire. So it was that when Reddy heard the rather harsh voice of Sammy Jay not far away Reddy got in an open place and began to chase his tail. Around and around he spun, chasing his tail. It wasn't any time at all before Sammy Jay was sitting in a tree right above Reddy, so interested that he actually had forgotten to scream. Presently Reddy stopped for breath.

What under the sun are you doing, Reddy Fox?" demanded Sammy Jay.

Reddy looked up and grinned. "Getting a little exercise," said he. "I find that exercise is the best thing in the world for digestion."

"Huh!" exclaimed Sammy. "I should think you would get all the exercise you need in just running around."

"I do get a lot of exercise that way," replied Reddy, "but there are times when I have to lie still so long that I need some lively exercise, and so I get it by chasing my tail. It is rather fun, you know."

"No, I don't know," replied Sammy. "I have never chased my tail."

Reddy chuckled good naturedly. "that would be a rather difficult thing to do, Brother Jay," said he. "What a lot of different tails there are in the world. Now your tail is of feathers, my tail is big and bushy, the tail of Jerry Muskrat is flattened on the sides and rubbery. By the way, I wonder how Jerry is getting on this winter. I haven't seen him since the ice came. I should think it would be terrible to be frozen in all winter long. I should think he would want to get out and get a breath of fresh air once in a while."

"Oh," said Sammy, "you needn't worry about Jerry. He gets all the fresh air he needs. Why, I see him every day."

"Quit your fooling, Brother Jay! Quit your fooling!" said Reddy. "You can't see down through the ice when it is covered with snow."

"I didn't say I did see down through the ice, did I?" retorted Sammy. "All I said was that I see Jerry Muskrat every day, and I don't have to look down through the ice to see him."

Reddy's face bore a puzzled expression. "I don't understand, Brother Jay," said he. "No, sir, I don't understand. If Jerry Muskrat never comes out from the ice how can you see him every day?"

You know that spring-hole down in the swamp?" asked Sammy.

Reddy nodded.

"Well," continued Sammy, "every morning just after sunup Jerry Muskrat comes out of that and sits in the bank."

HOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

BRINGS $50,000 SUIT FOR PINEAULT DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 5.—Suit for $50,000 damages for the death of Miss Mary Victoria Pineault, formerly of this city, has been brought here against the Worcester Consolidated Street railway company by her brother, Alfred H. Pineault, administrator of her estate. Miss Pineault died in the hospital Dec. 22, after injuries in an automobile accident, which it is claimed in the suit, was caused by the automobile hitting a motor housing that had dropped from a trolle car. The administrator also has a suit of $5,000 against the city of Worcester, on the claim that the street was defective.

James Carrigan, driver of the automobile, has brought suit against the trolley company for $5,000, and Joseph Langlois, cousin of the young woman, sues for $2,000 for personal injuries.

BUFFERS FATAL SHOCK WHILE DRIVING AUTOMOBILE

John Dunbar, of New London, aged about 65, suffered a cerebral shock Sunday morning about 11 o'clock while he was driving his car northward along the state highway about a mile south of Central Village. Mary Douglas, of Sterling, who was riding with him, noticed his hand slip from the wheel and his arm fell to his side. Sensing that he might be ill, she inquired if he wished her to drive and he replied in the affirmative and almost immediately collapsed. His companion drove him to the office of Dr. J. L. Gardner, in Central Village, where he remained unconscious for a few hours, during which time an ambulance from the Lawrence-Memorial hospital in New London had been summoned.

Mr. Dunbar died in the ambulance on the return trip.

NORWICH PASTOR SUFFERS SUDDEN MENTAL LAPSE AT CHURCH SERVICE

In a condition ascribed to overwork and mental strain, Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, suffered a sudden mental lapse at the evening service at the church Sunday, left the building and threw himself in front of a trolley car that was passing towards Franklin square just before 5 o'clock. The motorman, Thomas Guertin, brought the car to a stop almost instantly, but Rev. Mr. Graham was caught and held fast under the forward fender.

Members of the congregation, including Albert Boardman, Robert McNeely and W. E. Baldwin, with the assistance of Constable Myer Blumenthal, who happened to be passing, succeeded with considerable effort in getting Mr. Graham from under the car and he was taken in Mr. Boardman's automobile to his home on Williams street and later to the Backus hospital. He was uninjured, but on the advice of friends he became a hospital patient in order that he might have a period of quiet and rest which will be beneficial. Authorities in the church stated Sunday evening that it was probable that Mr. Graham would be given a further period of rest away from the city and it was their hope and belief that he would be restored to a normal mental condition.

For some time, it was stated, the pastor has been carrying a heavy load and recently has been under mental strain in doing much research work in preparation for a paper that he was to deliver at a meeting at Willimantic this week. This condition is believed to account for the sudden mental lapse he suffered.

The service at the church Sunday evening was to have a special Mendelssohn programme conducted by the choir, with a short address by the pastor. As the organist was playing at the beginning of the service, the pastor stopped her, started to speak and then left the pulpit and the church, accusing himself of sin and saying that he deserved to die.

Widespread expressions of sympathy for the pastor's family and the congregation were heard in all sides during the evening as news of the unfortunate condition of the pastor became known.

BOZRAH JEWISH WOMEN'S COUNCIL STUDYING PEACE

Bozrah chapter, National Council of Jewish Women, at its last regular meeting, listened to a most interesting report by delegates who attended the third conference on The Cause and Cure of War that was held in the Hall of Nations at the Hotel Washington, Washington, D. C.

The first definite step in its campaign to end War was taken by the conference which was convened by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, when it recommended to its constituent organizations that concerted support was had through the efforts of the state department to conclude treaties with other countries to renounce war.

The following organizations were present: American association of United Women, Council of Women s Hebrew Missions, Federation of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions, General Federation of Women's clubs, National Board of Y. M. C. A., National Council of Jewish Women, National League of Women Voters, National Women's Christian Temperance Union, National Women's Church league. There have a combined membership of 10 million.

The meeting adopted a resolution to call all representative organizations to partly support a response of the state department to the Briand proposal subjecting the multilateral treaty with France, Great Britain, Japan, Germany, Italy and other like minded nations, for the renovation of war as a national policy. Delegates voted to send a copy to Secretary of the State Kellogg.

Another resolution was adopted expressing the opinion that withholding of arms, munitions and other implements of war from nations violating treaties for the peaceful settlement of international disputes would be an effective means of enforcing such treaties and thereby preventing war. This resolution further urged congress and the president of the enactment into law of the Burton resolution now before the house, which prohibits munitions to nations engaged in war.

The formation of study groups along peace lines was advised and also peace literature and use of the radio towards this end was suggested.

The Bozrah council is completing plans for study groups along peace lines and it will meet under the leadership of Mrs. Nathan Gilman. Other committees also reported much progress. One of their outstanding works was in helping to establish a night school in Bozrah for foreign born adults.

PREACHES ANNIVERSARY FOR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

The annual rally service of the Norwich Christian Endeavor union at the First Baptist church Sunday evening marked the 47th anniversary of the organization of Christian Endeavor at Portland, Me. Members of the various C. E. societies in the Norwich union were present at the service. President Harold Muttart, of the Norwich union, was the leader of the service which opened at 7:30 o'clock. The service opened with the singing of a hymn and following the anthem all bowed in silent prayer after which Miss Mazie Stamm, clerk of the church and vice president of the First Baptist C. E. society, offered prayer. During the taking of the offering, there was a violin solo by Reginald Lobin.

President Muttart gave a brief history of the C. E. society since its organization in Portland, Maine, 47 years ago. Starting with a membership of 26 people, the Christian Endeavor organization now numbers 4,000,000.

After the singing of a hymn, President Muttart introduced as the speaker, Professor Wallace H. Gallup, of Connecticut college, who spoke on the topic, Honest to God Christians. Prof. Gallup, in his opening remarks said his highest ambition was to make the Christian Endeavors present discontented with themselves and also to make them discontented with their societies.

To be discontented with yourself as a Christian is perhaps the best way to be a real Christian, he said. One aim of Christian Endeavor is to teach the youth to be a real Christian and another aim is to teach the youth to live. Being a Christian is not a parlor game. Being a Christian is not easy.

When you are strong, young and full of vigor and life, there are no limits to your horizon. Besides the courage of youth there is a spirit of adventure in every red blooded youth. There is something of adventure in being a Christian Endeavorer. I present disciples in the world know everything there is to know in being a Christian.

We are bearing the name of a man who isn't around. We have heard a great deal about Him. Who was this young man of Nazareth? What was His aim in life? I think that young man was a clear visioned young man who greatly loved the God He believed in and who greatly loved His fellow men. One of his ambitions was to open a picture of God that they could see and understand. Another ambition was to open up another picture of His fellowmen so that they could see themselves as they were. Some loved Him; some hated Him; some despised Him and some killed Him. I think He was the most successful young man in the world. He never surrendered His dream; He never gave up His ideal. There are some difficult things we have to face in being Christians. Being a Christian is a personal matter for you to settle for yourselves. Face your own problems.

What is a church? asked Prof. Gallup. A church is an organization of those who think that Jesus of Nazareth had the right idea. The church is an organization to carry on His dream. It isn't to make Baptists out of you. It isn't to make Methodists out of you. I wonder what Jesus would think if He walked our streets tonight and saw all our churches lighted up. He would probably want to visit them all. I don't believe He would look at the sign over the door. He would walk right in, ignoring that sign.

Prof. Gallup spoke of some of his experiences with young men during the World war. He served as chaplain. He expressed the hope that there never will be another war. He said he knew there were righteous wars but he hoped there will never be occasion for another righteous war. Prof. Gallup said that in event of a war a man ought to take up arms in defense of his country.

A hymn sung by the congregation followed Prof. Gallup's address and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Capt. Frank O. Maxson, U. S. N.

The Coupeville, Wash., Island County Times, of Jan. 26th records the death the Saturday evening previous, at his home in Coupeville from a complication of diseases of Capt. Frank Oscar Maxson, 76, at one time a teacher in Norwich Free Academy, from which he was graduated with the class of '69.

Capt. Maxson, civil engineer corps, U. S. N. retired, was born in Stillmanville, Conn., Aug. 8th, 1851. When he was but three years old, his parents made the long journey to California by way of the Isthmus of Panama. Eight years were spent in the mining districts and here his two younger brothers and a sister were born. In 1862, failing health compelled the mother to return to her people in Rhode Island and the children accompanied her. Soon afterwards she died. Relatives took charge of the younger children, the sons Frank and Louis starting to work their way by selling papers before school, as they attended the public schools in Norwich, later Norwich Free Academy. Then Frank Maxson went to Sheffield Scientific school, and after his graduation from Yale in '73 came back to Norwich and taught for a year at the Academy. Then for seven years he became typographer for the government in the states of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, later surveyed the Yosemite Valley, of which he made the first authentic maps for the government. In Oct., 1881, he passed the examination for civil engineer in the navy, being first assigned to duty at Pensacola, Fla. From that time through thirty-two years of faithful service, he was attached to practically every navy yard of importance in the United States, also had two years' duty in the Philippines. In 1913, at the age of 62, he was retired with the rank of captain, but in 1917, during the war, was recalled for active service for two years more. He had charge during his long term of the construction of drydocks, quay walls, piers, great shops, power houses, hospitals, airdromes, et al.

Dec. 26th, 1877, he married Evelyn M. VanDoren, at Washington, D. C., three children being born to them, Dr. Frank R. Maxson, of Seattle, Miss Evelyn, of Coupeville, and Dr. Louis H., of Seattle, all being present, Dec. 26th, 1927, when Captain and Mrs. Maxson celebrated their golden wedding. Capt. Maxson leaves also a sister, Mrs. Warren G. H. Croxson, of Santa Cruz, and a brother, Herbert E. Maxson, N. F. A. '73, of Los Angeles.

O. E. Mintzer. Burial was in Sunnyside cemetery, Coupeville. The entire town paid final honors to the distinguished man.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY OBSERVED BY WHITE CROSS COUNCIL

White Cross council, No. 12, Knights of Columbus memorialized its dead throughout Sunday. At 7:15, about 150 members of the council assembled at the K. of C. home on Broadway and headed by Grand Knight Richard J. Marks and associate officers marched to St. Patrick's church where other members of the council joined the ranks. The knights were given special pews at the epistle side of the center aisle. As the day was Septuagesima Sunday—about seventy days before Easter—the vestments and altar hangings were in violet, the color of penitence, anticipating the nearing season of Lent.

In the absence of the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, who has not yet returned from his vacation in Florida, the low mass at 7:30 was read by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, senior assistant and acting pastor, who also preached to the large congregation, taking his text from the epistle for the Sunday, I. Corinthians, 9, 24. to 10.5, "They that run in the race, all run indeed, but one receiveth the prize. So run, that you may obtain." Father Galvin spoke especially to the Knights, who received holy communion in a body for the repose of the souls of their departed members. In administering the eucharist Father Galvin had the assistance of Rev. John J. Reilly.

At a special service at 7:30 in the evening, which was largely attended, the memorial sermon was preached by Rev. Charles Corcoran of Deep River, who is a member of White Cross council. In an impressive way he referred to memorials as reminders that the spirit is immortal, imperishable, eternal and counseled the members of the society to be constant in their prayers for their departed brothers, and by love of God and country, loyalty to their fellowmen, and faithfulness to the principles of the church to show proofs of their knighthood.

A special musical programme for the service was given as follows:

WINDHAM WINS OVER ACADEMY FIVE AFTER HARD BATTLE, 18 TO 14

They came—they saw—and they wondered.

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a basketball game in the city packed the Y gym Saturday night and saw Windham, a heavy pre-game favorite held to a standstill for three quarters of the game by an Academy team that "didn't have a chance."

Windham got her winning margin in the first eight minutes when she ran up nine points without a retaliation from the Red and White. But, from then on Windham was continually on the run and the Academy outplayed and outscored their highly touted rivals for the rest of the way.

LaCroix Brilliant

One boy stands out today in this remarkable work by an Academy team fighting for a game for the first time this year and he is Aimee (Buck) LaCroix. Buck was everywhere he was needed Saturday night, it seemed his close guarding and his interception of Windham's supposedly invincible passes being a big factor in the Academy's moral victory.

Other boys on the Academy also gave a fine showing, especially Lloyd Jarvis, the clever little forward but Les Pingree, the scoring ace, was away off on his shooting. Les missed "suckers" time and again after finding himself free for the basket had he converted any kind of a fraction of these that he usually makes with ease well the Academy would be sporting a victory.

Windham and her large and noisy cheering delegation had high hopes of the walkaway about which they had been boasting for some little time in the first period, when they swept through the Academy's defense for nine points. There was nice teamwork here although the visitors showed miserable work on their shots, several not even hitting the backboard.

Stevens on a Long One

In the second period the Academy got going. For the first few minutes they successfully repulsed all kinds of Windham scoring threats and then proceeded to score themselves. Buck LaCroix added the first point on a foul. "Fat" Stevens, substitute guard, who had been just previously inserted in place of Jim Kelly, tossed a long one and that seemed to touch off whatever fighting spirit had not already been in flame. The teams slashed up and down the floor with the Academy managing to throw in three more points while near the end of the period, Tinker counting Windham's only points on a long shot.

The Academy came right back in their not-give-an-inch attitude and held Windham even through the half but Windham's early margin was a bit too much.

Windham probably had an off night or probably the crowd interfered with her play but the fact remains that she was proven hardly any better than a team that according to her supporters "would not bother much".

Foul Shooting Poor

Both teams were terrible on their foul-shooting. The Academy made something like four out of seventeen tries while Windham made four in sixteen.

Eddie Nichols the Windham captain showed nice floor work but he and Max Heller, the other forward had trouble in negotiating the Academy five-man defense. Tinker and Saba led the winners in scoring while for the Academy, Les Pingree led with five.

Y Loses Again

In the preliminary the Y lost their third straight to the Mercury Five of the New London City league by a 42 to 29 score. The visitors held the upper hand practically all the way, showing some nice pass-work which was the big factor in their win. Summaries:

LLOYD JARVIS FEATURES J. CITY SOCCER WIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 5.— Jewett City Soccer eleven defeated Goodyear in a hard fought battle today at Ashland Park. The game was played in a sea of mud and was amusing to watch the players in combat, some of them being hardly distinguished after ten minutes of play. Lloyd Jarvis, Norwich Free Academy baseball star, was the hero of his team's victory. Some of his stops were miraculous and he had the Goodyear players bewildered.

Jewett City attacked on opening and for three quarters of the game bombarded their opponents goal. During the three quarters of this game defense work of Gaudette, McCluggage, Salenski, Perry, Jarvis, Barnfield was suberb and they continually repelled the local attack.

The stars for Goodyear were Rabbelo, Billings.

The Goodyear's tried hard in the closing seconds to bring the game level again, but it was the old story of Jarvis stopping them at all angles.

FITCHVILLE ROVERS BEAT SHAMROCKS BEFORE BIG CROWD

A packed house saw the Fitchville Rovers open their home season by trimming the Norwich Shamrocks, 36 to 29, Sunday afternoon. The winners accomplished the win with a strong second half rally.

It was a rough game, although few fouls were called. The Rovers used but two of their regular team. The Rovers will play either the Whirlwinds or Y Outlaws this week.

FELDMAN HAS LEAD IN STATE COURT LOOP

WATERBURY, Feb. 5.—(AP)—"Kisky" Feldman, of Bristol, increased his lead over his nearest rival this week to 17 points by scoring heavy for the Endees in the triumphs over the New Britain and Meriden teams, according to the official Connecticut State Basketball league records released today. Feldman has now 54 points to his credit. Sloman, of New Britain, took second place from Carrington, of Waterbury, but the Hardware City player took part in two games during the past week.

JAKE SCHAEFER WILL DEFEND TITLE IN APRIL

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The next world's 18.2 balkline billiard champion will be played in April instead of March. Edouard Horemans of Belgium, the challenger, has agreed to an extension of time sought by Champion Jake Schaefer. The titleholder is now on an exhibition tour with Welker Cochran from whom he won the championship. As Schaefer will not conclude the tour which takes him to the scene of the championship in San Francisco until April, Horemans consented to the change. The match was originally down for March 10, 11 and 12. No new dates have yet been announced.

RENEWED ACTIVITY AMONG SCHOLASTIC FIVES THIS WEEK

Eastern Connecticut's scholastic fives resume on their stiff schedules this week after rests due to examinations. There are two intra-games, Windham playing Chapman Tech at New London Fridayand Stonington meeting Tech, also at New London Tuesday.

Other games in which the four leading teams of this section are involved are Windnam at Bulkeley of Hartford Wednesday, N. F. A. at Tourtellotte and Harding at Stonington Friday and N. F. A. at Coast Guard Seconds Saturday.

GEHRIG-DANIELSON GAME IS THE WEEK'S FEATURE

The Lou Gehrig All Stars-Danielson Town team game heads the list of tilts for eastern Connecticut semi-pro courts this week. This comes Thursday evening. Tuesday night at Parish hall, the Taftville Crescents meet the Southbridge, Mass., quintet, a team that beat them by two points at Southbridge. Wednesday night at the Plainfield Community house, the Plainfield Pros meet the strong Millville, Mass., Town team.

TRIS SPEAKER SIGNS WITH ATHLETICS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Tris Speaker has signed with the Philadelphia Athletics for the next baseball campaign, the veteran outfielder and ex-pilot of the Cleveland Indians made known here tonight.

Speaker arrived here this afternoon from the south where he had been engaged on a hunting trip. He said he had been in touch with Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, since receiving his release from the Washington Senators.

"I spoke with Connie over the long distance telephone at Mount Plymouth, Fla., late this afternoon and we agreed on terms" Speaker said. "I will report to the Athletics at Fort Meyers for spring training on March 1."

Connie Mack Confirms Report

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Tris Speaker has accepted the terms of the Philadelphia Athletics and will report for practice at Fort Meyers March 1, Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics who is spending a short vacation at Mount Plymouth, Fla., told the Associated Press over long distance telephone tonight.

"Everything is all right," Mr. Mack declared. "I talked with Speaker who is in New York over long distance telephone and he accepted the Athletics terms today."

Mr. and Mack did not announce the salary figures.

Speaker recently was released by the Washington Senators, following an announcement by Clark Griffith that unless the veteran outfielder voluntarily offered to sign a contract at a reduced figure he would be made a free agent.

Mack made known the fact that he would seek the former Cleveland manager's services for the 1928 season several days ago.

Speaker went to the Senators last year after he had been released by Cleveland. The acquisition of the veteran outfielder by Mack follows the release of Ty Cobb who last year wore an athletic uniform, after more than a score of years with the Detroit Tigers.

Speaker will play centerfield for the Athletics, Mr. Mack said.

R. I. STATE GRID STAR DIES FROM INJURIES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Victor Lindstrom, Rhode Island state college football star, died at St. Joseph's hospital in this city tonight after a courageous battle with death which has lasted nearly four months.

Young Lindstrom, whose home was in West Warwick, R. I., was injured in a practice scrimmage at the State college at Kingston last October. He was operated on at the South County hospital and later removed to his home. Early in November septic poisoning developed and it was announced that his recovery was impossible.

'BOUT SPORTS

The Athletics' stock for the coming year has taken a real boost with the acquisition of Tris Speaker to replace Ty Cobb in centerfield. This team has probably more friends in Norwich than any other major league club, no doubt some of it being sentimental because Danny Murphy had connections with Connie Mack's outfit. There are many already willing to predict that the Yankees will have all kinds of trouble in winning this year, or, at least, they will have no runaway of it this time. Whether Speaker will be able to help the White Elephants is a matter of conjecture but there are few fans who are not hoping he will do something to make a race in the junior loop.

In case you don't already know there are a few athletic broadcasts that come over the ether during the week. In the fight line there are: Monday, at WHN the St. Nicholas arena bouts; Friday at WABC from Madison Sq. garden and Saturday WMCA the Ridgewood Grove bouts. In hockey at WMSG on Tuesday and Thursday nights there are also broadcasts while there are also numerous broadcasts from Chicago and Philadelphia on basketball and hockey games.

Alex Schauffel, who caught a few games for the Kaceys in one of the annual Taftville-Kaceys series has been sold by Bridgeport of the Eastern to Pueblo of the Western league. Another player well known to local fans and who came near to pitching for Riverview in the Martaft series last fall, Jack Warhop, the veteran, and formerly of the Yankees has been acquired by the Portland club of the Pacific coast league. Warhop is another former Bridgeport player.

Local fans had but praise for the Academy's stand against Windham on Saturday night. The Red and White showed their best game of the seson. At the end of the game it was strangely reminiscent of the Academy-Bulkeley grid tilt last fall, only in reverse. It will be remembered that at that time a supposed much superior N. F. A. went to Bulkeley and was held to a tie. Saturday night a highly rated Windham team came down with visions of an overwhelming victory and was barely able to squeeze through on the long end. The cheers at the finish of the game were for the losers, this time.

ACADEMY HAS TWO GAMES AWAY FOR WEEK

The Academy is slated for two games both on foreign soil this week, meeting Tourtellotte High at North Grosvenordale Friday night and the Coast Guard Academy Seconds Saturday afternoon at New London.

The locals beat Tourtellotte here early in the season by two points in an overtime tilt but one latter will have an advantage on his home floor, a real under-sized one. Both teams have improved since their meeting here and this game should be real interesting. In the Coast Guard the Red and White is picking no easy opponone. This team beat Stonington early in the season. However, with the improvement shown by the locals lately hopes for two victories are high.

The Academy's next home game comes Saturday, Feb. 18, against Deep River, the team that beat Chapman Tech Friday.

PRO GLOFERS LOSE BY TWO NEW RULINGS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Professional golfers are going to lose some side money as the result of two rules adopted by the golf ball industry and approved by the federal trade commission.

The rules, announced by the commission today, prohibits the paying secretly of yearly salaries to professional golf players in order to have them play the golf ball of a particular manufacturer, and of special prize money to those who win matches with a certain ball.

HAUGEN RETAINS NATIONAL SKI TITLE AT RED WING

RED WING, Minn, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Lars Haugen, of St. Paul, retained his national ski jumping title today, but he had to stretch his veteran legs with a mighty final leap to beat down strong opposition from another seasoned rider, Pedar Falstad, of Canton, S. D.

Official standings gave Haugen 18.388 and Falstad 18.288 points in the Class A event.

C. F. C. PLAYS NEW LONDON TEAM TONIGHT

The C. F. C. clashes with the Polish-American A. C. of New London tonight at the Y gym, seeking their eleventh win of the year. The game with the Mystic Shamrocks was cancelled last week and this game immediately substituted.

The locals will use their strongest lineup against the visitors, who have been doing exceptionally well about the Whaling City. In the preliminary, the Y Emps will meet the Norwich Shamrocks, starting at 7:30 p. m.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Academy made their third basketball game with Windham the closest yet just when it was supposed to be the worst runaway.

Both crowds were worked up to a fever heat.

Windham, of course, was first to appear on the court for practice and she was greeted with wild cheers from her supporters and boos from others. When the Academy appeared it was vice versa.

Windham may have only had a slight edge in the final score but she had a wide margin in the cheering sections.

Chapman Tech took an awful lacing from Naugatuck Saturday night at Naugatuck by a score of 62 to 8. Tech lost to Deep River the night before.

Danielson is busy preparing for Lou Gehrig and his team Thursday night.

The C. F. C. furnish tonight's program at the Y and the Polish-American A. C. composed of practically the same players that met the Greeneville Tigers in football ought to give the locals a battle.

ED DUDLEY LEADS LARGE FIELD IN FIRST ROUND OF TEXAS OPEN

WILLOW SPRINGS GOLF CLUB, SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Ed Dudley, of Hollywood, Calif., led a field of 101 golfers in the first round of play for the Texas open title here today with a 72, one over par. Tom Lally, of San Antonio, was second with a 73 and Bill Mehlhorn, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Larry Nabholtz, of Cleveland, Ohio, Bobby Cruickshank, of Purchase, N. Y., and Don Malarkey, of Lufkin, Tex., were tied for third with 74's.

One stroke behind this quartet were Harry Cooper, of Buffalo, N. Y., Leonard Schmutte, of Lima, Ohio, Angel De La Torre, of Great River, N. Y., and J. W. Kenney, of Toledo, Ohio. Five contenders were tied with 76's and eight with 77's.

Bad weather for the last three days discouraged many who had planned to start and only 101 players appeared. In spite of the bad weather, most of the professional favorites succeeded in keeping their scores low enough to give them a chance to catch the leaders in the next 54 holes.

Conn. Man With a 77.

McDonald Smith, of New York, John Golden, of Patterson, N. J., and Tommy Armour, of Washington, D. C., were among the 76's, Al Watrous, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Harry Cluci, of Stratford, Conn., were among the 77's and Anthony Manero, of Elmsford, N. Y., had a 78. Joe Turnesa, of New York, shot a 79.

If weather permits, the field will play 18 holes tomorrow and 36 holes Tuesday. In case of bad weather either day the tournament will be cut to 54 holes.

N. LONDON SOCONY BEATS BATTERY E FIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Feb. 5—Battery E, basketball team was defeated by the Socony Five of New London in the Dixon street state armory on Saturday night by the score of 39 to 29. The Battery boys started off in a whirlwind salvo but gradually sunk like a volley of duds to the smooth playing of the oil boys.

Left Forward Foote was the high indicator for the Whale Town visitors with a total of twenty points to his credit. For the home aggregation Right Forward Lamb led his team mates with 16 bullseyes. Substitutions were Stenhouse for Searles, Potnoad for Barber, Searnes for Blanchard and Barber for Searls. Searles was out for four personal fouls.

Following the basketball game dancing was enjoyed until nearly midnight to music by the Rhode Island Collegians orchestra.

COLLEGES RESUME BASKETBALL WORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Renewal of activities in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league is set for Saturday when Pennsylvania journeys to Ithaca to oppose Cornell. The clubs on the hoop circuit have been idle as a result of the mid-year examinations. A victory for Cornell will give the Ithacans undisputed possession of first place in the standing. Cornell is now in a deadlock with Dartmouth, each quintet having won two games and lost one.

LOU GEHRIG HAS STRONG SUPPORTING QUINTET

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 5.—Lou Gehrig, famous first sacker of the New York Yankees, will head his All-Star basketball team when it trots out onto the floor of the town hall here next Thursday evening. It is the big basketball attraction of the winter in Danielson, and a promised treat that has not only the regular fans in expectancy, but a great many others who ordinarily have but a mild interest in this exciting pastime.

Ed. Padian who is managing the team, has sent to Manager Gerald Boulaine, of the Danielson Town team, the lineup of the All-Stars for the game here. In addition to Gehrig, the team includes Dutch Eggerts, formerly with the Knights of St. Anthony team of the Metropolitan league, and the league's leading scorer last season. Then there is Henry McCrystal and Frank Bowden, formerly with the Visitation Triangles of the Metropolitan league. Joe Gilkinson, a particularly fast man, has made splendid records on the court with teams of the New York State league and other organizations.

One of the newer crop of players and a sensation this season and last is Jess Walsh, a center rated second to none.

This team as a whole is a fast-stepping, lightning-thinking group that knows its basketball. The Danielson Town team will have a night's work before it when it lines up for this particular game, likely to be the fastest seen here this season. It is booked for appearance in several of New England's larger cities on the trip during which it will visit Danielson.

BASS-CANZONERI GO FEATURES WEEK'S FIGHTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Settlement of the disputed featherweight championship of the world is promised next Friday night when Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, tilts against Tony Canzoneri, of Brooklyn, in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Bass became the recognized standard bearer for the division in the domain of the National Baxing association after his victory over Red Chapman, of Boston. Canzoneri's claims are bolstered on a triumph over Johnny Dundee recently, which was the first setback sustained by the veteran Italian at the class weight since he won the crown from Eugene Criqui.

At Toronto tomorrow night, Frenchy Belanger, holder of the National Boxing association's flyweight championship, will defend his laurels against Frankee Genaro, of New York, former world's titleholder for the division. The victor probably will be matched against Corporal Izzy Schwartz in a bout for universal honors.

Schwartz is the champion of the New York State Athletic commission as a result of a victory over Newsboy Brown, of Iowa, in an Empire state elimination several weeks ago.

Heading a card at the St. Nicholas arena here tomorrow night, Joe Sekyra, Dayton, O., light heavyweight, will oppose George Geman, of Philadelphia in a feature ten-rounder. Hilario Martinez, Spanish welterweight, mixes with Willie Harmon in the headline ten-round bout at the new Broadway arena in Brooklyn tomorrow night.

TUNNEY IN NEW YORK ABOUT INCOME TAX

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Gene Tunney's income tax today dragged him away from his training for the next defense of the heavyweight crown. He left for New York this morning.

The champion will return and resume training for the June bout with an opponent as yet unnamed, as soon as his income tax for 1927 is straightened out, it was announced.

He left Tex Rickard, playing golf here, so that there was believed to be little likelihood that the trip had any fistic significance.

TRIBUTE PAID TO HUGHEY JENNINGS AT B. W. A. BANQUET

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—(AP)—Inspired by Mayor Walker, a dramatic tribute to the memory of Hughey Jennings was paid tonight at the fifth annual banquet of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America attended by 600 persons in the Commodore hotel.

Joining the gathering distinguished by the presence of many baseball stars and big league magnates, late in the evening, Mayor Walker spoke feelingly of the "great and irreparable loss sustained by baseball when Hughey Jennings died."

"There was no finer sportsman, no better American and no more exemplary type than Jennings," Mayor Walker said. "There will be a warm spot in the hearts of baseball lovers yet to be born for Hughey."

With bowed heads, the members of the assemblage gave a silent standing toast for Jennings.

Mayor Walker appealed to the baseball writers to keep alive the doings of the old timers for the sentiment in the game which means much the spirit of sportsmanship.

Speaker and Ruth Present

At the party were Tris Speaker, who was signed by the Athletics today, Babe Ruth, Eddie Collins, Herb Pennock, Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, President John A. Heydler, of the National league; President R. S. Barnard of the American league, Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees, Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Robins and Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds.

The magnates were targets for the witticisms of the newspapermen throughout the program with the Rogers Hornsby deal supplying plenty of material for "wise cracks." Bugs Baer was toastmaster.

In keeping with the jocular strain of the banquet, President Barnard said:

"I've noticed in the papers that the Yankees are equipping themselves to stay at the top for the next five years but I have reliable information that seven other clubs will have something to say about that. I think they will compel the Yanks to play 154 games a season if only to give Babe Ruth a chance to knock out 61 home runs."

Commissioner Landis referred to the dinner as an institution as much a part of baseball as the schedule.

"I think the kidding is good for us and we all know it is in the best of spirit," said Judge Landis. "I have accepted already an invitation to be present next year."

The theatrical world was represented by George M. Cohan and Willie Collier.

Non-Athletes Smarter.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Athletes in 23 colleges showed a slightly lower scholastic average than non-athletic students in a survey of 44 colleges and universities made public today in the 22nd annual report of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching.

Fourteen institutions, the report showed, credited the athletic group with a higher average while five gave them equal rating.

N. L. County Third in Y Meet

New London County gave Hartford county a stiff battle in the early stages but faltered at the end and Hartford won the annual State Y. M. C. A. track and field indoor meet at Meriden Saturday. SPORTING NOTES

Twenty-four nations are to be represented in the Olympic winter sports competitions at St. Moritz.

In the season of 1926, the Cleveland Nationals set up an enviable major league record by losing 24 straight games.

When only fourteen years of age Bobby Jones was picked by the veteran Walter J. Travis as the future golf champion.

After holding the British amateur speed skating championship for nearly 20 years F. W. Dix has lost the title to C. W. Horn.

The German Labor Athletic and Sport League, which is to hold a big convention and tournament at Leipsic next June, has nearly 800,000 members on its rolls.

The Japanese Government has contributed $50,000 toward the expenses of the team of 50 athletics which that country is sending to the Olympic Games at Amsterdam.

The London Panthers, last year's champions of the Canadian professional Hockey League, have found it difficult to make the grade this season, trailing along in last place.

The Fox pacing stake, richest harness racing fixture for two year olds regardless of gait, will be contested again at the Indianapolis Grand circuit meeting next fall.

Believe it or not: "Uncle Charlie" Taylor of White River Junction, Vt., became a jockey when 8 years of age and continued to ride the ponies until he reached his 100th birthday.

Gillis Grafstrom of Sweden, winner of the Olympic figure-skating championship four years ago, is generally favored to retain his title in the competitions beginning at St. Moritz on Feb. 11.

The famous Seawanhaka cup, originally donated by the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club of New York, has been held by yacht clubs of Norway, Scotland, Canada and the United States in the past 30 years.

pipe Smokers:

"Twenty degrees cooler" —come on in

YOU know how small kindlings make a quick, hot blaze, while big logs burn slowly and evenly?

Same way with tobacco—the finer the cut, the faster and hotter it burns.

So Granger is "Rough Cut" in big shaggy flakes that burn more slowly, last longer, smoke cooler. There's only one right way to cut tobacco for pipes—and this is it.

Just match it against them all—REGARDLESS!

No bulky, costly tins, hence....

STEEL INDUSTRY SETTING THE PACE IN THE IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—(F)—The curve on the American business chart continued upward last week, with the steel industry again setting the pace. A stepping up of steel operations to more than 83 per cent. of capacity was an outstanding feature, the gain was most noticeable in operations of the U. S. Steel corporation, in which the schedule was close to 89 per cent. of capacity.

In some quarters the raising of the federal reserve rediscount rate in New York was interpreted as an indication of expanding commercial borrowing, and consequently as an implied augury of further improvement in business. This bullish interpretation contrasted with the belief held in other quarters that the increase in the rate was a gesture of warning against further increases in speculative credit.

The seasonal expansion in commercial borrowing usually makes itself felt along about the first of February, and reached formidable proportions by the middle of the month. Bills discounted by the 12 federal reserve banks showed a substantial increase, indicating that the increase in demand for commercial funds already is underway.

Signs of improvement were reported by the lumber trade, particularly in the Pacific northwest. Both foreign and domestic demand was on the upgrade, and considerable expansion in the furniture industry was expected to increase the interest in lumber.

The automotive trade continued to enlarge, stimulated by automobile shows in Chicago and other large centers of population. Employment in Detroit increased more than 2,000, which is deemed a good index of expanding operations in motor manufacture.

Textiles strode forward more briskly than in several weeks. Rayon fabrics were in particularly large demand and more active buying was reported in the silk division. The curtailment of production of cotton goods appeared to have a beneficial effect, but wool goods were rather quieter than in preceding weeks.

Continued need of moisture was felt in some of the wheat and cotton belts, but crops were not affected seriously enough to affect prices materially. Wheat quotations, indeed were a shade under those of the week before. A liberal export demand for corn caused slight gains in the price for that commodity.

In the whole sale and jobbing trade, the spring demand was quite keen, and movements indicated expectations of good retail business. In some districts, January sales succeeded in clearing shelves of large stocks of winter merchandise which had sold slowly because of unseasonable weather throughout December and during a large part of January.

Declines in car loading figures attracted no great amount of concern, inasmuch as declines are usual at this time of the year. Gains over a year ago were shown in loadings of merchandise, livestock and miscellaneous freight.

The petroleum industry was affected by reports of low earnings in 1927, due to the heavy over-production which crippled the business last summer. Production in the last week, however continued to show a satisfactory trend toward lower levels.

Bank clearings in the principal financial centers increased about 10 per cent. over the preceding week, and more than 7 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year.

POETRY

Bread Upon the Waters

Say not, "'Twas all in vain,"
The anguish, and the darkness, and the strife;
Love thrown upon the waters comes again
In quenchless yearnings for a nobler life.
Think, in that midnight, on thy weary sight
The stars shone forth, and 'neath their welcome rays
Thine hopes to heaven like birds first took their flight,
And "thou shalt find them after many days."

Say not, "'Twas all in vain,"
The vigil, and the sickness, and the tears;
For in that Land "where there is no more pain,"
The grain is gathered from those mournful years.
The faded form once sheltered on thy breast,
In gentle ministry thy care repays;
And smiling on thee from her sinless rest,
Fear not to find her "after many days."

Say not, "'Twas all in vain,"
Thy tenderness, thy meekness—oh, not so,
A strength for others' sufferings shalt thou gain,
As healing balms from bruised flowerets flow.
Weep not the wealth in fearless faith cast forth
On the dark billows shipwreck'd to thy gaze;
The bark was frail, the gem had still its worth,
And "thou shalt find it after many days."

Say not, "'Twas all in vain,"
The watching, and the waiting, and the prayer,
In pierced hands hath it unassumed lain:
'Twill grow more radiant as it lingereth there.
'Tis space—where once thy quivering form was cast
Thy heart-wrung sobs no floating breeze betrays,
Yet, 'mid the white-winged choir thy prayer hath passed,
And "thou shalt find it after many days."

Say not, "'Twas all in vain,"
The patience, and the pity, and the word
In warning breathed 'mid passion's hurricane,
Unheeded here; but God that whisper heard,
The tender grief, o'er strangers, sorrow shed,
The sacrifice that won no human praise,
In faith upon the waters cast thy Bread,
For "thou shalt find it after many days."
—Anna Shipton, in The Watchman-Examiner.

Feeling for Others

Many monopolists of words have been
Unconscious quite of their besetting sin;
Of strong susceptibility possessed
Enraptured oft, and oft in much distress
They deem themselves, nor others deem them less.
Affectionate and feeling to excess;
The charge of selfishness, or unconcern
In other's weal, with indignation spurn,
And think their failing and their weakest part,
Is having, as the phrase is—too much heart.
But tender hearts as well were hearts of stone,
If what they feel is for themselves alone.
—Jane Taylor, in "Essays in Rhyme."

FIVE AUTO SALES STATIONS AND GARAGE ROBBED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 5—Safe blowers and crracksmen during the early hours of this morning forced entrances to five business places and robbed the safes, either by blowing them or forcing the doors. In each instance the robbers gave their attention to garages and automobile salesrooms. The crooks were not rewarded by blowing them or forcing the doors. In each instance the robbers gave their attention to garages and automobile salesrooms. The crooks were not rewarded by obtaining a great amount of money, for less than $1,000 was taken from the places robbed. The salesrooms robbed were those of the Reo station, McDonald street; Chevrolet station, Huntington street; Packard station, 407 Broad street; Ford station, corner of Main and Richards streets and the garage of the Southern New England Telephone company, Broad street. From the Reo station but $35 was taken. From Chevorlet station $500 was secured, from the Packard station about $100, from the Ford station about $200 and from the telephone company's garage $42.81.

All of the robberies were discovered about the same time for when employes went to the garages about 8 o'clock this morning there was convincing evidence of the breaks. A glance at the respective safes showed that either the doors of the strongholds for cash or valuable papers had either been blown open, or forced. The police were notified and Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh started an investigation.

At the Reo station, entrance was obtained by forcing a rear window and it is believed that the safe door was opened by a charge of nitroglycerine. At the Chevrolet station the forcing of a window permitted the crooks to enter the building where the safe door was forced. At the Packard station a window was pushed in and the safe door forced. At the Ford station entrance was obtained by the crooks opening a hatchway which allowed them to enter the building, but in order to reach the office where the safe is located, three doors were forced. The safe door was blown open with a charge of nitroglycerine and partially wrecked. The telephone company's garage was entered by means of a window being forced and a charge of nitroglycerine blew open the safe door.

Residents in the vicinity of the sales stations and garage did not hear any explosion, neither did they observe anything out of the ordinary. It is believed that the crooks came to New London by automobile during the night and that when the time arrived for them to move, individual gangs went to the five buildings and forced entrance to the buildings and safes simultaneously. It is also believed that the burglaries were committed after 3 o'clock, for after that hour there are no officers on duty except on State and Bank streets and then within a radius of a few blocks.

All the sales stations were closed about 10 o'clock and employes did not return there until 8 o'clock today.

The police are inclined to believe that the safe blowers are the same gang that cracked safes in several automobile sales stations on Connecticut Boulevard, Hartford, for at that time the burglaries were confined to automobile places, as was the case here this morning.

A Stanley Atlas chisel was found at the Chevrolet station. The chisel was practically new and was broken by the crooks during their opening of the safe. The chisel is manufactured in New Briatin, but is sold in practically every hardware store in New England.

The police have laid plans that may result in the apprehension of one or more of the safe blowers, but in cities outside of New London. While the police have but little to work on in the way of clues, the state police have entered into the task of running down the robbers and one of the latter officers has already left New London on a clue that may bring results.

This afternoon the automobile, a Hudson sedan, which was reported earlier in the day as having been stolen in Mystic, was found wrecked outside Mystic and with blood-stains on the interior. The auto answers the description of an automobile that contained several young men who acted strangely near a garage late Saturday night. The man who reported the auto as having been stolen said he was Harry Levy, of Syracuse N. Y. The reporting of the auto as having been stolen may be a scheme or it may have been stolen by the safe blowers, and possibly when it was wrecked, knowing that it would be found, the telephone message to police headquarters was sent that the auto had been stolen. A check-up is being made to ascertain whether the auto is registered in Massachusetts.

Ewen Gullett, United States Coast Guard, is locked up at police headquarters, he having been arrested this afternoon charged with assaulting a police officer of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. He will be in the police court Monday Gullett was at the union station about 3:15 o'clock and engaged in a row with Special Agent Jorgerson, the sailor finally striking Jorgerson. Patrolman William Riordan who was on the station platform arrested Gullett.

John Stanners, of Ocean avenue, former chief of the New London fire department, who has been a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital for several weeks, was operated upon several days ago. His condition today was reported as being as comfortable as could be expected.

John Brennan, until recently employed as janitor at the Crown theatre, is now janitor at the Gilbert apartment, Nathan Hale street.

LAW HAS TEETH IN IT FOR PANDERER COSTELLO

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 5.—Michael Costello, proprietor of the Garden of Italy, a rooming house and restaurant, 115 Bentley avenue, was in the police court Saturday charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts and conducting a disorderly house. He entered a demurrer on all three charges. On each of the liquor counts he was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail; on the disorderly house charge Costello was fined $100 and costs. Besides serving 20 days in jail Costello will have to pay about $575 into the city treasury, or work out 16 months in jail.

Costello was arrested Thursday morning following the arrest of Molly Yavener, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yavener, Montville, and James F. Cobb and Lloyd West, United States Coast Guard, state pier, on charges of fornication, for it was the statements of the sailors and girl that provided the police with evidence against Costello.

The Yavener girl ran away from her home Wednesday, leaving a note saying that she had decided to go away and that it would be needless for a search to be made for her, as she did not intend to return home. The father of the girl requested the state police to assist him in finding his daughter. Lieutenant Roy Streman and Officer Peter Busch came to New London, for the officers believed that the girl, if found, would be in the company of sailors, especially as last Wednesday was pay day with the bluejackers. The officers made a search of the dance halls and rooming houses, but did not find any trace of the girl. About 1 o'clock Thursday morning Lieut. Streman and Officer Busch came out of the American house, Bank street, and the latter observed a public service automobile on the opposite side of the street, in front of a restaurant. The occupants of the auto were a sailor and a girl, who proved to be Cobb and the Yavener girl, when Officer Busch went to the auto and opened the door. When the girl was questioned her identity was revealed and the pair taken to police headquarters. There Cobb made an open admission of his movements, together with those of West and the girl. He told of having hired a public service automobile and with West the pair went to the Ocean Beach resort, where they were admitted and provided with drinks and a room by Costello. Cobb also told of cohabiting with the girl. During the grilling of the girl, West went to police headquarters to ascertain the charge against his friend and it was then that he was arrested. He at first denied having cohabited with the girl, but when Cobb's confession was read to him, West immediately admitted his acts. Both Cobb and West told of the purchase of liquor at the restaurant and stated the amount of their respective bills. The two sailors were locked up on charges of fornication, as was the girl. The officers then went to Ocean Beach where Costello was taken into custody. All the cases were continued to Saturday when Costello was meted out his severe punishment. Cobb and West demurred to the fornication charge and were fined $25 and costs each. They paid. The Yavener girl's case was not disposed of, for it was continued to Monday. It is probable that she will be committed to a state institution for since her arrest it developed that she gave birth to a child at Hartford a comparatively short time ago.

MEAN THIEF AT MYSTIC STEALS STRANGER'S CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 5.—Morris Swadlick, 138 High street, of Canton, Mass., was driving from his home to Philadelphia early this morning, when his automobile was stolen from where it had been parked. Swadlick stopped the auto on a highway in Mystic, while he and his companion attempted to find a restaurant. It was about 5.30 o'clock and eating places in the town were not open. When Swadlick and his friend returned to where they had left the car, they discovered that it had been stolen. The auto is a Hudson sedan and carries Massachusetts registration, 238057.

TWO MEN PINCH COAT ON LEAVING NIGHT TRAIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 5.—Two young men alighted from one of the night trains arriving here Saturday and when they left the train they took with them a brown overcoat, in which were a scarf and gloves, the property of Harry Levy, 635 Harrison street, Syracuse, N. Y. The theft was reported to the railroad police and Lieut. David Marks furnished the New London police a description of the men, but they were not located.

William Jones, who gave his address as 61 Golden street, but who is a fisherman and employed on a boat that brings catches to the American Fisheries Co. at the former Groton Iron Works plant, was in the city court Saturday charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law, in driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs. Jones was driving about the city Friday night and the manner in which he guided the car attracted the attention of Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray, who caused Jones to stop the machine. It was then learned that Jones was intoxicated, so he was arrested.

J. F. Sharkey, United States Coast Guard, one of the dozen sailors arrested Wednesday night and Thursday morning on various charges, was charged with interfering with an officer, but the case was continued to Monday.

Mrs. George N. Bates, of 43 Granite street; Mrs. Manuel Andrews, 188 Shaw street; ;Mrs. Edith Miller 48 Blinman street; John Carrigan, 25 Bank street; Mrs. Patsy Fazio, 4 High street, Groton; Mrs. Margaret Holmes, Old Mystic; Mrs. Raymond King, Sound View; Mrs. John McDonald Hines street, Groton; Edson Strickland, 208 Broad street; Mrs. Charles Newell and infant daughter, 80 Ledyard avenue, Groton and Mrs. Henry Goetzen and infant daughter, 80 Neptune avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital were discharged today.

Seven arrests were made by the police Saturday night and this morning on charges of intoxication. Of this number three are United States Coast Guard sailors.

George Haley, United States Coast Guard, went to a dance in Plant hall Saturday night and while there his overcoat was stolen. Haley reported the theft to police headquarters, but no trace of it or the thief was obtained.

Joseph H. Belair, 80 Greenmanville avenue, Mystic, drove his automobile to this city Saturday night and parked it on Meridian street Belair remained away long enough for a thief to steal the car. When Belair returned to where he had left the auto he found it missing and reported the theft to the police. The auto carries Connecticut registration N-4062. More automobiles have been stolen from Meridian street than any other street in the city.

Joseph Perry, Waterford, was arrested Saturday night charged by Mrs. Louis Pelletier with breach of the peace and will be in the police court Monday morning. Perry was arrested by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Frank Philopena on Hempstead street.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney resumed his duties at police headquarters today after having enjoyed his annual vacation of two weeks.

Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso, Saint-Saens

Strand Theatre.

Fights, gun play, a missing jewel, New York society, a desperate race at night, an underworld gambling den, these are some of the colorful flashes of "The Imposter" now showing at the Strand. With Evelyn Brent heading an excellent cast, this is considered one of the best films of the year. Miss Brent is at her best in a dual role in which she sheds her identity as a young lady of fashion and assumes the part of a girl of the underworld in order to save her brother from the clutches of the law. Abounding in punch-packed thrills and cleverly lightened by deft comedy notes, the story carries her to well deserved success. The direction by Chet Whitey is fully equal to Miss Brent's superb acting. We also show "A Story of Fighting Heart Series" that is very interesting, and played by a splendid cast. It is a complete story in itself and something that you will enjoy.

"Girls" a Fox comedy is full of pep, action and beautiful girls, and carries through the picture an interesting story of life and romance.

Palace Theatre.

"The Divine Woman" which is the feature attraction at the Palace today and tomorrow, is a screen adaptation of Gladys Unger's "Starlight," which many of you may remember as a Doris Keane starring vehicle on the stage. It is safe to say that in its translation to the screen "The Divine Woman" has been greatly improved upon as a starring vehicle because of the wide latitude which the screen allows over the cramped range offered by the stage.

Miss Garbo carries her role magnificently from the opening sequences as a peasant girl and a helper in a laundry to the heights which she achieves as the darling of Paris' theatrical world, and back again to her tawdry surroundings in the Montmartre.

Lars Hanson gives a remarkable performance as a French soldier who deserts his regiment and is sent to prison, while Lowell Sherman gives an excellent portrayal of the role of the theatrical impressario who gives his "protection" to the star.

Polly Moran, who has never fallen down in a comedy role, is seen at her best as the French laundress, while Dorothy Cumming, who played the part of the Madonna in "The King of Kings," reverses her roles and is seen in "The Divine Woman" as a demi-mondaine.

Tonight is cabaret night. A large company of professional talent will appear in a skit entitled "In a Broadway Cabaret."

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

To an Old Friend Gone South

"Towhee," "Chewink," no more you call
In cheery tones at break of day.
You've heard the threat'ning winds of fall
And set your course for far away.

All summer long your friendly ways
Made us love you, little bird,
You added to the pleasant days,
And often in the rain we heard

Your happy song that sunshine brought,
Behind the clouds when drear and gray,
You drove away all gloomy thought,
With music tuned to simple lay.

A jet black throat, brown chestnut side,
A tail that flashes black and white,
Short wings that beat the air you ride
And cause your fluttering flight

"Towhee," you said but yesterday.
Then loud to you the south call came,
And down some airy, high pathway
You left us, calling out your name.

—J. B. Carrington.

The Orphans

There's a cave in the rocks where the pine trees grow,
And two little cubs, too young to roam,
Are waiting for food, while the blizzards blow;
The food that their Mummy will soon bring home.

Teher's a big skin stretched at the Trapper's hut,
To dry in the sun and wind and rain;
In the cabin there's bear-meat freshly cut
Mummy will never come home again.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

Thin ice and carelessness have resulted, as usual, in the deaths of several young skaters this winter. In spite of repeated warnings, boys and girls persist in "taking a chance," and sometimes they pay for their folly with their lives. Not so many days ago Uncle Jed observed a half dozen small boys skating on extremely thin ice on the Thames river, near the West Side bridges across the Yantic river. The ice was far from safe. In the middle of the rive there was no ice at all and in other spots the water was barely coated with ice. However, those half dozen juveniles were flirting with death as they skated merrily back and forth across the tissue paper thickness of ice.

One or two of the more daring skated right out to the very edges of the ice, and how the thin ice held their weight is a mystery. As it happened, all passed a merry afternoon and succeeded in reaching their homes safe and sound.

But how different the story would have been, if the ice had suddenly given way and precipitated the youngsters into the cold water. They would have been chilled through almost instantly and, unless help reached them quickly, they would have gone down to death. A strong man would have found it extremely difficult to swim in the ice cold water and delicate children would have found it impossible to swim to safety, as the cold water would quickly chill them through.

It is strange what chances small boys and girls will take. Ice is ice to them, whether it is thick or thin. They see not danger ahead of them. But it is well, boys and girls, to find out if the ice is safe before you venture on it. Don't take a chance when your life is at stake. Ofttimes it is too late to cry for help when you have broken through and have been plunged into ice cold water.

There is also another dangerous pleasure in which boys and girls indulge. Seemingly heedless of automobiles, heavy trucks and trolley cars, boys and girls persist in sliding down snow-covered hills, right in the midst of traffic. A few days ago a snow storm visited Norwich and the following afternoon several boys and girls were seen sliding down a hill in the main section of the city, right into the path of approaching automobiles. The street in question was Union street. Several small sliders shot down Union street on sleds to Union square and across Broadway to the Bath street hill. Broadway is one of the most traveled streets of the city and it was nothing less than good fortune that prevented a serious if not fatal meeting between auto and sled.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

Martha Finley

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you for quite a while, but this time I am going to write about Martha Finley.

She was born in Chillicothe, Ohio, April 26, 1828, in the house of her grandfather, Major Samuel Finley. Something more than a year later her father died in South Bend, Indiana. When she was 23 years old she joined her widowed sister in New York for eighteen months. It was then and there she began her literary career by writing a newspaper story and a little Sunday school book. But she was broken down in health and half blind. But she loved books and would manage to read in spite of the difficulty of so doing, and a great difficulty it was, for in the midst of a long sentence the letters would seem to be thrown into confusion. She struggled on, teaching and writing, living sometimes in Philadelphia with a stepmother who was kind enough to give her a home. Sometimes she lived in Phoenixville Philadelphia, where she taught a little school in the country. She was a lady with a kind heart. She helped many who were discouraged, and many sick people.

DORIS ARNOLD, Age 13.

An Anventure

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you will like my story.

One day Elizabeth and I went huckleberrying. I took a pail which held three quarts. Elizabeth took a pail which held two quarts. We started on our way to the lot and on our way we had to cross a swamp. We got safely across. I told Elizabeth to sit on a rock to cool herself and rest. Then we got up an started to pick huckleberries. Then we heard a noise. The noise was "Moo!" That's all we heard. When we heard it we ran on a fence, looked out into the field, when I saw a man coming after us. We ran and when we got to the swamp Elizabeth lost her shoe. Then she started to look for it. She found it. Then we both went home. That was my day's adventure.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you a story about "Joining the Junior Red Cross." I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy it.

One morning the nurse came around to see us. She asked us if we would like to join the Junior Red Cross club. Of course we accepted her. We all had to bring two or more pennies until we had fifty cents. We were to receive a "Junior Red Cross" book every month for one year. We were willing to join because we had read a story which told us many things that the "Junior Red Cross" did and could do. Some of the useful things they can do are help children of other nations, help soldiers and help poor children and people.

ELIZABETH ALLEN, Age 12.
Versailles, Box 157.

In the Clutches of an Octopus

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide-Awake Circle. I hope you will enjoy reading my imaginary story. The name of it is "In the Clutches of an Octopus."

Oh! how dreadful it was when I was caught by an octopus. It wound its horrible legs about me. I fought in vain to be set free. It kept winding and winding around me. I was so frightened I didn't know what to do. It was uncomfortable fighting way down in the bottom of the sea. I thought my death was near. But just my luck! I had my knife with me and killed the octopus with eight legs.

MARY LEWERK, Age 13.
Versailles, Box 54.

My Pet Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide-Awakes. I hope you will enjoy my story about my pet cat. My cat's name is Tricksy. One day as we were cleaning the barn I lifted a rock and under it was a hole. A mother rat and a baby rat were there. I took a stick and chased them away. The cat was in the barn with us and caught the rat while he was going into the hole. She brought them to her children. She and her children had a good dinner.

My Horse

Dear Uncle Jed: Christmas my father bought me a horse. I wanted to ride her but I never had a saddle. So I thought I would try it without. I got on her back. She started on a trot. I fell off. She stopped to turn around to look at me. I thought what an intelligent animal she was.

PAUL WENZEL, Age 11.

Cat's a Thief

Dear Uncle Jed: We have a cat. His name is Tommy. He is very fat and lazy. But when I am in the kitchen he will stay in under the stove and when I go out if there is any meat on thetable he will jump upon the table and get it.

Two nights before Christmas we all went over to my aunt's house and when I came back I found him on the table and my uncle put him off. I felt sorry for him but couldn't help him as he is such a thief.

FRANCES LABOUNTY, Age 10.

Our Cats

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story. I want to tell you about our cats. My brother and I have a cat. His cat is blue and my cat is gray. Every time I give them something to eat my cat always gets in front of the other cat. My brother's cat goes away until my cat is finished, then he goes to eat. They always play together.

ROSE ALICE, Age 10.

My Pet Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my dog. I hope you will enjoy reading it. One night we were all ready to go to bed when we heard the dog barking. My father went out to see what was the matter. He was barking at the cat near the door.

ANNA USTIC, Age 13.
No address given.

My Pigeon

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you will like my story. A few weeks ago a policeman found a pigeon in the rain and as my father's store was near he gave it to my father. My father took it home and put it in the chicken coop among the chickens. It stayed about a week and a half. One day as my father went to feed the chickens the pigeon got out of the door and escaped.

ESTHER FRIEDLAND, Age 8.

Her First Letter

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story.

Last year I went to my aunt's for two days. When I got there the first thing I did was to play with the little girl and her dog. When we ran around the house he would run after us. Then we would peek and so would he. Then he would start running after us again. What a wonderful time I had!

RITA LAFLEUR, Age 9.
Baltic.

Our Lost Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written. I hope the readers of my story will enjoy it. I hope you enjoy it also. I am writing how our cat got lost.

The color of our cat was tan, gray and white. It was pretty.

There was a man who went to Canada on a vacation. He asked us to keep his little dog for him. We kept it. When our cat saw the dog she must have beenjealous or frightened, because she ran away.

We looked all over for her to see if we could find her, but we couldn't. She never came back again. We felt sorry, because we liked her. Now we haven't either cat or dog.

ALICE BALLARD, Age 12.
Plainfield.

My First Experience as Nurse

Dear Uncle Jed: When I started to write a story to you it came to my mind about last summer.

One summer day when my father was cutting grass the two dogs were at play. My father did not see them and happened to cut one dog's foot very badly. I brought him home, tied his foot as tight as I could, as I was taught in hygiene, to stop the bleeding. When it stopped I washed it. After a few days I did not bandage it any more, for I thought that nature would care for it, and it did.

He is all well now, but you could see a scar yet.

FANNIE WEBER, Age 11.
Norwich.

Our Two Dogs

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you, and I hope you and the Wide-Awake Circle will enjoy my story.

We have two dogs, Mutt and Jeff. Jeff is black and white and Mutt is brown and white. If one dog gets the food first he will not let the other one come near him. If Mutt sees a cat he will chase it.

EVELYN LEBOVITZ, Age 10.
Norwich.

The English Bull Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide-Awakes and hope you will like my story. This dog which I am describing is one of the best watch dogs, and one of the most faithful of all our dog friends, and perhaps the homeliest.

Many years ago, when bull baiting was a sport, this dog was chosen because of its strength and courage. It has a great head, rounded nose, loose lips with a lower jaw showing the teeth. Its neck is thick and short, its chest strong and broad, its front legs bowed. This dog is brindle, red or white. It is a great terror to its enemy, as it is a kind and loving friend to its master and his family, especially to the small children.

WALTER SUDYK, Age 13.
Norwich.

What Santa Brought Me

Dear Uncle Jed: Santa has been very god to me this last Christmas. He brought me so many things I cannot name tem all. But best of all my presents is my big doll and carriage. My doll is so big that it looks like a real baby. My brother Billy and sister Esther got many things from Santo, too. I hope that all the boys and girls got as many presents as I did.

AGNES ROBINSON, Age 6.
Box 134, Baltic.

Our Sewing Club

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our Sewing club. All of the girls of our school formed a club. We named it The Busy Girls' club. The leader said we must live up to the name.

My sister is treasurer. I think all girls should learn to sew and join a 4-H club.

EVELYN L. HOLDEN, Age 9.
Yantic.

Our Health Club

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our Health club that we have at school.

Our teacher is the leader and I am the president. We meet every two weeks.

In February Miss McDonald of the farm bureau is to give us a talk on "Health."

I enjoy the Wide-Awake letters in the paper each week.

LUCILLE A. HOLDEN, Age 12.
Yantic.

Two Ducks

Dear Uncle Jed: One day our father went to Jewett City. One of our friends gave us a pair of ducks. They are half mallard and half black ducks. My father said that my brother and I could have them, if we would take care of them. We give them water and corn every day.

HENRY EARLE HOLDEN, JR., Age 12.
Yantic.

A Red Squirrel

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a little red squirrel that lives in our back yard. He feeds in a place where we have our flower garden.

He eats apple cores and we throw bread crusts out to him. It is fun to watch him eat them and play on the stone wall.

EDNA FRINK, Age 11.
Moosup, R. F. D. No 1.

"Busy Girls' Club"

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our Sewing club. Some of the girls in our town thought we would like to know how to sew. We have a great deal of fun making things. We have made sewing bags, pin wheels and other things. Each member has a record book in which she must keep a record of the material bought, how much time is spent in sewing, and what was being made.

There are many other 4-H clubs in Connecticut.

EVELYN HANSON.

My Dog and Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to write you a few lines about my dog and cat. When I first got my dog it was 4 weeks old and now is 16 weeks. It is an Eskimo dog and is all white. She is very playful. She can swim well and she can beat me running. The dog and the cat eat from the same dish. They hate each other but the cat can fight the dog. And last of all I forgot to name the dog's name, which is Beauty.

DEDICATE PIPE ORGAN AT SALEM LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. Dr. S. G. Hagglund of Dorchester, Boston, president of the Swedish Lutheran New England conferences, gave an usually interesting address at the dedication services for the new pipe organ at the Salem Lutheran church on Hickory street on Sunday. The attractive program was carried out at the church of which Rev. A. J. Anderson is pastor, and was attended by a capacity audience. Rev. Dr. Hagglund spoke in part as follows:

Dr. Hagglund spoke on the text usually assigned for the fifth Sunday after Epiphany, Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God. Col. 3.16.

He then spoke on The Organ as a Means of Public Worship."

He said, an organ is a means of expression and a guidance in public worship. It is a servant and a guide, like the trusted slave pedagogue of old, who tutored his master's children or brought them to school. It is almost equivalent to a sixth sense, a congregational rather than personal sense.

This king of instruments is not the gift of any one individual, nor of one generation of people; it is the gift of many generations and of several nations.

Its history goes back to 250 B. C., at least. An organ was found in Alexandria at that time. The first church organ was used about 666 A. D. Of course, these early organs were very simple. They had only a very few pipes. During the 12th century we find rather large and cumbersome organs. They were played with fists and elbows.

Pedal swere first used in Germany about 1350 A. D.

A pipe organ is a congregation of sounding pipes. It is a very compound instrument, not only two, but many in one. Every pipe has its function. If a single one is out of order, the whole instrument is to that extent impaired. Every particle must be in harmony with every other, and willing to serve.

This king of instruments is to be dedicated to the service of God and His people.

It is to be inspired, not only with air but with divine spirit under the influenge and guidance of a consecrated organist and a holy congregation.

Our text speaks of psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, and of singing with grace unto God. The word of Christ can be proclaimed by means of music and songs, and the organ is of invaluable service. This king should be a spiritual ruler, tuning hearts to sing and praise God, giving the proper setting to the precious jewel of divine worship.

The new organ is to be used for holy purposes, in the service of the king of kings. An organ should not be commercialized or used for amusements. It should always be used to inspire and guide souls in their aspirations toward God.

Convinced that this is your desire, I dedicate your new organ to the service of God and the church, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.

The New England conferences or Lutheran Augustna Synod consists of 84 congregations which are served by 56 pastors. The past census showed that there were 70,000 parishioners in the New England conference. Rev. A. J. Anderson has the charge of two churches, namely in Willimantic and Norwich. Rev. Dr. S. G. Hagglund spoke words of praise to the local pastor for his fine work at the church, stating that the church was in excellent standing, both religiously and financially.

The organ recital which was given by Luth E. Hagglund, a son of Rev. Dr. Hagglund, was greatly enjoyed by an enthusiastic audience. All the numbers were rendered beautifully showing his deep interest and love of music. He is a graduate of Gustvus Adolphus College Musical Conservatory, graduating in 1926. Previous to this he had spent three years studying at the New England conservatory. At present he is the organist at his father's parish, Vasa Lutheran church in Boston.

Miss Verna Johnstone returns today (Monday) to resume her studies at Baltic Academy. Miss Johnstone spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnstone of Prospect street.

Capt. and Mrs. Blackburn of Engine Co. No. 2 will motor today (Monday) to Fall River, Mass., to see the fire ruins.

TO REPLACE NARROW BRIDGE ON HIGHWAY AT CENTRAL VILLAGE

Awards for ten pieces of highway construction jobs have just been announced by the highway department. Bids for these projects were received at the highway department on January 20 and in each case awards went to the lowest bidder.

Included in the list are the following:

Town of Plainfield, a bridge over the Moosup river at Central Village, awarded to F. D. Miller, Norwich, $20,027.

Town of Canton, about 6150 linear feet of bituminous macadam pavement on the Collinsville-Torrington road, awarded to Fred D. Miller, Norwich, $73,220.

The erection of the new bridge at Central Village will be a piece of work that will enlist the warm commendation of motorists for the state highday department. The present bridge is a narrow structure on which one-way traffic is in force and has been the scene of more than one narrow escape from serious collisions. It is on the trunk line highway between this part of Connecticut and the Massachusetts state line, on the road to Worcester, subject to heavy travel at all seasons of the year.

BIG AUDIENCE ENJOYS PICTURE AT Y. M. C. A.

An audience of nearly 200 attended the meeting at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. The service opened with the singing of "The Battle Hymn" from the screen, followed by the scripture reading from the screen, and this was followed by prayer.

The unusually impressive moving picture, "Not one to spare" was shown in five reels, and it is not too much to state that never has there been a deeper impression made at a Y. M. C. A. meeting for a long time. The picture story told of a family of seven children and mother and father, who had little of this world's goods. A rich brother of the father offered to give the family much if in turn he could have one of the children. After a great deal of thought and with great reluctance the parents decided to send away the eldest daughter, and the father started with her to the station, but parental love simply could not let her go, and back to the humble home they went, and there was great joy in consequence.

Between the reels, Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk, and spoke in part as follows: "Not one to spare," is true in every home, no matter how many children there are, the parents are loathe to part with any. When it has been necessary to send a boy to the reform school, because of his badness, I have seen the parents and other children cry sadly at the parting, even tho the boy was so runruly. When the doctor says, the boy or girl cannot recover, and the death angel takes the young life, how bitter and how sad the hearts of the household, and especially of the parents; they have not one to spare.

"I want to urge the boys and girls here today to stop and think what mother and father mean to them before they lose them. I hope you will all love your parents more and more as the days go by. If the earthly parents cannot spare one because of their deep love for the child, how about the heavenly parent, whom we call the Heavenly Father; he loves us with an everlasting love, and "it is not his will that any shall perish." The story of the shepherd and the lost sheep is a very touching demonstration of the Father's love for us all. Let us all love Him more with the passing days."

Commissioner Bradford took the boy to a Montville store where the merchant supplied everything at cost and the boy went home an extremely pleased and grateful young man.

Commissioner Bradford plans to take the boy to New York city just as soon as Dr LaPierre of this city deems it safe to have him undertake the journey, to consult with one of the country's leading eye specialists relative to possibility of saving a portion of the vision of the remaining eye The commissioner stated that when a candle light is held up before the boy's eye, he can detect the light and a faint hope is entertained that proper treatment might restore a portion of his vision. TO PICK TEAMS TO REPRESENT TELEPHONE MEN

Telephone men in teams of three men each from this city, New London, Willimantic and Putnam are to compete at the armory here on Tuesday night in the district first aid elimination contest. There are to be nine teams in the competition which will engage in the various branch of work connected with first aid for the privilege of representing the New London division in the state contest to be held in New Haven, Feb. 23.

On Tuesday night following the various competitive tests three of the most adept teams will be selected to represent the division. Seeking to encourage its employes to become better acquainted with the method of giving instant aid, the company has created no little interest among the men.

Believing that such a contest will be of interest to the general public, in view of the fact that first aid has saved the lives of people on innumerable occasions, the officials of the company are extending a general invitation to those who might be interested to attend. First aid benefits the public at large, and it would be well if there were more who were better acquainted with methods of rendering it properly. The members of the various departments to compete Tuesday night are as follows: Willimantic—Maintenance department, Smith, captain, Fillmore, Johnson; construction department, Rood, captain, Fletcher, Freeman. New London — Construction department, team No. 1, Libitsky, captain, McCarthy, Holms; construction department, team No. 2, Jaquith, captain, Lamb, Chappell; cable department, Allen, captain, O'Brien, Burgess; installation department, Miller, captain, Wells, Hornist; repair department, Devine, captain, Carthy, Howell; Norwich—Skinner, captain, Larkin, Coughlin; Putnam, Anderson—Captain, Schloss, Warner.

JUDGE BROWN TO SPEAK AT SCOUTS' BREAKFAST

A special rally call to public spirited citizens interested in boys has been issued by President Charles Colt of the Boy Scout council. Scouts will act as associate city and town officials Monday and assisted in religious work in the church on Sunday, and over one hundred hustling citizens will march out from breakfast at 9 o'clock to collect subscriptions amounting to $6,500 that those who care about what happens to boys are anxious to invest in the support of this cause. The breakfast at the Wauregan will be served promptly at 8 o'clock, President Colt will be in charge and a short snappy talk will be delivered and community singing will be enjoyed. The speaker will be Judge Allyn L. Brown.

Interest is already being shown by those who know that indifference and lack of interest will not finance important boys' work in a community. The first dozen contributions received Sunday were from the following: E. L. Tinkham, Hanover; A. L. Peale, H. D. Larrabee, N. A. Gibbs, Charles Colt, C. C. Lamb, E. A. Prentice, L. M. Crandall, George Scott, C. S. Storms.

The committee feels sure that those who cannot contribute this year will at least encourage the solicitors as well as their friends to put forth their very best efforts to help along this good work and those who are not reached by the solicitors have the opportunity to make their response by using the coupon that is published in the paper each day by the Boy Scouts.

The following are two letters endorsing the work of the Scouts by President H. D. Larrabee, of the Chamber of Commerce, and State Attorney Arthur M. Brown:

February 2nd, 1928.

Mr. Charles Colt,
186 Broadway,
Norwich, Connecticut.

Dear Mr. Colt:

The work which you, and your associates, are and have been doing in promoting Boy Scout work in Norwich is, in my opinion, worthy of the full support of everybody in Norwich.

The future of this, as well as almost all other communities, depends upon the way in which the boy of today develops into the man of tomorrow, and there is nothing which goes more directly into the upbuilding of the boy, both morally and physically, than does the work which is being carried on through this organization.

It has been said that the boy is the nation's greatest asset, and if that be so, then the development of the boy certainly needs our fullest support.

Yours very truly,
H. D. LARRABEE,
Pres. Norwich Chamber of Commerce.

February 2nd, 1928.

Mr. Charles Colt,
President, Norwich Council Boy Scouts,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Mr. Colt:

As state's attorney for this county, I very naturally come in contact with many men who have violated some law and who have to be punished accordingly. In almost every instance, the root of the trouble lies in the fact that during the youthful years of these men their environment and training were bad.

It is of the greatest importance that boys of the age of those eligible to join the Boy Scouts should be taught the principles of right living and those characteristics that go to make for good citizenship, obedience to law, truth telling, fair dealing, cleanliness of mind and body and the joy of service. I know of no organization that wields a greater influence along these lines than the Boy Scouts and as a citizen and as state's attorney of the county I fully appreciate all that this movement is attempting to do in the way of making men of character.

Wishing you all success in your local campaign for funds, I am

Very truly yours,
ARTHUR M. BROWN,
State's Attorney.

Acid Perspiration Irritating to Tender Skin

Many people suffer from minor skin irritations such as chafing and rash, because of too-acid perspiration on a naturally tender skin. Antiseptic pine tar soap (Packer's has been the standard brand for 55 years) relieves the irritations, soothes and refreshes. Physicians recommend Packer's for a delicate skin. E. A. HARRIS TO BECOME MANAGER AT NORWALK

The many friends of E. A. Harris, of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, will learn with regret of his transfer to Norwalk, where he assumes the responsible position of manager of the Norwalk district of the Connecticut Light and Power company, another subsidiary of the Connecticut Electric Service company.

This move is a well merited promotion for Mr. Harris, who has been with the Eastern Connecticut Power company, first, as general auditor, then treasurer, and, later, as assistant general manager.

Coincident with this change, E. L. Duff, now manager of the Branford district of the Connecticut Light and Power company, will be transferred to Norwich in the capacity of office manager of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, a position for which he is especially well fitted, due to his experience in the public utility industry.

These changes are both effective at once.

FINED FOR FAILING TO GRANT RIGHT OF WAY

In the Lisbon town court Saturday, before Walter Drew, as justice, Morris Epstein, of Preston, was fined $5 and costs on a charge of failure to grant the right of way. Grand Juror Thomas Wignall prosecuted the case and Attorney V. P. A. Quinn appeared for the accused. The arrest was made by Constable A. L. Potter.

TAFTVILLE

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, took for his sermon topic "Building." The regular meeting of the members of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor was omitted in the evening, to allow the members of the society to attend the meeting for young people at the First Baptist church in Norwich, where Dr. Gallup was the speaker.

The American Kennel Gazette, official publication of the American Kennel club shows in its February issue among the "Champions of Record," Champion Snyeg, the Samoyede dog owned by Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue.

John Joubert of Bolduc lane is suffering from a fractured jawbone, sustained in a recent accident.

A letter addressed to A. A. Culver, unknown to the postmaster is being held at the local postoffice.

Two more foxes have been bagged, one a gray and the other a red. These were brought down by John Sarowski of Taftville in front of the fox hound, Bob, owned by Carl and Lawrence Krauss, of Lisbon. Both were secured in the Lisbon woods on consecutive days, Friday and Saturday included in the hunting party, besides those mentioned above, was Joseph Martin, of Taftville.

Cottontail rabbits have become so scarce this year that sportsmen especially the members of the Taftville Rod and Gun club believe that the only real solution to the problem would be to import rabbits from other states. Connecticut, in common with several other New England and neighboring states has declared a quarantine on cottontail rabbits, as many from the mid-west are found to be suffering from a disease which is communicable to human beings. Accordingly, the secretary, George W. Weller, Jr., has taken up the matter with John W. Titcomb, superintendent of the state board of fisheries and game, and it is believed as a result of this correspondence, that the club may do something toward stocking the local woods with snowshoe rabbits. These rabbits are obtainable in Maine and there is no embargo on them in this state. They are a species of rabbits that grow to giant size, are fast runners before a dog, and turn white in winter which makes hunting of them more difficult during the cold weather and snowy season. In some localities they are known as "jack rabbits," and as they are prolific breeders, it is the opinion of sportsmen who are interested that it will not require the purchase of many rabbits to furnish good gunning next season.

During the latter part of the week, ice was pronounced "safe" on the Shetucket river, and some boys reported having crossed on it to the Lisbon side. The surface, however, was rough and snow covered and very poor for skating when compared to some of the neighboring ponds. The Shetucket for several years has not furnished very good skating, although at one time the ice was so thick as to permit horse racing on a circular track from the Ponemah mills dam to Benker's island.

The members of the Ocowasin Camp Fire group held a ceremonial meeting Friday evening at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis of North Third avenue.

$7,000,000 SENT TO MEET A RUN ON BANK IN MIAMI, FLA.

An Anonymous Prediction of the Failure of the Southern Bank and Trust Company Led to Its Suspension—This Action Was Followed by the Temporary Closing of Two Other Banks—With the Starting of a Run on a Fourth Bank the Federal Reserve Branch Bank of Jacksonville Arranged to Send $7,000,000 to Bolster the Cash Reserves—The Bank Had $1,750,000 to Start the Day and Only $350,000 Was Paid Out.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Anonymous letters predicting the failure of one bank caused that institution to suspend business here today, resulted indirectly in the temporary closing of two others and brought about a run on a fourth which called for $7,000,000 from the Federal Reserve branch bank in Jacksonville to bolster its cash reserves.

The run, determined but orderly, started at noon on the First National bank, following announcement that Ernest Amos, state comptroller, had taken charge of the affairs of the Southern Bank and Trust company and ordered the Citizens Bank and the Bank of Allapattah temporarily closed.

Explaining he had taken control at the Southern Bank and Trust company at the instance of its officials because of withdrawals caused by the circulation of anonymous letters, Amos said he ordered the other two banks closed through fear they might not be able to weather possible runs. He made a plea for a "cool and collected public spirit," declaring that the banks would have been able to remain open under normal conditions.

Meanwhile the reverberation was felt in an unexpected quarter when the run quietly was begun at the First National.

Until closing time the tellers were rapidly handing out money to every depositor demanding it while officials of the institution mingled with the crowd to spread encouragement. At no time was the lobby of the bank holding about 250 persons, crowded beyond its capacity.

Officials estimated that the day began with $1,750,000 cash and that only about $350,000 was paid out during the day.

When the bank closed for the day's business at the regular closing time at 3 o'clock, officials calmly announced that in event the run was renewed tomorrow, they would have more than $7,000,000 in cash and would meet every demand.

No other banks in the city were affected.

W. H. Burwell, president of the chamber of commerce, attributed the "whole situation to outside influences and not to any intrinsic economic fault in the institutions or in the territory."

H. C. Romth, president of the First National, announced later that the Jacksonville Federal Reserve branch had vetoed the plan to send part of the cash by airplane, but that part of the money would be dispatched by train tonight and the remainder tomorrow.

"Though we won't need it," he added, characterizing the run as a temporary flurry due to the other closings, which will diminish as people see the lack of need for withdrawing their funds.

PROSECUTION OPENS IN HICKMAN SANITY CASE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A battery of alienists for the prosecution took the witness stand in superior court here today and pronounced William Edward Hickman sane and fully able to distinguish between right and wrong.

The kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker the mental experts asserted, had faked claims that he was under "divine guidance" in the killing.

Four alienists placed in the record in Hickman's sanity trial declarations that the youthful defendant was sane. They were Dr. Paul Bowers, Dr. Herman Schorr and Dr. Victor Parkin of Los Angeles, and Dr. Frank Mikels of Hollywood, formerly of the Morris Plains, N. J., insane asylum staff.

Dr. Schorr testified that Hickman showed evidence of lying when he related his story of being directed by Providence in killing and mutilating the school girl.

Dr. Parkin declared Hickman admitted to him about three weeks ago that it had only been the day before that the idea of claiming "Divine guidance" had occurred to him.

The witness testified Hickman had stated he killed the child as a "matter of self protection" because he feared after the kidnaping that Marian "was losing confidence in me."

Hickman declared, Dr. Parkin testified that he had "no feeling when cutting her up because I saw it had to be done and just did it."

To support his conclusion that the defendant knew right from wrong, Dr. Parkin quoted a statement of Hickman's that it was a "terrible thing to do, wasn't it." Hickman referred to turning over the child's torso to her father in exchange for $1,500 ransom, the witness said.

FOUR MURDEROUS BANDITS WERE THEMSELVES SLAIN

WARSAW, Feb. 6—(AP)—Nine dead, including four robbers, was the toll of a gruesome tragedy reported today from the town of Elodow near Lemberg.

Advices received here state that four men described as well dresse' and apparently of some education, arrived at Klodno by automobile l'st night and asked a Captain Bilinski, owner of an estate there, to put them up over night because they were having motor trouble.

Captain Bilinski gave hospitality to two of the men and told the other two to go to the house of a neighbor. During the night Captain Bilinski was awakened by his guests who demanded his money. In reply, he gave battle to them and shot and killed both.

Fearing for the safety of his neighbor, the captain rode to the nearby manor where he found the entire family, consisting of a man, his wife and three daughters murdered. Soon after his return to his own home, the remaining two robbers appeared. The captain, who is an excellent shot, killed both of them.

SEARCHING FOR COMPANION OF WOMAN WHO WAS KILLED

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—A description furnished by hotel employees and a hammer found in the room were the principal clues upon which detectives worked tonight in their search for the male companion of a woman whose body, with the skull crushed, was found today in the Grand hotel, on Broadway.

Police said the description was that of a man 45 years old, six feet tall and of florid complexion, who with the woman registered at the hotel Wednesday night as Mr. and Mrs. F. M. James, of Troy, N. Y.

Examination of the body, police said, indicated the woman was dead before he left the room at 10 a. m. with instructions to the hotel clerk and a maid not to disturb his wife until 2 p. m.

The body was found by Mamie Lott, a maid, who entered to clean the room. A hammer was on the floor nearby. The woman, whose skull had been crushed, was apparently 45 years old, police said. They added there was no sign of a struggle and the woman apparently had been murdered while she was asleep.

A search of the room disclosed no jewelry or money and aside from the murdered woman's personal clothing there were only a few daily papers and a man's small handkerchief which bore the letters "J. B." detectives said.

HOUSE PASSED 70 BILLS AND THE SENATE 58

WASHINGTON, Feb .6—(AP)—The house and senate tried to outdo each other today in passing bridge bills but the house got the earlier start, won the race and also set a record for the expedition of such legislation. It passed 70 as compared with only 58 by the senate.

Momentarily it appeared that house action might be held up by one member, Cochran, democrat, Missouri, who argued that congress should demand additional safeguards to the purchasers of bridge bonds and securities. A proposal on a roll call vote, 310 to 18 and then the bridge bill passing machinery of the house was slipped into high gear.

All of the bills approved by the house are still to be acted on by the senate.

DISTURBANCES IN THE COAL FIELDS OF OHIO

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Threatened disorder in the Belmont county mine district may cast Ohio's national guard in the dual role of policemen and relief worker.

For two weeks the guard has been ministering to the destitute children of southeastern and eastern Ohio, distributing food and clothing to the needy but today, alleged communistic activities in the area near St. Clairsville brought the possibility of a movement of troops into the county.

Disturbances occurred last night when more than 200 men, who entered the Florence mine district paraded on the highway, hurling stones into the homes of non-union miners, occupying houses owned by the Youngstown and Ohio Coal company. One of the non-union workers fired a shotgun into the crowd but no one was injured. He was locked up by officers to prevent violence.

INJUNCTION AGAINST THE RADIO CORPORATION

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 6—(AP)—The federal district court of Delaware today granted a preliminary injunction to five independent vacuum tube manufacturers restraining the Radio Corporation of America from enforcing a license agreement with receiving set manufacturers which is said to require set manufacturers to purchase vacuum tubes from the radio corporation.

Judge Morris in his opinion stated that "the evidence now before me is conclusive that the practical effect is to prevent the licenses from using or dealing in tubes other than those sold by the defendant. Such conditions or agreements are so completely within the ban of the Clayton act, as if they were expressed, specific or direct."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 6—(AP)—Three huge oil tanks exploded tonight on the wharf of the Ganz Danubian shipbuilding yard and set fire to numerous vessels anchored in the vicinity.

ROME, Feb. 6—(AP)—While messages of felicitation and goodwill greeted Pope Pius XI today on the sixth anniversary of his election to the papacy, the Osservatore de Romano, official Vatican organ, declares that the "unutterable misfortune" of the church in Mexico and "the blameworthy silence on this," saddens the pope's heart.

PARIS, Feb. 6—(AP)—One hundred fifty years of friendship between France and America since their alliance in 1778, their association in 1917-18, and the arbitration treaty signed in Washington today, were celebrated in Paris first by a luncheon given to Ambassador Herrick by Foreign Minister Briand, and then at a dinner given by the Franco-American committee this evening.

NO TRACE FOUND OF TEN MISSING FISHERMEN

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 6—(AP)—Belief that ten fishermen were marooned on a drifting ice floe in the lower end of Lake Erie was swept aside today when two airplanes flew over the lake and found no trace of them.

One of the planes was chartered by the Buffalo Evening News and carried William J. Lee, assistant city editor, as an observer. Lee said the plane covered the whole lower lake region as far west as Dunkirk, N. Y., more than 40 miles by airline from this city, and then crossed to the Canadian side. Not a trace of the men was seen.

A second plane, hired by a Cleveland newspaper and carrying one of its reporters, flew here from Cleveland, covering the lower lake region on the way. Neither the pilot nor the passenger saw trace of the men.

The fishermen were reported missing yesterday after a break up of ice off Windmill Point on the Canadian side between Crystal Beach and Port Colborne, Ontario. At least six observers on the shore said they had seen the men drifting out into the lake on a floe.

The flight was made to help the coast guard service locate the men believed marooned. Early today a tug, pressed into service by coast guardsmen, put out from the Buffalo harbor, but was forced to return after journeying five miles out and encountering packed ice as deep as 15 feet.

WARNED WHITE GIRL NOT TO MARRY NEGRO

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A flaming cross burned on Pillsbury hill here tonight as Clarence Kellem, Negro, was warned first by mail and then by telephone not to marry Beatrice Fuller, 19, a white girl.

The wedding was scheduled to take place tomorrow evening but after receiving the warnings, Kellem and Miss Fuller visited Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of the Union Congregational church who has agreed to perform the ceremony, and asked him to marry them tonight. This he refused to do.

They then entered a taxi and left Rockville but when they returned later spiked rumors that they had gone to Manchester or Hartford to be married.

Kellem let it be understood that the warnings will not interfere with his plans to go through with the marriage tomorrow evening.

DEBATE OPENS TODAY ON ANGLICAN PRAYERBOOK

LONDON, Feb. 6—(AP)—In an atmosphere charged with expectancy the amended prayerbook measure, a bone of fierce contention in the Church of England, was presented to the National church assembly this afternoon by the Archbishop of Canterbury, action was postponed until tomorrow, when debate on the measure will begin.

The preliminary discussions by the leaders revealed that the sharp cleavage of opinion which was emphasized in the rejection by the house of commons of the revised prayerbook last December still exists and that the measure will encounter vehement opposition, despite recent modifications by the bishops.

MARINE ACCIDENTALLY KILLED IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Private Frederick E. Perham, United States marine corps, was killed by the accidental explosion of a hand grenade today near Totogalpa, department of Nueva Segovia.

Major Edward Reno was slightly injured by the same explosion. He was brought here by airplane for treatment.

Perham enlisted two years ago at McKeesville, N. Y., where his mother, Mrs. Mabel Perham, lives.

TWO BALLOONS DEPART ON TRAINING FLIGHTS

NAVAL AIR STATION, Lakehurst, N. J., Feb. 6—(AP)—Two free balloons left here today for training flights. Chief Radioman R. W. Copeland of the dirigible Los Angeles' crew was aboard one of them, to test a new radio receiving apparatus.

The first balloon to leave carried Lieutenant James C. Carter as pilot, and five enlisted men, and it was planned to make an all-night flight.

Lieutenant E. T. G. W. Hettle, piloted the other, which was expected to stay in the air just long enough for Copeland to make his tests.

MEXICO ENFORCING ITS RELIGIOUS LAWS

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 6—(AP)—Two more private residences have been raided in a continuation of the police campaign for strict enforcement of the religious laws, it became known today.

Two priests were arrested on a charge of conducting masses and about 35 Catholic men and women were detained with them for attending. Those arrested were held at police headquarters for examination on a charge of violating the religious laws by conducting religious services in private h[illegible]es.

TILSON NAMED AS JUDGE OF U. S. CUSTOMS COURT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(AP)—Twice denied senate confirmation of his appointment of William J. Tilson, of Atlanta, as federal judge for the middle district of Georgia, President Coolidge today shifted his point of attack and sent in Tilson's name as a judge of the United States customs court.

Indications are that there will be little, if any opposition, to the brother of the republican house leader, John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, for the customs court job. Objection to Tilson for the Georgia court appointment came largely from Senator Harris, of Georgia, who said he would not oppose him for the new job.

Southington Man Held For Killing Son

Matt[illegible]ynor, 30, Was [illegible]s He Walked Out [illegible]ear Door of His Home.

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Matthew Gaynor, 30, died tonight in Bristol hospital a short time after he had been shot in the chest as he walked out the rear door of his home in Buckland street at 6:30 p. m.

John Gaynor, father of the dead man, is under arrest on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the shooting.

The police allege that the elder Gaynor, from a place of concealment in a wood shed, shot his son. A single barreled shotgun, containing an exploded shell, was found in the shed.

After he had been shot, Gaynor staggered across the yard to the home of his uncle, Matthew Gaynor, a distance of sixty feet, and, pushing the door open, said: "Well, he has done it," and collapsed.

The elder Gaynor is said by police to have been out of work for some time and to have been drinking heavily. According to their version of the case, Matthew had rebuked his father for his conduct on several occasions and had aroused his anger.

Immediately after the shooting, police of Meriden and Waterbury and state police were asked to join in the search for the elder Gaynor which ended with his being found in a wood not far from the scene of the crime.

Matthew Gaynor was so weakened from the loss of blood when admitted to Bristol hospital that it was a foregone conclusion that he would die.

The elder Gaynor had not been told tonight that his son is dead. He was locked up without being questioned.

By-standers who saw him taken into the police station said he was smiling as he entered. The police said he did not appear to be intoxicated.

The dead man's father, who is being held without bail, will be given a preliminary hearing in the town court tomorrow morning.

Besides his father, young Gaynor is survived by his mother, two brothers and a sister.

NO NEW EXAMINATION FOR PROHIBITION AGENTS

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The United States civil service commission "has done nothing, or said nothing to justify a statement, or conclusion" that a new test for prohibition agents "who failed on the first will be held," declared William C. Deming, president of the commission, here today.

"There is no controversy between the civil service commission and the prohibition bureau, which understands the law governing such things" Deming said. "The bureau knows that a second examination cannot be announced until the need for it is demonstrated to the satisfaction of the commission."

The first examination for positions in the prohibition department has not been completed, Deming continued. Several thousand applicants now are being orally examined and investigated as to character.

"As the first test was comparatively simple," it is conceivable that any second examination might be more difficult," he said. "The commission, however, has not prepared a second test."

REPORT STATUE OF CHRIST DESTROYED BY DYNAMITE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Belated reports from Silao, state of Guanajuato, say that a statue of Christ on a hill near the town, a monument dear to Mexican Catholics, has been destroyed by dynamite.

Dispatches to Mexico City newspapers declare the monument was blown up "several days ago, presumably by elements opposed to Catholicism."

The statue, paid for by popular nationwide subscription of Mexican Catholics, was placed at what is supposed to be the geographical center of Mexico. In the latter part of the administration of President Obregon, immediate predecessor of President Calles, the statue was dedicated in the presence of a large crowd by Monsignor Filippi, papal nuncio to Mexico. Monsignor Filippi later was deported for violating Mexico's religious laws by conducting these religious ceremonies outside of a church building.

134-YEAR-OLD TREATY WAS QUOTED IN COURT OF APPEALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The 134-year-old Jay treaty between the United States and Great Britain, was quoted, in papers filed today in the United States circuit court of appeals, to support the contention of two Canadians that they should be allowed to cross the international boundary freely to and from their work in the United States.

The appeal is from a decision of Judge John B. Hazel, of Buffalo, against Mary Cook and Antonio Danelon, of Niagara Falls, Canada.

The appellants quote the Jay treaty as providing, in 1794, that "it shall at all times be free to his majesty's subjects, and to citizens of the United States, and also to Indians dwelling on either side of the boundary line, freely to pass and repass by land or inland navigation, into the respective territories and countries of the two parties."

Lindbergh Keeping Strictly to Schedule

Circled Port-Au-Prince So That He Might Arrive on the Exact Minute.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 6—(AP)—After circling lazily in a great white cloud bank at an elevation of 6,000 feet, killing time, so that he might arrive at Port-Au-Prince on the exact minute, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, flying from Santo Domingo, made a dramatic appearance over the flying field this afternoon. The Spirit of St. Louis had been sighted at 1:30 about 20 miles to the north, and then was lost to view. The flier made a long detour, and suddenly approached the city from the south at an elevation of 500 feet.

The plane then circled to the east, straightened out and came on the field like an arrow to a safe, easy landing, controlled with consummate, breathtaking skill. It rounded and came to a full-stop, exactly at 2 o'clock. This was the hour Lindbergh said he would be here.

In the aerial trip from Santo Domingo, where he took off at 11 o'clock in the morning, Lindbergh passed over and was reported from Santiago de Los Caballeros and Cape Haitien. He left the cape behind at 12:30. A crowd of 6,000 spectators in holiday mood and attire waited anxiously during the last half hour, when suddenly the Spirit of St. Louis, with its famed pilot, shot into view from an unexpected quarter.

The plane was guided to the hangar, where it is now under guard, and Lindbergh stepped out. He reached into the cockpit and drew forth a mail bag, tossing it on the ground as in the old days of his mail route flying. He carried government mail from Santo Domingo for Port-Au-Prince and Havana.

The reception committee, headed by Commissioner Russel, flanked by marine and gendermerie color guards advanced, and there were great cheers and hand-clapping as, thus escorted, Colonel Lindbergh proceeded to the reviewing stand. President Borno, in a short speech of welcome, described the flier "the world's greatest hero and smiling conqueror on a peaceful mission."

Mlle. Yvonne Mathon, niece of the president, presented the aviator with a bunch of roses, and President Borno pinned the Haitian Order of Merit on his coat and embraced him.

From the flying field automobiles carried the guest of honor, the president and the reception committee through beflagged streets, a distance of two miles, to the residence of Commissioner Russell.

TWO COAL AND IRON POLICEMEN WOUNDED

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 6.—(AP)—State policemen and deputy sheriffs will be stationed at the Crescent mine of the Pittsburgh Coal company tomorrow to guard against possible repetition of a shooting there today which resulted in the wounding of two coal and iron policemen. The men were not seriously hurt.

Coal and Iron police said that while they were trying to disperse several hundred men and women pickets who were attempting to persuade non-union miners not to enter the workings, some one fired a shotgun. F. P. Byrne was struck by 33 pellets and J. D. Buttermore was wounded in the arm. Both resumed their duties after receiving medical attention.

State police were summoned from California, Pa., to restore order. While the state officers were scattering the crowd, a policeman's mount stepped on a woman's foot, crushing it.

Lawrence Dwyer, United Mine worker official, who was among the pickets, said a non-union miner fired the shot. Pittsburgh Coal company spokesmen said it was not known who discharged the shotgun because police were unable to find him.

BELIEVE MAN WAS STRANGLED TO DEATH

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Only a fragmentary note, the contents of which tended to involve, rather than enlighten the circumstances surrounding the slaying of an unidentified man found in a field in Basking Ridge yesterday, was available to police today.

The message, found beneath the band in the victim's hat, and written in Italian said: "He is in the penitentiary in Rome."

County Physician George L. Mack said today that he believed death was caused by strangulation. When the man was found in a field on the old Bathgate farm by a Bernardsville schoolboy, a sashcord knotted tightly in a hangman's noose, was around the neck.

CONFESSED THAT HE WAS HIRED TO SET FIRE THAT CAUSED THREE DEATHS

WATERBURY, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Coroner John T. Monzani declared tonight that Maurice Shalnitz, who is now confined to New Haven hospital, where he is being treated for severe burns, has confessed to him that he and a companion were hired to start the fire in which three lives were lost here early Sunday morning. Acting on orders from the coroner, Louis N. Leopold, owner of the building, is being held in solitary confinement at police headquarters.

The coroner says that Shalnitz told him that he and the same companion fired a building on another occasion at the instigation of the same person.

Those who perished in the blaze were Joseph and John Moynihan, 9 and 7, respectively, and a man known as Jacob Silver, alias Harry Weiss, alias Wise, alias Horowitz.

A building in Platts Mills, near Naugatuck, said to have been owned by Leopold, was destroyed by fire in May, 1926, according to Shalnitz. A store in Abbot avenue, also owned by Leopold, was the scene of a $2,500 fire in 1926, and his home in Lincoln street, burned down two years ago.

Shalnitz told the coroner that he had stood outside of the building and did not help his companion set the fire. Police believe Shalnitz acted as a lookout and that he was standing in front of the building when the blast occurred. His burns are accounted for by the fact that the sheet of flame which shot out of windows at the time of the explosion seared his face and hands and sent him walking dazedly down East Liberty street. He is believed to have been too dazed to enter the car, registered in his companion's name, which stood a short distance down East Liberty street with the key in the lock.

SENATE VOTES EXTENSION OF THE RADIO COMMISSION

Passed Bill That Would Prolong the Tenure of the Commission For Another Year After March 15—The Measure as Passed Would Restrict Broadcasting Licenses to Six Months—The Bill Has Not Yet Been Passed by the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(AP)—Extention of the life of the radio commission for another year after March 15 was approved today by the senate as its interstate commerce committee ordered a favorable report on the contested nominations of three members of the commission.

Confirmation of the nominations of O. H. Caldwell, New York; Sam Pickard, Manhattan, Kansas, and Harold Lafount, Salt Lake City, was recommended by the committee but it's report was held up until the senate amended the radio bill to limit the terms of all commissioners to February 23, 1929.

The bill to extend the commission for another year was sponsored by Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, chairman of the interstate commerce committee. It was amended on motion of Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, to restrict broadcasting licenses to six months.

Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada obtained the amendment limiting the terms of the members of the commission to two years which would make all terms expire next February. After the commission goes out of existence the present law provides that it shall serve in advisory capacity with the terms of members ranging from two to six years.

While some protest had been lodged with the commission over actions of the commission, the three nominations finally received unanimous approval from the committee.

The Watson bill now goes to the house where a similar bill is pending.

With the under secretary of state, Robert E. Olds, he signed and sealed the two exchange copies of the new treaty supplanting one negotiated in 1908 by Secretary Elihu Root and Jules J. Jusserand, which expires Feb 27. The French ambassador remarked that it was with deep emotion that he affixed his seal on the 150th anniversary of the signing in Paris of the first treaty of alliance between America and France.

President Coolidge transmitted the new French treaty to the senate without delay. After it has been considered in executive session, its terms will be made public.

BORAH CALLS FOR FULL REPORT OF NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(AP)—The administration was called upon today by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee to make a full report on the use of marines in Nicaragua, but action on this resolution was blocked by Senator Shortridge, republican, California.

This move, which followed several speeches of protest made in the senate last week against the administration policy in Nicaragua, is the first of its kind to be initiated by leaders of the foreign relations committee since the Pan-American conference opened in Havana. A temporary truce on proposed investigations of Nicaragua had been in effect during the parley.

Senator Borah was followed on the floor by Senator King, democrat, Utah, who introduced a resolution calling upon the senate judiciary committee to determine if the president had authority to conduct "belligerent operations in foreign countries" when there had ben no declaration of war or other grant of power by congress.

The Idaho senator's resolution will come before the senate tomorrow under the rules while that of Senator King was referred to the judiciary committee.

Wickersham argued the Mal Dougherty contempt case in the government.

The hearing tomorrow is expected to consume a day or more and, whatever the decision of Justice Bailey, the case probably will be carried through the District of Columbia court of appeals to the United States supreme court.

GREEK WAR DEBT SETTLEMENT IS READY FOR RATIFICATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(AP)—The Greek war debt settlement was sent to congress by President Coolidge today for ratification required by law.

The agreement represents a compromise between the United States and Greece and is a result of many months conference between representatives of the treasury department and the Greek minister.

It grows out of the $15,236,620 credits allowed by the financial commission to the Greek government from the United States. Under this agreement the United States made an advance of $15,000,000 in two installments, one in 1919 and one in 1920. No further advances were made and last year when suggestions were made for a settlement, the Greek government claimed that it was entitled to advances up to the full amount of the credits.

As a result of succeeding conferences, the agreement calls for an additional advance of 12,167,074, which would bring the total principal of the Greek debt to $27,167,074 and follows almost the exact basis of settlement reached by the Greek government with Great Britain.

REP. BECK CONCLUES HIS DEFENSE ARGUMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(AP)—Concluding his defense in person, Representative James M. Beck, a republican, argued before a house elections committee today that if he were ejected from his seat on the ground of not being a legal resident of Pennsylvania, the action would pave the way for a general houseclearing in congress.

The former solicitor general of the United States contended that the democrats had no basis for charges that he was not a resident of Philadelphia at the time of his election last fall and that, if owning a house in Washington disqualified him to represent the Pennsylvania city, half of the senate and a large number of his colleagues in the house likewise would be line to lay aside their congressional togas.

Beck's summing up of his defense concluded oral argument in the case, the committee adjourning to meet at a later date in executive session to consider the matter.

COP GETS TIP SMITH GIRL IS HIKING THROUGH

After walking around the village Saturday to see if everything was going along all right while the people were sleeping at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning, Night Cop Elmer Baker was putting away his night stick and gun and taking a short rest in the easy chair before hitting the hay for dreamland a telephone call came. It was a man's voice from a mile outside the village. He said "Two girls were walking toward Boston and I think one is the missing Smith girl from Massachusetts. Come at once." So the cop put on the blue suit of the law and as an automobile was going by he stopped it and got a ride to the place. The man who called him up had been hunting for a horse and ran across the two girls. The cop asked them where they were going. "We are on a hike to Boston," they said. "You are not the Smith girl?" asked the fellow who did all the calling up. "No, we are enjoying this good spring weather in the winter time" Soon the girls were on their way to the Bean town. Then the cop had to walk back to his home, getting there at 7 o'clock, on another joke trip "I'm was thinking "is this calling up so much to find out if I am home or on my job?" losing three hours sleep! But again they found me doing my duty and always will in this village by the sea!"

CUNNING GRAY FOX SHOT—BROUGHT DOWN FROM TREE

Lloyd Brown, well known local trapper and hunter, returned recently from a successful hunt with an exceptionally large gray fox, captured under unusual circumstances. Mr. Brown was proceeding quietly through the woods on the new carpet of snow when his attention was attracted by the angry chattering of a grey squirrel. Looking around his eye rested on a mysterious bunch resembling a squirrel's nest in a nearby tree. Upon approaching a little closer, however, the bunch seemed to have grown a pair of ears. A shot from Mr. Brown's gun killed a fox, but the tree had to be climbed before the prize was secured. The fox was evidently an old fellow and the largest one ever taken by the hunter. Grey foxes are known to climb trees often when closely pressed by hounds, but the tree in which this one was found had no branches for about 8 feet up.

Fifth Ave. Sets New Hair Vogue

"On the El and in the Subway, everywhere I go nowadays, I see girls here in New York who are doing their hair the new way," says pretty Leona Newell, 6250 Anna Place, Glendale, L. I., now appearing on Broadway in the "Greenwich Village Follies." "I can tell girls who are using it, by the way their hair seems to sparkle. It looks so soft, too, and it's always neat. This way just suits me. I haven't much time to give my hair, and it takes just a second to put a few dashes of Danderine on your brush when you use it. It certainly makes your hair look grand. Mine needs shampooing only once a month, too, since I'm using Danderine."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair and restores its natural sheen and lustre. It keeps bobbed hair in place without showing. It stops dandruff. Drug stores everywhere sell millions of the 35c bottles. A fragrant toilet necessity for the well-groomed girl.

POETRY

Song

A bird in my bower
Did calling, a-calling;
A bird answered low from the garden where
His note came with power,
While falling, a-falling,
Her note quivered faint as the light of a star.
"I am life! I am life!"
From the bower a-ringing,
Thrilled forth a mad melody, soaring above.
"I am love! I am love!"
From the garden a-singing,
Came soft as a dream, and the echoes sang "Love".

They joined, and together
Fast flying, a-flying,
Were lost to my gaze in the arch of the sky.
The wind through the heather
Is sighing, a-sighing,
Ah, how could it ever do other than sigh?
Where are thou, where art thou,
Life, flying, a-flying?
Where are thou, O Love, sweetest child of the dawn?
The song in the meadow
Is dying, a-dying;
My heart groweth heavy and whispereth—"Gone."
—Francis Howard Williams.

The Heritage

No matter what my birth may be,
No matter where my lot is cast,
I am the heir of equity
Of all the precious Past.
The art, the science, and the lore
Of all the ages long since dust,
The wisdom of the world in store,
Are mine all mine in trust.

The beauty of the living earth,
The power of the golden sun,
The present, whatsoe'er my birth,
I share with everyone.
As much as any man am I
The owner of the working day;
Mine are the minutes as they fly
To save or throw away.

And mine the Future to bequeath
Unto the generations new;
I help to shape it with my breath,
Mine as I think or do.
Present and Past my heritage,
The Future laid in my control.—
No matter what my name or age,
I am a Master-soul.

DANIELSON, Feb. 6—Banking institutions of Danielson have under consideration the matter of closing afternoons at 3 o'clock instead of at 4 o'clock, as has been the rule here for many years. The matter has been more or less informally discussed at recent meetings of boards of trustees or directors of the different banks, but no action has been taken as yet.

The early closing is being urged by the state banking commission in order that each day's business may be completely written up before work ceases for the day. With the banks closing at 4 o'clock it has been exceedingly difficult to do this, the clerical forces many times working hours after the actual banking period of the day has ended. With three o'clock closing the records for each day can be completed on that day, and this is particularly important to the banks doing a commercial business. The three o'clock closing hour also has been very generally adopted in southern New England.

If the banks do decide to close an hour earlier, several weeks of notice will be given of the fact before the change is effective.

Rufus Howard, 75, a native of Foster, died at 2 o'clock this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Allie Moore, in Coventry, R. I. The early years of his life were spent in the neighboring town of Foster. His parents were George and Almeda Rounds Howard. During the course of his life he had lived in several nearby Rhode Island communities, and for years was engaged at his trade of carpentering. In addition to his daughter, at whose home he died, Mr. Howard leaves a grand-daughter, Mrs. Anthony Shippee, of East Killingly.

A huge truck load of old tires from motor cars held attention for some who were passing through the business section at mid-afternoon today, and they pondered probably over how much money those tires cost when new. Chief John McFarland inspected that load, which was destined for Providence and viewed it from a different angle. The towering load had bulged out the slatted sides of the truck so it looked like an overfed Ceylon belle, and the chief let the driver know that such loading is contrary to the motor vehicle laws of Connecticut. There was a promise that it would not happen again, and the exit of the truck for Rhode Island.

Rev. John E. Duxbury, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Putnam was the speaker at today's meeting of the clergy fellowship, representative of a number of communities in this section of eastern Connecticut, at the Congregational church in Dayville. There were 18 in attendance. A book review was given by Rev. William F. Williams of the Congregational church at Wauregan. Rev. F. S. Main, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Attawaugan, led the devotional period, which was followed by discussions. At the noon hour the clergymen attended a special lunch served for them at the Dayville hotel by Landlord Walter W. Murphy.

A very beautiful doll is to be the center of attraction at the Baptist church Friday afternoon of this week. This particular doll represents something more than an effort to produce just an image. It is significant of the spiritual relations existing between the churches here and churches in Japan. Last year Baptist churches of this country sent a large number of dolls as gifts to Japan. Now Japan is returning the pretty gesture. As the number of dolls received in this country from Japan is limited, the one to be shown here is not to remain here permanently, it is understood. However, it is represented as being very beautiful and its coming is arousing a great deal of interest.

There appears to be no great degree of favor toward the proposal that Danielson business men abandon Monday as a night for keeping stores here open, as has been done for a great many years, in favor of Wednesday night opening. There are some who favor of the change, believing that it would help Danielson against competition from other towns that keep their stores open Wednesday evenings. But it is pointed out that this is a two-edged sword, and that Danielson might lose business by having its stores closed Monday evenings. And there you are. It is a puzzling question to decide, and it now seems that it may be decided by making no change at all.

Incubators have been loaded with eggs by some poultrymen in Killingly and near by towns and early hatching is being aimed at in instances where the best record ever is being sought for 1928. Orders are also going out for shipments of day old chicks, which will begin to come through about March 1. Numbers of poultrymen have made such a careful study of this growing industry in this territory and are proceeding in such a scientific way that they are really making the chicken business pay.

Clearing of the buildings now occupying the northeast corner of Main and Academy streets will begin March 1, or immediately thereafter. These buildings are now the property of the Brooklyn Savings bank and must either be torn down or moved away. There is a business block and dwelling house on the property. Wrecking concerns have been bidding for the work of tearing them down, but it was said at the bank today that no deal for the removal of the buildings has been closed as yet. It is anticipated that two or three weeks will be required to clear the site of the new bank building of the structures now standing upon it.

The coming month brings that adjourned annual town meeting of Killingly. As soon as the board of relief has finished its work, the latter part of this month, the grand list will be in the final form in which it will be used as a basis for taxation for this year. Meanwhile members of the board of selectmen will have prepared a budget covering items of expenditure from August 1 last, the beginning of the present financial year, to July 31 next. Present forecasts are for lower town rate this year than it was necessary to collect in 1927, because of several unusual and heavy items that will not appear in this year's budget.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Perry of Riverview, who have been visiting in Rochester the past week, are with relatives in Pittsburgh, Pa., for a few days.

Again this morning the temperature was down to zero in Danielson, some reports being 2 to 4 below.

Nathan Blumenthal was able to be at business today after an illness that has kept him confined to his home for a week.

Directresses of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church for February are Mrs. Walter Anderson, Mrs. Clara Williams, Mrs. C. H. Barber, Mrs. Robert M. Tyrell, Mrs. E. Howard Hutchinson and Mrs. Eric Johnson.

Upwards of 500 pupils, a considerable percentage of them resident on the West Side, which is in the town of Brooklyn, are enrolled in St. James' parochial school, a report by Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., shows.

There is the prospect of amateur boxing exhibitions being resumed in Danielson in the near future, it was stated today. Frank Barber is to be the promoter, as in years gone by.

Flowers at the Westfield Congregational church on Sunday were in memory of Rev. C. H. Barber, for years pastor of the church.

Estelle Heneault, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Heneault, died at their home on Palmer street during last night. The child had been ill for some time with pneumonia.

Ice of good quality, but not particularly heavy, has been taken for storage from Bassett's pond in Brooklyn.

Monday of next week will be observed as Lincoln's birthday, the anniversary this year coming next Sunday. It is not listed as a holiday in the school calendar of Killingly.

Negotiations are far advanced for the sale of the Bragg woolen mill at Tarklin, R. I., to New York interests. The plant is named for Charles Bragg of the Central Worsted company at Central Village.

Motor car drivers in increasing numbers are filing applications for the renewal of their motor vehicle licenses to place those now in force and that expire with the close of the present month.

Entries are to close Friday of this week for the Windham County Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament and are being made with County Secretary Edwin Hill, whose office is now in the Dowe building here.

There appears to be a new epidemic of one-eyed cars in this territory at night and not a few machines are being used with no tail-light showing.

Members of Danielson's Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs made up a theatre party that motored over to Providence this evening to see My Maryland.

Next Monday evening at the Westfield Congregational church members of the Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs are to have a regular meeting. There is to be a Valentine party during the social hour.

A son was born to them on April 29, 1921 and after the child's birth, Sears had beat her and failed to contribute to their support. Two witnesses testified for her and agreed that her story was true. Judge Yeomans granted Mrs. Sears a decree of divorce on grounds of cruelty, non support and desertion. She was also granted custody of her child.

Howard Cole an employe of the local telephone exchange was granted a decree of divorce from his wife Aldine Cole of Putnam. Cole stated that since the time of his marriage on December 23, 1912, that his wife had left him many times and refused to return to his home. Dr. Frederick T. Baldwin and Andrew V. Frost of Putnam testified in behalf of the plaintiff. Mr. Cole was represented by Attorney I. H. Miron.

Leber charged that his wife had gone to Cuba to live, and that he tried to live there, but could not remain in the south on account of his health. He said that he returned to the north to reside and his wife had refused to come with him. When questioned by his attorney, Mr. Back, he said that several times he had asked his wife to return to the north to take up her residence with him but she had answered his letters in the negative form each time. Judge Yeomans granted the divorce on grounds of desertion.

On the short calendar session, the case of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co., trustee, vs. The Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing Co., Charles H. Newell et al, receiver, was brought up. It was claimed that judgment supplemented to and amending a decree of foreclosure by sale rendered October 7, 1927. Supplemental judgment on January 17, 1928, was given the receivers of the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company for the sale of land. Action was to correct some technical omission and was granted.

The court was adjourned by order of Judge Edward M. Yeomans until March 2, at 2 p. m.

Two knights of the highways were arrested by Officer Benoi Durand of the Putnam police Sunday afternoon. Monday morning they were brought up in the city court. They pleaded guilty to a charge of canvassing the city and begging for food. They gave their names as Arthur Nadeau and James Spellman of Worcester, Mass., Judge Geissler was lenient with them and he told them that Putnam does not harbor hoboes, they were ordered by the judge to leave town at once. Their cases were put on file, in case they should be arrested again.

A general alarm from box 42, on Bridge street brought the three fire companies to the home of Louis Kurtzman, last evening at about 7.30 p. m. The fire was in a bedroom on the upper floor, a mattress having caught fire. The firemen quickly overcame the blaze with the aid of chemicals. There was little damage done to the dwelling. The person who rang in the call from the box threw the members of the fire department off their course and gave them serious delay, when he pulled the hook in the box many times, causing the box to ring a series of uninterrupted strokes. When the tape was read at the fire station it sent the central fire companies to a box on Grove street. Chief Thurston of the fire department has asked people to ring the box only once, so as to avoid any such delays in the future.

Loving was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bert J. Johnson of Woodstock Sunday, upon a complaint from his wife. The defendant resisted the officer and when he was brought to the Putnam police station, a local blacksmith had to be called to free the man from the handcuffs that he had so bent during the struggle that they could not be unlocked.

Loving pleaded guilty to four counts, namely: assault, breach of peace, intoxication and resisting an officer. He was taken to the county jail in Brooklyn by Sheriff Johnson after the sentence had been imposed.

JEWETT CITY

BOY WHO ATTACKED GIRL, HELD FOR JUEVNILE COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 6—Judge John T. Barry heard the charges Saturday morning against a 13-year-old Glasgo lad who made with some considerable violence, an alleged indecent proposal to a 16-year old girl, an employe in the Glasgo Finishing company's plant.

A state humane officer has been here to question the boy and investigate the case further, which Judge Barry has turned over to the juvenile court, where it will be heard next Saturday. The girl outside the court tells of going to her home across the lots, and through a lonely place. The boy is described by the officers as being a husky lad for his 13 years. When accosted, the girl showed by her procedure what sort of stuff she was made of, and let her assailant have a couple of smart cracks over the head with a metal lunch box which she carried. He gave up his purpose and fled. It was stated here today that the boy had evidently been watching his chance as almost every night the journey home from her day's work in the bleachery was made in company with her father. It seems likely that at the future hearing, it will be deemed for the general benefit of the boy to send him to the state institution in Meriden.

The assault took place on the evening of Jan. 31, Deputy Sheriff J. T. Dolan was notified and held the boy for investigation.

If Thatcher, Primrose and West, or maybe the shades of Billy Clark or Lew Dockstader, could only know what is soon to be put on here in the minstrel line, they would be sure to make an effort to attend. No expense has been spared, it was said Monday, to secure the services of the world's two premier end men, Hiscox and Marshall. It is doubtful if the Finn theater can seat the audience, because both these celebrities have appeared on the local boards before. Hiscox starred as "Fatima" in the big Fourth of July Parade. Marshall is in a class by himself, and stands at the head of said class.

John T. Stewart was down town Monday, and was heartily greeted by his many friends. Mr. Stewart has had a painful illness of a month, and as he neared recovery, his wife became seriously ill. She, too, was reported Monday as somewhat improved.

The following report is among interesting near-by nature happenings. Many partly tame squirrels and thousands of starlings are all about the borough. A woman who was feeding some squirrels gave them peanuts and sunflower seeds daily. Three or four days discovered this, and the number increased to about 30. The squirrels took the peanuts and sunflower seeds and hid them under the leaves or in little holes they dug in the ground. The jays watched the operation and marked each spot and as soon as a squirrel had hidden the food and returned for more the jays exhumed the buried objects and made off with them. While watching one day the observer saw the jays find and carry off 15 nuts.

TWO MORE LEADING PAPERS FAVOR MEMORIAL BOULEVARD

The Roanoke, Va. World-News and the Boston Transcript are among the latest papers which have warmly endorsed the suggestion of a former Norwich student, Dr. James H. Penniman, of Philadelphia, for a memorial highway of the thirteen original states. Dr. Penniman made the suggestion some time since in anticipation of the projected commemoration, in 1932, of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington. Influential newspapers all over the country are supporting his plan. He proposes that the federal government construct great boulevard from the Arlington bridge over the Potomac at Washington to Mt. Vernon, thirteen miles and that each of the thirteen original states undertake the embellishment and historic decoration of one mile.

The Roanoke paper is enthusiastic over the plan, the editor writing: "By the proper use of shrubbery this can be made the most beautiful and unique driveway in America—an object of interest to every visitor as well as to every native son. Such a project cannot be carried through in a day. The suggestion of the Philadelphia Record that the president's commission call a conference of representatives of the original states this winter to discuss ways and means is timely and to the point.

"In what other way could the nation so well honor the memory of Washington as by a great memorial boulevard of attractive proportions, stretching from the city he founded as the nation's capital to Washington's home on the Potomac, where increasing thousands come every year, to stand in silent homage before his grave?"

"In a brilliant editorial, the Boston Transcript leads up the subject 'Thirteen miles: Thirteen States.' The Transcript says: 'Dr. James Hoerner Penniman, of Philadelphia, knows no old-time graduates of Yale as one of the greatest of baseball fans, in his more mature years as a student of Washington, in sponsor for the idea that the thirteen original states should co-operate to build and beautify a thirteen-mile highway to run from Washington to Mt. Vernon. The federal government must move very quickly to put through many projects whose completion would help signalize the respect in which the name of Washington is held. This proposal by Dr. Penniman is one the expenses for which to each participating state would be negligible. The automobile has brought not only Mount Vernon but Gettysburg, Antietam, Harper's Ferry, Valley Forge and scores of other historic spots within the itinerary of most tourists visiting the capital city. They should be enabled to reach Mount Vernon by the most picturesque and practicable route."

Gave Valentine Party.

THE QUESTION OF INTERVENTION

It was inevitable that there should be much discussion at Havana over the question of intervention. At least it would have been most surprising if the matter had been presented in such a form that an immediate agreement could have been reached.

There have been and there probably will continue to be a marked difference of opinion among the delegates at the Pan-American conference on this question. It always has been so and it is a question whether the situation that might be regarded as a reasonable intervention can be so defined that it will meet the approval of the representatives of all the republics.

It is such a goal which the conference committee is endeavoring to attain. Through Mr. Hughes the attitude of this country was pointedly set forth. It upheld the report of Dr. Maurtua of Peru and directed the attention of the delegates to the fact that international law governs all states, else it would not be international law, and it is to be expected that all states will respect it.

There is no country which maintains that intervention is justified under any and all circumstances. Nevertheless it is insisted that there are times when it is right when nations disregard international law, but the problem before the committee on the codification of international law is to so define reasonable intervention as to get the needed approval. Whether the conference can come to an understanding on that point is a vital matter before the gathering, inasmuch as there are those who insist that intervention is justified under no circumstances. This means the ignoring of the international law and the problem is to get the delegates to regard the matter from rather than a narrow viewpoint.

The idea of constant interference by any nation in the affairs of others, when those others are living up to their obligations to the other nations, is not to be thought of. There are times when conditions get so that international law is being ignored that intervention is necessary and desirable, but whether a definition of that state of affairs can be made that will satisfy all is a question.

WISE, BUT DELAYED, ACTION

It is nearly a year since three of the members of the federal farm loan board were appointed for the purpose of correcting conditions which were disclosed in connection with the operation of that bureau. There was bad management in the farm loan banks, big loans had been made, many bonds were outstanding and there had been the greatest carelessness in overestimating the value of land offered as security.

With these conditions disclosed as the result of investigations following troubles in certain banks, it was found that the board was unresponsive. It was not filling its collar and not disposed to act. It called for a change and that was promptly brought about by the president by three new appointments to the board two of whom were democrats and one a republican. Eugene Myers Jr. was put at the head of the board and the two other appointments were G. R. Cooksey of the District of Columbia and F. R. Harrison of Virginia, both democrats, and all former members of the war finance board.

Although that change was made last May and they have since been holding office under a recess appointment, it was not until last week that the senate confirmed the nominations. This was because there was opposition to it by the farm labor group although on the vote they could only muster 13, to the 60 that were favorable. It was a case where recognition was given to the wisdom of the action taken by the president, the excellence of the selections made and the good results which the board has accomplished since getting busy.

The action taken was merited, but there was no justification for the long delay. Short sighted opposition is permitted in too many instances to block action which is needed and it is unfortunate that so much of the opposition in the senate is displayed chiefly for the purpose of embarrassing the administration. There have been other equally meritorious matters which received just the opposite treatment.

RUSSIA'S PLAN OPPOSED

As soon as it is known that restrictions are established for any purpose those who are adversely affected thereby immediately begin to study to see how they can get around those restrictions and do as they please.

That is the position that was taken by soviet Russia in undertaking to dispose of $30,000,000 worth of railroad bonds in this country. Russia well knew that this government would not sanction the public sale of such bonds in this country. It knew it because it also knew that the soviet government had repudiated the debts of the former Russian government and because of that there would be no disposition here to send more good money after the bad debts. There has been no objection on the part of this government to anyone doing business with Russia who wants to, they of course assuming the full risk, but when it comes to raising money in this country it is a different matter.

When it comes to paying debts those in this country holding Russia securities look to the government at Washington to aid in getting their money. One of the ways in which Washington has of bringing pressure to bear is to withhold favors to Russia until it pays its bills. Russia knows this but by its scheme it hoped to circumvent it. It figured it had hit upon a plan that would work to its advantage by getting the aid of the American banks to pay interest for it on such securities as it could sell by mail, or otherwise, without making public offerings. The bonds it offers are on the very railroads for which bonds were previously issued and which bonds have been repudiated.

Thus when the government notifies the American banks that it does not approve the plan it is no more than might have been expected. It is a time for Americans and American institutions to back up their government in its endeavor to square existing accounts before new ones are opened. The world has seen the effect upon Great Britain and France in their endeavors to give encouragement to Russia, and the time has certainly not come when it is wise to undertake to go contrary to the politics of this government.

NO CAUSE FOR SURPRISE

There were bound to be those who would be opposed to the expression by Secretary Kellogg that this country is willing to abandon the submarines if other countries agree to it. There were those who opposed the Washington agreement and who are opposed to anything that stands in the way of the greatest kind of naval construction. But Secretary Kellogg unquestionably reflects widespread American sentiment in his statement.

When France expresses surprise that the statement should be made at this time, just as the new arbitration treaty between the nations was being signed, it overlooks the manner in which the matter originated. Secretary Kellogg didn't blurt out the department's attitude just for the purpose of making France uncomfortable. He had been asked by a congressional committee to report the department's attitude. That he did and for no other reason, and there is no ground for France or anyone else feeling sensitive about it.

This country protected itself before there were submarines and it can do as much if the time ever comes when there are none. It has no thought of eliminating the underwater boats until all the rest agree to such a policy, but it has stood for such action before and it stands for it now. France was one of the countries which strongly opposed the abolition of the subs when such a question was raised during the Washington conference. Italy and Japan took a similar view and there is no indication that they are ready to depart from that view. As long as they cling to it there will be submarines, with the United States building and maintaining what it considers necessary for its protection. But that doesn't stand in the way of its being willing to throw them overboard when the others sanction it.

PRESERVING FRANCONIA NOTCH

There are a great many causes which are certain to get attention before that which involves the acquisition of that great natural beauty spot at Franconia Notch that the "old man of the mountain" and the wooded hillsides at that point may be preserved. But the appeal which was begun some time ago and is still being kept alive cannot fail to elicit extensive sympathy and generous response.

Those who have visited that particular locality cannot fail to appreciate the desirability of keeping the sawmill operators out of that region. That is the danger that is confronted and unless sufficient funds are provided for the purchase of the necessary acreage the man with the ax will get the timber and when that goes there will be eliminated one of the charms of that locality. There would still be the rugged hills but there would be a bareness that would have little appeal. There would be an erosion that would soon greatly change the character while the shaded roadway and stream would undergo a transformation that would leave a pathetic semblance of what now is to be found.

Between now and the first of March it is hoped to obtain the additional necessary $60,000 to purchase the property. Responses have come from all over the country for those who have seen the notches of the White mountains know that they would deplore any action that would result in any marked change therein. That great body of nature lovers is being looked to to provide the means of preserving that region for a public park.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Connecticut is the pioneer in aircraft in eastern states, and noted throughout the country for the great work it has done to promote commercial aviation and set the pace for promoting that work by legislative action aiding aircraft facilities.

All the same it seems almost incredible in the light of the past when anywhere in New England "flying machine talk" was regarded as a sort of inheritance from witchcraft, that a National Association of Public Utilities should now regard those much derided flying machines as a public utility, under the new name of aircraft.

Universal regulations, inspections, permits, qualification of pilots, and matter pertaining to interstate aircraft transportation are now being urged as means of public safety.

Pennsylvania set the pace by making its own interstate regulation, and now the National Association of Public Utilities is urging similar methods and restrictions become nationwide. The restrictions include making landing fields reach safety and convenience of railroad stations, that they be policed, and that in planes, standardization of equipment and of qualification of pilots, under rating as required by government pilots, be required in all interstate flying.

In connection with aircraft and commercial aviation, the question of aircraft as a national protection against war has been in the foreground this week. Mrs. Rogers, member of congress from the 5th Massachusetts district, and an active worker in Red Cross during and since the war, made a strong plea for defense at the meeting here a few days ago of those women who believe defense is required to prevent war. In fact, Mrs. Rogers chose the alluring title of "Arm for Peace" as her topic. She urged adequate defense, adequate air craft, and a thorough patriotism, which she stated, from her own war experiences would lead to peace not war. Mrs. Rogers said both over seas and as a Red Cross worker in this country, she fully believed that the army and navy did not cause war but prevented war.

The war department has authorized training camps to accommodate 72,000 students this summer. There are 108,000 students enrolled in schools and colleges, who have completed their junior year, and are eligible for training camps and the allotment of 72,000 will be selected from these.

The machinery for the recount of the Vare-Wilson contested ballots will be begun at once by the senate subcommittee named for that purpose, and will be in charge of Leon D. Ripley, of Colebrook, New Hampshire, who has been appointed supervisor by that committee. Each of the contestants will also be represented by supervisors. Mr. Ripley represents the committee and will have about 80 clerks under his direct supervision, and will be assisted by Algernon R. Clapp of Philadelphia, who was named as supervisor in both the Reed investigation committees.

More than $3,000,000 will be spent by the United States in constructing memorials for war veterans abroad. The American Battlefield commission has obtained authority to go on with a program calling for the construction of eight chapels in American cemeteries; three large and eight small battlefield memorials, several naval memorials and two brass tablets. The largest battlefield monuments will be erected at Montfaucon, Montsec and near Chateau Thierry. Others will be scattered through France. The chapels will bear tablets and graves of unknown soldiers will bear the inscription: "Here Lies in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known Only to God."

A touching incident is told of a gold star mother of "an unknown grave" son, that on her visit to France she knelt at each grave, so not to fail to visit the grave of her son. In the chapels the names of all "unknown dead will be inscribed.

During the heavy storm of a foot and more of snow, which fell in this semi-southern city last week, many trucks and automobiles were stalled or overturned, in the drifts that followed the storm. One such accident proved a blessing to the Gospel mission, and the hundreds of men who had sought shelter there. A large truck loaded with bread and doughnuts, turned turtle in front of the mission. The bakery from which the truck had been sent out as a distributor, promptly turned over to the mission the entire spilled load, and the mission, then added hot coffee, and served it to the cold and hungry men who could not get work, nor had they food.

The old question of "What becomes of all the pins" has been side-tracked by the new question submitted to the treasury department as to what becomes of all the pennies.

In answer to the question the department estimates that 4,721,287,900 pennies are now in active circulation.

And penny in the slot machines, two cent postage stamps and daily newspapers are apparently accountable for the great circulation of the coins.

A penny in the slot corporation having machines all over the country states that in 1927 more than three and one half billion pennies passed through their slot variety machines. The post office department reports an immense number of two cent stamps are sold where pennies are offered in payment; while newspapers, both at newsstands and sold on the street, are penny catchers for millions of the coins.

Not satisfied with rapid transit by airplane, it is now proposed by some western scientists to transport persons by means of vacuum tubes, along the line of those used in mail transportation.

Former Gov. Osborne of Michigan is quoted as sponsoring such methods as a solution of rapid long distance travel, and estimates that by tubes a person could be "shot" from New York to San Francisco in 15 minutes.

Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut and Mrs. Tilson were the guests of honor at the dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, of Greenwich, Conn., gave at the Mayflower hotel. Covers were laid for eight.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Many good wishes will go out today to Francis Wilson, a favorite with two generations of American playgoers, upon the beginning of his 75th year. Though his active stage career virtually ended several years ago, the public has not forgotten the actor who so long stood out as the foremost of the light opera comedians of the American stage and later proved equally successful in legitimate comedy. Mr. Wilson was born in Philadelphia, of Quaker parents, who intended him for a commercial career. Instead of that, however, he became a negro minstrel and it was not until 1877 that he quit the minstrel stage and became a stock actor in Philadelphia. Later he was seen in a round of comic opera successes, and it was during th's period that "Erminie" was produced and he made a hit of such huge proportions that he was raised to stellar rank. In late years Mr. Wilson has achieved further success by his literary work.

THE "I'S" HAVE IT.

Margaret Elbert clenched her hands and set her lips. She tried to concentrate on what Mable Norvin and Mrs. Barstow were saying, but John's voice from across the room flooded her ears. He was at it again. Brag! Brag! Brag! How could he do it! And how could she stand it!

——"I told Rowland — you know Pete Rowland? He's general manager of the Abel Type company —biggest type people in the country—guess Rowland drags down $50,000 a year—big man, Rowland —but I told him— 'See here, Rowland, I got a little proposition to make you,'" etc., etc.

Margaret steeled her nerves and managed to lose a few sentences while she replied with pretended animation to Mrs. Norvin. Then his voice came through again—— ——"And Rowland said to me, 'It's great stuff, Elbert. You're just the men I've been looking for. Name your price—'" Margaret pressed her handkerchief to her lips and tried to lift the tense expression that she knew was on her face.

——"Yep, cleaned up a nice little bunch of coin on that proposition—almost as good a job as I did on the Union Iron people. Did I ever tell you about that? Well, put over a good one there—"

Margaret felt the sick feeling surge over her that came sooner or later when she listened to John's bragging to other men of his business successes and the money he made. She wouldn't care, she told herself, if he were really as wonderfully successful as he implied. Oh, of course, John was doing very well, but to hear him tell it, every deal he put through was a colossal affair, a matter of millions or at least thousands instead of meager hundreds.

If she could only tell him frankly how she felt about his bragging! But Margaret could not. She could not hurt his feelings. He was so dear and sweet and good in every other way, so devoted to her, so generous.

From near by she caught fragments of conversations between other men. Matt Norvin was talking about golf. On the other side George Barstow was telling about a bridge game. Why, oh why, couldn't John talk about something like that!

Margaret glanced furtively at the men he was talking to. How could they show even the faintest semblance of interest in what he was saying? How could they keep from exclaiming, "Shut up, for heaven's sake, you big windbag, and quit bragging about yourself!"

She set her lips and wished they would say something like that to him. Perhaps it would cure him. Again, Mrs. Norvin was speaking.

"We must bring it up at the next meeting—how loud there men are talking! I can't keep my mind on our conversation—what was I saying?"

Margaret flushed. Of course, Mrs. Norvin was speaking of John. John was putting over another big deal, this time with the Webb Paper people— biggest paper concern in the world, clever stunt he pulled—big money—Mrs. Norvin put up a pale hand and smoothed her hair nervously. She looked over at the men and bit her lips. Then she turned back to Margaret and Mrs. Barstow.

"Do you mind if we go into the sunroom awhile? That man—oh, I just can't stand this any longer! Mrs. Barstow rose at once and Margaret followed, her face pale, her lips trembling with embarrassment. How could Mrs. Norvin be so tactless—so—so unkind. Hot bitter tears stung her eyes.

Mrs. Norvin walked the length of the room and then to Margaret's amazement, she sank into a chair and burst into tears.

"I—I just can't stand it any longer," she sobbed. "I—I'm so ashamed. I—I don't know what to do."

"What on earth is the matter?" exclaimed Mrs. Barstow.

"Oh—you know—you must know. You must have noticed—Matt——"

"Matt? What has Matt done?"

"Oh—surely you all must have noticed the way he—he brags," cried little Mrs. Norvin. "He's always bragging about his golf and every one knows he plays such a wretched game. Oh, why does he do it? It makes me feel so—so ashamed. And I just can't bear to tell him about it. I hate to hurt his feelings. He's so—so sweet every other way—but he just will brag about his golf!"

Mrs. Barstow flung her head back and laughed.

"My dear child, nobody notices it but yourself, and you'll get over that. Wait until you're married as long as I've been. All men brag about something. George's pet brag is bridge and he's just about the worst player in town. Why, I used to be mortified to death when I'd hear him talk about his no-trump big slams—I'm sure he never made a slam in his life—but now it doesn't bother me at all. I just smile sweetly as if I thought he was the cleverest bridge player in the party." Mrs. Norvin gasped a little and dried her tears. Margaret laughed hysterically.

"Aren't men funny!" she said. — Exchange.

Former Norwich Leaders

George Lippitt

(From Norwich Bulletin, April 20, 1896)

Word was received in Norwich Saturday afternoon of the death in Washington, D. C., of Mr. George Lippitt, formerly of this city.

Mr. Lippitt was a native of Killingly, where he was born Nov. 11, 1829. When he was quite young his parents moved to Thompson, and afterwards to Webster, Mass. During the gold excitement of 1849 Mr. Lippitt went to California, where he remained several years, returning to Webster, when after a short residence he moved to this city.

For some time he was a clerk for Smith & Cottrell, wholesale grocers, and afterwards entered the employ of Cady & Hammond. The firm finally became Hammond & Co., being composed of H. K. Hammond, C. L. Harwood and George Lippitt. About 1870 Mr. Lippitt and Calvin L. Harwood bought out the business under the name of Lippitt & Harwood. In 1882 Mr. Harwood retired and B. T. Lippitt was taken into the firm, the firm name becoming George Lippitt & Co., which was continued until about a year ago.

In October, 1895, Mr. Lippitt and his family removed to Washington, D. C., where he has since been engaged in a manufacturing business.

About three months ago a severe attack of grip prostrated him, and from it he never recovered.

He leaves a wife, a son, George F. Lippitt, and a daughter, Mrs. W. C. Lewis, all of whom reside in Washington. A brother, Edward, who resides in California, and a sister, Mrs. Susan Hill, of this city, also survive him. Costello Lippitt of this city is a nephew of the deceased.

Mr. Lippitt was a member of Broadway Congregational church and of the Arcanum club.

Mr. Lippitt was one of Norwich's oldest and best known business men and was a man of strict integrity in all his business relations. His character was above reproach, and he was regarded as a valued citizen. The body will be brought here for burial.

YOUR HEALTH

Goiter and Nervousness

By Charles E. Kiely, M. D., Cincinnati, Member Gorgas Memorial.

Goiter is a disease, usually an overactivity of the thyroid gland in the front of the neck. This gland is beyond doubt concerned with the physical expression of the emotion of fear. Protruding eyeballs, trembling limbs, and rapid heart, three of the cardinal symptoms of this disease, are the typical symptoms of extreme fright, so that it seems safe to state that this emotion produces its characteristic physical signs by producing overaction of the thyroid, particularly since it is common experience that persons with diminished thyroids are dull and lack emotion. For these reasons it is natural that a person living in terror might so plainly show protruding eyes, trembling limbs and rapid heart as to be mistaken for one with overaction of the thyroid.

Fortunately there is a very accurate and easy chemical test which will separate the true case of thyroid disease from that which shows some of its symptoms as a result of continuous anxiety over personal difficulties. This test is called the Basal Metabolic Rate. It depends on the fact that one of the duties of the thyroid gland is to regulate the amount of oxygen consumed by the body. The test measures by a special tank how much this consumption is and should it exceed by a certain amount the average for the patient's height, age, weight and sex, we can be sure there is organic disease of the thyroid gland, but if it falls within average limits we know that his symptoms are due to an anxiety neurosis, that is, he is merely showing the physical signs of his constant fear and must look for his cure not to surgery or medicine but to the removal from his life of the situation which keeps him constantly in fear.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

THE TWELVE LONGEST RIVERS.

"Of the world's dozen longest rivers, six are in Asia and three in Africa," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "The New World is represented only by the Amazon in South America and the Mississippi and the Mackenzie in North America, though if the Missouri be considered apart from the Mississippi it would take rank in its own right.

"The longest single river is the Nile, measuring some 4,000 miles from head to mouth. The Nile is further distinguished in that it has no tributaries for the last 1,500 miles of its course to the sea. During this stretch its waters are considerably reduced in volume by evaporation and irrigation, so that it grows smaller instead of larger toward its mouth.

"Other African rivers among the length scoring twelve are the Niger and the Congo, both fed by the tropical rains of hot regions near the Equator. In a general way they more nearly resemble South America's representative, the Amazon, than the great streams of the colder northern continents.

"Of Asia's six longest rivers, four are in Siberia, the Ob, Yenisei, and Lena flowing north into the Arctic ocean and the Amur emptying into an arm of the Pacific. The other two are the Yangtze and Hwang, or Yellow, River of China.

"These twelve river basins represent the greatest variety of climate and civilization. The Amazon and the Congo flow through lush equatorial jungles inhabited by birds of brilliant plumage, wild animals and savage tribes, while the mouths of the Yenisei and the Lena are above the northern timber line and their valleys support the sparsest population. The Mississippi and the Yangtze flow through established, if divergent, civilizations, with rich cities along their banks like jewels on a string. The Nile is one of the cradles of world history; the Mackenzie is still a frontier stream.

"From the point of view of a world map five of the dozen rivers flow uphill,' that is, flow to the north. These the Nile, Mackenzie, Ob, Yenisei and Lena. The Mississippi and Niger flow south. The Amur, Yangtze, Hwang and Amazon run eastward. Only the Congo points toward the west.

"All these streams overflow their banks at intervals but the results are strangely different. In the case of the Mississippi and the Yangtze, floods are national disasters bringing untold suffering to millions. The annual overflow of the Nile with resulting fertilization of the valley by the deposit of silt is the source of the welth of Egypt.

The Hwang, or Yellow river, from its habit of overflowing its banks and changing its entire course at intervals is known as the 'scourge of China.'

"The Amazon and the Congo lie almost under the Equator, and the other ten longest rivers are in the Northern Hemisphere. Four flow into the Arctic ocean. A reason is not far to seek. The greatest land masses are in the northern half of the world, and without large land areas long rivers are impossible. The smaller continents of Australia and Europe are not represented in the dozen. Similarly, the reason for the longest rivers flowing to the north and east is that the longest continental slopes extend in those directions.

"The Yangtze and the Mississippi are lined with wealthy cities largely because of their location in the Temperate zone. The Tropic Amazon, Niger and Congo are too hot; the Mackenzie and the Siberian rivers are too cold for the favorable growth of towns. The Nile valley beyond Cairo is a mere strip of green from fifteen to thirty miles wide between two burning deserts. The Hwang is too variable in its habits to encourage navigation or river ports.

"From the earliest times these long rivers have furnished high roads for the exploration of continental interiors. Nero sent an expedition to discover the headwaters of the Nile which failed to reach its objective. Russian penetration of Siberia followed the great river beds. The Amazon and the Congo are still highways of discovery. Head reaches of the Yangtse are veiled in Asiatic obscurity. The Niger was the river of romance in the great days of Timbuktu. The histories of the world's river basins have been the history of the world's empires. A great river is both a roadway and a source of life. The world's twelve longest rivers tap the roots of its history as well as the roots of its resources."

Reddy Fox Makes Preparations.

You'll find through life be best will fare
Who for his purpose doth prepare.
—Reddy Fox.

When Sammy Jay flew away and left Reddy Fox Reddy chuckled. He had found out from Sammy just what he wanted to know and Sammy hadn't the east idea that he had given Reddy any information. "So," said Reddy, "Jerry Muskrat gets up early in the morning Well, he isn't the only one who can get up early in the morning. As a matter of fact, I won't have to get up, for I won't go to bed. Now I think I'll run over and have a look at that spring-hole. Sammy Jay has gone over to the Old Orchard, so he won't see me over there. I can hear Blacky the Crow cawing over in the Green Forest, so he won't see me there. At this time of day Jerry is probably taking a nap in that comfortable house of his."

Reddy got to his feet, yawned, stretched, yawned again, and then trotted over toward the swamp where the Laughing Brook comes out from the Green Forest to join the Smiling Pool.

Reddy was very careful as he approached the open spring-hole to make sure that nobody was around to see him. When he was quite certain that no one was there he went over to a certain little clump of alders and there he very carefully looked things over.

"The thing for me to do," thought Reddy, "is to dig out a place here where I can lie and not be so easily seen. If I dig out a place here in the snow and then keep away from it for a few days Jerry won't think anything about it, even if he does see it. The thing to do is to prepared. I certainly do believe in being prepared."

So Reddy went to work and scooped out the snow back of the alder clump until, when he lay down in it, he was quite hidden from any one sitting on the other side of this little alder clump. He dug it in such a way that it looked very much as if he might have been digging for a mouse. Reddy is very artful, you know. When it was done to satisfy him he grinned and then trotted away.

"Jerry Muskrat will probably see that the first thing to-morrow morning,"

He could almost taste Jerry Muskrat, so sure was he that he would catch him.

said Reddy to himself. "But he'll think I've been digging for a mouse. The next morning he will be sure to look at it. He won't see any fresh sings. Then he'll forget all about it. Jerry has fooled me a number of times, but this time I guess I will fool him."

Reddy trotted off to the Old Pasture with a very satisfied air. He felt that he had fully prepared to give Jerry Muskrat the surprise he had planned for him. He could almost taste Jerry Muskrat, so sure was he that he would catch him.

Meanwhile Jerry Muskrat was exceedingly comfortable in his house in the Smiling Pool. He had a nice bed of dry grass, the walls of his house were frozen so they could not be torn open and he could sleep in comfort and peace. He hadn't a worry. That morning for breakfast he had had a big root. There were plenty more where that one came from that could be had to rthe digging. So Jerry was at peace with all the world. Of course, he didn't dream of the plans that Reddy Fox was making.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or constipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell parents they may use it freely with children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One word of warning: get the pure real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind the doctor's specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother. So remember; tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria.

COUNCIL PASSES UP G. E. PITCHER'S PETITION FOR FINANCIAL PROBE

A petition from George E. Pitcher, asking an investigation of the city's finances, went unacted upon when it was read at the February meeting of the court of common council Monday evening and was ordered placed on file by Mayor Milo R. Waters. The petition asked the council to apply, through the corporation counsel, to the superior court for the naming of a committee of three taxpayers of the city to act with the amusement committee of the council to investigate the city's finances and to report to the taxpayers "all that we are receiving for the money that is being spent."

Local Boy Scouts who on Monday, took over the handling of the city and town affairs for one day, were present at the meeting. The Boy Scout council "conducted" the council meeting. That is they occupied seats beside Mayor Milo R. Waters, City Clerk W. C. Pullen, Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., and the aldermen and councilmen. The Boy Scout appointees who participated in the council meeting were as follows:

Mayor—Cecil Wetherbee.

The minutes of the last meeting were accepted without reading according to custom. Petitions were received and acted on as follows:

From John Bowker, et al., asking for an electric light on pole 1243 on Roosevelt avenue. Referred to the police committee with power.

A petition from George E. Pitcher, asking an investigation of the city's finances, was read as follows by the city clerk:

As I, the undersigned, find by the records of the council for the last five years and a half that the taxpayers' money is being wasted, I herebr petition your honorable body to instruct the corporation counsel to apply to the superior court to appoint a committee of three taxpayers of Norwich to act with the amusement committee of your council to investigate the finances of said city and report to the taxpayers all that we are receiving for the money that is being spent.

Mayor Waters asked what action the council wished to take on the petition. No recommendation or suggestion was made by the council members who remained silent. Mayor Waters stated that if the council did not wish to act on the petition he would order it placed on file and it was so ordered.

The monthly reports of the city treasurer and street commissioner were received and accepted as was the quarterly account of the cashier of the water department.

Gildersleeve gave Undertaker Gager permission to take charge of the body. State Policeman Whitmash, Webber and Busch made an investigation of the accident.

SHOP MEETING TALK ON BATTLE OF LIFE

The weekly shop meeting under Y. M. C. A. auspices was held Monday noon at the Richmond Radiator plant, with a good attendance of the employes present. Rev. C. H. Ricketts held the close attention of the men, speaking from the topic, "The Battle of Life." Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows: "Human life has been likened to a tree in its development and decay, first the bud, then the branch and then the full grown tree and then after a while it goes backward. It has also been likened to a journey, some day to stop; it cannot always be journeying. The best description of human life is "A Fight."

The little child begins at once to fight, so to speak for existence, and all through life fighting in one form or another is the rule. We must fight to love; we will always have things to contend against, and it is well thus, for thereby our vitality is kept up. The spirit of fight is all right, if only we keep it within the proper limits. The play instinct is a great boon to the human race. I recall when to play an athletic game at college broke all rules; it was a waste of time, but now athletics have a large place and properly so in our colleges, and it helps the student in every way. We must fight against the enemy of our flesh and against all kinds of evil within and without. We should fight against everything that keeps up from our best. 'Tis a sad sight to see a man who has stopped fighting; he is a defeated man. We must control our surroundings; certainly we must not allow them to control us. There are three things that we must have; first we must have courage. There is discouragement all about us, but we must fight against it, and the fight is no boys play. We must also have perseverance, for this is absolutely necessary. Ninety per cent of those who persevere win the victory. We must follow the great leader, the Christ. Other great leaders have at one time or another failed, but our leader never will fail. Then we must live a holy life; be true in all of our relationships. If we follow these suggestions, victory is absolutely assured.

Severe Head Colds and Sinus Trouble

THE MOST ANNOYING OF ALL AILMENTS

Any stuffy nose from a cold that does not clear up in a few days produces Sinus trouble. Some Sinuses are large cavities in the nose, others are small (like honeycomb), and when a cold gets into them it causes pain, or pressure in the eye balls, over eyes, in temples, and back of head, fullness in ear, and mucus dropping in throat. This leads to a tickling cough, sore throat, head noises, and catarrhal deafness, due to improper drainage. To clear this up vaporize CAMPHOROLE, and inhale according to directions.

CAMPHOROLE opens up the nose, and gets into the Sinuses, killing the germs that multiply by millions in those stuffy cavities, reduces the inflamed swollen mucus membranes, and gives good drainage for the discharge. This is what every specialist tries to obtain in order to get results. It is impossible for germs to live in the antiseptic vapors produced by CAMPHOROLE. Keep a jar handy and use at the first sign of a cold.

THREE CHANGES MADE IN FOOTBALL RULE TO ELIMINATE CONFUSION

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Three important changes in the gridiron code for 1928, each designed to correct abuses or confusion growing out of the previous rules rather than to effect a fundamental alteration, were announced today by the national football rules committee after a secret week end huddle.

In a nutshell they remove a good share of the protection afforded the lateral or backward passes, do away with the confusing distinction between a muffed or fumbled punt and deal a blow to the use of the so-called "screen pass," they provide:

(1) That a backward or lateral pass must be tossed at least two yards to be classed as such and that it may be recovered by the defensive side or grounded but not advanced, thus doing away with the protection afforded under the rules last year to hidden ball and other trick passes behind the scrimmage line.

(2) That either a muff or fumble of a punt may be recovered by the kicking side but not advanced beyond the point of recovery.

(3) That no player on the side making a forward pass and who has crossed the line of scrimmage may interfere with an opponent until the ball has been touched, thereby doing away with what the committee believes has been unfair blockin and checking, to screen the pass receiver, by players who themselves are not eligible to receive the pass.

These were the only changes effected by the rules committee, which in its week end session at the Seaview Golf club at Absecon, N. J., rejected such other suggested alterations as return of the goal posts to the actual goal line. The committee went on record as declaring they "had never seen a season of better football" than under the 1927 rules.

Two of the three changes made, those affecting the lateral pass and muffed point, represented a compromise with the opinion of a majority of college football coaches, who, at their December meeting, went on record as favoring a return to the 1926 code on these points.

This point of view was put before the committee by the newly appointed advisory group of three coaches—Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, Hugo Bezdek of Penn State and Bill Spaulding of the University of California (southern branch). In obtaining a clarification and modification of these rules so as to make them easier to apply on the field, however, the coaches were considered to have gained their major objectives.

No Protection On Short Passes.

The new lateral pass rule probably will have the most decided effect since it eliminates from protection the short passes between ball carriers in close line plays and gives a definite yardstick by which officials may determine their decisions. At the same time, in the opinion of the committee, it retains a sufficient measure of protection to encourage the continued development of backward passing as a real strategic feature of the offense.

One of the most questions of the 1927 season was the determination between a muff or fumble of a punt, but it is met by the simple expedient of eliminating the necessity of making a distinction. It means, the committee points out, that the kicker's side may recover any muffed punt or any ball which may be fumbled during the course of a run back but may not advance the ball beyond the point of recovery.

The "screen" pass, wherein the secondary defense was practically smothered by forwards of the passer's side, is dealt a virtual death blow by the third change. Under the former rules it had become a powerful part of the attack of many teams. The effect of thke change, the committee holds, "should do away with unfair blocking and checking of the defense of players who themselves are not eligible to receive the pass, leave that part of the field which the pass is directed less congested and give the eligible players of both teams a fair opportunity to get at the ball."

The committee's findings, all of which were reached by a unanimous vote, were made public by William S. Langford, secretary, who, with Chairman Edward K. Hall, were returned to office for another year.

Next Meeting In September.

The committee will meet again during the first week in September to make official rulings and interpretations on such questions as may arise before that time.

The more complete recodification or rewriting of the rules which the committee has undertaken is now in the hands of a special sub-committee consisting of Chairman Hall, Secretary Langford, A. A. Stagg of Chicago, H. J. Stegeman of Georgia, Tad Jones of Yale and Bill Roper of Princeton. It is planned to have this recodification ready by 1919.

LALLY TAKES LEAD IN TEXAS OPEN, WITH 144

WILLOW SPRINGSG GOLF CLUB, San Francisco, Texas, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Tom Lally, a reformed portside golfer of San Antonio, stole a lap on the Texas open golf field here today and moved into first place at the halfway mark with an aggregate of 144 for the first 36 holes of the 72-hole tournament. Harry Cooper, Buffalo, was one stroke behind Lally.

The Texan improved his 73 of yesterday, which had put him in second place, behind Ed Dudley of Hollywood, by shooting even par today. Lally, as a boy in Boston, was left handed golfer, but he learned to play from the right side years ago and became a pro.

Lally's card today:

Out .... 444 534 543—36
In .... 354 355 244—35—71—144

Cooper shot the best score of the day, a sprakling 70. He went into second place with an aggregate of 145. Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., and Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., were tied for third and fourth with 149 strokes each. Tommy Armour of Washington and Bill Mehlhorn of Pittsburgh, had 150's to tie for fifth and sixth.

Ed Dudley, whose 72 yesterday led the field, had rough going today. After taking one over par on the first nine he found numerous roads, ditches and creeks on the back nine to go an additional seven strokes over perfect figures. This gave him 151 strokes and placed him seventh.

Cooper started out the day by making birdies at the first and third to be two under par. He slipped at the eighth to finish the first nine, one up on par. At the twelfth he scored another birdie and was 2 under but again went over par at the sixteenth and finished one under.

Cooper, who had a 75 yesterday, turned in this card today:

Out .... 343 535 453—35
In .... 444 344 444—35—70—145

TAD JONES CHAIRMAN OF YALE GRID COMMITTEE

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Thomas A. D. Jones, Yale's football coach who retired with the close of the 1927 season, will still have his guiding hand on the game as he has been made chairman of the newly appointed graduate advisory committee on football for 1928.

The appointment of the committee was made known by the Yale Athletic association tonight. The new committee will nominate a head coach for football for 1928 and it is forecast that the appointee, whose name will be subject to confirmation b the athletic board of control, will be taken from among those who were on Jones' coaching staff the past season.

The membership of the new committee follows.

AMERICAN OLYMPIC TEAM HIT BY FIRST INJURY

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 6—(AP)—The American Olympic winter sports team received its first visit from "old man hard luck" today when Rolf Monsen, one of the best American ski jumpers, was injured by a faulty landing after a fifty meters leap. Monsen suffered a severely wrenched knee, which will likely keep him out of the Olympic competitions.

The skaters were sent the full distance in their respective events, Blaha and Farrell showing splendid form. Beatrix Loughran gave several hundred spectators a treaty today in fancy skating.

The Canadian Hockey team, which reached here yesterday from Antwerp, practiced on the Olympic ice for the first time today. Experts are unanimous that it is the greatest hockey team ever seen in Europe, and is a favorite to win the championship.

"We only regret that we have not an American team to meet this time," said Bill Bewitt, the manager of the Canadians. Americans and Canadians agreed that the ice was perfect for hockey, but a little rough for speed skating.

SABIN CARR HEADS ELI TRACKMEN INTO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)— Yale's track team will make its first Metropolitan appearance at the games of the New York A. C. at Madison Square Garden, February 20. The full team, headed by Sabin Carr, the world's record holder in the pole vault, will be seen in action in the 16 open and special events on the New York A. C. card.

The Eli one-mile relay will be matched against the University of Maryland and possibly Syracuse, while the two-mile quartet will meet Princeton and one other college four.

Carr may have to be in record breaking form to win the pole vault from Paul Harrington of the Bostono A. C. Last Saturday night after winning with a vault of 13 feet 3 inches, Harrington ordered the bar placed at 13 feet, 9 1-2 inches, a quarter of an inch above Carr's world's indoor record, and on one of his trials he cleared the bar with his body but knocked it off with his hand coming down. He is confident he can break this record.

KAPLAN-MAYS BOUT SHIFTED TO FEB. 20

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 6.—(AP)— Louis "Kid" Kaplan-Bobby Mays bout scheduled for Monday, the 13th at the New Haven Arena, has been postponed until the following Monday, due to the fact that Lincoln's birthday will be celebrated on the date originally set, and boxing bouts are prohibited on that date by state statute.

Representatives of the promoters are understood to have visited the attorney general today with a view to lifting the ban but found that there was no alternative but to change the date.

OKESON MAY HAVE CHARGE OF OPERATING OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The central board on officials which for more than 20 years has handled the appointment of officials for most of the leading colleges in the east tonight announced it would withdraw from that activity and suggested that it be handled in the future by Walker Okeson, of Lehigh university.

Okeson last season named the officials in all games in which a dozen of the leading eastern colleges participated, including Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Army, Navy, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Brown, Columbia, Penn State, Syracuse and Pittsburgh.

Representatives of this group met tonight to form a permanent organization to be known as the Eastern association for the selection of football officials, and entered into a five-year contract with Okeson to act as commissioner of officials.

At the suggestion of the central board, the association will invite all the leading colleges in the New England and middle Atlantic states to join the association.

The central board, at the same time, announced it was giving up the task of directing the appointment of officials and suggesting to the 60-odd colleges it has served to apply to the new organization for such aid as they may need in selecting officials for their games.

Coach Louis Alexander's starting lineup will see Ray Ryan and Harold Watson in the forecourt; Willard Eddy or Myer Ellovich at center; Captain Pop Williams and Henry Schildgren in the guard positions. If Alexander decides to start Ellovitch at center, Eddy will play at forward instead of Watson. There will be no preliminary game tomorrow. Jackson of Springfield will officiate.

PLAINFIELD PROS READY FOR MILLVILLE

The Plainfield Pros expect a tough battle from the Millville, Mass. Town Team, Wednesday evening, at the Community House, according to reports and the Pros are getting ready for this tilt accordingly, planning on using their strongest lineup of Dessinger and Normandin at forwards, Stavinitsky at center and Bernot and Madden at guards with Brusso and Benson in reserve. The visitors, composed in great part of the Purple Collegians, which team holds a win over the Pros, this year, come with a strong "rep" from games around Massachusetts. This team has defeated the Boston Whirlwinds twice this year and is preparing to claim the New England title.

JOEY RAY APPLICATION TO BE HEARD WEDNESDAY

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Reinstatement of Joey Ray, famous miler will be considered at a meeting of the board of managers of the Central Athletic association, called for Wednesday.

Ray turned in his amateur card two years ago, advising he intended becoming a professional. However, he never took the step, and recently filed his A. A. U. application for reinstatement. Should his application be approved there is a chance he will compete in the Illinois Athletic club's indoor meet here Friday.

ACADEMY PREPARES FOR WEEK'S WORK

The Academy came out of the Windham game in good shape, physically. Although the pace was brisk all the way the Red and Whitesters are all fit.

Practice will start this afternoon in preparation for the two games this week, Tourtellotte at North Grosvenordale Friday and the Coast Guard Seconds at New London Saturday. Today's practice will be the first in over a week, no drills having been held last week before the Windham game because of examinations

HUGH JENNINGS LEAVES ESTATE OF $87,000

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 6.—(AP)— Hugh A. Jennings, famous baseball manager and coach, who died at his home February first, bequeathed the bulk of his estate to his widow, Nora M. Jennings, it was revealed today when his will was filed. The estate is valued at $87,000, his personal property is held at $75,000 and his real estate holdings $12,000.

Two cash bequests of $10,000 each were made by Jennings to his sister, Mrs. Edward Walsh, of Moosic, and his daughter, Mrs. Thomas P. McWilliams, of this city. The remainder of the estate goes to Mrs. Jennings.

The will was written while Jennings was assistant manager of the New York Giants in August, 1922, one of the witnesses to the document was "Hank" Gowdy. A. J. Dolan was the other witness.

Interscholastic Sports

The Academy has shown more improvement in the last two weeks than for any corresponding period since basketball was started up at the local school.

Chapman Tech is rather an in-and-outer this year. She started off the year by playing .500 ball, that is, winning once and then losing to make up for it, after which she ran up six straight wins until losing in her last two starts, to Deep River and Naugatuck. Tonight Tech plays Stonington at New London.

Windham goes to Hartford to meet Bulkeley Wednesday.

Putnam and Plainfield meet Friday at Putnam in one of the crucial games of that section.

Stonington meets Warren Harding of Bridgeport in athletic combat for the first time Friday night at Stonington. It is also Harding's first excursion into eastern Connecticut to play another team than the Academy.

The Academy sure is in right with local fandom. The turnouts at their games have all necessitated S. R. O. signs out early.

C. F. C., AFTER POOR START, GIVES POLISH A. C. BAD BEATING, 58 TO 26

The C. F. C. added their eleventh victory of the season Monday night at the Y gym in beating the Polish-American A. C. of New London, 58 to 26. It was very rough with both teams maintaining a killing pace.

The Whalers ran up a ten point lead before the C. F. C. scored at all in the first period and seemed on the way to an easy win. However, toward the end of the first quarter, the locals started and gradually cut down the lead until at the half they were ahead by 26 to 16.

The second half was all in favor of the C. F. C., who scored at ease with nice passwork and exceptional shooting.

Brown Has 22 Points.

Brown and Lambert were high point makers, the former with 22 and Lambert with 20. Leffingwell was not far behind in scoring with 12 points while the remainder of the team passed in and through the New London defense time and time again. F. Snoesky was the loser's high scorer with 10 points while Barry was second with 8 points.

The C. F. C. still are to lose on their home floor this season and have lost but one game on the outside, that at Hartford to the Central Baptists. The locals have engaged in 12 games this year and have run up as god a record as any bona-fide amateur club in the state.

Next week the locals meet the Marines of the New London City league. This team recently beat the Y Seniors.

LATE BASEBALL NEWS

RUTH AND GEHRIG LEAVE WITH FIRST SQUAD FEB. 26

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)— Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig will have plenty of rookie company when they go south to get the 1928 home run campaign started. Beside the busting twins the names of only five regulars appear on the list of the twenty one who will make up the first squad, which reports to Manager Huggins in St. Petersburg on February 26. Three pitchers Wiley Moore, George Pipgras, and Myles Thomas, and Catchers Pat Collins and John Grabowski, will be among the early starters.

The second squad, consisting of most of the regulars, will arrive in St. Petersburg, March 4.

Pitchers Waite Hoyt and Stanley Coveleskie, and Catcher Bengough, intend to steal a march on the rest by going to Hot Springs for some preliminary preparation on February 17. They will join the squad in St. Pete a week after the regulars arrive.

SHIEK LEONARD SHOULD BE BUSY FIGHTER SOON

Shiek Leonard, the blond battler who rests his weary head in our fair city, can step to the forefront as the most challenged fighter in these parts nowadays. Right on the heels of Gene Mars' defi to fight him right here in Norwich in a return bout there is the persistent attempt to get Leonard and Jimmy Rossi of Westerly together. Tex Grills has Rossi in his stable and is anxious to prove him the best 130 pounder in this region. New London is being boosted as the site for such a conflict.

N. Y. HAS SECOND BIKE RACE OF YEAR IN MARCH

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)— New York's second "sleepless week" of the season, the 4th international six-day bicycle race, will open March 3 in Madison Square Garden, John M. Chapman, promoter of the Bi-Annual Grinde, announced today. Several new foreign stars have been invited to compete. The races usually attract fields equally divided between American and invading riders.

BOXING LAST NIGHT

HARMON BEATS HILARIO MARTINEZ IN FAST BOUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(AP)— Willie Harmon, rugged New York welterweight, tonight won a judges' decision over Hilario Martinez of Spain, after ten fast rounds of boxing at the Broadway Arena.

The semi-final between Luis Vicentini of Chile, and George Balduc, Brooklyn lightweight, scheduled for ten rounds, was halted in the fifth and declared "no contest" by the referee who declared neither man was trying. Vicentini weighed 133 1-2; Balduc 133.

Newspaper critics credited Harmon with six rounds in his bout with Martinez, gave the Spaniard two and called two even. There were no knockdowns.

Harmon weighed 145; Martinez 144.

Sekyra weighed 179; Gemas 187.

The Dayton, Ohio, boxer, undefeated since he invaded the east, outclassed his opponent from the opening bell. Gemas took a bad beating for six rounds and went down for the full count in the seventh.

In the semi-final, Jimmy Finley, of Louisville and Eddie Frisco, New York welterweights, fought ten rounds to a draw.

GENARO WHIPS BELANGER IN FLYWEIGHT TITLE BOUT

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 6—(AP)—Frankie Genaro, of New York, won the judges' decision over Frenchy Belanger, recognized by the National Boxing association as the world's flyweight champion, in a ten round bout here tonight.

Belanger, with his N. B. A. title at stake, fought furiously but found the New Yorker too crafty for him. Belanger, a noted hard-puncher, found himself not only outboxed but outpunched. Belanger attempted time after time to take the play from his rival but Genaro's cleverness offset any momentary advantage the Torontonian gained. Genaro depended chiefly on his boxing ability to keep him in the lead but at times rushed in madly to swing both hands to the Canadians face and body.

Belanger's left eye was badly swollen early in the fight and shortly afterwards Genaro opened a cut over Frenchy's other eye.

Belanger was dangerous until the final bell but he could not break down the New Yorker's clever defense.

Approximately 10,000 saw the fight. Genaro weighed 112 pounds, Belanger 110 1-4.

SPORTING NOTES

Three National league clubs—Boston, St. Louis and Philadelphia—will start the 1928 pennant race under new managers.

The annual lawn tennis tournament for the Southeastern championships will be held at Jacksonville, Fla., the week of March 12.

In all the years of professional baseball, scarcely a handful of players have won a niche in the hall of fame by making an unassisted triple play.

"Big Ed" Reulbach, who headed the list of National league pitchers for several seasons, won no fewer than fourteen straight games in 1909, five of which were shutouts.

Many establishments for the supply of fishing tackle employ women to make the flies. A woman able to tie a fly fit to captivate a trout or a salmon can, it is said, earn very substantial wages.

Numerous track and field records already have been broken at the modern Olympic games and it is confidently predicted that more will go when the chosen athletes of the world meet in Amsterdam this summer.

When the Olympic games were revived at Athens in 1896, after a lapse of more than 1,500 years, most interest centered in the marathon race from Marathon to Athens, a distance of about 24 miles. A Greek peasant by the name of Loues won the race in 2 hours, 58 minutes and 50 seconds. After the victory, the peasant was crowned by King George of Greece with olive branches.

A remarkable record is that of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college wrestlers, present holders of the National A. A. U. championship, who have not lost a home match since the game was introduced at Stillwater 13 years ago.

It will be fifty years on May 8th next since the first unassisted triple play in baseball history was sprung by Paul Hines of the Providence team in a game against Boston. That play stood a towering monument in major leagues for 31 years, when the American league recorded its first achievement of the kind. In the National league it was never duplicated until 45 years later.

STATUS OF VARE-WILSON SENATORIAL CONTEST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The Vare-Wilson senatorial election contest from Pennsylvania woke to sudden life today in a triple-headed series of developments.

Chief among these was a counter-charge by William S. Vare, republican, senator-elect, that William B. Wilson, his democratic contestant for the seat, had made a "cowardly attack" upon him in charging a conspiracy in the 1926 election.

While this counter-attack was being delivered to the privileges and elections committee, the special slush fund committee of the senate paved the way for further investigation of that election by examining registration lists and other documents used in Philadelphia.

ACOSTA PLANNING NON-STOP NEW YORK TO ROME FLIGHT

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 6.—(AP) — An Italian immigrant who came to this country some 20 years ago and found fame and fortune in his adopted land, will realize his long cherished dream when Bert Acosta in a Fokker tri-motored plane hops off some time in May on a non-stop New York-to-Rome flight, the Bridgeport Telegram will say tomorrow.

"I am not at liberty to reveal the name of my backer, for the present, but I will do so in a few weeks," Acosta declared. "According to my present plans I will take off from the Curtiss field, Mineola, L. I., in a New York to Rome flight in the latter part of May. I will carry a crew of two or three men."

EFFORT TO HAVE HOOVER ENTER THE OHIO PRIMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 6—(AP)— Formal efforts to induce Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, to enter the Ohio primary in April, and contest with United States Senator Frank B. Willis for Ohio's delegation of 51 votes to the Kansas City convention, were launched here today in the formation of an "Ohio Hoover for President committee."

About seventy-five men and women, many of them prominent in Ohio politics, comprised the organization which adopted a resolution urging Mr. Hoover to enter the contest in this state, and signed a petition making a similar request which was wired to him tonight.

Children in Greece can not flock to the movies as they do in the United States. Children under ten are prohibited from going to moving picture shows, unless special educational films are being shown, under recent regulations. Children between eleven and fifteen may go only if accompanied by parents or guardians. Every moving picture show operator is required to show every week a short historical film or one featuring contemporary events. Before a picture may be exhibited in Greece, it must be filed with the clerk of Athens police and licensed.

CRESCENTS MEET SOUTHBRIDGE TONIGHT

Taftville	Southbridge
Normandin, lf	rf, Christiansen
Brown, rf	rf, Berry
Harris, c	c, Noveleski
Coleman, lg	lg, Holden
Murphy, rg	rg, Pezzetti

The Taftville Crescents line up against the Gibraltar A. C. of Southbridge tonight at Parish hall determined to avenge a three-point defeat that this club inflicted on the locals in Southbridge about two weeks ago. Tonight's game promises to be real interesting for the strength of the visitors is not being doubted in Taftville circles.

This quintet has been having great success around central Massachusetts, according to reports and the defeat they pasted onto the locals was no flash in the pan, it seems.

Both teams are using their strongest lineups for this game and a large crowd is looked for.

A fast preliminary, probably bringing together the Taftville Whirlwinds and Fitchville Rovers, is slated for 7:45. Bourden's orchestra will furnish music for dancing which follows the main game.

STOCK PRICES FLUCTUATED, MARKET CLOSING WITH A BURST OF BUYING

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—(AP)—The stock market see-sawed back and forth today, with a burst of renewed buying in the last 15 minutes of trading which gave the list an appearance of strength at the close. Net advances of 1 to 5 points were freely sprinkled through many groups.

Buying started with considerable force shortly after the opening, based on confidence in the business outlook, which was given impetus by a cheerful observation by Secretary Hoover. Later in the day, however, banks called about $25,000,000 in loans to remedy a weakened reserve position, and call money was marked up from 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 per cent.

This tightening of money, along with news of a raise to 4 per cent in the Minneapolis Federal Reserve rediscount rate and the failure of the railroads to respond to strength in other sections, led to considerable profit taking, and some of the early gains were materially cut down. Bear selling developed in some issues, and pool operations, which had shown early expansion were restricted.

Heavy buying orders for the express issues, Montgomery Ward, and others in the last few minutes influenced a brisk recovery, and even the sluggish railroad stocks made up part of their earlier losses.

Steel shares, led by Vanadium, a consistent ground gainer for several days, were consistently strong throughout the session. Vanadium added 5 points net to its recent gains, and Bethlehem, Republic, Sloss-Sheffield, Gulf States, Inland and Crucible scored advances of 2 to 4 1-2 points on the day.

Adams Express was an outstanding feature in the closing minutes, soaring 23 points to 308, a new high record. This stock last year sold as low as 124, and in 1926 the price was quoted below par. American Express also moved upward rapidly, with a net advance of 3 1-4, and American Railways Express gained 3 3-4.

Automotive issues were in demand. General Motors moving up a point, and Allis Chalmers reaching a new peak at 125. New highs also were attained by Cudahy Packing and American Linseed.

Erie, Delaware & Hudson, Wabash and Atchison all closed with net losses of a point or more, having rallied briskly from their minimum prices of the day. Realizing in Greene Cananea Copper contributed with strength in other stocks of this group, particularly Nevada Consolidated, which touched $3 1-2 on huge transactions.

A few of the utilities moved into higher ground, but rubber and sugar shares inclined to heaviness.

Stiffening prices in cotton featured the commodity markets, quotations rising 40 to 44 points. Other commodities showed little change.

Foreign exchanges were steady. Sterling Cables ruling unchanged around $4.87 5-32 and French francs just above 3.92 1-2 cents. Norwegian and Spanish currencies were slightly higher and Japanese yen a fraction lower.

Time money and commercial paper rates showed no change, but bankers acceptances were a shade easier.

MAGAZINE AGENT AT NEW LONDON MOTORS THOUGH LACKING LICENSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 6—Bernard Heller, 19, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who with other young men has been in the city several days endeavoring to sell periodicals by which sale they claimed they would be able to obtain tuition in a school, was arrested today by Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving without a license. He was unable to obtain a surety on his bond of $50 and was made a prisoner. One of Heller's associate workers Sunday hired an automobile of the Hire It and Drive It Inc., the auto being a Buick touring car. The young man hiring the auto possesses a license, and the auto being in his possession, he turned it over to Heller. DISGRACEFUL CASE ENDS—GIRL SENT TO STATE FARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 6—Molly Yavener, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yavener, of Montville, who was in court last Thursday, charged with fornication, was committed today to the State Farm for Women and was taken there by Policewoman Jane Cassidy. The girl's commitment was the result of her actions at the Garden of Italy, Ocean beach rooming house last Friday night where she went with James F. Cobb and Lloyd West, United States Coast Guard sailors, after having run away from home. Cobb and West were fined $25 each on the same charge in the police court Saturday. It was the result of the confessions of the girl and the sailors when they were arrested by Lieut. Roy Streaman and Officer Peter Busch when they were found in a taxicab on Bank street that resulted in the arrest of Mike Costello, proprietor of the Ocean beach resort for the trio told of having been served with liquor by Costello, beside being given a room. Gullett was at the railroad station Sunday afternoon and had been drinking. He was ordered off the premises by Special Agent Jorgerson, of the New Haven railroad's force of special agents and refused to move. He engaged in a quarrel with Jorgerson and finally struck the officer a blow on the face. Patrolman William Riordan was on the station platform at the time and arrested Gullett.

The continued case of J. F. Sharkey, also a coast guard sailor, charged with interfering with a police officer, was disposed of by a nolle being entered. Sharkey was on Main street with a fellow sailor, John McQueen last Thursday morning when McQueen's actions caused Patrolman Dennis Murphy to arrest the latter. McQueen displayed fight, but was taken to police headquarters and Sharkey attempted the rescue of his companion. Patrolmen Carlos Selesnitsky and Frank Philopena arrived in time to arrest Sharkey.

Joseph Lawski was charged with breach of the peace and was fined $10, but the execution of the sentence was suspended.

Joseph Perry, of Waterford, was charged with breach of the peace, but the case was not ended, for a continuance to next Saturday was ordered. The latest patients are Isabel and Bessie Bloomer, six and two and one-half years, respectively, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Bloomer, 23 Grove street. Both cases are mild.

William A. Smith, 30, of 78 Blydenburg avenue, employed as car inspector at Midway by the New Haven railroad, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from a fractured jaw. Saturday, Smith and other workmen were engaged dismantling one of many locomotives that are destined for the junk heap and which have been stored in the yard for several years. They were reducing the engine to scrap iron and Smith was using a crow bar. That implement suddenly buckled causing the holder to lose his grasp, with the result that the end came back with terrific force. Smith was struck a vicious blow on the jaw, which besides fracturing that member, removed several teeth.

Brewer was fined $5 and costs, the latter amounting to $11.55. With the imposition of the fine, Judge Cornelius C. Costello inquired of Brewer at what figure he valued his auto. Brewer replied that the auto was not worth more than $10. With this statement, Judge Costello ordered the fine remitted, so that Brewer paid $1.55 more than the alleged value of the auto. Brewer drove his car to Port Hill, Poquonoc, last Monday and there parked it. He claimed that the engine froze up, and because of that fact he was unable to drive the car away within 24 hours.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 6—The Boy Scouts of New London and Groton presented the city council a silk flag and staff tonight. Scoutmaster Nibbs made the presentation and President Edwin Cruise made an address. The flag was accepted by Mayor May in an address on behalf of the city.

A dozen building permits were granted, including one for 200 bathhouses at Ocean Beach. The city council expressed its intention of widening Bank street at a cost of $46,300, $3,225 to be assessed against the property owners for benefits and the same for damages.

The council voted to pay the motor vehicle department $1,331.45, being claims and costs for motor vehicle violations. Councilmen Streeter and Twoomey voted against every proposition in relation to the widening of Bank street. It is proposed to have the street railway lay double tracks on that street. It was also suggested to have the street railway company take their tracks out of Bank street and to operate busses on the line. Streeter said that the Connecticut Motor Transportation was buying practically all the bus lines in Connecticut on which they could get and hold and that they would not do this if it were not a paying proposition. He said that the time was near at hand when the trolley lines would be superseded by busses.

It was voted to notify all property owners on that street of the city's intention to widen it. Streeter moved an amendment to the fire ordinance moving that all buildings damaged 50 percent be subject to removal. Now all buildings in the fire limits are subject to removal.

There is to be a meeting of the Ship and Engine co., representatives of Groton and New London, the Fisheries company, the Submarine base as to the opening of the Thames River bridge. The city manager and Councilor Chappel were designated to represent the city of New London in the meeting.

GEO. WESLEY'S POOR LUCK IN HOUSE JUST LEASED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 6—George Wesley, colored, 177 North Bank street, was arrested tonight when the house he occupies was raided by a squad of police, Wesley being held on a charge of conducting a disorderly house. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $2500. Cleo Carter, colored, of 729 Bank street, and Thomas Bruno, white, a soldier at Fort Wright, were arrested, charged with frequenting. The Carter woman was held in bail of $100 and Bruno was held in bail of $50, both furnishing sureties on their respective bonds. The trio will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. The Carter woman has been arrested numerous times within a few months, each time being caught in raids of resorts in the so-called "black and tan" section. Wesley only rented the North Bank street house Saturday and immediately upon taking possession of the building, it is claimed, he started to conduct a place for the patronage of blacks and whites. This evening, Bruno was observed to enter the house and a short time afterwards Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Henry Sylvia raided the house. Wesley and the Carter woman and the soldier were found there and all arrested. Each furnished a surety in Louis Eitenbein.

WATTESON BROUGHT BACK FROM WARWICK MONDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 6—Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh returned to New London tonight with Frederick S. Matteson, formerly of New London, as his prisoner. Mattison, alias Edward Jones, was brought here from Warwick, R. I., to answer a charge of non-support. He will be in the police court tomorrow morning. Matteson was formerly employed as a hostler by the late George G. Avery and latterly by Miss F. O. Jones, New York, but a summer resident at the Pequot, occupying annually a residence, corner of Glenwood and Pequot avenues, a coachman. He married a New London woman here a few months ago and since then he is alleged to have deserted her. When it was ascertained that Matteson was at Warwick, Mrs. Matteson made complaint to Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, alleging non-support and a warrant for his arrest was issued. Matteson refused to return to New London without extradition papers being issued and he was accommodated in this respect and which fact delayed his return here about three weeks.

Acting Sergeant William Graham was unable to perform duty tonight, being confined to his home on Williams street by a severe cold.

Strand Theatre

Gripping drama, deftly interspersed with clever comedy touches, feature "The Imposter," starring Evelyn Brent. The petite little F. B. O. star displays her versatility in the dual role of Judith Gilbert, wealthy daughter of an old family, and later as Canada Nell, a girl of the streets, when her brother is threatened with disgrace over the theft of an immensely valuable jewel. Clyde Gordon is in love with her and wishes to marry her, even though he believes her to be a girl of the underworld. Vivid scenes in a gambling den, the frivolity of an elaborate garden party, Gordon's terrific battle on the highway to protect the girl he loves, these are some of the thrilling high lights of this fascinating story. And for tense but swift-moving action "The Imposter" rides all previous crook pictures right off the boards. "The Fighting Heart Series Story" is complete and interesting and played by an all-star cast.

"Girls" is a Fox comedy and has a very beautiful and clever cast, who carry through a romantic story with plenty of pep and action.

Palace Theatre

Greta Garbo, one of the most sensationally successful stars of the American screen, is the product of the wisdom of a country which deliberately sets about to develop the artistic in its nationals.

"Girls like Greta Garbo," says Victor Seastrom, who directed her in "The Divine Woman," her newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which will be shown for the last times today at the Palace theatre, "have a chance in Sweden to become great actresses because the government wants to develop stage and screen talent and does its utmost to help the boys and girls along in their battle to attain artistic success."

Tomorrow will be double feature day at the Palace. Viola Dana will be the star in "That Certain Thing," a lesson in love's funny side, and a treatise on how to clean up a fortune through matrimony.

Tom Tyler and his gang will be the co-feature in a stirring western entitled "Tom and His Pals." Tomorrow night will also be gift night. Twenty-five dollars in gold and ten fine presents will be given away free.

Olympic Rink

Tonight will take place one of the most amusing events that the manager has put on this season, that being an obstacle race, which will prove a fun riot. On Thursday evening will take place the first annual masquerade cornival that the skating fans have been looking forward to for a big time. Many have promised to wear some fancy and novel costumes as well as clowns, devils, hoboes, etc. There will be plenty of balloons, ribbons, noisemakers and everything to make a carnival a success. No one will be allowed on the floor before 9 o'clock without a mask, and skating will be enjoyed until 11 p. m.

Manager Hendrick has received his polo cages and has two teams already formed and two nearly complete and will start a city league series of polo next week.

Breed Theater.

"After Midnight," Norma Shearer's new starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which closes tonight at the Breed theater, is a dramatically human play of a life which begins in poverty and ends in poverty, and presents the star in a new characterization. The episodes between the beginning an dend are set in the trappings of wealth, filled with the tinsel and glitter of the night clubs of a great city and portray a young girl's struggle to combat life. The enemy is not some silk-hat villain, as is usually the case on the screen, but that much more brutal thing, Life, itself.

The story was written and directed by Monta Bell and tells the love of a cigarette girl for a thief. In the end the thief reforms and becomes a taxi driver and their youth and romance triumphs over the evil about them. It is so humanly realistic that it dares to present life as it is and yet finds a place for the homely, simple virtues to shine. Lawrence Gray plays opposite Miss Shearer. Gwen Lee appears in an important supporting role.

Hopes of the local icemen to get their annual harvest during February were heightened Monday. With 48 hours of real cold weather up to sunset Monday night ponds from which the ice is cut were frozen over and old Jack Frost was sticking right to his job of making it grow heavier. Twice before this winter in this vicinity ice has formed to the thickness of about six inches only to have prolonged spells of mild weather come along and melt it away again. It has been a discouraging season for the ice dealer up until the present time, but the icemen hope and are pinning their faith on February weather to give them sufficient cold to make the ice that everyone will be clamoring for next summer not to mention the all the year round demand from many customers. Kramer Brothers, local icemen, started Saturday cutting ice on the Blissville ice pond and it is said the ice averages 9 inches in thickness. A gang of men were employed on the pond Monday to help in harvesting the ice.

The bride-to-be received many beautiful and useful gifts, including silver, linen, pyrexware and other useful articles. Piano selections and radio furnished entertainment for the evening.

John J. Walsh, of Bridgeport, Conn.; on Tuesday morning at 7.30, an anniversary mass (the first) for Clara Dalogue, and the funeral mass for Mrs. James Gayon Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, the last two masses being offered by the pastor, Rev. BLODGETT SAYS NORWICH ASSESSMENT METHOD DOES NOT FOLLOW STATE LAW

It has been my opinion, and it is my opinion now, that the town of Norwich is not doing what may be done or what ought to be done to see to it that each person owning taxable property there is required to bear his proper share of the local tax burden, says State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett in a letter to the secretary of the Norwich chamber of commerce. In his letter, Commissioner Blodgett comments on the attitude of the local assessors towards revaluation and congratulates the local chamber of commerce on its method of approaching the subject. Commissioner Blodgett's letter follows:

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 2, 1928.

Walter H. Pilcher, Secretary,
Thayer Bldg.,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Mr. Pilcher: Receipt is acknowledged of your letter to me of the first instant, together with certain newspaper clippings, including a very excellent editorial contained in your local paper entitled "Revaluation and Equalization."

I have known for two or three years, as have other citizens of Norwich who have given any attention to the subject, that the plans for raising revenue for local purposes there do not comply in any respect with any system of taxation which obtains elsewhere in this state or country. Certainly the statutes of this state are not complied with in important essentials. The one important essential to which I refer is that the burden of taxation is not being equally distributed. It has been my opinion, and it is my opinion now, that the town of Norwich is not doing what may be done or what ought to be done to see to it that each person owning taxable property there is required to bear his proper share of the local tax burden. Since with the passing of time the public is demanding more and more public expenditure—and I presume Norwich is not in a class by itself in this respect—the injustice which is being done among taxpayers is constantly increasing. Times certainly come in the affairs of towns and states when old plans are not sufficient to meet modern requirements. The old plan adopted in Norwich 50, or even 20, years ago for raising revenue will be found on examination to be entirely inadequate to meet respectable present day requirements. The complexities of business, the growing number of court opinions and new statutes render tax assessment work increasingly difficult.

There is no one, local or otherwise, who has not given painstaking study to modern assessment work, who is competent to install a modern tax system in such a city as Norwich. Revaluations made by local assessors, as a rule, are failures. This is shown by an examination of the reported revaluations made by them from time to time in Connecticut. This is not a reflection on the intelligence of the tax assessors. It is a plain statement of facts which may be observed from the records of revaluations so made. To accomplish anything worth while in Norwich, the problem must be approached with a very clear understanding that the task is a difficult one and who ever undertakes it must be willing to apply practical hard-headed intelligence to the work. The merchants, probably, as a class feel that they cannot afford to assume any additional tax burden. The householders as a class, the manufacturers as another class, and the farmers as another class each feel the same way, but, after listening to statements and the reasoning of representatives of each class, the taxing official is bound to reach the conclusion that there is but one rule, and that is the one prescribed by the law which requires that all property owners in whatever class should be assessed according to the fair market value of the property. Fair market value does not mean excessive and extravagant values. It means conservative and painstaking equalized values for all. It means that there should be no favorites. To accomplish a reasonably satisfactory equalization of values in a city like Norwich requires a knowledge of the underlying principles, painstaking care, study and a plan which govern the use of the ad valorem tax as a means of raising revenue. The person who undertakes this work should be a specialized man.

The fact that three-fourths of the people in the town of Norwich pay the city and town rate which on the list of 1926 was 54¾ mills (this being the highest rate paid by any of the taxpayers of Connecticut) is quite conclusive of the fact that something extraordinary exists in Norwich. When a situation of the kind exists and when everyone in the town knows that it exists, it should, of course, receive prompt attention. There should be no increased expenditures of any kind whatever in Norwich, however pressing may be the demand, until the citizens there first put forth a fair effort to see to it that each is to pay his proportionate share of the expense of the same. The appraisals of the property of estates of deceased persons made by citizens of Norwich when compared with the tax valuations of the same property point to the absurdities in the present grand list of the town.

The citizens of Norwich, like the citizens in the other towns of the state, as I am urging all along the line, can do no better than to permit the statutes to be their guide in so important a matter as raising public revenue. With the routine work which the assessors have to perform, even if they were well trained in modern methods of taxation, would find the task of equalizing, bringing order out of chaos, an almost impossible one. The progress which the assessors are making in Norwich is very slow. The publicity which the chamber of commerce is giving to this subject and the attitude of the local assessors with respect to it lends encouragement to the belief that the way is opening up to put Norwich in line with other progressive cities regarding its methods of raising revenue for local needs.

I congratulate you on the method by which this task is being approached at this time.

Yours truly,
WM. H. BLODGETT,
Tax Commissioner.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR $7,500

Withdrawal without costs from the docket of the superior court has been filed with Clerk George E. Parsons in the $7,500 damage suit brought by Attorney Edward G. McKay, of this city, as trustee of the bankrupt estate of Healy & Washburn, of Norwich, against Thomas G. Washburn and Alma A. Washburn, both of Norwich. It was understood that the case was settled out of court.

The papers claimed that a house situated at East Great Plain, near the fairgrounds, occupied at the time the action was instituted, was erected on or before April 1, 1925, by Thomas G. Washburn out of funds, materials, etc., of the partnership estate of which he (Thomas G. Washburn) was a partner with Jeremiah Healy. The house was claimed to be valued at $6,000. On April 6, 1925, Washburn deeded the property to his wife. It was also claimed that other bills contracted by the Washburns were paid out of the partnership.

Most of the above allegations were denied by the defendants.

24 COWS, TEAM OF HORSES, CHICKENS BURNED IN MAIMAN BARN FIRE

Fire of undetermined nature totally destroyed a large barn with all its contents and a corn crib, nearly filled, was partially destroyed, about 6:45 o'clock Monday evening, on the old Jeremiah Sholes farm situated on what is called the middle road between Poquetanuck and Fox Hill. The damage is estimated to have been between $15,000 and $20,000, partly covered by insurance. The farm is owned by Harry Maiman.

In the barn were 24 cows, a pair of horses, 60 tons of hay, harnesses, a considerable amount of corn fodder, 2 1-2 tons of fertilizer, machinery, such as corn cutters, cream separators, etc., all of which was destroyed. A large quantity of unshelled corn stored in the corn crib was also damaged.

Mr. Maiman had had the cows milked and had returned to the house, having been there about a half hour when his son happened to look out of the window. He told his father that the barn was on fire and they hurried out to see what could be done. An effort was made to release the cattle and horses, but none of them was saved, as the fire had started in the north side, where they were housed, and was blazing in good shape, having gained a good start.

The cause of the fire could not be ascertained, but it is known that the fire originated near the cow stalls. Three lanterns, which had been used for light in milking the cows, had been taken to the house and no fire was in progress when Mr. Maiman left the barn, as far as he knows. One of the horses had released itself from its halter and had gone as far as the door, but retraced its steps and was burned.

A large crowd was attracted to the fire, among whom were a number from the State hospital, who had come in the hopes of giving help. No water could be secured except from a well and with the aid of milk cans and pails attention was centered in saving the corn crib located near the barn. About half of this building was saved. Nothing could be done to save the barn.

The barn is said to be the largest in that section of the town and is built on a stone foundation on three sides with one side open, into which farm machinery, wagons, etc., could be driven and stored for protection against the weather.

CANCER IN MICE CURED BY ELECTRIC TREATMENT

Report Made to House Appropriations Committee by Dr. A. M. Stimson of the Public Health Service—Considers Results Sufficiently Encouraging to Be Followed Further—Use of This Electric Phenomenon Had Never Before Been Used in Connection With Cancer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Dr. A. M. Stimson, of the public health service, has disclosed to a house appropriations committee that cancer artificially induced in mice has been cured in some instances by an electric treatment.

The method employed consisted of an oscillating current of very high frequency, and Dr. Stimson said further researches into the adaptability of the current for treating the disease would be carried on by the health service.

Use of this electric phenomenon had never before been made in connection with cancer, he said. Dr. J. W. Schereschewsky is in charge of the work.

"Thus far the results have been sufficiently encouraging so that we think they ought to be followed further," Dr. Stimson continued. "Dr. Schereschewsky has found that by submitting mice which had had cancer artificially induced in them to this high frequency current, a certain percentage of them can be cured. At the same time, he has found that some of them, if the dosage is a little too high, will die. It is a question of further investigating the exact dosage of this physical agent.

"However, he has had some 30 mice there that had terrible tumors, and after the treatment the tumors subsided and the mice were still living at the last report."

Co-ordination of the public health service with state health departments and independent foundations and research laboratories in studies to find a cure for cancer has been carried on for several years, Dr. C. C. Pierce, acting surgeon-general, said today.

Dr. Shereschewsky is now stationed at the Harvard University Medical school, co-operating with the Harvard laboratories and the Massachusetts board of health in cancer cure experiments.

Government health officers believe that only by unified work of all those engaged in cancer study to avoid duplication of effort can a successful fight against the disease be conducted.

CONFIDENCE RESTORED IN THE BANKS OF MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Confidence in Miami banks apparently was restored today following a flurry of excitement which led to the temporary closing yesterday of three of the city's smaller financial institutions, attributed to circulation of anonymous letters.

Runs which began on several of the larger banks at noon yesterday started to subside during the forenoon and then died out altogether. By noon the waiting lines of depositors seeking to withdraw their funds had disappeared and several million dollars brought from the federal reserve branch bank at Jacksonville to meet possible continued heavy withdrawals today was not needed.

Reports from several of the affected banks at the close of business noted increases in deposits, which officials interpreted as meaning that cash withdrawn during the excitement gradually was finding its way back to the banks.

Meanwhile all three of the banks that were closed temporarily, announced that plans were in progress for early re-opening, with State Comptroller Ernest Amos reiterating that none would have been forced to suspend had it not been for the anonymous letter, writer of which still is sought by the police.

They are the Southern Bank and Trust company, which suspended business after heavy withdrawals due to circulation of the letters predicting its failure, and the Citizens bank and the Bank of Allapattah, which were ordered closed by the comptroller because of fear that they might not be in position to withstand possible heavy withdrawals due to the southern suspension.

ANOTHER EFFORT TO SETTLE COAL CONTROVERSY

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Five months' effort by a commission of two operators and two miners has failed to bring the Illinois bituminous coal mine employers and employes any nearer a permanent settlemnet of a wage dispute that precipitated a walkout on April 1, 1927.

The commission was dissolved today after reporting to a joint conference of miners and operators scale committees that it had failed to agree on any recommendations for an adjournment of the mining controversy in this state.

The joint conference will meet again tomorrow when the miners will ask the creation of a new commission with a larger membership.

Under the terms of the industrial armistice entered into last September, when the commission was created, mines were reopened under a temporary agreement terminating on April 1, this year. It was hoped the commission would recommend adjustments that would permit a renewal of contract relations on April 1.

According to the police version of the case, De Muro walked up to Mrs. Emmett and asked her if she was going out with him tonight. She replied in the negative, and without further words, he drew a gun and fired.

He ran as she sank to the pavement.

MAY CUT PRODUCTION IN KNIT UNDERWEAR OUTPUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Advisability of a 10 per cent reduction in knit underwear output in an effort to lighten stocks manufacturers carry as a result of delay in receiving orders from dealers will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Associated Knit Underwear Manufacturers of America, February 16, it was learned today. It was said at the headquarters of the association here that there is a growing feeling among manufacturers that they cannot profitably continue to manufacture stock in ignorance of trade requirements and hold it to await belated orders.

LINDBERGH TO MAKE FLIGHT TO HAVANA TODAY

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Nearing the end of his long and circuitous air tour, which began December 13, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will fly from Port-Au-Prince to Havana, tomorrow. There he will greet the delegates to the sixth Pan-American congress and receive the felicitations and homage of the Cuban people.

Colonel Lindbergh will take off from Port-Au-Prince at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and will follow a course which will carry him over Mole Saint-Nicholas, at the northwest extremity of Haiti, Guantanamo, a United States naval base, and thence over Cuban soil to Havan. The distance is between 700 and 750 miles by this route, and by his departure in the early hours of the morning he will enjoy the most favorable flying conditions of the day, with a tail wind to help him along. Either the Haitian or the Cuban coast will always be within easy landing distance.

AUTOS AND MOVIES ARE LURING WOMEN SHOPPERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—Automobiles and movies are luring women shoppers away from the department stores, Ralph C. Hudson, president of the National Retail Dry Goods association, said today at the organization's annual convention.

"Women are no longer spending all their money on clothes in department stores," Mr. Hudson, of O'Neill and Company, Baltimore, continued.

"They are using it more than ever for automobiles and movies. The department stores should put an end to ruinous competition among themselves and realize that their real competition today is from other industries."

The convention is attended by 2,500 dry goods men from all sections of this country, and representatives of a dozen department stores in Europe.

Directors elected today included D. M. Jones, Bridgeport, Conn., and Fred E. Eastman, Portland, Maine.

PRODUCTION INCREASED BY THE BONUS SYSTEM

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—The bonus system for employes in industry is a primary cause of increased production, lower costs and greater earnings by the corporations, several speakers told the American Management association today.

Howard Coonley, of Boston, Mass., president of the Walworth company, speaking at the association's second day session of its winter convention, said that no perfect system of bonus awards has yet been found, but the system as now in force has greatly aided the nidustries of the nation.

As far as his company was concerned, Coonley said, the bonus plan was highly successful and the company expects the system to double its annual profits within the next five years.

HOUSE CONSIDERED THE FARM RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—While lacking any new light on the perplexing farm relief problem, the house agricultural committee pioded slowly along today with the McNary-Haugen bill again the basis of discussion and its equalization fee still the focal point of interest.

B. W. Kilgore, chairman of the American Cotton Growers' exchange, legislative committee, elaborated upon his unqualified endorsement of the fee clause asserting that while southern cotton producers had declined to approve that section two years ago, they now endorsed it whole heartedly.

Treasury and P. O. Bills in the House

The Measure as Presented Calls For a Total Expenditure of $2,298,696,000.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—Carrying funds for varied government activities including prohibition enforcement, initiation of work on 72 new public buildings in various parts of the country and for air mail contracts, the annual supply bill for the treasury and postoffice departments was reported today by the house appropriations committee.

The house dealt in figures of billions of dollars for the first time this session—the measure calling for a total expenditure of $2,298,696,000 the largest of any of the five supply bills previously reported and undoubtedly the biggest congress will be called upon to consider at the present term. The money will be available at the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1. House leaders plan to bring the bill up for debate on the floor Thursday.

Of the measure's total $1,533,746,000 was allotted to the treasury, representing a decrease of $51,726,000 under current funds and $746,950,000 to the postoffice department, an increase of $7,582,000 over its 1928 appropriation.

The direct appropriation for prohibition enforcement was $12,729,000 a decrease of $591,000. This however does not include $19,180,000 for the customs service which will spend $787,000 on patrol of the thousands of miles of the Mexican-Canadian borders and inspectors of ports in quest of rum smugglers. Also the prohibition navy, the coast guard, will receive $28,902,000 and with its fleet of 450 vessels and five seaplanes and its force of 13,000 will constitute the sea sleuths of the enforcement service.

The allotment of $45,520,000 for public buildings represented the second fund made available this year for these structures. But all except $18,955,000 will be spent at the national capital.

The decrease in the treasury appropriation was due mainly to a $50,000,000 reduction in interest on the public debt. The debt itself has been diminished by the treasury by $1,131,000,000 during the past year. Another treasury saving is the program for a smaller size of paper currency which will be issued the latter part of this year affording a decrease of $787,000 in the engraving bureau's expenses.

CASE OF ALLEGED RUM SMUGGLERS GOES TO JURY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(AP)—For the second time within two weeks a federal jury had in its hands tonight the fate of the alleged "master minds" behind the liquor smuggling activities of the rum ship Bulko, seized here last September with a $500,000 liquor cargo.

The second of the four defendants won his freedom in U. S. district court today when the government admitted it had not made a case against him. He is Morris Rotman, of Providence, R. I., accused of being one of the "money men" behind the liquor shipment. At the first trial, which began on January 23, Sam Bernstein, of New York, who was accused of aiding in financing the expedition, was ordered acquitted.

The two men whose case went to the jury are John McCambridge, said to own a fleet of tugs in New York city, and Jack Murphy, alleged supercargo or executive officer of the Bulko.

The jury in the first trial disagreed after deliberating nearly 24 hours. Rotman, with McCambridge and Murphy, were ordered to stand a second trial which began yesterday. The jury is composed of 10 men and two women.

14 MEX. REBELS KILLED AND FIVE SOLDIERS WOUNDED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 7—(AP)—Delayed press dispatches give meagre details of the wounding of five federal soldiers of the military escort and the killing of fourteen rebels in an attack on a train between Guadalajara and Manzanillo Sunday.

The train was dynamited and one car destroyed. The federal guard fought against the rebels for more than an hour and then federal airplanes appeared overhead, bombing the attackers, who dispersed and fled.

A dispatch from Guadalajara says fourteen rebels were captured and executed, and five federal soldiers severely wounded.

HOUSE VOTES ANNUAL WAR DEPARTMENT SUPPLY BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—Having voted into the bill an amendment increasing by $530,000 the $12,125,000 alloted to the Officers' Reserve corps, teh house today approved without further change all appropriations for military purposes carried in the annual war department supply measure. The amendment, proposed by Representative Wurzback, republican, Texas, was carried by a vote of 83 to 72.

Non-military appropriations, totaling $80,000,000 and including a lump sum allotment of $50,000,000 for rivers and harbors, will be considered tomorrow after which leaders hope to send the measure to the senate. The military activities' appropriation totals about $308,000,000.

Voting on Church of England Prayerbook

Amended Form Approved by the House of Bishops and the House of Clergy.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The newly revised book of common prayer of the Church of England, about which so much controversy has raged in recent months, today again came to the fore when it was brought before the church assembly.

The house of bishops and the house of clergy, voting separattely, approved the amended prayer book measure, but laity—the third house of the church assembly—adjourned until tomorrow before debate was concluded on the critical issue.

The action of the bishops and clergy was expected. The vote of the house of clergy was 247 to 35, while that of the house of bishops was 40 to 5. The only bishops voting opposition to the measure were the bishops of Norwich, Birmingham, Exeter, Worcester, and St. Edmindsbury and Ipswichc.

Opponents of the amended prayer book argued that the measure had remained virtually unchanged since it was rejected in the house of commons in December and that adoption of the revision, so long as it provided for perpetual reservation of the sacramental elements, meant only another defeat in parliament.

Debate in the assembly today showed clearly that it was reservation of the sacrament that was the central point over which the controversy has developed, opponents of "reservation" contending that it was a step toward Rome.

Sir George Courthope, M. P., for the Rye division of Sussex for the past 22 years, said the deciding factor in the house of commons' rejection of the prayer book measure in December was the pressure from constituencies which had failed to grasp the fact that the new prayer book did not necessarily supersede the old prayer book. If this were clearly understood, he said, the next vote on the prayer book in the commons might be different.

TWO BOYS CONFESS TO SETTING FIRES IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—After incendiary fires had been discovered in two more churches in South Boston late today, police announced tonight that they had arrested two boys who had confessed to setting two of the eight fires that have damaged religious institutions in that district during the last two weeks.

One of the boys, only seven years old, was said by the police to have admitted that he set the fire that destroyed the South Baptist church Sunday night. The police reported that this boy had once set fire to a public school building before the present series of fires began.

The fires today were at the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary and at Lithuanian church. The first was discovered in the vestry by a priest, who extinguished the flames with slight damage, while the second was under the front steps at St. Peter's and was also put out without calling the fire department.

RENOMINATION OF COOLIDGE BECOMES ISSUE IN SENATE

Senator Bingham Opposes Two Term Resolution Presented by Senator Lafollette—Bingham Maintained That the Proposal Would Make It "Impossible or Difficult" to Reelect Mr. Coolidge Either Now or in 1932—Senator Lafollette Has Given Notice That He Will Push the Resolution to a Vote This Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—The renomination of President Coolidge for another term was made an issue in the senate today as Senator Lafollette, republican, Wisconsin, gained right of way for his resolution to put the senate on record against more than two terms for a president.

Senator Lafollette frankly stated that he pressed his resolution because "powerful factors in the republican party" were organizing a movement to "draft" President Coolidge.

Administration forces led by Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, resisted the proposal on the grounds that it was a "political gesture" aimed to make "impossible or difficult to renominate" the president. They moved to have the resolution sidetracted to the judiciary committee, but Lafollette succeeded in keeping it before the senate.

Coming up at a time when the senate had no unfinished business, the resolution gained precedence and the Wisconsin senator gave notice he would push it to a vote this week.

The resolution reads:

"That it is the sense of the senate that the precedent established by Washington and other presidents of the United States in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions.

"That the senate commends observance of this precedent by the president."

Senator Bingham and Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, argued that the resolution, if adopted, would have the force of law with the public, and the Connecticut member declared it would make it "impossible or difficult" for the republicans to re-elect Mr. Coolidge either now or in 1932.

Arguing for the resolution, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, denied that it could be attributed as a gesture toward the president because he had withdrawn from the race and Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, took the same view although the latter did not prefer the reference in the resolution to the president.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, wanted to know what the resolution meant by reference to two terms, and the Wisconsin senator replied that he took the view of President Roosevelt that it "was the spirit and not the letter of the law which counts."

Reading the message of President Coolidge to members of the republican national committee last December in which he amplified his "do not choose" statement of last August, Senator Lafollette insisted that the "language was not conclusive enough to some powerful factions of the party."

Senator Bruce severely condemned the third term idea and declared that President Coolidge would have gone down to "overwhelming defeat" if he had decided to run again because of that issue. Senator Fess, however, questioned whether another term for Mr. Coolidge could be considered a third term, as did Senator Gillette, republican, Massachusetts.

Announcing himself in favor of a constitutional amendment restricting the term of office for a president to six or seven years, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, declared he had no doubt of public sentiment against a third term and said he was willing to leave the issue to the electorate.

Senator Lafollette recalled that the wording of his resolution was almost identical to that adopted by the house in 1876 at the conclusion of the second term of President Grant. He said no one had voted against that resolution, but Senator Fess replied that the issue of another term for Grant then was not involved and the vote was merely one of condemnation of the Grant administration.

"I believe," Lafollette said, "that the senate will recognize the gravity of the situation and place itself on record."

Senator Gillette said he was not opposed to the first section of the Lafollette resolution, on the ground "hat it could not effect Mr. Coolidge because, he contended, the president had only served one term.

Both Senator Norris and Senator King, democrat, Utah, contended that the resolution need not go to committee because it involved nothing new and the language was clearly understandable to the senate.

A vote on the Bingham resolution to refer it to committee was not reached before overnight adjournment, and as a result the proposal will come before the senate automatically at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

AUTO WENT THROUGH WINDOW OF STORE IN BOLTON NOTCH

Mansfield, Feb. 7— (AP) —Smith Brothers general store in Bolton Notch received an unexpected and not entirely welcome visitor tonight. The visitor was an automobile driven by Mrs. L. T. Wood, of Manchester, and it went right through the front window of the store and brought up with one front wheel sticking into a store room and the rest of the car partially inside the store.

A crowd formed to gaze on the odd sight and while they were still gaping, another car slid down a hill and came to a stop just beside the store.

Even then the show was not quite over for within the next few minutes, five cars traveling the hill skidded at the same time and a merry mixup followed. All five drivers managed to avoid colliding with the other machines, by turning their wheels against the highway fence.

STATE CHAIRMAN WARNS REPUBLICANS OF OHIO

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 7—(AP)—The Ohio republican organization was warned today by its state chairman, Fred W. Warner of Marion, that the impending fight between Senator Frank B. Willis and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover for presidential support in this state will deliver Ohio into the hands of the democrats next November.

If the Willis and Hoover factions insist upon contesting in the April presidential primary for the Buckeye state's 51 delegates to the republican national convention, discord in all the county organizations will be created, Warner declared.

The state chairman at his home in Marion issued a statement today urging the party leaders to refrain from any tactics that will endanger republican standing.

UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE BY THE WELFARE COUNCIL

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—At a conference on unemployment called by the welfare council and attended by representatives of 100 social agencies William Hodson, executive director of the council warned today against the possibility of bringing on an unemployment crisis merely by talking about it.

"This we must avoid," he said. "We must be careful not to create a situation wherein business and industry become unduly conservative and unemployment results not because of a bad economic situation but because people have been frightened by pessimistic public statements."

Later in hie address, however, Hodson said that there is now considerable evidence of an increasingly serious unemployment situation in this city.

JUSTICE TAKES STEWART CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—It took two courts and a senate committee to keep up today with the most active phases of the Teapot Dome oil lease investigation.

In one wing of the District of Columbia supreme court, Robert W. Stewart, Standard Oil company witness, who refused certain information to the senate committee, argued through counsel for release from the police authority of the senate.

Justice Bailey, who presided, took the Stewart case under advisement, meantime giving counsel for him and for the senate nearly two weeks in which to file briefs, indicating that his decision might not come until near the end of the month.

In the criminal division of the same court, with Justice Siddons presiding, government counsel renewed their argument that Harry F. Sinclair, a central figure in all of the Teapot Dome ramifications, William J. Burns, detective defendant, and others be held in criminal contempt for shadowing the jury in the recent Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case.

MILITANT SUFFRAGIST TACTICS IN PARLIAMENT

LONDON, Feb. 7—(AP)—Votes for women dominated in a most unexpected manner the royal pageantry attendant on the opening today of the next to last session of the present parliament.

Militant suffragist tactics which were supposed to have gone out of fashion over a decade ago provided lively competition for public interest to the scenes at Westminster where the king, with his crown and robes of state, drove up to the parliament buildings in a coach of glass and gold to read his speech from the throne.

Almost the first word of the government in the reopening of parliament was a promise that the voting age of women would be lowered to 21, on the same basis as men, before the next general election. This means that, barring some unforeseen happening, there will be no general election before the spring of next year as, if the bill passes this session, it will require several months to register the new voters and go through with other necessary formalities.

ANOTHER ROW OVER VARE-WILSON RECOUNT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—(AP)—Another row over the conduct of the Vare-Wilson contest in the 1926 Pennsylvania senatorial election broke out today but the actual counting of ballots was begun.

Dissatisfied with the representation accorded the Reed slush fund committee in the counting room, William S. Vare, republican senator-elect, withdrew his own representatives before the senate elections sub-committee which began a recount of the ballots cast in Allegheny county, including Pittsburgh, where William B. Wilson, defeated democratic candidate had charged there was a conspiracy.

Vare complained that six representatives selected by the Reed committee were prejudiced in favor of Wilson.

NEW SECRETARY OUTLINES PLANS FOR CHAMBER

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 7—Earl J. Arnold, newly chosen executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, made his debut at the annual meeting of the chamber held tonight under the newly adopted by-laws of the reorganized body. Secretary Arnold, who comes here from Bristol, briefly outlined his proposed campaign for a bigger Willimantic and his basic policies. He was given a warm welcome by a gathering that was somewhat small due to inclement weather and the fact that several other functions were taking place in the city. The meeting was presided over by Frank P. Fenton who presented for approval the new set of by-laws. Upon their approval the meeting was dissolved and readjourned into the annual meeting under the new constitution.

The chairman appointed a committee of three, consisting of Raymond A. Parker, Joseph B. Riordan and William Clark to bring in the names of a new directorate. The committee submitted the names of the temporary directors, who have been holding office since the steps for reorganizing the chamber were initiated and they were approved. The directors are for three years: H. C. Lathrop, H. N. Bullard, C. W. Tryon, O. L. Willard, C. W. Hill; two years, P. J. Twomey, Harry Cohen, J. B. Fullerton, E. J. Donnelley, F. P. Fenton; one year, K. N. Hillhouse, R. B. Jordan, Andrew Roux, A. J. Marteau, James H. Hurley. The directors met later and reelected the temporary officers, Frank P. Fenton, president; Oliver L. JEWETT CITY

WHAT BRAND OF BOOZE BUILT WALL IN A NIGHT?

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 7—First Selectman D. F. Finn received a telephone call Sunday morning before hour when town officials or anybody else is expected to rise A hoarse voice over the line, announced that there was trouble at the foot of Crooked Hill, just above F. C. Whiting's residence on the East Main street extension. The informer added that a wall had been built across the road sometime during the night.

Mr. Finn, as he replied that this was no hour for jokes, yet, prepared to answer the summons.

Arriving there, sure as shooting, in the dim light was to be seen a side out a stone wall, extending two-thirds of the distance across the highway, which in the day time is a much travelled thoroughfare. Running alongside the road at this point, is an old time wall. From this two or three tons of stone had been taken, large and small, some as much in weight as a strong man could lift. Of these, the barrier, three feet high, nicely built with joints properly broken, had been constructed.

Like the artisans of the pre-historic Stone Age, no trace remained, giving the slightest clue to the identity of the nocturnal mason.

Mr. Finn said he had been up against all sorts of problems during his term of office, but allowed that this job was the beater.

While workmen removed the wall, the officials pondered over the "why and wherefore" of the night's unusual activity.

It seemed to be a fairly logical conclusion, that some gent believed he had still a Saturday's job unfinished so, when he became sufficiently enthusiastic, he closed the week's labors by building a wall across the highway.

Some years ago up this way, there was what was known to be the famous "Squirrel" booze. When well primed, it was declared that a man could and would, climb a telegraph pole, walk the wire to the next one, and then climb down, head first, without turning a hair.

Now it appears, there is the "Stone Wall" brand.

SELECTMAN PARKER FOUND GUILTY OF DEER KILLING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 7—Selectman Charles Parker of Brooklyn at a hearing in the town hall over there tonight was found guilty on three counts of violation of the game laws for which he was ordered into court last Sunday when he was found by Deputy Game Warden Gurdon E. Withey in possession of a slain deer. Justice Laura Pike fined him $10 on the charge of killing and possessing a deer, which fine was remitted by the court, $5 and costs for hunting without a license and $1 for hunting on Sunday. Mr. Parker appealed. Attorney Arthur G. Bill of Danielson prosecuted for the state and Attorney Charles L. Torrey of Putnam was counsel for Mr. Parker. The defense was largely this: On Sunday Mr. Parker said he had business at a slab pile in isolated country, a considerable distance from his home. A few days previously he had seen a hawk in that section, so took along a 22 calibre rifle with which to kill the hawk in case he happened to see it again. His young son accompanied him on the trip. Having completed such things that he had had to do at the slab pile Mr. Parker said he and his son were returning along a cart path when they came upon a deer that evidently had just died. They finally decided that Mr Parker should remain, cut the head off the deer and skin it, while the Parker boy went to the home for a horse and lumber wagon with which to bring the carcass in. It appeared that Mr. Parker was aware that Game Warden Withey was in the vicinity and that it was his intention to notify him of the finding of the deer and inquire as to what disposition was to made of it.

During the meeting Walter Anderson, secretary of the local organization, tendered his resignation on account of the pressure of business and a committee was appointed to select a successor. Following adjournment of the meeting at the hotel the members went to the Orpheum theater where Mr. Case made another address, having largely to do with what a community may do in helping a chamber of commerce achieve its ends for the general good of all.

DANIELSON

HISTORIC GREEN TO BE CHANGED BY NEW ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Feb. 7—Building the new state highway through Brooklyn senter the way the state highway department wishes to build is going to involve some important changes at and in the vicinity of the historic green. Among other things, the plans call for moving three dwellings. One of them, now the home of Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of the Brooklyn Savings bank, has stood on its present site for well over a century, and within its walls the first business transactions of the Windham County National bank, now located in Danielson, was carried out 106 years ago by its first treasurer, Adams White. The other houses that are to be set back are those of Louise A. Taylor and Charles H. Blake.

The Bard home sets close up to the edge of the present state highway and at that point the road narrows down to a sort of bottle-neck section and starts swinging into a curve. Such a condition must be corrected to meet present day state highway building programs, so the Bard house must be moved. This is possible, as there is ample land in the Bard property, but involves heavy expense and raises the question of just what new position the house shall be placed in. Moving back the Taylor and Blake houses appears to be a more simple proposition.

Three trees—large elms—also are to be taken out where the present highway runs through the green, in order that a wider roadway may be obtained. Plans for doing these things have been worked out and the actual changes will be made the coming spring. With the changes completed a dangerous point in the present state highway will have been so changed as to make it a great deal safer for traffic.

The funeral of Clarence Bernard Weeks, Jr., who died in Dayville Monday of infantile paralysis, was held this morning from the home of his parents, the funeral cortege proceeding direct to St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Ignatius Kost conducted the committal service. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements. The high mass of requiem was conducted at St. Joseph's church by Rev. Fr. Kost, and was attended by numbers of relatives and friends.

This morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGorty, with whom he had made his home at Elmville for the past 23 years, the death of Charles Green, 68, occurred. Mr. Green has not been in robust health for a long time. He was a native of this town, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Green, and had always lived here. During his active years he was a woolen mill employe. He has been retired from active work for years because of ill health. Mr. Green leaves no immediate relatives.

Perusing the present by-laws of the borough of Danielson, which a special committee has been appointed to revise, prune and add to as present day conditions may require, one finds considerable of interest. The first set of these by-laws of the borough were adopted in 1864. These have been amended from time to time, or abandoned. There are some quaint provisions still remaining in the code, some of these having to do with allowing swine, sheep, horse and geese roaming in the streets, with impounding stray animals, hitching horses over crosswalks and other such things. As to hitching horses over cross-walks one finds the by-law against this approximated in the present day regulation against parking automobiles in safety zones. As far back as the 70's Danielson required permits to be obtained by those who wished to erect wooden buildings or buildings to be used in occupations regarded as constituting an unusually bad fire hazard, tallow candler's establishments being among those mentioned.

At Quinebaug lake the ice was reported as nearly 7 inches in thickness this morning, and the hope was expressed that cutting might begin there the latter part of this week.

Joseph Cristina, who recently sold his interests in the New York Fruit store to his partner, Louis Bertorelli, today purchased the store business of Peter Metaxas, in the Dexter building, next to the Windham County National bank.

Leon T. Wilson, Putnam, deputy collector of internal revenue, was in Danielson today on business.

At the costume dance at the state armory Mrs. Nellie Meunier was adjudged as having the most interesting modern costume and Dorothy Lathrop the best old-fashioned costume. For fancy costumes honors went to Solly Mansollio and Benny Albanesse, both of Providence.

Benjamin Weisberg returned to New York today after visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Weisberg of Academy street.

In his regular visitations about the county County Agent Frank L. Davis is to be at the Charles F. Brenn place in Scotland Wednesday this week, and will meet there persons interested in the affairs of the Farmers' association.

It appears that a contest for control of the Canadian Connecticut mills, located at Sherbrooke, P. Q., and formerly operated in connection with the Connecticut mills here, is on. A beneficial result to stockholders is that the price of the stock has advanced to about 85, and that's good news to the owners of the securities that are resident in Danielson and vicinity.

Young America in Danielson is greatly enthused over just the opportunity of seeing Lou Gehrig, famous baseball player, when he comes here Thursday. He is the Frank Merriwell of their day.

Well on the road to recovery from the severe injuries he received when he was struck by the driver of a hit and run automobile at Dayville a week ago last Friday night, E. O. Wood, 84, returned to his home on Reynolds street today.

As next Monday is to be observed as Lincoln's birthday, Danielson's banks are to be closed.

Mrs. Rhoda Aldrich, who was so severely burned a week ago last Saturday at her home in the Coomer hill section of the town, was reported today as resting comfortably and slowly improving at the home of Mrs. Minnie Dexter Colvin on Oak street.

There was little business to claim the attention of members of the board of relief when they held a session at their room in the town hall building today.

Louis Cote and Albert Bergeron are visiting with relatives and friends in Montreal and Quebec.

Mrs. Amos Morin of Morin avenue is going to Albany-Decatur, Ala., for a visit with her husband, who is in charge of operations at the new mill of the Connecticut Mills company in that place.

John M. Cogan is now at Cedartown, Ga., where there is a fabric plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, with Ira A. McDaniel, formerly of the Goodyear mills here, in charge.

The buildings situated at corner of Main and Academy streets on site for the Brooklyn Savings bank's new buildings are for sale, same to be removed from the premises before April 1; also for sale the three-story brick building 116-120 Main St., occuped as a business place and with offices and a hall. Apply to S. W. Bard, treasurer, 95 Main St.—Adv.

Better protection against fire and the possibility of lower fire insurance rates on some business properties are two of the principal reasons why the appointment of a fire marshal is being advocated in connection with the program of drawing up a revised and modernized set of by-laws for the borough of Danielson. The matter is one of those planned to have ready for consideration at the annual borough meeting in April.

Arrangements are being negotiated for use of the state armory for amateur boxing exhibitions. The plans include a proposal to use portable bleachers that can be put in place within a couple of hours and removed within an equally short period of time. Such bleachers can be used without driving nails or otherwise injuring the fine floor of the big drill shed.

A shoot between a Norwich rifle team and a Danielson team of the Mohican Rifle association that includes a number of teams in eastern Connecticut to have been held at the state armory here on February 15, will be changed to some other date because of another event scheduled to be held at the armory that evening Danielson delegates are to attend another meeting of the association to be held in Norwich on Sunday, February 19.
